CHAPTER I.

LONELINESS.

Loneliness is either a good friend or a bad enemy. To the philosopher, to the sage, to the thinker, to any original mind, loneliness or solitude is a friend. But to the weak, to the tempted, to the impure, to the melancholy, to the doubting, loneliness is an enemy. If you belong to any of these latter classes never get alone with yourself, for you will find that yourself, will be your worst enemy. God spake a great truth in Eden when He said, "It is not good that man should be alone." There is such a thing as being alone yet not being alone. The child who cries in the dark thinks he is alone, and he cries because he fears he is not alone; he thinks his mother has left him and he is afraid someone, not his mother, is there. It is possible to be in a crowd and yet be alone, and it is possible to be miles from every mortal on earth and yet not be alone. Have you not felt alone in the great city in the midst of the crowd, even more alone there than anywhere else? Or have you not been alone when the very thought of a distant friend brings his presence near? Or in the act of writing a letter have you not felt his presence? "Sympathy makes a crowd." When Alexander Selkirk was on the island he was alone; in his loneliness, he cried:

"Oh, solitude where are the charms
That sages have seen in thy face?
Better dwell in the midst of alarms
Than dwell in this horrible place."

He was alone because no one was with him but he was still more alone because no one knew, no one sympathized or cared.

Now everyone more or less, some time or other, is affected by this feeling of loneliness, not caused so much by having no one present as by thinking that no one understands or sympathizes. We might divide the human family into two classes, those who lead and those who follow. Every age has had its leaders, those who make history by their strong, independent, original characters which seem to place them out of the reach of ordinary mortals. Men like Grant or Napoleon or Clive, who held no councils of war. Men like Gladstone or Lincoln, who depended more upon their own genius than upon cabinets or libraries. Men like Samuel, who could call thunder and lightning into the sky and drive terror into the heart of the enemy. Men like Paul, who conferred not with flesh and blood. Men like John the Baptist or Elijah, who could live in the wilderness whether anybody loved or sympathized. And yet when all is known of these apparently iron-clad characters we see them fall from the heights of independence to the depths of loneliness. Grant had his lonely days; Napoleon once contemplated suicide; Clive, the victor of Plassy, died by his own hand; and even Gladstone and Lincoln were sometimes enveloped in clouds of darkness. Hear the doubting Samuel cry. "How can I go? If Saul hear of it he will kill me." To the discouraged apostle God said, "Fear not, Paul, have I yet much people in this city." The heroic John could face the combined forces of earth alone and proclaim his Redeemer, and yet that child of nature confined between prison walls, that eagle that soared so high, when brought to earth again doubted his own message and cried, "Art thou the Christ, or look we for another?" Elijah could stand alone for God on Carmel and sway back into the arms of the Almighty a nation in a day. He did a deed that stands alone in history and then ran from one woman, and under the juniper tree cried out, "Oh, Lord, they have digged down thine altars and slain Thine prophets with the sword, and I only—I only—am left. Take away my life, Oh Lord." Yes, even such mighty men as these will fall, not one excepted, from Carmel's heights to the very brink of despair, when the grave alone seems their only hope.

We might with much interest and profit dwell longer upon such characters. But let us now look at the other class, those who would rather follow, to which most of us belong. These are they that crave sympathy rather than any desire to assert their independence. These will not act, or pass judgment, on anything new, until they know what another thinks. After all, what the majority of us want is sympathy. The poor man would rather the rich would enter his house and make himself at home there than to carelessly toss him his gift and turn away—yet, the world wants sympathy, not mere pity. Some ships are driven by a power within them, and some are driven entirely by the wind. So is it with the characters of men. Some men seem strong within themselves; others are influenced largely by environment. And yet a spirit of independence is really essential to accomplish much for God or humanity. Belief in three things is necessary to bring success in any true sense in life; belief in God, belief in one's self, and belief in the mission of one's life. If you cannot believe in the work you are at, get out of it and into something you can believe in, whether others do or not, and focus all the energies of your soul upon the accomplishment of your purpose, and whether others believe in you or not you will succeed. "Let every man prove his own work and then will he have rejoicing in himself alone and not in another."

In the truest sense of the word Jesus was a leader indeed and the most independent and original mind of history. And yet He belonged also to this second class, craving the sympathy of others. Man and yet God, human in body, hungry in the wilderness, thirsty on the cross, weary by the well, but human in soul as well, desiring friendships, angry with the Pharisees, weeping in the house of mourning. Hear Him say on the last night, to one who should have known Him best, "Have I been so long with you and yet hast thou not known me, Philip?" And again the same night, it must have been almost with tears, He said, "But now I go my way to Him that sent me, and none of you asketh of me, Whither goest Thou!" See Him that day in the crowd when many jostle Him on all sides, but there was one touch which for one moment cheered His Baptist. But even he was not worthy to unloose Jesus' shoes. You might know something about the books of your library and very little about all the books that have been written; you might know how far it is from earth to the sun and very little about astronomy, just as your knowledge regarding the books of your library is as compared with what some historian knows of all books that have been written; just as your information regarding the distance of the sun from the earth is, as compared with what the astronomer knows, who has climbed the ladder of astronomy and measured the distances of the stars that revolve in space, so is the character of John or Moses or Elias, or any other man, as compared with the complex, comprehensive, character of Jesus, the Son of Man, where the human and the divine blended, the only man of whom God ever said, "This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased."

lonely soul. "Who touched Me?" He said. "Why," they answer, "anyone might have touched you in this crowd." "No, no," He said, "that is not what I mean; someone in this crowd believes in Me." We all know the touch of faith. The mother with her kiss can heal the hurt of her child; the doctor with his smile can bring benediction to the sick room, and it may be that Jesus, the Son of man, brought as much healing with His sympathy to the hearts and the lives of men as His divine power ever brought to their bodies. A friend touches you on the shoulder in a crowd and you look back expecting to see a familiar face, though you knew not your friend was near. We all know the touch of a friend.

Notice the difference between Christ and John the Baptist. He chose no solitude for a home. Shortly after beginning His ministry, He proceeded to choose His disciples, first spending all night in prayer. Friends had loved friends before but He would teach them to love their enemies. He would teach His friends to be like their Father in heaven, who sends the rain on the just and the unjust. For a king to make friends of fishermen was a rare thing. Still Jonathan a prince, had made a friend of a shepherd, and in the midst of troublesome times they had lived within their own souls a life of peace, the exile saved from despair, the prince shielded from the temptations of the court, because love reigned. The eyes of love see in others what the eyes of sense fail to see. In these fishermen Jesus saw the germs of greatness. Man's heart was made for love; He would love these men and manifest Himself unto them as not unto the world. Though His friendship drew Him into the wilderness He would point them to the Canaan beyond. All things that He heard of the Father He would make known unto them. He saw an infinite in man that could only be truly satisfied by the infinite. Though man might doubt the existence of God, still he knew they needed Him. Men sought for happiness everywhere; he would make them truly happy. Almost the first thing He did was to go to a marriage feast and make people happy. That is what he came int othe world for—to put man right with God. He desired that men should have the "joy" that He had with the Father. "My peace I give unto you." His desire was that the peace and harmony which existed between Himself and God should also exist between all men and God. How could this be accomplished? Not by a life of isolation. Oh, no, for like others He must be a man among men; not a partaker with them in their sins, yet sharing with them in their temptations.

Yes, early in His ministry He chooses His disciples to be with Him. To the world He spoke in parables, to these men plainly, and revealed unto them the secrets of His Father. With twelve such men with Him, how then could it be true, what the prophet said of Him, "I have trod the wine press alone and of the people there were none with Me?" Out of the twelve He had his inner circle of three, the three most congenial spirits; men He could take with Him on Mount Tabor and to whom He could there reveal His glory; or into the garden and there lean upon their human presence.

But even this inner circle does not satisfy His lonely soul. Out of this circle He has His beloved disciple, John, who lays his head in His bosom and hears the pulsations of His mighty heart; who when he writes his gospel starts, not where the other evangelists start, but away back of the creation, and says, "In the beginning was the Word and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. . . And the Word was made flesh and dwelt among us, and we beheld His glory as the glory of the only begotten of the Father." And when all the rest were dead and gone it was John, on the Isle of Patmos, who, with a mighty heart responsive to the voice of his Master, received the greatest revelation ever given to mortal, as revealed in the last book of the Bible. What a mighty soul John must have had and what a friendship must have existed between him and his Master! He was the only one who ever seemed free enough to fondle Him; he was his Jonathan. With such a responsive soul near, whose very nature seemed to breathe of heaven, how could it be said of Christ, "Of the people there were none with Me?"

But even the love of John satisfied Him not. A band of loving, soothing, affectionate women ministered to His wants. Most often we find Him seeking the home at Bethany where He could pour out His soul in loving response to the Bethany sisters. How tender, how consoling, how clinging! He is never boasting of independence, for He says, "Yet I am not alone, for My Father is with me." But the prophet hath said of Him, "I have trod the wine-press alone and of the people there were none with Me." How can this be true of the Man who was surrounded by twelve disciples, by three congenial spirits, by his gentle John, by loving women, and His Father with Him all the time??

Why was this Man alone? Because He walked on a higher plane than all others. Others had died for friends, for country and for God, but His mission was new; He must die for His enemies. He belonged to no class. When Peter on the mount put Him on a par with Moses and Elias, God instantly withdrew Moses and Elias from their presence. He had no peers. Other man had been great — none greater than John the Baptist. But even he was not worthy to unloose Jesus' shoes. You might know something about the books of your library and very little about all the books that have been written; you might know how far it is from the earth to the sun and little about astronomy, just as your knowledge regarding the books of your library is as compared with what some historian knows of all books that have been written; just as your information regarding the distance of the sun from the earth is, as compared with what the astronomer knows, who has climbed the ladder of astronomy and measured the distances of the stars that revolve in space, so is the character of John or Moses or Elias, or any other man as compared with the complex, comprehensive, character of Jesus, the Son of Man, where the human and the divine blended, the only man of whom God ever said, "This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased."

"Don't Forget Chiclets"!

Chiclets are as beneficial as they are "Really Delightful." Even the tempting candy-coating of peppermint has its place in aiding the digestion. And the chewing of a Chiclet makes for smooth tempers in the "dog days."

Chiclets are sold everywhere. Take home at least one package to-night. Five cents for ten Chiclets.

SOME HINTS ABOUT EATING.

It is always best to eat just when you are hungry, though not perhaps always possible, says Answers. The digestive organs respond to hunger as to nothing else.

Fat in food is most essential, but it is not always visible, and one need not resort to seal-blubber, like the Eskimo. There is fat not only in meat, but in nuts, cheese, eggs, salmon, milk, herrings, and many other foods. Meat is not necessary more than once a day at most, and three meals a day are ample for any healthy person. Four or five hours should elapse between meals, and the last meal should not be eaten late at night.

Fresh vegetables, fresh milk, fresh fruit, and fresh meat are best. Staleness in these things is not a merit. People who have a long and hard day before them should begin with a real good breakfast, and if they are wise it will include, but not consist of, porridge. Meat which has been kept in cold storage losses nothing, and tinned meats are just as nutritious as fresh if they have been properly tinned.

With regard to fat, bacon has a high food value; but such fish as cod, hake and haddock, which contain no oil like salmon and herrings, have little food value.

COTTAGE DAMAGED BY LIGHTNING.

BOBCAYGEON, July 28.—During an electrical thunderstorm, the cottage of Mrs. Lawson, of Toronto, occupied by Mr. Jones and family, Toronto, was struck and damaged by lightning, the occupants being stunned more or less, and a young son of Mr. Jones struck on the head by flying splinters. It was too close a call for comfort.

During the same storm a man reported dead here, Solomon W. Thompson, of Thorndale, was also hurt somewhere.

DOCTOR ADVISED HIM TO TAKE IT

A. F. ROBERTS, SUCCESSFUL CATTLE DEALER, GAINS 16 POUNDS IN 60 DAYS BY TAKING TANLAC.

"One of the best doctors in Colorado advised me to take Tanlac, and is has not only overcome my troubles but I have gained sixteen pounds since I began taking it sixty days ago," said A. F. Roberts, who lives at Rocky Ford, Alberta, Canada, a few days ago.

Mr. Roberts is one of the largest cattle dealers in this section of the country and before moving to Canada a short time ago, he had spent most of his life in Colorado, U. S. A.

"I can now understand why Tanlac enjoys such wide popularity both in Canada and the United States," continued Mr. Roberts, "and since it has done me so much good, I know that it is a very dependable medicine and deserves all the praise that is being given it. For the past two years I have suffered from stomach trouble, and when I commenced taking this Tanlac, it was almost impossible for me to retain anything I ate. I was very nervous and never got a good night's sleep, and finally got so weak and rundown that I was hardly able to get about. I often had dizzy spells and was bothered a great deal with constipation.

"My physician certainly knew what he was doing when he prescribed Tanlac for me, for it has done the work for me, as I am as healthy and strong now as I ever was in my life. In fact it has done much more for me than I expected it would do. I have a fine appetite and everything I eat agrees with me perfectly, and I never have the slightest sign of stomach trouble of any kind. I am no longer bothered with constipation, and never have those dizzy spells any more. I have regained all my strength, too, and that nervousness has left me, and I sleep like a log ever night. In fact, I am simply enjoying perfect health again, and I give Tanlac credit for it all."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co. Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co. Ltd., in Fowlers Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

MARK STREET CHURCH NOTES

Two very interesting sermons were delivered on Sunday at Mark street church by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Ross. The morning text was, "And they hung their harps on the willows. By this he showed what great things we may accomplish if we make use of our talents in the right place. The evening text was, "Where hast thou gleaned to-day?" He very forcibly explained that through whatever we do for the glory of God we will be blest. And wherever we spend our days or our lives, from these we are gleaning our harvest. Miss Ruth Ross ably rendered a beautiful solo at the evening service.

BEWARE OF TENDER, INFLAMED GUMS

Pyorrhea, with a premature loss of teeth, is almost inevitable if you do not properly care for your gums. Here is the explanation:

As you age, the body tissues naturally relax. You see this tissue loosening in the neck. It goes on in your gums, too. As you grow older, your gums shrink below the normal gum line. Through lack of care they become enamel and is lamed. Then you have Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease). Four out of five people over forty have Pyorrhea. And many under forty, also.

Don't let a tender gum spot develop. These tender spots breed disease germs which enter the system through tiny openings—infesting the joints or tonsils—or causing other ailments. Immediately get Forhan's, which positively prevents Pyorrhea if used in time and used consistently. Forhan's tones the gums and hardens them. They in turn keep the teeth healthy. Brush your teeth with Forhan's. It cleans them scientifically—keeps them white and clean.

If gum-shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment. 35c and 60c tubes. All Druggists.

MAE MARSH IS SHOWN IN MOST APPEALING MOOD

"Unselfishness is never clearly defined to us until some one who loves us suffers for our faults." This is the foreword to the remarkable Goldwyn Picture in which Mae Marsh appears at the Grand Theatre, to-day, Tuesday and Wednesday, and it sums up the motive of the play in a way calculated to absorb audiences from the moment the forword flashes on the screen. "The Bondage of Barbara" promises to reveal the Goldwyn star in her most appealing mood.

Invariably Mae Marsh shows keen interest in her productions and often helps puzzled experts in determining the proper title—as she did in naming "The Bondage of Barbara"—and voicing her enthusiasm when a particularly apt bit of explanatory matter is devised for a play. Unlike some stars her absorption in her work does not end when a final scene is photographed.

Cleverly arguing with those in charge of preparing "The Bondage of Barbara" for public presentation, Miss Marsh contended that the foreword should dwell on unselfishness, and not on the tender protection the heroine gives her wayward brother. "Because after all," she said, "Barbara's devotion speaks for herself. It is her unselfishness that will cause people to be interested in her. Let us say something of what unselfishness means to most people and what its significance is made clear in the average life. Oh, let's," she continued warmly, "lay great stress on it." And so with all heads together, including the star's shining one, selfishness was analysed, dissected and catalogued. The play's first caption is the result.

Someone said that he couldn't understand the knowledge Miss Marsh seemed to possess of selfishness for every one agrees that she is the most generous and open hearted of girls. Overhearing this, the shy star confessed that perhaps she wasn't always so, that she like everyone else, has had something to overcome in her character, which causes her associates at the Golwwyn Studios to add a new tribute to those they are forever giving her—that of character building.

CHAPTER XXVI.

Neil came home very late, and so tired that he went directly to bed. The next morning he was in such a hurry to get down town to the office for his mail, which had accumulated during his absence, that I did not attempt to talk with him. I would wait until dinner time.

He was in one of his excitable moods. Things had gone more than well, he said in response to my inquiry if the business upon which he had gone had turned out all right.

"I wished I had taken you," he said. "I met several people whom I should have been glad to have you know."

"Next time I'll make you take me! I was horribly lonely most of the time, although Lorraine and I went to dinner and were joined by Mr. Frederick, and he took us to a show afterward."

"Frederick took you?"

"Yes. It was all right, wasn't it? I knew he was a great friend of yours, so supposed of course it was all right for us to go. Lorraine quite admired him."

"Of course it is all right. Did he ask you any questions about me — my trip to Boston?"

"Not a question." And he had not. But after Neil had gone I recall that he had had a sort of anxious look upon his face as we talked about Mr. Frederick.

He had been down-town but half an hour when the telephone rang. "You haven't anything on for to-night have you, Bab?" he asked.

"No—why?"

"Blanche Orton just called me up and wanted to know. She is giving an impromptu dinner to-night. She will probably call you up in a few minutes. I called to tell you that even if you had arranged something, to call it off. I am particularly anxious to meet some one who is to be there. Please have my clothes laid out. I shall be detained down here until the last minute."

"Very well."

I had scarcely hung up when the telephone shrilled again. This time it was Mrs. Orton.

"I am giving a very small informal dinner to-night, Mrs. Forbes. Will you and your husband waive ceremony and come?"

"Mr. Forbes just telephoned me. Yes, we will come." I had no intention that she should think me in ignorance of the fact that she had called Neil first.

"Yes—I telephoned him as soon as I thought he would be in his office. He is such a popular man that I feared he would make some other engagement before I could reach him." Then: Dinner at seven."

Once again my jealousy of Blanche Orton asserted itself. Once more I determinedly put it from me. Really I must not be so foolish. One would think I was 18 years old instead of 26—and an old married woman at that. It showed a littleness in my nature that I must rid myself of—or it would grow upon me. At least I had read that "by giving way to jealousy it only increased its power to make one miserable."

I loved Neil. I must always love him. Nothing could change that. He had shown me what love meant, and for that reason I must always love him or else lose my self-respect. I would fight to the death for his love, if need be; but I would not insult myself or him by thinking he held me lightly.

I knew that some people claim that people can love many times. But I knew I should love but once. I believe that many second and third marriages, even, are happy ones because they are the only love marriages — that the others were not, though there may have been liking, respect, even comradeship. But that real love is experienced but once was then, is now, my sure belief.

I would make myself lovely for Neil that night. I had a new gown I never had worn. It was a shimmering thing, all soft shades that were most becoming. Daring as she was in her dress, Blanche Orton would not outshine me.

But I had not gauged her darin.

HUCKLEBERRYIN' AT STONEY LAKE

(BY SAM HUNTER)

Have you ever gone huckleberryin'? If not and you are a true lover of the great out-of-doors, avail yourself of the first chance to get out for a day or two into a sure enough huckleberry country in huckleberry time. The season is now on although one hears with regret that this year's crop will, owing to the dry weather conditions, be a short one. This berry, both black, purple and blue, grows more or less sparsely on most of the islands and shores of these waters, and is much sought after by the campers. It is however in such great unoccupied and not easily accessible sections as the Blue Mountain district that one must go to find the berry at its best, and to experience that charm which the wilderness alone holds in huckleberry time. It comes at a season moreover when weather conditions are usually favorable for camping out, when the mosquito has ceased from troubling and the black fly is at rest. That counts. From our camp one may go by boat to the head of Upper Stoney Lake, eight miles, thence overland by wagon transportation, with a hay rack reservation, a distance of six miles, to Lake Koshabogamog. Or one may engage a hardy and adventurous guide and a goat-footed steed, and make the trip entirely overland in a democrat. If the latter you would do well to carry along in addition to pails, frying pan, provisions and bedding, an ample supply of rope, wire, monkey wrenches and mayhap a spare wheel or so. This trip through swamp, over corduroy alternating with fissured and broken granite for eighteen miles, has been I believe, strongly recommended for the liver by medical gentlemen, who have never taken the trip themselves. It is extremely trying to persons of advanced age or to those whom nature has inadequately upholstered in a fleshy way. To such a firmly secured air cushion, or better still an air ship, may be recommended.

Into the Lake Kosh and Blue Mountain country farmers, settlers, Indians are going in daily now, and following them, their wagons filled with empty cheese boxes, in which to bring out the fruit, to go to the buyers. The sight which greets one upon arriving is full of interest. For miles everywhere you look, tents are pitched, wagons, after the prairie schooner type, are seen; horses tethered wherever shade is available. Over the moss covered granite flats and ridges are scattered the pickers, male and female, old and young. "They take out the hull family an' put 'em all on the job," as Jim the guide puts it. Thirty to fifty quarts are frequently gathered in a day by expert pickers, picking with a "picker" when the picking is good. I have this likewise on the authority of Jim. A "picker" by the way is a scoop-shaped tool holding about a quart with a comb-like rim of four or five prongs, which is thrust through berry-laden bushes. As the berries come away with each thrust they fall into the inclined scoop and are finally emptied into a pail when something less than a quart has been thus gathered. In emptying them the "picker" is held high above the pail, and such leaves as have been gathered are blown or drift free of the pail. This is called "winding" them. The "picker," however, gathers many small, withered and unripe berries as well as twigs, which find their way into the pail—and which may or may not be removed later. It is not so clean a method as picking by hand, but it is wonderfully expeditious and is entirely used by the Indians and some of the professional pickers.

In order to get into the mountains the lake must be crossed, and comparatively few but the Indians and those who after much travail, have toted in canoes, get across.

These vast granite upheavals have in the past been ravished by the lumbermen and many times devastated by forest fires, but a new growth now clothes them, the white, red and jack pine, cedar, fir and many smaller shrubs. And everywhere in their shade and out of the deep cool moss of open spaces, grows the huckleberry in abundance. They grow in unbelievable abundance and of a size and with a bloom upon them suggestive of the frost grape. Upon ascending these mountains you find yourself in a new world, and are conscious of a strangely new and youthful elation of spirits. You are at an elevation which produces unfamiliar growths and unfamiliar scents. Subtle suggestions of mints, sweet ferns, junipers and half a hundred unidentified things are mingled in it. From one of the highest peaks as the sun goes down you look out east and west and north over an unbroken stretch of forest growth in which within sight are set seven little forest lakes gleaming like silver in the waning light. "See that clump of cedars on the far shore?" said Jim pointing to a little lake perhaps two miles away, "Watch that deer come out and get himself a drink." And we saw it — the only object moving in that vast solitude. Southward points of light begin to break out where a hundred camp fires are being started by camp returning berrypickers. Once or twice a whiff of cedar smoke with a dash of frying bacon and bass in it, comes up to mingle with the sweet fern and turn us campward. The all-day song of the Canadian white-throat has ceased with daylight, but as we pick our way carefully downward the divine soprano of the hermit thrush suddenly fills the mountain stillness and brings an entrancing echo from the mountain opposite. We can hear it still when we have crossed the lake a mile away. Supper by the light of a camp fire, a pipe and the stretching out on the pine needles to swap many stories of improbable veracity. Then bed and quiet dreams and an unperturbed conscience.

Finally the packing of our berries into boxes, after another forenoon's picking, and the start for home. Sixty quarts for two pickers, picking two half days. Honest Injun! I wish it had all happened this year—but, alas, it didn't.

Attractive Investment

Worthy of the Attention of Local Investors

Many investors now regard Industrial stocks as more desirable from every point of view than most other investments now on the market.

And the reason is that if discrimination is wisely used in the selection Industrials offer a degree of safety and assured income bearing hard to equal.

Brokers used to be very careful about recommending any investment except municipal securities. But now Industrial stock is coming to its own, according to a well-known banker, who has much to do with placing them. He says:

"Buying municipals from each other is just like taking in one another's washing, because it don't add anything to the country's production. If you buy Industrial stock you are taking steps to increase production and get money in circulation for wages. In fact, you are getting a stake in the country, and extending your interest as far as the company stock, you have a chance to share in big profits."

are offering for investment in the City of Peterboro a limited amount of its par value stock.

In view of the nature of the company's undertaking in promoting this industrial and public utility, which is bound to enjoy a rapid growth and development its stock is considered a most attractive investment.

Why let such an opportunity as this pass?

Why hold your money in a bank at 3 per cent., when it can be shown, on close investigation, that you can earn many times 3 per cent. by holding stock in The Dominion Dustless Sweeper Company, Limited. Information upon request on application to H. M. Bishop, Manager, Peterboro.

PETES WIN FROM BELLEVILLE BEFORE RECORD CROWD BY 3 TO 2

FIGHT THEIR WAY BACK TO TIE FOR CENTRAL LEAGUE LEADERSHIP BY BEATING RAILROADERS IN HARD FOUGHT GAME IN WHICH KIRN'S STEADY PITCHING IS A BIG FEATURE.

MANY VISITORS HERE

Playing steady ball behind Kirn's excellent pitching, and using a bunting game effectively against the elusive curves of Southpaw Goyer, the Petes again tied up the Central League race by beating Belleville at Riverside Park on Saturday by 3 runs to 2 in the hardest fought game of the season. The biggest crowd of the year, and undoubtedly the largest attendance on record at an amateur game in Peterborough, saw the triumph of the Petes. The size of the gathering, especially in the face of the rain in the morning and the threatening aspect of the weather in the early part of the afternoon, was a remarkable testimony to the great interest in baseball that the Central League has developed. Fans and players from all over the circuit were on hand for the crucial battle. President Sandy Lockington, of Port Hope, Secretary M. J. Dedman, of Lindsay, Ford Moynes, also of Lindsay, and one of the councillors of the O.B.A.A., Alex Hills, Johnny Rowden and other members of the Port Hope team, Eddie Scott, Art Carew and other Lindsay Greys, and a host of other outside fans were in the crowd, and the majority of them rooted vigorously for the Petes.

It was a game worthy of the occasion, a pitchers' battle, in which the twirlers had a distinct edge on the batters and in which neither would have been scored upon had their support been perfect. A wild throw gave Belleville one of their counters, and a misjudged fly, which gave the batter a lucky double, paved the way fo rthe other run scored by the visitors, while errors helped the Petes to get all of theirs.

Kirn pitched one of his best games of the season for the home brigade, using his curve with great effect. He allowed the visitors only six hits, two of which were misjudged flys that should have been outs, and was most effective in the pinches. Swanston caught him in faultless style, the peppery little catcher providing the fielding feature by two great running catches of foul flies, while his head work on a play in the first innings saved a run and stopped a dangerous attack. The first two Belleville men hit safely, and when Clancy made a wide throw to third and the ball bounded by Cavanah, a score seemed certain. Swanston and Kirn both ran over to back up the base, and Swanston, sizing up the situation on the run yelled to Kirn to cover the plate. The big pitcher obeyed instructions, and Swanston making a quick recovery of the ball, shot it to Kirn in time to tag Ross out at the counting station.

Goyer, the Belleville southpaw, had a world of stuff, and although the Petes nicked nine hits off his delivery, the majority, like those registered against Kirn, were scratchy. Goyer struck out twelve of the Petes, getting out of some dangerous holes by his success in whiffing the succeeding batsmen after a couple of men had reached the sacks.

Peterborough both outhit and outfielded the visitors, the Petes infield having but one slip, a fumble by Rose, which did no harm, while the inner works of the visitors were guilty of several costly errors, a wild throw by Meagher and a muff of an easy fly by First Baseman Gerow each giving the homesters a run.

The failure of Umpire Dick Butler, of Lindsay, to understand the intricacies of the interference rule cost the Petes a counter, and thereby a perfectly good piece of baseball strategy by Manager Solomon was thrown away. With Kirn at bat in the seventh, the Petes' pilot ordered Jackson, who was on third, to steal home, figuring that Mills, the Belleville catcher, would rush up in front of the plate to take the throw and tag the runner, thereby interfering with the batter. The play went through just as planned. Mills, instead of remaining back in the catcher's box until the ball reached him, stepped up to the plate, pushing Kirn out of the way and put the ball on Jackson as he came in. It was a clear case of interference, and the run should have counted and Kirn have been awarded first base, but the play fooled Butler as well as Mills and he called Jackson out despite a stormy demonstration by the Petes' leader, who did a war dance at the home plate and roared until he was hoarse, to no avail.

The visitors got the first counter of the game in the fourth on hits by Mills and Simmons, and Heenan's wild throw to third.

Effective bunting by the Petes allowed them to take the lead in their half. An error and a pass put the first two runners on and two bunts in succession by Heenan and Cherrett sent the first counter over and put Kirn in position to score No. 2 when Gerow muffed a fly.

A misjudged fly, a wild pitch, and a sacrifice allowed Belleville to tie it up in the sixth, but the Petes had the necessary punch to come back and take the lead in their half by scoring a counter on three hits and a wild throw.

Belleville and Peterborough are now tied for the League honours, with Port Hope a half game behind. The Ontarios have to play both Oshawa and Belleville away from home and must win both games to have a chance to tie the Petes. The latter play in Cobourg on Wednesday and have to win to be sure of a tie in the League. On the other hand Belleville have to beat Port Hope in the game a week from to-day to stay in the running. It is a great finish to a great race.

First Innings.

Belleville.—Ross singled to left centre. Clancy misjudged Weir's fly to left and it went for a double. The throw to third was bad and Ross tried to score, but was an easy out when Swanston recovered the ball and tossed to Kirn at the plate, saving a run, and incidentally saving Clancy from an error. Kirn then caught Weir asleep off second base and struck out Gerow. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Peterborough.— Cherret was safe when Weir fumbled his grounder long enough to let him reach first. Rose laid down a bunt and was safe, Meagher not attempting a play. On Long's bunt in front of the plate, Mills forced Cherrett at third. Swanston singled past Smith, filling the bases, but Jackson and Clancy fanned. No runs, two hits, one error.

Second Innings.

Belleville. —Mills flied to Heenan. Swanston ran out near third to make a great catch of Simmons' foul fly. Goyer was hit on the head, but was forced at second on Kellegher's tap to Cherrett. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough.— Cavanah and Kirn struck out. Heenan walked, but Cherrett missed three. No runs, hits or errors.

Third Innings.

Belleville.—Rose tossed out Smith and grabbed Meagher's fly to short right. Ross struck out. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough.—Rose singled back of second. Long fanned. Swanston beat out a roller to third. The pair moved up on Jackson's sacrifice, but Clancy rolled to Goyer. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Fourth Innings.

Belleville.—Weir popped to Cavanah. Swanston made another great catch of Gerow's foul fly. Mills drove a long one over Clancy's head, but only got a single out of it. Simmons singled past Rose, and when Heenan made a high throw in an attempt to nail Mills, the catcher came home. Kirn threw out Goyer. One run, two hits, one error.

Peterborough. — Cavanah reached second on Meagher's bad throw. Kirn worked Goyer for a pass. Heenan moved the two up a notch with a perfect sacrifice, and then Cherrett "squeezed" Cavanah home with the tieing run, Cavanah counting while Cherrett was being extinguished at first. Rose popped to Gerow who muffed the easy one, Kirn scoring, Rose stole second, but Long fanned. Two runs, no hits, two errors.

Fifth Innings.

Belleville.— Kellegher hoisted one to Cherrett. Rose tossed out Smith and Long grabbed Meagher's foul fly. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough.— Mills threw Swanston out at first. Jackson was out on his roller to Meagher. Clancy walked and reached second when Smith dropped Mills' perfect throw. Cavanah missed three. No runs or hits, one error.

Sixth Innings.

Belleville.—Ross got a lucky double when Heenan misjudged his fly to right. A wild pitch put him on third. Cherrett made a nice stop of Weir's bouncer, and hold ingRoss on third, got the batter at first. Gerow's sacrifice bunt scored Ross, the runner beating Long's return throw after Swanston had thrown out the batter, Mills rolled to Ross. One run, one hit, no errors.

Peterborough. — Kirn singled to right and Heenan dropped a safety to the same field. Trying to sacrifice Cherrett was out bunting foul on the third strike. Rose singled over short, and when Ross threw wildly to third, Kirn scored. Long rolled to Goyer and Heenan was out at the plate, Ross gathered in Swanston's fly to centre. One run, three hits, one error.

Seventh Innings.

Belleville. — Simmons struck out. Goyer was hit, this time on the leg. Kellegher missed three. Smith got a lucky hit on a pop fly back of third. Meagher hit to Rose, who fumbled, the runner beating out the throw, with the bases [illegible] one run, one hit, one error.

Eighth Innings.

Belleville.—Weir died at first on his roller to Cherrett. Gerow tapped weakly to Kirn and Heenan took care of Mills' high fly to right. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough.—Kirn fanned. Heenan beat out a roller to Gerow, but was out stealing, Mills to Weir. Cherrett struc kout. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Ninth Innings.

Belleville.—Simmons fanned. Goyer also missed three. Morden, batting for Kellegher, flied to Jackson. No runs, hits or errors.

JOHN M'GRAW LOOKS FOR SEVERE TEST WHEN CUBS VISIT POLO GROUNDS

The Giants are fighting hard to keep on top of the heap and must again be reckoned as serious and dangerous contenders for the year's title.

A while back Fred Mitchell's team fell into a slump, which caused no end of alarm in Chicago, but apparently the Cubs have recovered and they may cause more alarm elsewhere on the circuit in the near future than they did in Chicago a short time ago.

Grover Cleveland Alexander, I hear has been suffering with a sore arm of late, which explains why he has not been taking his regular turn in the box. Of course, a club cannot lose the services of a pitcher of Aleck's caliber for even a short time without showing the effects of his absence, but from what I can gather he will soon be in good shape again, ready to hold up his end of the game fight which the Cubs are waging.

It is not surprising that Alexander should bob up with a lame arm in view of the fact that he served in France for several months when the fighting on the western front was at its height. The wonder is that so many of the ball players who went through all kinds of fighting came back in the fine condition in which they find themselves.

Of course, the life which our soldiers led tended to make them strong and robust, and if he succeeded in dodging shrapnel and bullets the average doughboy was a better physical specimen when he came back than he was when he went overseas, but the ball player constitutes what must be regarded as a separate type.

In order to play the game well a ball player must have pliable muscles, and the tasks which a soldier must perform are not calculated to keep him tuned up to the physical pitch which a ball player must attain and hold. If a high strung racehorse were forced to pull a heavy dray for several months the effects of that work would be visible the next time he faced the barrier. Such a case would be parallel to that of the ball player who was called upon to serve the army in the field.

To get back to the National league pennant race, the passing weeks show that I did not overestimate the strength of the Cincinnati Club when I said some time ago that I regarded the Reds as the Club the Giants would have to beat if another pennant is to fly fro mthe flagstaff at the Polo ground.

Pat Moran is a sagacious manager and he is getting excellent results out of a pretty good ball club. He has increased the strength of his pitching staff by teaching some of his hurlers who were inclined to be erratic to control the ball. Walter Reuther is one of these. Reuther always had a good fast ball and an equally good curve, but never got very far because he couldn't control his stuff. Moran has patiently coached him in the art of keeping the ball where he wants it, and Reuther has developed into a winning pitcher.

AMERICA SEES LARGE MARKET FOR HER PRODUCTS

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 28. — Europe is America's biggest customer, and wants credit to tide it over a temporary financial difficulty, Edward N. Hurley, the retiring chairman of the United States Shiping Board, declared in an interview urging the business men to give much thought to foreign necessities.

Hurley compared Europe to a good customer who has been gurned out, and requires credit which will ge returned in renewed business. "We've got to help her get going again," he said.

DEMPSEY SETTLES WITH ONE TIME BENEFACTOR

GIVES SALT LAKE CITY MAN THOUSANDS ADVANCED TO HELP HIM BEGIN HIS RING CAREER.

PAYS FOR HIS TRIP ALSO

TOLEDO, Ohio, July 28.—Before leaving the scene of his triumph late the other night to go forth and win the fortune which awaits him as the heavyweight champion of the world, Jack Dempsey squared his account with the man who discovered him. This man is A. J. Auerback, a business man of Salt Lake City. It was he who first took an interest in Jack and helped him financially to get his start on his pugilistic career.

In Dempsey's room in the Hotel Boody Dempsey handed over to his benefactor $6,126.20, the giant killer's original debt plus interest, and also Auerbach's expenses on the two weeks' vacation he came to come here and see his protege win the highest honours in th boxing world.

It never can be said that Dempsey is ungrateful to those who aided him when the sledding was rough. Auerbach's story goes back three or four years in Auerbach's store in Salt Lake City. Mrs. Ethel Clark was one of the employees. A big, raw-boned lad used to come in to see Mrs. Clark Auerbach asked who he was. Mrs. Clark told Auerbach that it was her younger brother and that he was ambitious to become a boxer. He had appeared at several smokers and stag parties and had discovered that he could hit hard.

Financed and Equipped Him.

Auerbach became interested. He asked Jack if he had any money. Jack didn't have a dollar. So the business man fitted the boy out with new clothes and started him at work in a gymnasium. He was quick to learn and ready to listen to advice.

"I knew he was a real fighter and was anxious to see him succeed," said Mr. Auerbach. "Jack was a sensation from the start. He beat Terry Kellar twice, and Kellas was considered a good man in those days. He also beat Dick Gilbert and a number of good men, and I knew that my confidence in him was justified.

"Remember, he was still a minor, and I made no contract with him to act as his manager. I accepted none of the money he earned, but on the contrary loaned him money.

"On 22nd August, 1916, shortly after Dempsey became 21, we entered into a contract whereby I was to be his manager for five years, or until 22nd August, 1921. I was to arrange all his matches, handle his affairs, and in return receflive 25 per cent. of his winnings. I have a copy of that contract with me to-day.

"Things went along well until February 13, 1917, when Dempsey was knocked out by Jim Flynn in the first round of their contest at Salt Lake City.

"Dempsey was just a boy then, and that sudden possession of a considerable amount of money naturally went to his head. Some of his actions did not please me, and I called him into my office and had a heart-to-heart talk with him, the result of the talk being that Jack and I parted.

Offered Later Help If Needed.

"'Go and find another manager to handle your affairs, and if you ever need any help you can call on me,' I then told Dempsey, for I liked the boy if he did make mistakes, and I never lost interest in him.

"After that, things broke badly for Jack, and I frequently made him loans, until I figured it up that Jack owed me exactly $5,349.50.

"Then success came to Jack, and he began making at national reputation for himself. In the meantime he had thought over seriously our dealings, and long months ago—after the match with Willard was made—Dempsey came into my store at Salt Lake City and declared himself.

"'Mr. Auerbach, I owe a lot of things to you, and I have come to tell you that I am ready to make good. My match with Willard will earn for me more than enough to pay you the money I owe you, with interest, and that is what I am going to do.

"'But that is not all. I don't know whether this match will be held in this country, in Britain, France, Australia, or where it will be held, but wherever it is, I want you to come to the place a couple of weeks in advance of the fight and be my guest until it is over, and you are ready to return home. I will pay your railroad fare, your hotel bills, and all your expenses, and am anxious that you accept. It will make me feel a whole lot better if you do.'"

Mr. Auerbach accepted the proffer. Consequently, two weeks ago he arrived in Toledo and obtained quarters at the Secor, where he remained until after the bout. Dempsey was in a hurry to make good. Mr. Auerbach was invited by the champion to call on him at the Boody House. When he entered the room, Dempsey handed him in cash $6,126.20, covering the debt, with interest, and the money Mr. Auerbach had spent after leaving Salt Lake City, and Dempsey's conscience was relieved.

Toledo Again a Scene of Peace.

All the fight fans have gone and Toledo has settled down to its natural peace and quiet. The last of the sporting figures who have been here for weeks went away to-day. The hotels and restaurants have gone back to their usual prices and the wild spasm of profiteering is over. The secret card games and gambling dens which have been doing a thriving business on the quiet have closed. The sports are telling to-day of one man who cleaned up $500,000 on a crap game during the fight week.

All the "dips" and light-fingered gentry have gone away where there is better picking.

"These fights ain't what they used to be," said a sorely disappointed New York sharper. "With all the plain-clothes men they had here from everywhere, and with the fight crowded with all kind of cops, believe me, there was no clean-up in Toledo. It was the toughest trip I ever made, and I am lucky to have my car fare home. I expected to take a trunkful of money out of here and have a fine summer's vacation. The first thing I know I will have to work to live. These fly cops kept such a close watch on us that we were liable to get arrested for asking a stranger what time it was. I am through going to fights."

Outside of a few touches in the hotels and the lifting of a few watches and wallets from rooms which were carelessly left open, there was little damage done by sneak thieves. Toledo was lucky. It fared better than most places where big fights have been held.

Chief Herbert of the local police expressed pleasure because of the absence of trouble. He said that the presence of a large number of policemen and detectives from other cities at the arena had helped to prevent the pickpockets from working.

ANCIENT DOCUMENTS FOUND.

Were Discovered in an Old Box in Osgoode Hall.

One would not imagine that the historical documents of a fine new country like Canada would have much of the air of romance about them. To the casual thinker, romance attaches itself only to the archives of the dark ages. One fancies age-old leather tomes chained to oaken benches where a hundred generations of scholars have bent.

The story of the discovery of the records of the early courts of Upper Canada after they had long been given up for lost is told by Dr. Alexander Fraser, Provincial Archivist, in his reports.

In the summer of 1910, Mr. C. M. Burton, of Detroit, a public-spirited investigator of the history of the State of Michigan, and especially of the early days of Detroit, called on Dr. Fraser in Toronto, and expressed a desire to see the vaults of Osgoode Hall, the home of the High Courts of Ontario. Mr. Burton had asked before this time for the records of the Court of Common Pleas for the District of Hesse, or the western district, which at one time included Detroit. These records had been sought for years in likely and unlikely places, including Osgoode Hall, but could not be found. The oldest of the officials, for fifty-one years the custodian of the oldest vault, knew nothing of them, and stated that two systematic searches at the request of the Attorney-General's office had been made many years before without avail.

Mr. Burton's immediate object on the occasion of his visit, however, was to observe the method in use for filing the papers preserved. At that time, there were no electric lights in the vaults, and lamps were forbidden because of the possibility of accidental explosion. The languid flame of a tallow candle sufficed to show the way, though not to shed sufficient light on the dust-begrimed pigeonholes. Mr. Burton noticed a book of ancient appearance on the top shelf that aroused his curiosity. To get it for him, I climbed on an uncovered deal box filled with old papers and reached the volume. The book proved to be one into which letters of the early eighties had been copied by letter press—of no apparent record value.

"Stepping down, I upset the deal box, emptying the contents on the floor. Proceeding to replace the papers, the first article I picked up was a paper-covered volume similar to the old-fashioned books sometimes used by the township valuators of long ago. My astonishment may be imagined when I discovered that the book was one of the long lost minute books of the Court of Common Pleas of the Western District, and there on the first page was the name of the 'First Judge,' the Hon. William Dummer Powell.

"Mr. Burton and Mr. Jackson were standing near me in the narrow vault, the latter holding the candle and telling the Detroit visitor of the age and glory of Osgoode Hall. I suppressed my rising feelings until all the papers had been put back in the box except eight thin folios, one after another of which I had rescued from the orderless heap, tattered and apparently useless, but in reality of priceless value, being the original records of our oldest constituted courts for the Districts of Hesse, Mecklenburg and Lunenburg, in Upper Canada."

These documents are dated 1788, twenty-six years after the Treaty of Paris confirmed the British ownership of Canada.

MINERAL OIL

For Chronic Constipation

By buying this product from us you can get the Highest in Quality that can be procured at an ESPECIALLY LOW PRICE.

There are many thin oils on the market that are not suitable for internal use; other oils have irritating qualities which render them also unsuitable. The one we are selling is guaranteed thick and entirely pure.

It is recognized that a good grade of Mineral Oil is one of the best remedies for CHRONIC CONSTIPATION that is being used. It acts mechanically and does not irritate the intestinal tract, nor does the dose have to be continually increased as is the case with ordinary purgatives.

It is much better and cheaper than Castor Oil as a laxative for Children, since Castor Oil has two effects, the first of which is purgative and the second or after effect, which is Constipating.

CHICAGO HAS BIG STRIKE

FIFTEEN THOUSAND STREET RAILWAY EMPLOYEES WALKED OUT THIS MORNING.

REFUSED INCREASE

(Special to The Examiner.)

CHICAGO, July 29.—Chicago was caught to-day by a surprise strike of Traction Company employees who housed their cars at four a.m.

Both elevated and surface lines employers rejected the compromise engineered by Governor F. O. Lowden in their wage controversy. Fifteen thousand men refused an offer of 20 cents an hour increase.

The strike decision came late last night when street car men in a meeting were carried along by radicals who demanded 77 cents an hour.

Service Tied Up.

(Canadian Press.)

CHICAGO, Ill., July 29.—Fifteen thousand street railway employees went on strike for higher wages at four o'clock this morning, completely tieing up surface and elevated systems of the city. The employees demanded 66 cents an hour, an increase of 77 per cent. over present wages, an eight hour day and time and a half for overtime.

The companies did not attempt to run cars and workers depended on steam railways, automobiles and other vehicles to reach their places of business. Early last night heads of unions and officials of the street railway companies reached an agreement to fix wages of men at approximately 66 cents an hour and grant an eight hour day with time and a half for overtime. It was thought this action would avert a walkout, but at a mass meeting shortly before midnight the men repudiated the agreement and agreed to strike at 4 a.m. to-day.

BOLSHEVIKS IN BULGARIA

GARRISON REPORTED TO HAVE JOINED THE REVOLUTIONISTS.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, July 29.—A Bolshevik rising in Bulgaria is reported by wireless despatch from Moscow to-day.

The outbreak is declared to have occurred in a garrison joining the revolutionists.

The despatch also declares that a strike has been proclaimed by the Bulgarian railway and transport workers.

SEVEN CARS OF OIL RECEIVED BY CITY

MOST OF THE STREETS ALREADY TREATED—SUPPLY MAY BE SUFFICIENT.

Seven cars of road oil have been delivered to the city and most of the streets have already been treated. Some of the Aldermen last night begged the City Engineer to cover up a street or two which they said had been overlooked, but Mr. Parsons was confident that most of the oil thus asked for had already been allotted. It is expected that no more oil will have to be purchased this summer. The good effects of it as a binder are shown everywhere, in the hard smooth surfaces of the road.

Regarding the repairing of the Monaghan Road, Ald. Phelan told the Board of Works last night that he had proposed to Reeve McIntosh that the two municipalities divide the cost on a fifty-fifty basis. Reeve McIntosh objected to paying half the cost of the work done caused by the street railway extension, saying that the township of North Monaghan was not responsible for nor had they asked for the street railway.

A DIFFERENCE OF OPINION

(Canadian Press.)

AMSTERDAM, July 29. — At an international Trades Union Congress under the presidency of M. Oudegeest of the Dutch federation, a statement of M. Oudegeest in his address that the capitalistic systems of all countries were responsible for the war, was vigorously protested by the American delegate, Tobin, who contended that the "monarchistic and militaristic elements of Germany and Austria were the solitary cause and they were entirely responsible.

WILL HEAD PEACE DELEGATION

(United Press.)

PARIS, July 29.—Frank L. Polke, Under-Secretary of State, arrived here to-day to succeed Secretary Lansing as head of the American Peace delegation.

Polke may have brought with him new instructions from President Wilson with regard to the disposition of Thrace, it is said to-day, although it was stated on the highest authority that America will insist on Bulgaria's right to this territory.

ANOTHER AVIATOR VISITS PETERBORO

PHOTOGRAPHER TOOK SEVERAL PICTURES OF CITY FROM AEROPLANE.

LeRoy H. Holmes and Bonnick, who a couple of weeks ago aroused considerable interest by their exploit of flying under three bridges and an aerial wire crossing the Gorge at Niagara Falls, were in the city last evening and this morning taking aerial photographs which in a few days will be on sale in the local bookstores.

Holmes was in charge of the machine, which was a Curtis of the same type as that operated in this city a few days ago by Arthur Cooley. The photography is in charge of Bonnick. About ten pictures were taken last evening over the city and several more this morning, including the plants of the Quaker Oats and the Canadian General Electric Company.

The aviators came from Toronto. Pictures were taken at Lindsay, Fenelon Falls and Bobcaygeon on the way to this city. They arrived here shortly before six o'clock last evening. Mr. Bonnick reports a very rough passage due to the high wind. Before returning to Toronto the aviators intend to visit Montreal, Ottawa and Smith Falls. Leaflets describing the nature of their mission are dropped from the aeroplane as it passes over the country.

The Niagara Falls exploit of some days ago was done with the object of getting some close-up pictures of the Falls. It was the intention of the pilot to fly under the Suspension Bridge and then rise above the bridge level, but the suction was so heavy that the machine refused to rise, [illegible] bridges and finally an aerial wire connecting the two shores. By clever navigating they managed to rise after scraping the cliff in a turning movement and landed safely.

During the excitement Bonnick managed to get several good close-up views of the Gorge and its many features. "I would not undertake the trip again for all the world," said Bonnick.

CONSIDERING THE WHEAT PROBLEM

PURCHASING BOARD WILL LIKELY BE APPOINTED.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, July 29. — The Cabinet will continue this afternoon its consideration of the wheat problem. Until well after one o'clock this afternoon, the question was threshed out in all its details. Regulations for the proposed purchasing board have been prepared and are being reviewed in all their bearings. It is expected that the government will decide to appoint the board and that definite action will be announced to-night.

TRADING STOPPED.

(Canadian Press.)

WINNIPEG, July 29. — Trading in wheat futures was ordered stopped by the Council of the Grain Exchange a few minutes after the opening of the market this morning. It is understood that a wire was received by the president and an order from Geo. E. Foster, Minister of Commerce late on Monday night, to stop all trading in wheat futures for the present.

TO THE BELGIANS.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, July 29. — A telegram from Brussels last night says that the Belgians will be given a mandate for Ruanda and Urundi, while the balance will be under British control, with clear territory rights to Lake Edward and Lake Albert for the all-red route from the Cape to Cairo.

LAKEFIELD'S CUT GLASS INDUSTRY

FACTORY WHICH HAD SMALL BEGINNING NOW EMPLOYS TEN MEN.

Unknown to the majority of the users of expensive cut glass in the city a large percentage bought by them both from out of town and city firms is made nine miles north in the village of Lakefield in a little building of most unprepossessing appearance and by a boy born and brought up in the village, Mr. Wm. Leggott.

Three years ago appreciating the possibilities of "made in Canada goods" Mr. Leggott started the fifth cut glass factory in Canada under adverse and trying conditions brought on by the shortage of raw material. The blanks required for the cut work were almost impossible to obtain on account of war-conditions but preserving Mr. Leggott kept his factory in existence until American goods were more easily secured and the necessary blanks available and by this time the Colonial Glass Factory had gained a splendid reputation amongst the firms supplied. To-day with ten men employed and a weekly pay roll of $200.00 Mr. Leggott is doing a business which brings in he stated yesterday about $50,000 a year, and is supplying all the leading firms in Canada and anticipates heavy orders from overseas.

The Process.

The blanks are brought to the factory [illegible] on the Scotch Craigleith stone and the last or polishing stage is done on felt buffs in acids.

Mr. Leggott stated yesterday that in the near future he anticipates putting up a large new building to carry on his new industry as he has now accomplished the initial stage necessary for a big business, that of making a name for his firm. In the course of a few weeks he expects an immense shipment of Belgian glass which, containing more lead than the American glass is brighter and whiter. In the factory he does both the heavy and light cut glass work and stated that he is kep working at the utmost capacity to keep orders filled.

Music & Drama

"THE BONDAGE OF BARBARA."

Mae Marsh in "The Bondage of Barbara" attracted a capacity house at the Grand Opera House last night, and the winsome little actress won a warmer place than ever in the hearts of her audience. The plot of the play, that of the unselfish devotion of a sister to her apparently worthless brother, even through the trying days when the brother is apparently a thief, is admirably suited to the charming Mae. The story centres round two orphans, Barbara (Mae Marsh) and her brother Tony, who are left to provide for themselves in the world. Barbara secures work and the absolute trust of her employer, who entrusts to her the care of the cash. The employer's son, a shiftless chap, in dire need of money, robs the safe and throws suspicion upon Barbara's brother by dropping Tony's cigarette case at the safe door. To shield her brother, Barbara, who finds the case, assumes the guilt of the theft, and is put into the reformatory. As the play proceeds, most thrilling situations develop until the final scene, when Barbara's and Tony's innocence is proved, and the thief and his accomplices brought to justice.

The programme also includes a splendid play staged in Italy, featuring Fritzi Brunette, and a good Charlie Chaplin play.

The Toronto Markets

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, July 29. — Receipts were light; trade was steady for cattle, but generally weaker for smaller meats, particularly lambs. Prices for choice export cattle, $13.50 to $14.50; choice butcher's cattle, $11.25 to $13.00; medium butcher's cows, $9 to $9.50; ewes, $9.50 to $10.50; lambs, $17; hogs, fed and watered, $23.75; calves, $17 to $18.

BAND CONCERT IN KING EDWARD PARK.

The S. A. Temple Band will give an up-to-date musical programme to-night in King Edward Park, commencing at 8.15.

RACE RIOTS CONTINUE

POLICE IN CONTROL OF THE SITUATION—MILITARY HELD IN READINESS.

HEAVY CASUALTIES

(United Press.)

CHICAGO, July 29. — The police controlled Chicago's black belt early to-day following a night of race rioting, in which 22 men were killed and 138 men and women injured.

Chicago military units ordered mobilized by Governor Lowden, were held in their armouries after the police had restored order. The riots extended throughout the negro district on the south side. They were mostly unorganized classes, stopping as suddenly as they began. The dead included 11 white men and five negroes.

Military Ready.

(Canadian Press.)

CHICAGO, Ill., July 29. — Four thousand soldiers with full war equipment stood ready to-day to quell the race rioting between the negroes and whites that during two nights of terror in the south side negro belt cost the lives of at least twenty men, including one negro policeman and the injury of hundreds of others, many seriously and probably a dozen fatally. Four of the injured are soldiers. The police and coroners have been unable to make a complete check of the casualties, but reports showed nineteen killed last night. Of this number twelve are whites and seven negroes. A hundred thousand negroes and an equal number of whites either fought in the streets and alleys or cowered in their homes while shots were fired. Mounted police galloped along boulevards, armed wagons dashed through the streets with prisoners, and wounded [illegible] and children screamed as [illegible] with cudgels, knives and [illegible]

"Jim Crow" [illegible]

The rioting grew [illegible] at a bathing beach S[illegible] white attempted [illegible] came a shot. The whites drew their own revolver, and almost instantly two hundred white men and negroes were in a quarreling mass. Bricks flew, sweating black faces were clubbed as fifty policemen rushed into the melee. The mob broke away, leaving forty or more injured. Thirty-two were taken direct to hospitals. The number included black and white men. Policemen were taken from all beats except in the black belt and held in reserve. They were armed with revolvers, clubs and rifles tipped with bayonets. Pursuit cars, motor cycle and horses were used in chasing down the battlers, black and white.

Police Stations Filled.

Police stations were filled with refugees. Many negroes flocked to them for protection. Hundreds more were picked up for participating in street fights.

Until midnight officers had difficulty in gaining any sort of control over affairs. Riots died in one spot to break forth with renewed violence in another quarter. It was one o'clock before the police finally announced they were in control and it was decided to hold the militia in their armouries.

Governor Lowden and Mayor Thompson issued appeals to both races.

Rioting This Morning.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 29.—One unidentified negro was killed and two negroes were wounded at Wabash and Adams street, in the heart of the down-town district, in the rioting which was renewed this morning, while a street car conductor was shot and killed soon after daylight in the stock yards section.

William Henderson, a negro, was arrested on suspection in connection with the killing. Racial disorders spread to the north side of the city to-day, where a number of negroes were chased and threatened. Very few negroes live in that section of the city.

BOARD OF WORKS PROPOSES TO PROCEED WITH THE WORK THIS YEAR AND WILL GIVE USUAL NOTICE TO PROPERTY HOLDERS —FIGURES FOR OTHER STREETS.

SEWERS NEED REBUILDING

PAVEMENT ESTIMATES.

Aylmer street, from Charlotte street to the C.P.R.—$31,022.

In a report to the Board of Works last night, City Engineer Parsons estimated the cost of paving George street from the C.P.R. to Romaine street at $36,480, plus $3,500 for surface drainage, making a total of $39,990.

As a preliminary step to this work, which may be prosecuted this year, Ald. Edgar moved, seconded by Ald. Crowe, that advertisements be inserted in the local papers announcing the Council's intention to pave George street from the C.P.R. south to Romaine street.

From the C.P.R. to Rink street, City Engineer Parsons proposed that the pavement be 38 feet wide and from Rink to Romaine street 35 feet. The total length of the road is approximately 2,480 feet.

Figures From the Report.

"I would recommend that an asphaltic concrete pavement on a concrete foundation, with cement curbs and gutters and a brick pavement along the track allowance be laid on this street. I would recommend that it be built 38 feet wide from the C.P.R. to Rink street and 35 feet wide from Rink street to Romaine street.

The estimated cost of this pavement is $36,480.00, making the total estimated cost of this work $39,990.00. The total length of the work is approximately 2,460 feet."

Samples of Costs.

The frontage tax on a 40 foot lot in the first half of this part of the street would be 40 times 81 cents or $32.40, and for a similar lot beween Rink and Romaine streets the annual frontage tax would be 40 times 86 cents or $32.40.

The City's Share.

The city pays all the cost of the construction of surface drains and 40 p.c. of the cost of the pavement, except the strip between the railway tracks, which is borne by the Hydro-Electric Commission as holders of the railway.

The paving of George street south has been proposed in discussions of the Board of Works for some time, and the improvements of the road have been deferred because of the expectations that a permanent road

DR. SALEM BLAND WILL NOT RESIGN

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, July 29.—Dr. Salem Bland does not intend to resign his pastorate of Broadway Methodist Tabernacle, despite the vote of a minority of the members of the Board who attended a meeting of that body and passed a resolution expressing dissatisfaction with his preaching.

Following his statement at Sunday night's service, he had received many words of encouragement, and Dr. Bland, in an interview, said that he felt that it was his duty to remain as pastor of the Tabernacle.

Speaking of the section of the Board that found fault with his preaching, Dr. Bland said: "They simply gave expression to their opinion. I found on Sunday night that the congregation seemed to be cordially and very heartily with me, so that I feel very confident as to the future."

"It has been charged that you are Socialistically inclined, Dr. Bland."

"That is a very comprehensive statement. There is a great British statesman who said that we are all Socialists," replied the minister.

SUGGESTION FOR MR. J. H. BURNHAM, M.P.

MR. R. J. SODEN FINDS A JOB FOR THE FEDERAL MEMBER.

To the Editor of The Examiner,—

Dear Sir, — I notice from the Daily Review of this date that Mr. J. H Burnham, M.P., is not satisfied with the arrangement for the distribution of the Toronto Saturday papers which reach Peterboro too late for the morning postal delivery.

I have, therefore, a suggestion to make that I feel sure will meet with universal approbation.

The suggestion is that Mr. Burnham, who has now as little to do as any citizen I know of, should devote his Saturday afternoons to making the distribution of these papers from [illegible] of charge, as I have [illegible] ance which he from time to time receives at Ottawa. I remain, Yours truly,

R. J. SODEN.

CELEBRATED THEIR 60TH ANNIVERSARY

UNUSUAL EVENT IN LIVES OF PETERBORO COUPLE.

Yesterday afternoon, at the home of their son, Mr. T. H. Hooper, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hooper, who reside at the corner of George and Dublin Streets, celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary.

Sixty years of married life find Mr. and Mrs. Hooper enjoying good health, and with a promise of many more years of connubial happiness.

Mr. Thomas Hooper was born on 15th March, 1838, in the parish of Bow, near Exeter, Devonshire, England, while Mrs. Hooper was born on 21st October, 1836, at Bradworthy, North Devonshire, England. They were married on 26th July, 1859, at Buckland Filley, Devonshire, and came to Peterborough forty-seven years ago, where they have since resided.

Mr. Thomas Hooper, Sr.
Mr. T. H. Hooper, Jr.
Mr. Fred Hooper.
Master Thomas H. Hooper.

Rev. A. J. Thomas and Mr. J. J. Turner, in short addresses, congratulated the happy couple. Mr. Thomas Hooper responded.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hooper received many beautiful presents and several bouquets of flowers. During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Turner, Mr. M. Comstock, and others called to offer congratulations.

The reception was held on the lawn and was in charge of the sons and daughters of the family.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Cunningham, Mr. Marwood Cunningham, Miss Lawrene Cunningham, Miss Dorothy Cunningham, and Mr. A. Day, all of whom motored down from Orillia; also Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Hooper, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Cheverill, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hooper, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hooper, Mr. Walter J. Hooper, Mr. Orville Hooper, Miss Ada Hooper, Mrs. Ellen Fowler, Miss Effie Fowler, Master Donald Fowler, Rev. A. J. and Mrs. Thomas, Mr. Aaron Comstock, Mr. Percy Hooper, Mrs. Percy Hooper, Calgary, Miss Marion Cheverill, Miss Edna Cheverill, Master Thomas H. Hooper, Mr. Herb. Morphet, and Miss Geraldine Hooper.

PRESIDENT WILSON TO SUBMIT TREATY

ACTION MAY FORESTALL A REPUBLICAN REVOLT.

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 29. — President Wilson's decision to submit the special French treaty of defence to the senate without delay may have forestalled a revolt by the Republican senators which might have delayed the ratification of the Versailles treaty.

While the President in his room at the Capitol was informing Democratic Senators that he will submit the document within a few days, possibly to-day, Senators Lodge and Brandegee were conferring on plans to have the Foreign Relations Committee [illegible] on the peace treaty

FOOD STORES TO BE DISTRIBUTED

CENSURE FOR THE WAR DEPARTMENT—A RESOLUTION.

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 29. — The distribution of the huge stores of surplus food was expected to come before the House to-day.

Republicans prepared a resolution, ordering the food to be placed on the domestic market, and at the same time censuring the War Department for its delay in getting the food into the households of America.

FORMER PREMIER WAS ARRESTED IN UNITED STATES

(Canadian Press.)

MAHNOM, Minn., July 29. — At Pembina, North Dakota, while en route from British Columbia to Minnesota, Hon. Walter Scott, a former premier of Saskatchewan, was peremptorily ordered from the train by United States' immigration officials and placed in a heavily barred cell. After being locked up three hours and a half, Scott freed himself by smashing a hole through the plastered wall and thence to liberty. Officers then essayed to arrest him, but changed their minds when Scott showed them a telegram he was sending to Sir Robert Borden about the incident.

JURY ALLEGES NEGLIGENCE IN BOILER EXPLOSION

(Special to The Examiner.)

KINGSTON, July 29.—A coroner's jury empanelled to investigate the boiler explosion in the cheese factory of Thomas Anglin, near Joyceville, over which John Potter and Robert Holman lost their lives, found that there had been negligence on the part of the owner of the factory in not having had the boiler inspected.

The jury also considered that the Provincial Government had been lax in not having enforced a law which would bring about a strong inspection of stationary boilers, and recommends the Government to take action of this kind at once

THOMAS DISTON AWARDED PRIZE

SUBMITTED REVISED MAP OF EUROPE THREE MONTHS AFTER WAR BROKE OUT.

Lloyd's Sunday News of London, when war was declared, offered $300 in prizes to be distributed among the successful candidates for the best map of "how will the map of Europe look after the war. Mr. Thomas P. Diston, 199 Rubidge street, submitted his map three months after the war was declared and received notice today that he had been awarded a prize which was encolsed with the letter of notification. There were over 100,000 contestants, and Mr. Diston is to be congratulated on being one of only 180 to have been awarded a prize.

COUNCIL HAS TWO POSITIONS WHICH WILL BE ADVERTISED

ACCOUNTANT REQUIRED FOR HUNTER STREET BRIDGE WORK AND CONCRETE INSPECTOR FOR TWO BLOCKS OF PAVING—WILL BE APPOINTED NEXT MONDAY.

SOME MEN PROPOSED

Two temporary positions at the disposal of the Council have been created by civic work that will be in full swing next week. The lesser one provides an opening for a concrete inspector for the paving of Water and King Streets from Charlotte Street around to George Street. It was stated at last night's meeting of the Board of Works that the contractor, Mr. Richard Sheehy, would begin operations next Monday.

An application from Mr. Sam Belcher for the inspectorship was received last night, but a motion by Ald. Taylor, seconded by Ald. Hamilton, instructed the City Clerk to advertise in the local papers for applications, which will be received up to noon next Monday. Applicants shall state their experience and the salaries they expect. An inspector will be appointed at the regular meeting of the Council on Monday night.

Account for the Bridge Work.

The other position is the more attractive. Ald. Phelan stated that the city should have an official to keep in close touch with the contractors, the Russell-Townsend Company, so that an exact record could be kept of the company's pay roll, material, quantities and costs, and other details incidental to the bridge work.

Mr. Charles Townsend told the Board that the city should have a man who would know just what the company was doing.

"We want you to have all that information," he said, "so that you will know what we are doing. I think the man you appoint should have considerable experience as an accountant. He should be thoroughly competent and familiar with duties of that kind."

Should Advertise.

Ald. Crowe proposed that the Council advertise for applications.

Asked if he had any person in view, Ald. Phelan named Mr. Alex. Elliott, who, he said, was well qualified for the work—had all the experience necessary, was a property owner, and a competent, responsible man.

Ald. Edgar: What about John Harper?

It was stated that Mr. Harper had had excellent experience with the Matthews-Blackwell Company.

Ald. Hamilton mentioned Mr. John Duignan, of the McDonald Lumber Company.

Ald. Hamilton had suggested that a returned soldier should be available for the former position, and Ald. Taylor asked the chairman if he knew a returned man who could qualify for the position on the bridge work.

Ald. Phelan replied that he couldn't think of any soldier who might fill the bill.

Ald. Morrison: We ought to be able to get hold of a returned soldier.

Ald. Garside: I don't think we can get a better man than Mr. Elliott. He is a responsible man, and I think he would make a good official.

Ald. Edgar moved, seconded by Ald. Crowe, that the position be advertised in the press, applications to be received until 5 p.m. on Monday, stating qualifications and salary.

This appointment will also be made at the regular meeting of the Council.

SHOCK ABSORBERS FOR FALSE TEETH

The word "Shock-Absorbers" generally recalls to our minds something of automobiles and also our last ride in a flivver over a rough country road and how we wished for a good heavy chest protector—or several thicknesses of them—to apply as a cushion where nature had failed most sadly to provide for the emergency. Where as our teeth chattered badly on that occasion, we were sure they would stay with the tin lizzie as long as we ourselves did, for our teeth were our own and nature had anchored our molars pretty permanently. But this is an age of inventions and surprises, and we now learn that some constructive and thinking flivver passengers with "store-teeth" has, from a combination of suggestion and reasoning, applied the principle of the automobile "shock-absorber" to the bouncing and humping plate of false teeth that he has so often nearly lost overboard or sneezed out at an embarrassing moment.

Novel as it may seem, this "Rubber Heel of Denistry" has a large vogue with wearers of artificial teeth who obtain it at their druggists, sprinkle some of it on their "store teeth" and put them in place, whereupon teeth "go to work" at once and stay firmly fixed in place for ten or fifteen hours, regardless of all the chewing at corn on the cob and cracking of hickory nuts tha their owner may attempt in the meantime, and with a pleasing sense of security and comfort to the user.

So much for the application of "shock-absorbers" to the benefit of wearers of false teeth.

FARMER REAPED FIELD OF WHEAT

GETS GOOD YIELD OF WHEAT FROM ACRE FIELD THAT HAD NOT BEEN SEEDED IN 12 YEARS.

DUART, July 28.—George Haycroft, a farmer living south of here, has just cut and gathered a crop of wheat from an acre field which had not been sown for twelve years, heavy enough to repay him well for the cost of harvesting.

Last year the field was tilled and planted with barley, which was reaped, but this year no crop of any kind was planted. In spite of this, a good crop of wheat sprang up, and has now been harvested.

The acre on which this phenomenon in agriculture occurred is cut off from the rest of the field to which it belongs by a large ditch used as a drain. The drain was built a dozen years ago, and the acre field, which is separate from the rest, had not been cropped since the drain was built, with the exception of last year's barley.

Haycroft claims that there is no mistake about the wheat having grown of its own accord, unless somebody kindly sowed it this spring unknown to him.

A NEW BLOOD-FOOD HAS BEEN DISCOVERED THAT WORKS WONDERS

SAID TO PUT NEW LIFE INTO PEOPLE THAT ARE RUN-DOWN.

For years doctors have been searching for a combination that would enable them to inject into thin blood the elements it lacked. This can now be done, and any weak-blooded person can quickly be made strong and well.

Already a small army of ailing people has proved the merit of taking after each meal with a sip or two of water, two chocolate-coated Ferrozone Tablets. This is easily done, and even one week's use of this wonderful blood-food will prove how nourishing and strengthening and flesh-building the treatment is.

Just think of it—Ferrozone uplifts the entire nervous system, removes the blood, makes it rich and red, gives the sort of aid that's needed in throwing off weakness and languor.

Tens of thousands enjoy the advantages of renewed health through Ferrozone;—if you'll only use it, eficial action is noticed even in a week. ficial action is noticed even in a week. You see it goes right to work, re-then quickly makes a cure.

For those who sleep poorly and have nervous apprehensions, Ferrozone is a boon; it is a specialist in such cases.

Where there is paleness, poor appetite and languor, Ferrozone makes the patient feel like new in a few days.

In tiredness, nerve exhaustion, spring fever and debility, the power of Ferrozone is known from coast to coast and universally used with grand results.

Let Ferrozone build you up, let it win you back to robust health,—it will do so quickly if you give it the chance. Sold by all dealers. 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50. Remember the name Ferrozone.

IN DEFENSE OF FATHER

"Every now and then father will come across a little baby shoe when he is rummaging through an old trunk. To him it is only a cheap little bit of kid that was worn by a little tad who got sick and died. He can't see why my mother keeps it. But to mother the little shoe has warm lips moist with her kisses, little hands that cling lovingly to her breast and little eyes that look into her very soul and understand her sorrow." The above appeared in one of our most valued exchanges and brought forth the following comment:

Here is where we call for a new deal for father. Mother is all that has been said, and more. God bless and keep her. Father is all that has not been said. I know men who rush away in the dark and grieve on their knees with their heads in their arms, because a little baby died a long time ago. And after that they come out and face the world smiling bravely, and the world doesn't know. I know a man who carries a little daughter's shoe in his grip when he goes out upon the road, and sleeps with it beneath his pillow, and I know many fathers who will never be comforted this side of the grave. Let us still love and cherish mother: but let us also give father credit for being at least half human.

The woman that saves up her household worries and her bodily pains and aches to entertain her husband with on his return home, drives a sure nail in the coffin of conjugal happiness.

We earnestly entreat every young man after he has chosen his vocation to stick to it. Don't leave it because hard blows are to be struck, or disagreeable work performed. Those who have worked their way up to wealth and usefulness, do not belong to the shiftless and unstable class, but may be reckoned among such as took off their coats, rolled up their sleeves, conquered their prejudice against labor, and manfully bore the heat and burden of the day. Whether upon the old farm where our fathers toiled diligently, striving to bring the soil to productiveness; in the machine shop or factory, or the thousand other business places that invite honest toil and skill, let the motto ever be, perseverance and industry.

If you have friends don't be afraid to express your friendship; don't be afraid to tell them that you admire or love them. If you love anybody, why not say so? If you enjoy one's company, why not say so? It costs nothing! It may mean everything to your friend and to your friendship A lady was asked how she managed to get along so well with disagreeable people. "It is very simple," she replied; "all I do is to try to make the most of their good qualities and pay no attention to their disagreeable ones." No better formula by which to win and hold friends could be found.

* * *

Many college-bred girls never teach. They go out in the world and raise the average intelligence; they elevate their own households and exert an influence in the sphere of the private citizen. The standard is raised at home, and home is the fountain head. Women who marry after being liberally educated make more satisfactory unions than they otherwise would have made.

* * *

A good example is the best teaches. Precepts arouse less if contradicted by our daily life. If we are slaves to our evil passions, how can we teach our children self-control. If we sometimes speak or act an untruth, we cannot expect them to be truthful. Do not scold; do not use harsh words; for they will surely be reflected in your children.

* * *

The girl with a sweet little voice need not feel discouraged because she has not opportunity to sing in grand opera. She can give a great pleasure by being a songbird in the home nest, or if she has a knack with her brush or pencil, let her give her artistic tendencies full sway in making her home pretty.

* * *

There is no happier nor more cozy picture of home life than the little family group gathered about the evening lamp, while some member of it reads aloud. These evening readings can be made educational and develop in many ways, which the eager feminine mind, eager for improvement will easily devise.

* * *

Labor is life, but worry is killing. Accept things as they are, and do not bother about the yesterday, which is gone forever; do not bother about tomorrow, which is not yours; but take the present day and make the best of it.

A WELL KNOWN FIGURE GONE

The death of Mr. Allan Studholme of Hamilton, removes from the Ontario Legislature an unique character, and a good friend of Labor. Mr. Studholme had the distinction of being the only member of the Provincial body who was elected as a direct representative of Labor. In his capacity as a member of Parliament, Mr. Studholme was not only a faithful and sincere worker in the interests of those whom he represented, but governed his actions by a sense of his responsibility to the people at large. As a Labor man political parties and in all his career in the Legislature he preserved a neutral position, voting on all questions as he considered best, with no party ties to interfere with his decisions. Mr. Studholme's voice will be missed from the debates in the Legislature and his death will be regretted by the people of the Province

A FOOLISH JOURNEY

Returned soldiers who have been considering the advisibility of going to England, many of them because of the happy experiences they had during the training in the old land would do well to reflect on the warning sent by the special correspondent of the Globe, who points out that conditins are altgether different now than they were a few month ago. When the war was being fought the men in uniform, especially those who had come from overseas Dominins, were magnificently treated and entertained by the farm-hearted peple of England. Nothing was too good for them and remembering these things many a Canadian soldier is longing for a chance to cross the Atlantic. The Globe's correspondent, however, warns them that if they do so they will find a change. There will be no special privileges for the men as civilians who were treated as heroes when they were in uniform and their opportunities of finding employment, he says are not bright. There is much enforced idleness in England with the repatriation of the British army and Canadianh are adding to the distress by going to England at the present time in the hope of finding work.

MR. ROWELL'S POSITION

Mr. Rowell's attack upon Mr. Hartley Dewart is proving, as was to be expected, a boomerang, and Mr. Dewart, always a vigorous fighter, is carrying the war into Africa with a vengeance. His speech on Friday in which he charged the President of the Privy Council with deliberately planning to destroy the Liberal party in Ontario and lead the Liberals of the Province into the Unionist camp, is a serious charge against Mr. Rowell. Mr. Dewart alleges that in 1917 there was a plot to replace Sir Wilfrid Laurier by Mr. Rowell, and when this plan failed the latter entered into the Union Government negotiations. 'He deliberately joined in the formation of that Government, knowing that it was intended to be what it now is, a permanent party," declares Mr. Dewart. Furthermore, the Liberal leader charges that Mr. Rowell planned as he desires to do now, to bring the Liberals of Ontario in to that party and make them permanent supporters of the Union administration. Mr. Rowell was supposed to be able to deliver the goods and was, Mr. Dewart asserts, taken into the Unionist party on that understanding. "While others support Union Government as a war-time measure as permanent plan with him," the Liberal leader declares. The reply of Mr. Rowell to this statement should prove interesting. Perhaps, however, he may conclude that silence is the wiser policy, when a censure of Mr. Dewart's calibre is involved.

WHY THE DIFFERENCE?

The Civil Service Commission, in explaining the report upon which the payment of a $10,000,000 bonus to Government employees is based, states that the cost of living has increased over 53 per cent. since the beginning of the war, and that while up to 1914 a family of five could live in moderate comfort on $1,000 a year, at least $1,550 a year is the sum needed to-day. The figures are significant and the Civil Service Commission would be doing a public service if they would at once provide the Board of Pensions Commissioners with a copy of this interesting report.

It has now been found necessary to supplement the earnings of civil servants by large bonuses, and if the figures quoted by the Commission are accurate—and there is no reason to doubt their correctness — then the scale of pensions in Canada, particularly to the widows and dependents of soldiers who were killed and to the soldiers who have suffered total disability as a result of their injuries, are utterly inadequate. One department of the Government finds that it takes $1,550 to maintain a family of five, and yet the Pensions Commissioners expect a soldier's widow, with four children, to exist upon an allowance that falls far short o fthis amount. The difference in the attitude of the Civil Service Commission and that of the Pensions Commissioners is hard to understand.

MR. ROWELL'S POSITION

Mr. Rowell's reply to the Toronto Globe's "crossing the floor," editorial does not do much to strengthen the position of the president of the Privy Council, Mr. Rowell declares that the Union Government should be left to finish the task for which it was organized. To the majority of people at least the task Mr. Rowell refers to was the enforcement of the Military Service Act. There was no idea in their minds that they were voting for a permanent Unionist party; or a new political organiaation influenced by Tory principles and policies. Had there been any suspicion of an attempt being made to make permanent the Unionist party, there would have been thousands of votes cast a different way.

In an editorial reference to Mr. Rowell's reply the Globe says:

"Mr. Rowell does not admit the consequences of the step he has taken. He says: 'If I cannot continue to be both a real Liberal—and by that I mean a real progressive—and a supporter of Union Government, I shall advise my constituents of the fact and tender my resignation.' But he is more than a supporter of Union Government. He is one of the sponsers for a new political party, which has formulated no platform, made no declaration of principles, issued no authorized program. He himself, in a series of questions put to the Globe, declares that the Union Government as at present constituted favors the enactment of a bill validating the prohibition orders in Council, the development of a great Government owned and operated system of national railways, and the abolition of political patronage, and charges that the official Liberal Opposition is opposed to all these measures. The truth is that the defeat of the prohibition measure was compassed by the Senate in which the supporters of the present Government are in a majority, that the fiercest opposition to civil service reform and the abolition of political patronage comes from the old Tory elements of a party with which Mr. Rowell has thrown his lot, and that the only outward and visible sign of the Government's enthusiasm for public ownership is the retention of the chief officials of the Canadian Northern—who in the past have been outstanding enemies of public enterprise. The Union Government cannot be blamed for the payment of ten million dollars to Mackenzie & Mann for the common stock of a road that is costing the people of about fifteen million dollars a year in interest bills, but the men who did that are Mr. Rowell's colleagues, and the most influential members of the Union Government.

Mr. Rowell says that the course he and his friends have followed will have the effect of preventing an election, and that the Globe and Liberals generally who oppose an immediate election should support instead of censuring him. There can be no alternative to that. If the alternatives are the creation of a permanent Unionist party dominated by Conservative tariff policies, or an immediate general election, there are very few Liberal-Unionists in Ontario who would not prefer to have the political atmosphere cleared by an election.—The Toronto Globe.

VITAL FACTS AS TO NEW PROVINCIAL ELECTION LAW

Since the last Provincial election the election act and the acts relating to the franchise in Ontario and the preparation of the voters' lists have been repeatedly amended, repeated in part and generally tinkered with, so that the law is now in many respects obscure, unsettled and defective.

The new pamphlet issued by the Government for use at elections, containing the Ontario Election Act of 1918, and the amendment of 1919, and the Temperence Referendum Act of 1919, is not intended for generel circulation, nor has any concise general statement of the law been issued.

The new system of enumeration by enumerators and sub-enumerators appointed solely by the Government in power, upon the recommendation of their partisan supprters, has superseded the old method of making up the voters' lists.

The danger that the names of voters who were qualified to vote may be left off the new lists by the negligent or partisan action of enumerators has greatly increased the necessity for vigilance and activity.

This memorandum is, therefore, issued by the Liberal executive to give in brief and popular form, the qualifications of voters—the method of enumeration and the rights of appeal Its importance is emphasized by the fact that the new lists now being prepared are the lists to be used in the Ontario election, on the referendum vote and in all Dominion by-elections, and possibly in a general Dominion election.

Voters' Qualifications.

The franchise qualifications to vote at provincial elections and on the referendum are the same.

Every man and woman in Ontario who is a British subject, by birth or naturalization and nor otherwise disqualified, has the right to vote.

But he or she must have been resident in Canada for twelve months next preceding the date fixed for commencing to make up the lists, that is the new enumeration (in most cases the July 15, 1919) and also must have been for three months prior to that date a resident of and living in the electoral district in which the polling subdivision in which he resides is situated, and also on the same date, 21 years of age, or 21 years of age within 56 days from that date.

In the case of cities divided into two or more electoral districts—such as Toronto, Ottawa, and Hamilton—there must be three months residence in the city, but only 30 days residence in the electoral district before the same date upon which the enumeration comemnces. The age qualification is 21 years, within 56 days from the same date.

There is an exception in favor of soldiers and sailors, who are qualified even if they are not 21 years of age.

Soldiers and sailors and nurses and nursing sisters are also not disqualified by occasional or temporary absence.

Students should see to it that they are on the lists for their home addresses, as temporary absence does not disqualify them. Only under very exceptional conditions can they be entered in the electoral districts in which they are attending school or college.

Enumeration of Voters

Even though otherwise qualified, the voter's name must be on the list, or he cannot vote at the election. Hence importance of seeing that every name is on the enumerators' list.

The Government has appointed chief enumerators for each riding, who not only supervise this work, but are the returning officers in the election.

The chief enumerators have appointed the enumerators for each polling subdivision (usually on the nomination of the local Conservative member or association). In case of difficulty in obtaining the names of enumerators, they can be obtained from chairman of the voters' registration board if the chief enumerator declines to give them.

The law requires every enumerator, in cities, town or incorporated villages, to visit every house and dwelling house in his polling sub-division and prepare a list of the qualified voters.

In cities, the enumerators' list will be made up in the order of street numbers, and not in alphabetical order, and in this why the lists will be in effect a street directory and in convenient form for checking and canvassing purposes.

In townships (and probably, though not so specified in towns and villages), the voters' lists will be made up in alphabetical order, and not according to concessions and lots. It is the duty of the enumerators under the Act where there is a municipal list, for those who are qualified to vote, both for parliamentary and municipal elections (commonly known as part one) to place upon the list he is preparing the name of every person who is so entered on the list, unless he has personal knowledge the person is either dead or has ceased to be qualified.

All Qualified Must Go On

The enumerator must also enter upon the lists he prepares the name of every man and woman whose name is not upon the municipal certified list, and who is qualified to vote. As the additions to the lists in townships, etc., will include practically all the women voters, and there is no provision in the law making a house-to-house call necessary, the necessity for scrutiny of the lists is apparent.

Every enumerator is required to complete his list within ten days after his appointment, and to return it certified and verified by affidavit to the chief enumerator (returning officer), who retains its custody. In many cases the list may not be complete within ten days and the opportunity of personally requiring an enumerator to put names upon the list may still exist.

Under special regulations that have been made by order-in-council, the chief enumerator forwards the lists which he has received to the voters' registration board, which is to have the list printed with the least possible delay. Instructions have been given to have all lists printed, except in unorganized districts.

One certified copy of the lists prepared remains with the clerk of the voters' registration board, one copy is sent to the clerk of each municipality and one copy supplied to each of the candidates at the election. The list will be posted in the office of the clerk of the voters registration board and in the office of the clerk of the municipality.

The Act is indefinite as to the meaning of the word "candidate" (the person who is to receive the unrevised voters' lists and to whom is to be sent notices of the sittings to revise the lists). In a strict sense, there is no candidate until nomination day. It is understood, however, that the construction to the boards are to send the lists to the sitting members and defeated candidates in every constituncy. Application should be made without delay to the chairman of the board for the copies of the lists. Instruction ore being given to supply ten copies in every case, without payment of any fee. See the chief enumerator or chairman of the board and get these.

been made, direction is given to have a sufficient number of copies of the lists printed so as to provide for their use upon the referendum vote, and at general or subsequent election. This provision is in view of the fact that the voters' lists now being prepared are to be the lists upon any vote or election within one year from the first voting that may take place. Therefore the lists now being prepared will be used not only upon the referendum vote, but also at provincial (general or by-elections) held within one year. Under the amendment to the Dominion election law, passed last session, these will also be the lists to be used at the Dominion by-elections in Ontario.

There is no provision for any appeal to the enumerator, hence the importance of finding out who the enumerators are and of getting the names of those who are entitled to vote on the lists while they are being prepared. There is a form of affidavit which each enumerator has to administer to persons desiring to be entered on the list. Personal application to enumerators would, therefore, appear to be necessary.

There is a provision in the regulations that have been passed that the lists shall be printed in such a manner that it will be possible to deliver to any person entitled thereto the list for any polling sub-division without delivering the list for the whole electoral district. The act provides that the clerk of the registration board or the clerk of the municipality may furnish copies of any list to any persons upon the payment of the prescribed fee. No regulation as to the amount of the fee appears to have been yet made.

Appeals.

This board appoints revising officers, including members of their own body, who hear appeals. It also provides a clerk for each revising officer.

Fifteen days notice of the sitting of each revising officer must be given by posting in each polling sub-division and by public advertising of days and times and places for hearing appeals.

Notice of appeal must be handed to or left with the clerk of each revising officer not less than five days, before the date when the sittings commence. If the appeal is to strike off a name, notice must also be sent to the person whose name is to be taken off; this notice may be either served personally or by leaving it with some grown-up person at the place of residence stated in the list. Corrections of mistakes as to names, residence or qualification may be made by the revising officer without previous notice of appeal or complaint. Copies of the appeal notice forms can be obtained from the chairman of every registration board.

The appeals are governed by the vising officer upon the day and at the time and place fixed by the board and are to be determined within five days after hearing so that the lists shall be finally revised and certified by the revising officer within ten days after the first day upon which the sititngs of the revising officer is held. The board and the revising officers have been instructed to so arrange that every list shall be finally revised and certified and delivered to the clerk of the peace not less than ten days before the date fixed for the referendum, which date will be announced by proclamation.

Any person may obtain from the revising officer or his clerk or from the board an order requiring the attendance of any witness with the production of any papers or documents, upon the payment of his expenses on the division court scale.

After the revising officer has completed his revising, he will prepare a list of the changes made as a result of the appeals heard by him and a copy of such certified list of changes can be obtained by any voters upon payment of a small fee.

General.

Note particularly that every list of voters revised and closed by the revising officer is final and conclusive, and cannot be the subject of any further appeal, but as so revised and closed constitutes the list of voters to be used at the election.

Nominations will be held one week before election day. A nomination paper in the prescribed form must be signed by at least one hundred electors, not fifty as heretofore. Women as well as men voters who are duly qualified, may sign the nomination paper. No deposit is required from a candidate at the time of nomination.

15 Maxwell Trucks Ran 109,700 Miles at a Total Repair Cost of $313.07

THESE are figures taken from owners' books. 10,000 owners of Maxwell trucks have been asked to send us their operating costs. The first fifteen received were from the United States, and contained these amazing figures —109,700 miles at a repair cost of $313.07.

Three of these Maxwells turned 60,000 miles at a repair cost of $150. A fourth ran 5500 miles at a repair cost of 25 cents. A fifth, 5000 miles at a repair cost of $1.

Another, 7000 miles and the expense of keeping it on the road was $2.50.

All told, the repair cost was just .002 plus per mile! And by repairs we mean the total for parts and labor.

More miles per gallon More miles on tires

So obvious, so well known has become the economy of Maxwell trucks in regard to gas, oil, and tires, that it is no longer an item of news.

18, 19, even 24 miles to the gallon on gas, and 250 miles to the gallon of oil, or 8,000, 9,000 and 10,000 miles to a tire is a matter of common occurrence.

But the main point about a Maxwell truck is this: it runs on and on, and never quits going.

It is efficient.

It's a great money earner because it's a great money saver. Many Maxwells pay back their cost in a year's time.

NEIL BRINGS BARBARA A STRING OF PEARLS.

CHAPTER XXVII.

I was all dressed and waiting when Neil came home. He drew in his breath in a long whistle when he saw me.

"My, but you are lovely to-night, Bab! Come here this minute."

He took me in his arms, regardless of my dress which he said looked as if made of silvery moonbeams, and kissed me again and again.

"I never saw you look better." He held me off, turned me around critically examining my coiffure, as well as the gown. "Stunning —I shall be so proud of you to-night. Here I bought you these because I didn't take you with me to Boston."

"Oh, Neil—how lovely—" An exquisite string of pearls lay on a white satin bed when he lifted the lid of the box he gave me.

"Here—I'll fasten them on for you, then I must hustle. Just what you needed with that gown."

They really were. I flushed with happiness and pleasure. What a dear boy Neil was! I was sure there were very few like him.

He threw himself on a chair, and kicked off his shoes in a way he had, and that always amused me. For the first time that day I had a good look at his face. He looked tired.

"You are overworking. There are lines about your eyes. I don't like to see them. I'll kiss them away."

Abruptly he said:

"I'm all right! I hate being made a fuss over. Send Tonko to me."

It was equivalent to a dismissal. But I would not be offended. He was sensitive about his looks. I should not have mentioned that he had lines about his eyes. I sent the Jap to him, then sat quietly waiting until he was ready.

I had been so elated with my lovely gown—so pleased with Neil's praise, that it was with a conscious feeling of self-satisfaction that I followed Neil up the steps of Blanche Orton's home.

But my elation was short-lived.

I held my breath when I saw our hostess; and I heard Neil's breath whistle between his teeth as she came forward to greet us. She wore a clinging robe of black paillettes whose shimmering scales wrapped her in glistening blackness revealing every movement of her svelte body, while being almost puritanical in its plainness. Not a jewel did she wear, although hers were famous. Her dark hair was drawn smoothly back and banded low on her forehead with a simple jet band. Even her hands were ringless. I suddenly felt overdressed in my lovely gown; it looked almost garish, and I had thought its daintiness attractive.

How could one hope to compete with such artful diplomacy? As a human being I know I was at this time reasonable! as a woman I was—simply a woman, with all a woman's pride and emotions.

Clearly I should have all I could do to "keep up my end" (one of Neil's expressions), so I suppressed all feelings as far as I could. There was need for all the poise, all the aplomb I possessed.

There were three other guests, A young lady—Miss Marie Wilson—an insipid sort of a girl in pale blue, and two men Both men of personality. One of them in particular attracted me. His eyes were cold as china and as blue. His hair was iron grey and thrown back from his forehead in a tumbled mass. One almost wondered if he combed it only with his fingers. He was about medium height, but so well built that he looked almost tall. Mrs. Orton introduced him as "Mr. Dantzig." The other, a tall, slender man of indiscriminate coloring was named "Rayburn," he had sharp features, and until he spoke I thought him unattractive. But he had a wonderful speaking voice—low, well modulated, convincing.

In talking of him afterward, Neil said:

"Rayburn can talk a bird off a tree. That is why he is so valuable to us."

I was seated between the two strangers. Neil was next to Blanche Orton, Miss Wilson between him and Mr. Rayburn. Mr. Orton begged to be excused as he was not well—so his wife told us.

Canadian Educational Tours.

Much interest attaches to the scheme under which members of the Overseas Military Forces are to make tours in the Old Country for instruction in agriculture, fishing and other industries in which we may be able to give hints for developments in the Dominion. Thus a party of selected men are to attend the Royal Agricultural Show at Cardiff, and other agricultural events. The Board of Fisheries is also providing for visits to various establishments where equipment and modern methods of treating can be studied. It may be hoped also that the great Northern centres of manufacture will be seen, and that some of these factories will be opened up to selected parties. It is not merely a question of enlarging existing trade relations between the two countries, nor of giving fraternal hints to stimulate domestic trade in each country, but these movements may quicken ideas that may lead to some fresh ventures that will be of advantage to us all both sides. The magnificent fighting services of the Canadians, and their good comradeship on furlough, has done very much to bring the Old Country and the people of the Dominion, nearer to each other, and it is highly desirable that this should be followed up by the strengthening of ties while the soldiers are still in the Old Land.

A Bad Case.

Quite devoid of public spirit a gas well at Pelican Rapids, on the Athabasca river, is wasting about $400 worth of gas a day, throwing it carelessly into the air at the rate of nearly 4,000,000 cubic feet every 24 hours. For a period of 10 years this has defied all efforts to bottle up its riches for future use. Now, however, the Government has taken it in hand. Mr. H. L. Williams, of Edmonton, has been sent under instructions of the Department of the Interior to bring it under control. The result is still awaited.

Grand Canyon Rocks.

In the very bottom of the Grand canyon lie the dark, inconspicuous rocks, mostly tough crystalline granite gneiss and schist, the oldest in the canyon and among the oldest in the world. They were in part deposited as sands and muds in a sea, in part accumulated as lava flows and in part intruded beneath the surface as molten rock. All these materials became solidified, and later they were slowly heaved and crumpled into mountains, which were in time worn down by rain, rivers and perhaps the waves of the sea to a nearly level land surface. This surface finally sank beneath the sea and became the floor on which fresh sediments began to accumulate. Twice at least was this mighty cycle repeated in the Grand canyon region.

A Polite Doubt.

Herford was much impressed.

"How old did you say little Lena is?" he asked.

"Only three," answered the mother proudly.

"Do you know," said the humorist solemnly, "I have a suspicion that sometimes these children lie about their age."—McClure's Magazine.

Avoid Grouch and Live Long.

Writing for the Minneapolis Journal, A. J. R. notes the demise of a Seattle citizen one hundred and three years old, and suggests that one of the reasons why he lived so long was that he never grouched at the breakfast table or elsewhere. Discussing this, A. J. R. writes:

"The enjoyment of breakfast and of the sunrise always comes so easily to me that I sometimes wail in charity for persons who, I have been led to believe, start the generous day wrong by raising hades at the breakfast table. I will freely wager 75 cents that the Seattle centenarian who lived to be one hundred and three never lingered at breakfast, never complained of the food, nor sneered at his wife's cooking."

The aged Seattler ascribed his longevity to his own temper; he had not been angry since he was twenty, and had driven a yoke of oxen most of his life. Also, loved everybody, and everybody loved him.

He Hadn't Realized.

The custodian of an Indianapolis building recently hired a colored man, George, to work about the building. George had always worked as a "house man" and came well recommended. The first day of his employment, however, George was out for lunch the greater part of three hours.

The custodian was naturally annoyed. "Where in thunder have you been?" he inquired the minute he set eyes on the erring George. "Me? Why, I'se been home takin' a nap," George answered, in a surprised tone. "I always takes a nap in the middle of the day."

"Well, believe me," the custodian declared, "you don't do that any more You're needed around here."

"Well, now," he said slowly, "you'll have to excuse me this time, boss It's just that I didn't realize before how important I is around here."

Not a Bite of Breakfast Until You Drink Water

Says a glass of hot water and phosphate prevents illness and keeps us fit.

Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of incombustible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken day after day leaves in the alimentary canal a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not completely eliminated from the system each day, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels. From this mass of left-over waste, toxins and ptomain-like poisons are formed and sucked into the blood.

Men and women who can't get feeling right must begin to take inside baths. Before eating breakfast each morning drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash out of the thirty feet of bowels the previous day's accumulation of poisons and toxins and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick headache, colds, biliousness, constipation, others who wake up with bad taste, foul breath, backache, rheumatic stiffness, or have a sour, gassy stomach after meals, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store, and begin practicing internal sanitation. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.

Remember inside bathing is more important than outside bathing, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing poor health, while the bowel pores do. Just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate set on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

LOSS FROM LIGHTNING

Properly Rodded Buildings Alone Are Safe.

Rods May Be Installed by Farmer Himself Efficiently and Cheaply—Aluminum or Copper Material Should Be Used—Be Sure Rods Are Well Grounded.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

ACCOMPANYING the heated summer days are the numerous thunderstorms which infest the temperate regions of our continent, and it is then we need the proper answer to the question of practicability of lightning rods. Contemporaneous with this usually come the lightning rod agent and again a knowledge of the subject is necessary. To answer the question we can do no better than rely on the statistics of insurance companies. Reports from these in 1918 show that 76 per cent. of their risks were on rodded buildings. The total number of claims paid were 198, which amounted to $40,904.53 of these eight were rodded and damage done only $57.64. If the rods were no good then 76 per cent. of strokes should have been on rodded buildings, or, roughly, 50 strokes. In that year the insurance companies figured an efficiency of 99.7 per cent. In Iowa the efficiency run. 98.7 per cent. and in Michigan, where the rodding is inspected the efficiency is 99.9 per cent. From these we are forced to agree that lightning rods are a protection, and we must now consider where and how to rod.

During the year 1900 in U. S. A. the number of persons killed by lightning was 716, of which 291 were killed in the open, 168 in houses, 57 under trees, and 56 in barns, of the remainder the circumstances were unknown. From this it appears that it is more dangerous in the open than anywhere else. The reason of this probably is that the house, tree, etc., act as conductors and carry the charge directly to the ground without harming the occupants. Of those killed in the open the most were raised above their surroundings, on horse-back, a load of hay or an agricultural implement. In Schleswig-Holstein, for the years 1874 to 1883 summary reports show that yearly out of every million buildings, 549 ordinary buildings (houses, barns), 6,277 churches, 8,534 windmills, and 806 factories were struck. Naturally the total number of churches in that country are less than any other type of building and yet they were more often struck, which is due to their height and especially of their spire. Thus all high or projecting objects are more liable to be struck and hence should be rodded.

A lightning rod is merely a metallic rod sunk in damp earth and terminating in a point or points above a projecting structure. Now unlike charges of electricity attract, thus the charge of the cloud attracts the oppositely induced charge on the earth up through the rod to the point where it slowly leaks off into the air about it and thus ionizes it. This ionized or charged air now exists within a field of electrical force which causes a current of electricity to travel slowly through the atmosphere to the cloud which tends to neutralize the charge on the cloud above the building and hence prevents a discharge. However, the discharge is not always prevented as lightning sometimes acts with a "freak nature" and a discharge occurs between the clouds and the lightning rod. This is due to a reversed condition being very suddenly brought about by induction and the slow transfer of electricity through the air has not time to discharge the cloud before the flash takes place. It is now that improper installation proves disastrous. Hence careful inspection by the owner at the time of installation is most essential.

Rods should preferably be aluminum or copper, as these do not rust easily, and weight about three ounces per running foot. There should be a continuous rod starting in moist earth about eight to ten feet below the surface and running up the corner of the building to the eave, hence along the slant edge of the roof to the peak and along the ridge to the other end, and down the opposite slant side again to the eave, and thence to damp ground. This conductor should be fastened firmly to the structure by metallic fasteners and not insulated from it. It should also be protected to a height of eight or ten feet above ground by nailing a board over it to prevent cattle from disturbing it in any way. Metallic nickel pointed uprights about five feet high are soldered and braced firmly to the conducting rod running along the ridge and placed about 20 or 30 feet apart.

In the case of a house, an upright should extend a short way above each chimney and should be bent in, so that the point would project above the centre of the flue to prevent a discharge passing down the chimney by the fairly good conductors, the heated air and soot. On a barn a rod also should extend above each ventilator outlet. All weather vanes, finials, ridge ironwork, eavestroughs, metal hay-tracks, and even litter carrier tracks, if close to the conductor, should be soldered to the conductor. In fact, all masses of metal of any size should be connected to the rod or grounded well, as in these induced currents may be set up by a discharge, which in jumping from one piece to another may come in contact with some inflammable material.

Good lightning rods bought from a reliable firm properly installed will not only decrease your insurance premiums, but insure you against an enormous danger and expense.—R. C. Moffat, B.S.A., O. A. College, Guelph.

Cameras Banned at Front.

One of the most disappointing things to Canadians at the front was the ban upon cameras which prevented them from having snaps of themselves taken at war and sent to folks at home. Thus, priceless little souvenirs showing them in the trenches and depicting their rest billets in the French and Belgian villages to their friends and relatives in Canada were denied them.

When the first Canucks reached the front cameras, if not encouraged were at least tolerated, but a few months later an order came out demanding that every camera be turned in. Commanders of each unit were required to collect the cameras and to make periodical reports to headquarters.

Possession of a camera was made a court-martial offence which increased in gravity as the months passed For, innocent as was the average snapshot, some, if discovered upon a captured man, would certainly have given the enemy valuable information about our positions. Strangely enough, though the British laid such stress upon this, the French and Belgians allowed men to use cameras at will.

He was a daring man who disobeyed the order to turn over his camera Notwithstanding, a few cameras were used clandestinely, right through the war, and the pictures the lenses of these pocket recorders chronicled are doubtless highly prized by their owners. Though latterly the official photographers were very active, the photos they took lacked the intimacy of the private snaps taken at great risk by private individuals.

Now that the war is well over it seems likely that a number of these photos, taken without the knowledge or consent of the army authorities, will see the light of day. Some few which were obviously taken on the sly have already appeared in newspapers, books and periodicals.

ECONOMIES IN THE BRIDGE EXPLAINED BY MR. BARBER

PROPOSES A METHOD OF SECURING CHIPPED GRANITE FINISH AT THE SAME TIME SAVING $2,500—ALSO SUGGESTS "SPILL OVER" INSTEAD OF PART OF RETAINING WALL THAT WOULD SAVE $1,900.

BOARD OF WORKS IMPRESSED

Several minor alterations in the Hunter street bridge plans were submitted to the Board of Works last night by Mr. Frank Barber, the citys' designing engineer. One of them involved the chipped granite finish, which the committee had previously decided to dispense with. It will be remembered that, when Council was paring from the plans, trimmings, and other features which it was thought would not be required, it was decided to eliminate the granite finish except in the railings. As was then explained the small pieces of broken granite were put in the concrete forms so as to become the exterior of the finished work. Afterwards when the concrete had set the thin outside layer would be chipped off, leaving the pieces of granite. This finish, it was pointed out, would give a touch of beauty to the design and appearance of the bridge.

However, the committee decided that there was economy in a simpler finish. They desired the hand railing and all the parts above the floor to retain the chipped granite finish, but below the floor that is on the outside walls and in the soffits or underside of the arches it was agreed that the concrete should be rubbed and let go at that.

A Hybrid Finish

Mr. Barber prodded the imagination of the committee last night, endeavouring to picture to them the appearance of the bridge with chipped granite in the handrails and in the rest of the deck to the floor and then a sudden and complete change to the rubbed concrete. It was like a man dressed up in evening clothes but wearing a pair of overalls, he said. Such a finish was a hybrid that would certainly not be pleasing when completed.

Continuing, he stated, that he had been considering this point and offered an alterative that would give a granite finish to the entire exterior and at the same time save the city about $2,500.

Soffits Are Not Exposed

He proposed that instead of rubbing the concrete in the soffits of the arches that they be left untouched just as they appear when the forms are removed. Mr. Barber urged that there was no need of spending money on this part of the bridge. The underside of the arches were in the shadows and would not be seen by the passing public. Hence, he said that a considerable saving could be made by eliminating this work.

This economy, however, enables the Council to provide for a granite finish on the exterior upright walls of the bridge, which would be exposed to the public. This would complete the granite finish from the railing down to the junction with the foundation. In other words the bridge would have the appearance of a granite finish throughout. There would be no break at the floor line. Mr. Barber also advised that the arches be finished in this same way in an outside strip of about eighteen inches. Passersby would notice the outer parts of the soffits, and the first view would be a granite finish uniform throughout. Only the eighteen inch band on the outside of the arches would require to be finished in this way to secure the desired effect of harmony.

Saving of $2,500

This change in the finish could be effected and the saving to the city Mr. Barber assured the Board would be at least $2,500, due to the fact that the most of the concrete rubbing was in the soffits of the arches which would be dispensed with according to his suggestion.

Ald. McIntyre—"You simply eliminate the finish in the soffits and put the finish out where it will be seen.

Ald. Crowe—"Is it necessary to go ahead with this now?"

Ald. McIntyre—"If it is going to save us $2,500 and make the bridge look better I think we ought to accept it at once."

Mr. Townsend, representing the contractors did not oppose the idea, but asked for an opportunity to figure the costs closely. He believed that he might be able to buy the granite cheaper than Mr. Barber's quotations, but he wasn't sure.

Incidentally Mr. Townsend remarked that this wasn't the only item in which it was hoped a saving could be made for the city.

Ald. Phelan said that he thought the changes in the bridge had all been determined. Mr. Barber's proposals seemed to be going back to them again.

Mr. Barber explained the features of his alternative and Ald. McIntyre said that there seemed to be no reason why this suggestion should not be approved at once.

It was decided not to take any action until Mr. Towsend's report on the alteration was received.

Panelling is Needed.

Mr. Barber also informed the Council that the elimination of the panelling in the arch might require a re-analysis of it, thereby entailing changes in the form work. He suggested that in view of probable extra engineering work it would be as cheap, if not cheaper, to leave the panelling as planned. The saving by the proposed elimination would be only two or three hundred dollars, and the engineering work involved in the re-analysis of the arch might exceed that amount.

Mr. Townsend said that his company had figured on a saving of about $900 by doing away with the panelling.

The Board adopted this proposal by Mr. Barber in a motion by Ald. Hamilton, seconded by Ald. McIntyre.

Another Saving.

Mr. Barber also recommended that instead of erecting the full length of the south retaining wall on the west approach, a spill-over or "slop-over" be substituted. He estimated a saving by that means of 70 yards of concreet. Mr. Barber said he expected that some time the city would become dissatisfied with the four per cent. grade which had been substituted by the Council as a means of shortening the approach, and would eventually decide to adopt the original level grade from the crown of Hunter street. If the retaining wall was built now it would prohibit changing of the grade. The proposed spill over was simply building a bank on the south side of the west end of the bridge. For some distance this would permit the levelling of the lots with the spill over which would be gradually increased in height as the slope of the street was descended. This "slop over" bank could be seeded similar to the railway banks and would be protected against washouts by rain. Adopting this plan the city could build up the original level approach whenever it was desired.

Both Mr. Barber and Mayor Duncan reported favourable concessions that had been proposed by Mr. Ireland of the Hydro-Electric Commission and Sir Adam Beck.

Will Seek Confirmation.

The Board decided to defer action upon this proposal until the offer of the Hydro-Electric Commission for "spilling over" on to their property was confirmed in writing. Mr. Barber proffereda plan of this alteration which a deputation will lay before Sir Adam Beck for his approval. Mr. Barber emphasized the saving that would accrue from the spill over. The amount might exceed $1,000.

A resolution was passed providing for the acceptance of the plans as amended from time to time, including the substitution of the platform to the Quaker Oats Company instead of the ramp.

As a result of the changes desired by the Council, some of the blue prints would have to be retraced, Mr. Barber announced. To Ald. Phelan he replied that he could not give an estimate of the cost of this engineering work, but he added that it would not be, a large sum.

LEMON JUICE FOR FRECKLES

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes disappear and how clear, soft and rosy-white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless and never irritates.

PRESENTATION TO REV. FATHER MEAGHER ON EVE OF DEPARTURE FOR IRELAND

BRANCH OF THE HOLY NAME SOCIETY FORMED IN LAKEFIELD —THE ADDRESS.

On Sunday evening a branch of the Holy Name Society was formed at St. Paul's Church, Lakefield. Rev. J. V. McAuley, Division Director for Peterborough, delivered an eloquent and inspiring sermon on the objects and aims of the Holy Name Society. Forty-five members were enrolled. The following officers were elected: Spiritual director, Rev. Father Meagher; president, Mr. Martin Coughlin; treasurer, Mr. Austin Hogan; secretary, Mr. Wm. Webb.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, the members of the Holy Name Society, St. Mary's Church, Young's Point, presented a purse and the following address to Rev. Father Meagher:

Rev. and Dear Father,

We, the members of the Holy Name Society of Young's Point, learning with regret of your sudden call to the bedside of your good mother, take this opportunity of expressing our sincere sympathy, and trust that God will spare her till your arrival in Ireland.

Before embarking on this long and tedious journey, we wish you to accept this small purse as a token of the esteem in which you are held by the members of this society.

Wishing you a most successful voyage and a speedy return to the parish in which you have laboured so successfully for the past five years

Signed on behalf of the Holy Name Society.

P. P. Young, President.
P. A. Kearney, Secretary.
Wm. McFarlane, Treasurer.

Rev. Father Meagher replied in feeling terms to the address, and referred to the unbreakable and imperishable bonds that so firmly bind together priest and people, and said that on this occasion one link more was added to the golden chain of religion, fidelity, and love.

Short addresses were delivered by Revs. J. V. McAuley, J. J. O'Brien, and (Captain) P. Costello. The proceedings terminated with the singing of the hymn, "Holy God, we Praise Thy Name."

Rev. Father Meagher leaves for New York on Thursday next, and will sail on the Adriatic on 9th August.

AUTOMOBILE PICKED OFF WAGGON WHEEL

Driving north on Aylmer street yesterday afternoon about three o'clock J. Stevenson, 198 Aylmer street, while watching to avoid a street car, ran into John Douros' deilvery waggon, which was standing on the west side of the street just above the Charlotte street corner. The automobile picked off the hind wheel of the waggon, damaged the rear spring and part of the bottom. Stanley Black was in charge of the delivery waggon. According to the police report Mr. Stevenson promised to pay for the damage.

A REMARKABLE BANK BOOK.

A few days ago a man in Toronto presented a bank pass book to the office of the Home Bank of Canada there, which was issued by the thirty-nine years ago, and had never been entered up. But the account was there with interest added regularly every six months, and after about an hour's work to have the entries made, he was pleased to discover that his account was seven times the original deposit. This is probably a record in pass book history.

The J. C. TURNBULL COMPANY, Limited

SIR SAM HUGHES INVITED TO OPEN THE NEW LAKEFIELD MEMORIAL HALL

BUILDING WILL BE COMPLETED BY THE NEW YEAR---INJUNCTION THREATENED.

LAKEFIELD, July 29.—In spite of insistent rumours of injunctions to be issued to stop the building of the Memorial Town Hall at present under course of construction in Lakefield the work on the building is proceeding as rapidly as Mr. Abel Hendren, the contractor, can put it through. The threats of injunctions it was stated yesterday at the office of the contractor, come from farmers who object to the increased taxation caused by the expenditure represented in the building of the Hall. It is also claimed that the building should have been postponed until such a date as the cost of supplies and labor became lower.

The Hall.

The hall as shown in the blue prints furnished by the architect is a splendid two storey red brick building standing at the highest peak 68 feet high, with the tower which is 22 feet from the roof. The foundation is built of rock faced concrete and the first storey of 17 inch brick, the second storey of 14 inch brick, and from the ceiling of the second storey to the roof 9 inch brick. On the bottom storey a fire hall 40 feet 6 inches by 20 feet will be fitted out with the latest fire fighting apparatus. The Council Chamber is also included on the lower floor with an office fitted up in modern fashion for the Town Clerk, Mr. Wesley Sherin. The latter is an innovation as the old hall, burnt last winter did not contain any facilities for the Clerk. The Public Library and cell will also be situated in the lower floor of the new building. The second storey will furnish a splendid dance and concert hall which will have a good sized platform and will be furnished with all modern conveniences.

The Cost.

The contractors who are rushing the work through as quickly as possible expect to complete the hall about the first of the year and expect to keep practically within the original estimate of the cost which was $16,000 with the $4,000 the Council had on hand. The twenty laborers at present engaged in the work of putting up the foundation are receiving 30 cents an hour for a ten hour day. There is the only department of the work on the Hall which will not be done on contract. Mr. Hendren said yesterday that by night the contracts for the stone work, carpentering etc., would be in and opened later in the week. Stone masons, brick layers and carpenters will be paid at the rate of 60 cents an hour, and the helpers on the work at the rate of 30 cens an hour.

Local Labor

Local Labor is being employed as far as possible in the building and the Contractor expects to put the plumbing and tinsmith work through by a Lakefield firm but anticipates calling in help from Peterboro for the carpentering, stone adn brick work.

The Opening.

The completed hall bearing the inscription Memorial Hall 1914-1919 will be opened some time in the New Year and in the mean time on a day still to be made and to be celebrated a Lakefield's Civic Holiday.. General Sir Sam Hughes will be invited to lay the corner stone of the building On the same day the town expects to have a big regatta to celebrate the occasion.

$39,990 IS ESTIMATED COST OF PAVING, ETC.

would be laid in the near fnture. South of Romaine street to the Exhibition park the street has been graded and rolled.

Mayor Duncan reported that this section is in excellent condition ,but Ald. Edgar remarked that if the street railway extensions are proceeded with the line will be continued south to Lansdowne street and east to Lock street, thereby undoing the work that was completed a short time ago. With this alteration in the street railway the present route by way of Romaine and Lock to Lansdowne would be superfluous and would be removed.

Aylmer Street $31,822.00.

At the request of Ald. Phelan, City Engineer Parsons also prepared a report on the cost of paving Aylmer street from Charlotte street to the C. P.R. For this street he suggests a concrete pavement with the following estimates:

"This is one of the most heavily travelled streets in the city, and in my opinion should be paved. I would recommend that a concrete pavement with concrete curbs be laid on this street with a width of 30 feet. This will accommodate four lines of traffic which I think is sufficient for a great many years to come.

The estimated cost of this pavement per foot run is $12.16. The cost per foot frontage is estimated at $4.00 a foot and the annual charge per year for 10 years is estimated at 46 cents. The length of this section of street is 2,140 feet. The estimated cost of the pavement is $27,000.00. The estimated cost of surface drainage is $4,500 making the total cost of this section $31,822.00."

Sewer Must Be Rebuilt.

Mayor Duncan observed that before Aylmer street can be paved a new sewer will have to be built.

"We've got to have a larger sewer on Aylmer street," he said. "We may have a build a trunk sewer However, it is alright to have figures."

"We may have to divert a lot of the sewage to Park street," Mr. Parsons added.

West End Pavments.

The City Engineer also presented estimates of the cost of paving Gilmour and Weller streets. Ald. Phelan explained that he had asked for this report at the reques of some of the citizens in the west end who had suggested permanent roadways.

Mr. Parsons' report on these streets follows:

Gilmour Street.

The pavement on Gilmour street would be 24 feet wide between curbs. There would be concrete curbs and gutters constructed and the roadway itself would consist of an asphaltic top at least 2 1-2 inches in thickness laid on the old road bed which would previously have been brought to the correct grade and thoroughly rolled. This type of construction has been used with satisfaction in some cities. Properly constructed, this type of pavement should last at least ten years, although I would not recommend that the debentures be issued for more than five years. The cost of this pavement per running foot would be about $7.76 and the cost per foot frntage $6.80. The estimated cost per foot frontage is $3.80. The estimated cost per foot frontage per year for 5 years is 84 cents. The total cost of the pavement would be $16,530.00. The surface drainage would cost $2,700, making the total cost of this work $18,200. The length is about 1,950 feet.

Weller Street, $21,376.

On Weller street the same type of construction is suggested with the exception that the roadway would be 20 feet wide. The only reason for making this roadway thirty feet wide is that there is a considerable amount of curb already constructed on different sections of this street which could be utilized with this width.

The cost per foot run of this pavement on Weller street would be about $9.00. The cost per foot frontage would be about $3.00 and the annual payment per foot frontage per year for five years would be 70 cents. The total estimated cost of this pavement is $10,976. The cost of surface drainage is estimated at $8,500, making a total cost of $21,376."

Referring to the prospect of paving Gilmour street, Mayor Duncan pointed out that the sewer on at least half that street would have to be rebuilt.

The consensus of the Board favoured paving George street this year. As already mentioned the street has not been repaired because of the proposals of permanent improvements. The Board recognizes the present condition of the street, but accounts for it by the likelihood of laying an asphaltic pavement.

Heals Inflamed Nostrils Stops Catarrhal Discharge, Cures Colds Quickly

Poor remedies have given Catarrh the reputation of being incurable. But it is curable, easily and quickly, if the right method is employed. Snuffing a powder or ointment up the nose won't cure Catarrh, neither will tablets, douching, or stomach medicine cure. These treatments fail because they only affect local conditions, that do not remove the cause, which is germ life established in the lungs, bronchial tubes, and nasal passages. Ordinary remedies do not reach the seat of the trouble, the remote parts, but Catarrhozone does, for it is breathed through the inhaler into every air cell in the lungs, into every air passage in the head and throat. No matter where the Catarrh is Catarrhozone will reach it. It kills the germs, heals sore spots, clears the nose and throat instantly. Universally used; pleasant and clean; guaranteed to cure or money refunded.

Don't be an object of aversion to everyone you meet—get Catarrhozone to-day and use it regularly; it will cure your Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Trouble, spitting and coughing. The large size lasts two months, price $1.00, smaller size, 50c. sample size, 25c. at all dealers.

WILL BE ABSENT FROM CITY FOR TWO OR THREE WEEKS.

Canon Davidson left for Apsley at noon to-day, where he begins a tour of northern mission circles lasting between two and three weeks. He will address a meeting in Apsley this evening, afterwards visiting different points in the mission and going on to Cardiff and Monmouth, Minden and other points. His work finished Canon Davidson will take a short rest. During his absence from the city his work will be taken by Rev. H. F. Battersby of Caledon East. Mr. Battersby will reside in Otonabee and can be reached by telephone for parochial calls. He expects to arrive towards the end of this week.

MAY ALLISON NEARLY SHIPWRECKED IN STORM

May Allison, the vivacious star of "The [illegible]," the clever Metro [illegible] shown at the Grand [illegible] on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, was one of the principals in a three-day engagement, narrowly missed being shipwrecked while making the production.

Miss Allison, director Henry Otto and a large company of players, were returning from the island of Santa Cruz where many scenes for the play had been made.

They were aboard the yacht Pahr, and had had splendid weather up to within a day of their arrival in Los Angeles. Twenty-four hours out, however, a terrible storm blew up which almost wrecked the staunch little boat and which succeeded in damaging her so badly that she had to put into a sheltered harbour until calmer weather would permit all repairs.

ALD. M'INTYRE SUGGESTS BUYING PAVING PLANT FOR PETERBOROUGH

STANDARD PAVING COMPANY'S REPAIR GANG WILL BE HERE ON WEDNESDAY — MR. BREYFOGLE URGES REPAIR OF PAVEMENTS.

A letter from W. R. Breyfogle to the Board of Works last night, calling attention to the slices taken from the pavement in many parts of the city and intimating that the leakage of water would seriously impair the foundations, was anticipated by a telegram from Mr. Driscoll, of the Standard Paving Company, announcing that a repair gang would arrive in Peterborough on Wednesday of this week to patch and restore the pavement wherever needed.

Previous letters from Mr. Gleason and Mr. Driscoll explained the cause of the company's delay in responding to the requsts of the Council to proceed to this work. The Paving Company had been unavoidably prevented from coming here earlier, but they were making this trip before proceeding to Lindsay.

Ald. McIntyre suggested that the Council might profitably consider the purchase of a paving plant of its own. City Engineer Parsons said it would cost from $18,000 to $25,000. The proposal was not abandoned, but discussion was postponed until a later meeting.

TOO MUCH FOR THEM.

Halifax Chinamen Make Failure of Elaborate Restaurant Project.

HALIFAX.—The career of the Silver Grill, a Chinese restaurant in this city, shows that there is a limit to high costs of operation and equipment beyond which even the cautious and economical celestial cannot go and succeed. The Silver Grill was opened three or four months ago on Barrington street, in its most expensive section. It was fitted up elaborately and started with a swing. But the rent they had to pay for a second floor was $4,000 a year, and all other expenses were on a similar scale. The two Chinamen who launched the place had been in the laundry business and when they saw what other Chinamen were doing in a smaller way with restaurants, they ventured in on a big scale, forgetting that costs were enormously higher for them than for the others. Nearly $16,000 was spent in decorating the place; the $4,000 of rent is said to have been paid in advance, and bills ran up faster than revenues enabled the owners to meet them. The consequence was that creditors, some of whom had claims for more than $1,000 each, applied to the court to have the business put into liquidation, and the Eastern Trust Company was named as liquidator. The Chinamen came out of the experience sadder and no doubt, wiser men.

HOW FRENCH CROWDS TREAT PROFITEERS

DEMONSTRATIONS IN CITIES CAUSE SELLERS TO CUT PRICES IN HALF.

PARIS, July 29. — Further instances have been reported of the public takin gtheir own emsaures against profiteering by retailers. A grocer in the poor quarter of Montmarte, seeing the rush of purchasers for chicken and rabbit at three francs (75 centimes) a pound, marked up the price in front of customers to four francs.

The crowd resented this action and sacked the shop, a few minutes sufficing to clear out the grocer's stock of chickens, rabbits, melons, and other eatables. The shuters of the shop were lowered with the aid of four policemen and the crowd was driven to the street.

At Dunkirk, Northern France, the spinners, who are striking as a protest against the high cost of living, made a demonstration in the market place yesterday. So efective was the demonstration that sellers lowered their prices by one-half. Similar action was taken by the people of Rouen last week with similar results. The demonstrators in these towns offered no violence. Their mere presence in the streets in numbers was sufficient to bring reward to their efforts.

Twice lately proprietors of merry-go-rounds at pleasure fairs in Paris seeing crowds flocking to them to take rides, continued to raise the prices until the people wrecked the machinery.

TREATY SUBMITTED THIS AFTERNOON

PRESIDENT SENT IT ALONG BY SPECIAL MESSENGER.

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 29. — President Wilson to-day transmitted to the Senate the special treaty with France by which the United States pledges itself to come immediately to the aid of the republic in the event of an unprovoked attack by Germany, and asked for its early ratification, "along with the treaty with Germany." Submission of the treaty came after sharp criticism by the Senate Republicans who for several days had openly charg edon the Senate floor that in failing to present the draft of the pact along with the Treaty of Versailles, the President had violated one of the articles of the document. The President did not follow the usual custom of submitting the treaty in person. He sent it by the regular mail by special messenger along with a message explaining the reason.

HUSBAND AND WIFE CAUGHT CHEATING AT CARDS

John Moran, Western Millionaire, Uses This Discovery To Further His Own Interests.

When Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Duncan became unusually coarse with their cheating at cards, by means of which they made enough money to live on, John Moran, their principal victim, caught them in the act. But Moran did not immediately accuse them of cheating. He held this knowledge until the time that he thought was the most propitious for his own purposes, and then he used it in a striking, unusual manner.

Things then happened quickly. And all that happened was interesting, as those who see "The Bluffer" will realize. "The Bluffer" is the title of the new World Picture in which June Elvidge is to star. Frank Mayo appears in this production in the role of Wallace Duncan. Irving Cummings is seen in the important character of Richard Vaughan, while George MacQuarrie and Muriel Ostriche also have big parts in this attraction.

The story of "The Bluffer" was written by Clara S. Beranger, who also made the continuity for the picture, and in penning this play Miss Beranger has devised an exceedingly interesting and entertaining picture—the sort of a picture you remember for along time after seeing it.

"The Bluffer" has been given a splendid production by World-Pictures, and from every angle it stacks up as one of the most entertaining and interesting films of the season.

Grand Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

DON'T THROW AWAY YOUR OLD SHOES

I Can Make Your Old Shoes Last Longer, and Save You the Price of a New Pair

SHOE PRICES are soaring higher than ever before. In these days, economical people are turning to the shoe repair man for a remedy against expensive shoe leather.

I am advising customers that if they take my advice I can save them the cost of a new pair of leather shoes.

HOW? This is my plan: If the leather uppers are good, I make a NEW WELT and put on a new pair of half soles. This gives you as good a pair of leather shoes as a new pair, and in some cases better, because the leather in the old uppers is often better than the leather now used in new shoes.

THE WELT IS THE LIFE OF THE SHOE. What is the Welt? In Shoemaking a WELT is a narrow strip of strong leather sewed around a shoe that holds the upper leather and the insoles.

With a new welt and a new pair of soles you have as good a pair of leather shoes as you can buy now for $9 or $10.

A broken seam, a worn sole, an uneven heel—these are but excuses for throwing away old shoes. With my shoe-craft knowledge I can restore their good looks and give you a good pair of shoes at a trifling cost that all can afford.

I am advising customers to send in their sole-worn shoes before the Fall, and have them repaired in this way now, instead of having to buy a new pair at the present high prices.

Come in and I will explain my process and show you how it will pay you not to throw away your old shoes.

FARMER GETS $3,728 FOR HIS 71 PIGS.

WINDSOR, July 29.—Elgin Gilmore, a thrifty Grand Marais farmer, was short of cash on Saturday, and so he sold his 71 hogs to A. J. Green, a Windsor produce buyer, receiving the tidy sum of $3,728.40 for the piggies. The price, 24 cents a pound, is believed to be the highest price ever paid for pork on hoof in Western Ontario.

ANOTHER WIN FOR BRITTON

SECURED A VERDICT OVER TED LEWIS.

(Special to the Examiner.)

JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 29. — Champion Jack Britton gained another verdict last night over Ted Lewis, challenger for the welter weight crown. Britton forced the fighting from the first and was held even in only one round—the first. It was the twentieth meeting of the pair.

LEARNING TO DRIVE CAR WAS SMASHED

Dan Whitmore accepted all the blame for the damage to his automobile to-day, according to the report to the police by Mr. Davies, who was in charge of the street car that bumped him above London Street.

In extenuation of his liability for the accident, Mr. Whitmore admitted that he was just learning to drive the automobile, and the circumstances of the affair are eloquent evidence in support of his statement. For Mr. Whitmore was driving up George Street on the west side of the street, and more than that, he attempted to cut across to the east side in front of the street car. A rear wheel and fender were smashed and the back of the car was dented.

FLUSHING OF STREETS UNDER CONSIDERATION

City Engineer Parsons was asked for a report by the Council last night on the nightly flushing of the pavement on George Street from King to London Streets, Charlotte Street from Water to Park Streets, and Hunter Street from Queen to Stewart Streets, and the other pavements three nights a week.

In addition to the three silver cups to the Doris triplets, the Council also decided to give Mrs. Doris a ten-dollar gold piece, suitably engraved. This additional gift was approved in a motion by Ald. Gainey, seconded by Ald. Crowe.

CRACK MOOSE TEAM TO PLAY PETES HERE

The Peterboro fans are to have an opportunity on Monday evening next, Aug. 4th, of comparing the quality of ball played in the Central League with that shown in the Toronto City League, when the Moose team, champions of the Toronto Western City Leagues, will meet the Petes at Riverside Park, at 6.30 o'clock. The Moose outfit cinched the honours in their league on Saturday. They have triumphed over last year's Ontario champions, the Hillcrests, in their own league, and now are looking forward to winning in the Provincial competition. The game with Peterboro will give a good chance to get a line on this crack team. "Lefty" Hardman, star southpaw of the Moose, will be set against the Petes while other well known players who will be seen here, are Jackie Spanton, who played first base for the Hillcrests here last year, and an old Peterboro boy, Herbie Bellegham, who is one of the Western City League's most dangerous sluggers. The game should be a great exhibition.

CHINESE DOCTORS.

Their Weird Ideas About Disease and Its Remedies.

PUNCH HOLES IN PATIENTS.

To Perform This Operation They Use Eight Different Styles of Needles, Some Two Feet Long, and the Bigger the Punch the Greater the Doctor.

The bigger the needle with which a Chinese doctor punctures his patient the higher the charge, for the bigger the needle the more distinguished is the physician. If the doctor wears a straw hat, that signifies he is a prosperous doctor and his charge is a little more. If he comes in a sedan, the patient must pay for the chair.

Dr. Franz Otto Koch, writing in the Popular Science Monthly, gives a description of the Chinese physician and how he practices.

"The native Chinese doctor is a curiosity," writes Dr. Koch. "He passes no examination; he requires no qualifications; he may have failed in business and set up as a physician. In his new profession he requires little stock in trade, medical instruments being almost unknown.

"Acupuncture, as it is called, is one of the nine branches recognized in medical science among the Chinese. It is of most ancient origin, having been in use from time immemorial. There are 587 markings to be learned. Every square inch on the human surface has its own name, and some relation to the internal parts, purely imaginary, is assigned to it. The user is cautioned against wounding the arteries; hence he must know the position of the blood vessels. By close study of a manikin pierced with holes the Chinese physician learns where to drive his needles. Parts of the body are selected which may be pierced without fatal results. Sometimes heat is applied to the outer end of the needle, and this is called a hot acupuncture, but the needle is never heated before insertion.

"The needle used looks very much like a sewing machine needle, but it is longer and coarser. Some of the Chinese doctors have needles two feet long and are supposed by ardent admirers to be able to drive these instruments entirely through the patient's body. The great size of the needles is in reality intended to represent the greatness of the owner's skill and reputation. The needles used are of eight forms, as follows: The arrowhead, blunt puncturing, spear pointed, fusiform, round, capillary, long and thick. The point of insertion, the depth and direction are all important. The method is usually to drive the needle through the distended skin by a blow from a light mallet.

"If he can get an old book of prescriptions from a retiring practitioner so much the better for the Chinese doctor. He is now equipped to kill or cure, as chance or his ignorance may dictate. The doctor most entitled to confidence in the sight of his countrymen is the man whose father has been a doctor before him. Confidence in him knows no bounds should his grandfather have followed the same calling. This is not mere fatuous belief in heredity, but is based on the supposed value of old prescription books passed on from grandfather to grandson.

"Fees vary according to the physician's social class and that of his patients and also according to the physical ... The enormous sum of perhaps 15 American cents or half a dollar at the most may be charged for a visit if the doctor comes in a sedan chair. Of this amount a large proportion goes for the chair. Should the doctor belong to the humbler ranks and come on foot his fee is proportionately less. He assumes a solemn air and owl-like look as he peers out of the semidarkness of a Chinese bedroom through great goggle shaped glasses—two inches across and set in huge uncouth copper frame.

"Most important in diagnosing a case, according to Chinese ideas, is the feeling of the different pulses of the human system. The pulse at each wrist is felt. By these feeling the pulses the status of a doctor real or imaginary organs are determined. Having thus learned by the pressure at these pulses the seat of the disease, a few questions may be asked, but these are considered scarcely necessary. A prescription sometimes calling for the most horrible and nauseating compounds is prepared in large doses, for the native believes that the larger the dose the more likely it is to prove efficacious. In prescribing for natives the foreign doctors have to give the strictest injunctions that the paper box in which the pills are contained is not to be swallowed.

"The manner in which the Chinese treat their physicians is characteristic. Should a speedy cure not result from the doctor's treatment the patient calls in another. If he does not improve he calls in a third. Thus the medical skill of the whole neighborhood may be drawn upon."

THE MINSTREL JOY.

It does not need the passing of George Primrose to tell us of the death of that well-remembered joy, the minstrel show. Several recent musical comedies have interpolated "minstrel" scenes, with middle man and end man as of yore and row over row of burnt cork faces rising amphitheatrically above them. But the grace of the day that is dead never comes back. Most emphatically, the fault does not lie in aging risibilities, nor yet, in the dry-top baldness of the unique minstrel joke. The old minstrel show was wittier than the modern imitation, even when due allowance is made for things seen in the dark backward and abysm of time; but it was not verbal antics that made its memories forever golden. Wit is the smallest part of your true low comedy, an almost negligible incident. The essence of comedy is character, the revelation of the sensative human ego traversed by the grim, insensate facts of life. Was it George Primrose who told how he stole the widow's flapjacks while she made love to him? It doesn't matter; Haverly, Thatcher, West or Dockstader could have acted the little scene as well. While Cleopatra enveloped him in her serpentine charms he deposited flapjack after flapjack in his silk hat, with wads of butter and portions of New Orleans mollasses in between. But when he slapped his hat on his head to go, she clinched him in a final embrace and the ooze trickled down about his ear and upon his cheek. In his startled, guilty eye, Love's perfidy stood revealed. The thing was done with one battered tile, a few gestures, fewer words, and, of course, with no crudely visible widow; but the joy of it is still tremulous in the midriff. Negro character has never been warmer, richer, more deeply delightful, than in the old minstrel show.

Who shall say why fashions in the theatres so gloriously and so lamentably cease? Changes in our kaleidoscopic population have apparently something to do with it. The civil war intensified interest in the negro. Then came the Irish invasion, conducted by Harrigan and Hart, whose masterpieces culminated in the dramatic "rally" of a running fight between shillalah and razor. The shillalah always conquered; but its triumph was short lived. Other things came into favor. It is all so gradual that one scarcely realizes what is happening until some well-remembered favorite makes his final exit. —

(Canadian Press.)

CHICAGO, Ill., July 29.—A vicious race fight broke out in the county jail shortly after eleven o'clock. The whites outnumbered the blacks by twenty to ten and the guards were swept aside when they tried to stifle the trouble at its start. Twenty-four are now dead as the result of the last three days' riots.

LAKEFIELD NEWS

BOAT CAPSIZED.

On Sunday afternoon the sailing dinghy belonging to Mr. J. S. Knapman, of Toronto, capsized on Stoney Lake near Mount Julian. A jolly party of young people who were in it at the time apparently rather enjoyed the ducking.

On Thursday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Goodger, of Rochester, who are guests at Viamede, entertained a party of their Viamede friends to a shore dinner party at Indian River. The party was a congenial one, and the afternoon passed very pleasantly. The following were invited: Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Shaw, Mr. R. M. Geary and Mr. W. P. Martin, of Rochester, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar McConkey and Mr. Louis Doreens, of Toronto, Miss Margaret Ralston of Pittsburg, and Miss Hughes, of Jersey City.

Mrs. Edith G. O'Daniel, Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Truel, Rochester; Mr. F. W. Hunter and Mr. W. P. Martin, of Rochester; Dr. and Mrs. D. E. Taylor, Miss M. M. Bertram, and Miss Monta Bertram, of Tillsonburg; Mr. Jahn Mason, Peterborough; Charlotte, Helen, and Katherine Wemer, Rochester; Ruth, Margaret, and Bertha Tait, Ottawa; Mr. C. A. Douglas, Mrs. Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. K. McHarg, and Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Banks, of Toronto; Mr. H. D. Gordon, East Orange, N. J.; Mr. C. J. Jackson, Chicago; Wm. A. Roos and A. Romeriel, Toronto; Clarkson Huribut, E. Heise, and A. Wylie, Preston; Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Tegcoat, Pittsburg; A. C. Jeffcoat, New York.

Lawn Social.

The Epworth League of the Methodist church held a lawn social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Stabler on Tuesday evening last. The evening was very pleasant and the gratifying sum of $80 was realized.

STONEY LAKE.

Mr. W. G. Ogilvie, who is camping at Mt. Julian, spent the week-end in Lakefield.

Mr. Wm. Shewen of Burleigh Falls, was at Mt. Julian on Sunday.

Mr. Eddie and Masters George and Dwight Hutchison are camping at Sawlog bay at Mt. Julian.

Mrs. James Downing, of Apsley, was the guest of friends at Mt. Julian on Sunday.

GREAT SHIPMENT OF EGGS DECAYING ON GENOA DOCK.

GENOA, July 28. — Five million eggs brought here by the American steamship Sun early in the month, have since been decaying on the dock. The port authorities say they understand the eggs were consigned to Switzerland and it is not known what has caused the delay in transhipment, except continued labor agitation.

The consignment was 20 days in reaching Genoa and arrived during during the days of the food shortage in Genoa which resulted in disorders. The municipal authorities learned of the arrival of the shipment but were unable to take over the eggs. They have now requisitioned them, however and will sell the eggs to the best advantage.

ITALY TO RESUME TRADE WITH FORMER ENEMIES.

ROME, July 28. — The Italian Government is preparing a decree relating to the lifting of the embargo on German and Austrian importations. It will provide also for resumption of trade with Italy's former enemies.

WILL DEPEND ON LEAGUE

GERMAN-AUSTRIA INTENDS TO REFORM AND LEAD A BETTER NATIONAL LIFE.

WILL SURRENDER

(Canadian Press.)

COPENHAGEN, July 30.— A despatch from Vienna says that Dr. Karl Renner, in a letter to President Seitz, of German Austria, outlining a policy on the acceptance of the Foreign Ministry, says that German-Austria's struggle for future existence is proving much more difficult than even pessimists expected.

Austria, he asserts, can hardly live in its present position and can only surrender itself and trust fully to the League of Nations. German-Austria will not mix in the politics of the great powers nor share in the rivalries of its neighbours, Dr. Renner continues, but will pursue exclusively a League of Nations, German-Austria rebuild its national economic system and create a new order. "Its hopes will not be in vain," Dr. Renner declares, "unless the League of Nations fails to be true to itself or refuses recognition of German-Austria's right to existence."

AQUATIC CLUB FOR PETERBORO

Often the explanation has nothing to do with the case.

CHARGE DIRECTORS WITH GIVING OUT SECRETS OF DEFUNCT CORPORATION

NEW HAMBURG MERCHANT THREW A BOMBSHELL INTO THE MEETING OF TWO HUNDRED CREDITORS.

STANDARD RELIANCE

(Special to Examiner.)

NEW HAMBURG, ONT., July 30.—Charging that directors of the defunct Standard Reliance Mortgage Corporation gave out secrets of the company's embarrassed condition and in at least one instance took personal advantage of it by unloading stocks and withdrawing deposits before the final crash of June 18th, J. U. Clemens, a local merchant, threw the meeting of 200 creditors here last night into an uproar.

Telling the meeting that he had detailed information which would interest the creditors, Mr. Clemens precipitated a volley of cries to "Spit it out," and "Go to it." After a short pause, Mr. Clemens continued, "It's not for myself, but for the poor widows and orphans who lost all their money that I tell you this. Well, a few months ago, a broker, who is the Mayor of Guelph, asked me what I would give him for a thousand dollars worth of shares of Standard Reliance. I made an offer on Thursday and on Monday I paid a draft. On Wednesday there was a failure. There were some secrets put out from the directors and some people withdrew their money. Mr. Bartlett, manager of the local branch, had his wife and sister and mother-in-law sell their stock at only $79 in the face of a coming dividend.

On the Inside.

"There were some people on the inside track and they unloaded." Mr. Bartlett from the back of the hall, shouted that he had twenty shares of Standard Reliance but did not sell them. "I know absolutely nothing about the inside affairs of the company," he declared. "I did not know why my wife wanted to sell her stock. She was advised to do so by someone else—not myself."

Mounting the platform, Mr. Bartlet continued: "If anyone can prove I knew what was going to happen on June 28th, I will give everything on my back." "Why did your wife sell the shares?" Mr. Bartlett was asked. "She did not advise her to sell because there was no active manager in the head office. I am as innocent as any one else in this room. I don't care for your opinions any more than I do for a dog's."

A howl of protest met this last remark. "Take that back—there are no dogs here," ordered the chairman.

Mr. Bartlett qualified the statement.

Mr. Clemens continuing declared that one of the Standard Reliance directors, according to information he had, withdrew $3150 from the bank two days before the failure.

To-night another meeting of creditors and debenture holders will be held in Ayr to record the district's view on the proposed plan of reorganization. On Friday night a similar meeting will be held in Brockville.

MUSIC ON THE WATER

Anything more charming than music on the water as you glide along in launch or yacht? The Victrola gives you complete equipment. Thirty-four dollars gives you a Victrola from out of the handsome Victrola Parlors of Ye Olde Firme of Heintzman & Co., Limited, George and Hunter Sts., Peterboro, that you can carry with you on any outing trip. Among other records take with you, "Dear Old Pal of Mine," and "When You Look in the Heart of a Rose" and "Baby Mine".

A LONG OVERLAND TRIP BY AUTOMOBILE

(Special to the Examiner)

WINNIPEG, Man., July 30.—The first known California to Winnipeg trip by way of Oregon Montana and Saskatchewan was completed yesterday by J. H. Dinwoodie of Tulare, California, with his wife, son and two daughters, who arrived Monday and left yesterday to motor to Toronto by way of St. Paul and Chicago. The distance covered was 3600 miles and the time actually spent in driving was thirteen days. It is interesting to note that while this enterprising party is from the United States, members are originally of Canadian extraction. Dinwoodie is from Fleherton, Ont., and Mrs. Dinwoodie from Stayner.

RIOTING BETWEEN BLACKS AND WHITES

CHICAGO AUTHORITIES WILL NOT CONCEDE DEFEAT.

(Canadian Press.)

CHICAGO, July 30.— Rioting between whites and blacks continued long after midnight and several casualties were added to the list of twenty-seven deaths and hundreds of wounded. A negro residence at Fifty-seventh street and Wentworth avenue was burned by whites, but the occupants escaped. The Ninth and Tenth regiments of Illinois troops from Cairo were reported on the way to Chicago to increase the available soldiers to more than 7,000, but none had taken up patrol duty, city officers refusing to concede defeat and ask military aid.

Will Prosecute.

(United Press.)

The Cook County Grand Jury, which convenes next week, will obtain evidence on the race riots through its own investigation, States Attorney Hoyne announced to-day. Vigorous prosecutions will be instituted, Hoyne said, and charges of murder by rioting will be made if the evidence can be directly connected with any person.

Negroes Laid Off.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 30.—Nearly fifteen hundred negro employees of the city were laid off by official order, owing to riots. Many of the number were employed in street repair work. By official order nine municipal playgrounds in or adjoining the "war scene" were closed.

MAY ALLISON ACHIEVES DISTINCTIVE SCREEN FAME

Beautiful Metro Star Noted For Her Rare Dramatic Talents.

May Allison, the vivacious and beautiful young Metro star, who will be seen in "The Island of Intrigue" at the Grand Theatre on Thursday for a three-day engagement, is universally conceded to be one of the cleverest stars of the screen.

Born in Georgia and educated in Philadelphia, she showed dramatic talents at an early age and came to New York where her youth and her beauty immediately gained her a place in Henry W. Savage's production of "Everywoman."

She rapidly rose to such Broadway successes as "The Quaker Girl" with Ina Claire and "Caprice" with De Wolf Hopper, and was later starred in "Apartment 12-K."

She soon succumbed to the lure of the screen, however, where her success was instantaneous. She played with William H. Crane and with Edith Wynne Mathison, and then became a star with the American-Mutual. At the end of her contract with this company Miss Allison signed with Metro, where her best work has been done. She was co-starred with Harold Lockwood and was later promoted to a star in her own right and appeared in "The Social Hypocrites," "A Successful Adventure," "The Return of Mary," "The Testing of Mildred Vane," "Her Inspiration," "In for Thirty Days," and "Peggy Does Her Darndest."

As Maida Waring in "The Island of Intrigue," she is seen in a role which gives her unlimited opportunities for her clever talents and winsome personal charm.

THE PEACE TREATY

(Canadian Press.)

BRUSSELS, July 30.— Foreign Affairs Committee of the Belgian Chamber of Deputies passed favourably [illegible] with Germany.

AGGRESSOR IN THE WAR

GERMAN LABOUR COMMITTEE RECOGNIZE THAT GERMANY ACTED WRONGLY

A DECLARATION

(Canadian Press.)

AMSTERDAM, July 30.—The work of the International Trades Union Congress was hindered by protracted discussion in connection with the old International organization over the German declaration of support of German trade unionism during the war. The Germans maintained an unrepentant attitude until Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labour, told them plainly that if it were continued it would be impossible for workers of other countries to retain relations with them in the future. The German committee finally declared that the German Trades Unions always recognized that Germany acted wrongly in the war, and that German workers always were opponents of war armaments and imperialism, and if German workers had suspected Germany was the aggressor in the great war, they would have tried to prevent it. On the declaration being accepted by Congress, the delegates went on to the business of organizing the new International.

LOST HIS LIFE IN [illegible] CANAL

INFANT SON OF [illegible] MICHEAL O'TOOLE MET TRAGIC DEATH

Joseph Augustine [illegible]Toole, the 4-year and 8 months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael O'To[illegible] Concession street, was drowned [illegible] evening in the Trent Canal [illegible] o'clock. The little lad wandered [illegible] from his home to the can[illegible] is only a few feet away a[illegible] found about five minutes later [illegible] the water. The pulmotor was [illegible]ately summoned, but all efforts [illegible] save the child proved in vain. He is survived by the parents and [illegible] sisters and brothers.

The funeral will take place to-morrow morning to St. [illegible]'s cemetery at 9.30.

WEEKLY SHOOT OF THE GUN CLUB

PORT HOPE AND LAKEFIELD WILL BE REPRESENTED.

The Peterboro Gun Club will hold their weekly shoot on Friday evening next and all members are urgently requested to be on hand as squads from Port Hope and Lakefield Gun Club are to be on hand to shoot a 25-bird event with a squad of the local shooters. A few handsome prizes have been donated by members of the Gun Club and will be shot for on Friday evening. The Lakefield shooters are going strong as two members of the locals can testify as they shot with them in Lakefield last night and were on the short end in every event. A full attendance is requested as a good night's sport is promised.

WANTED HERE ON A CHARGE OF THEFT

GUNNER A. L. ALLEN WAS ARRESTED IN KINGSTON TO-DAY.

A. L. Allen was arrested in Kingston this morning, at the request of Chief Thompson, on a charge of theft, according to a telegram received by The Examiner.

Chief Thompson explained that Allen was wanted on a charge of having stolen certain moneys collected by him for a magazine he was selling. Allen is a former gunner in the C. F. F.

SAYS SCOTT COMMENCED TROUBLE

EX-PREMIER COMMENCED TROUBLE BY EVADING QUESTIONS AND HE WAS PUT OFF THE TRAIN---A DAILY OCCURRENCE.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 30.—Investigation into the circumstances of the arrest of the Hon. Walter Scott, ex-Premier of Saskatchewan, by the immigration authorities at Pembina, North Dakota, will be held by the American Department of Labour.

Consul-General Ryder has not yet heard the details of the incident, while the American immigration authorities here are waiting further information.

The information received was to the effect that ex-Premier Scott had commenced the trouble by evading the questions put to him by the official, R. Russell, and that he later became angry.

Officials of the Canadian Immigration Department, located in Winnipeg, all agree that if Scott had refused to answer questions put to him, the American immigration officer had been within his rights in putting him off. Many similar circumstances they state, happen daily with American subjects crossing into Canada, who are unwilling to answer the authorities.

WILL ORGANIZE FUND TO DEFEAT THE MINORITY ON REFERENDUM QUESTION

CITIZENS LIBERTY LEAGUE OF TORONTO TAKE ACTION---FUNDS SUBSCRIBED.

MOTIONS PASSED

Special to the Examiner:

TORONTO, July 30.—Rising suddenly just before the amending of the Citizens' Liberty League was about to adjourn last night, Fred. S. Sutherland, of the Sutherland Bros., mining brokers, 17 King Street East, subscribed the sum of $500 for the beginning of a fund to organize every nook and cranny of the Province. Mr. Carruthers, the secretary, announced after the long line of men and women, for several women were present, had signed as members, a total of $750. Two motions were passed by a unanimous standing vote:—

That the members of the Citizens' Liberty League, assembled to consider the question of the referendum, will mark their ballots "Yes" to each of the four questions. To be submitted by the Government, believing that by this means they will secure for the people a return of that liberty and freedom of action in their daily lives, which was taken away from them without their consent or mandate.

2nd—That all monies that may have been collected in fines in connection with the working of the Ontario Temperance Act, from the soldiers and sailors in the army or navy of His Majesty King George, shall be returned forthwith.

SUGGESTION FOR KING GEORGE

LONDON, July 30. — The Daily Herald, the Labour organ, offered guarded criticism to-day on King George's speech, delivered yesterday at Guild Hall. "If the King," said the paper, "is coming forward as a real leader of the people — and why shouldn't he?—we urge that he should come out with declarations against profiteering and exploitation and take his stand for real service to the community without intervention for private profit.

FARMERS' PICNIC

The Peterborough Branch of the U. F. O. will hold their first annual Picnic by steamer Stoney Lake, down the River, landing for Sports and Supper, on Thursday, 7th August. Boat leaves George street wharf at 1 p.m. (new time.) A good programme of sports, including a tug-of-war for the Township Championship of Peterborough County. Orchestra and booth on board. Special speakers will be in attendance. Adult tickets 60 cents; children's tickets, 30 cents. Everybody welcome. Come and bring your baskets.—President, H. B Rogers. Commmittee chairman, R T Lillico, 136 Hunter street W.

JAPS ARE BUYING OUT AMERICANS

By Raymond Clapper.
(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 30.— Japan is buying up the oil interests of Americans in Mexico, who want to release their holdings because they feel they are insufficiently protected, Senator Phelan, California, declared in an interview to-day. Phelan made this assertion in urging this government to take a strong stand to safeguard American rights south of the Rio Grande.

HELD FOR THE DEATH OF GIRL

STRANGE STORY OF LESTER DECKER FOLLOWING ARREST.

PATERSON, N.J., July 30.—Lester Decker, aged 30, was under arrest here to-day in connection with the death of his sweetheart, Miss Mabel Harris, 20, who was drowned in Pompton Lake Sunday night.

Decker, according to the police, said that he and Miss Harris were returning from a picnic when he became tired and lay down in the canoe to rest. He suddenly awoke, he said, to find himself floundering about in the water below a dam. He had great difficulty in reaching the shore. A search for Miss Harris was fruitless.

ST. GEORGE'S CHURCH GARDEN PARTY

An unusually large number of people attended the garden party and sale of fancy goods on the grounds at St. George's church last evening and the affair proved a splendid success in every way. The lawns were prettily decorated for the occasion with many coloured lights and allied flags. The artistically arranged booths completed the alluring scene. During the evening the 57th Band provided an acceptable and much enjoyed musical programme.

The Booths.

At the refreshment booth Mrs. H. Rew, Mrs. Arthur Rew, Mrs. K. Mitchell, and Miss Beatrice Blake were in charge. Mrs. Price, Mrs. John Holmes, Mrs. Dingman, Mrs. Ashmore and Mrs. Huxley took charge of the fancy and useful goods booth.

A pleasing programme of solos were rendered by Mr. Coleman, Mr. Davies and others.

WINNIPEG LABOR SPLIT

TRADES AND LABOUR COUNCIL SWING OVER TO THE "ONE BIG UNION"

ADOPT CONSTITUTION

Special to the Examiner:

WINNIPEG, July 30. — The split that has been foreseen here some time by those in the Labour movement actually occurred last evening, when the Trades and Labour Council, by a large majority of the delegates present, adopted the constitution of the "One Big Union" and ordered the secretary and treasurer of the Council to turn over all the Council's property to that organization.

Prominent members of the Council declared after the meeting that it was not a representative one, as the tactics of the Radical members towards those not in agreement with them were such as to keep away many of the delegates of the saner type. The special committee submitted a report recommending the adoption by the Council of a constitution by which the Council would be known as "The Winnipeg Central Labour Council," and would be composed of delegates from several Winnipeg O. B. U. units. Officers of the Council were to receive $40 per week and $4 per day expense money while away from home. The funds of the Council were to be secured by a per capita tax of all members of units represented. The several clauses when read were adopted practically without discussion and later the constitution as a whole was adopted.

The business for which the meeting was called was now completed, and some contended that it ought to adjourn. The sponsors of the recently adopted constitution overruled this contention, however, and the meeting went on to discuss further business.

At the conclusion of the meeting of the Trades Council, R. A. Rigg made the following statement: "As the authorized deputy of the Trades and Labour Congress of Canada, I shall proceed to carry out the instructions given to me by that organization and that the Trades and Labour Council of Winnipeg will carry on."

"The Trades Council meeting last night presented the anomoly of having present delegates in considerable number, who, by the laws of their constitutional organization, [illegible] have previously represented, had no right to be there in a representative capacity. These delegates have been repudiated by the international organization, of which they were previously representatives."

FORCED TO WORK IN GERMAN FOREST BEFORE HIS RECOVERY

PRIVATE ARNOLD PARRINGTON IS THE FOURTH SON OF MR. AND MRS. J. B. PARRINGTON TO RETURN FROM OVERSEAS---HIS HEALTH STILL UNSATISFACTORY.

SIGHT MAY BE IMPAIRED

Behind a three line personal in yesterday's Examiner, announcing the return of Private Arnold Parrington to his home on Aylmer street, after having been a prisoner of war in Germany for nearly three years, is a story of ill-treatment and cruelty that is now universally recognized as characteristic of the Germans. Private Parrington has come back to Kingston for medical treatment, and appreciating the soldier's reluctance to recount his part in the war, Mrs. Parrington declined to relate for publication, without her son's consent, the experiences he had outlined to her.

At Zillebeke on June 2nd, 1916, Private Parrington was shot through the chest and leg, and fell into the hands of the Germans. On the 6th the casualty list chronicled him missing. His parents [illegible] believed that he was wounded and a prisoner. For eight months he was confined to an hospital, and before he had recovered his strength he was put to work cutting down trees in a forest in Hanover. Passing over the treatment to which he was subjected, particularly in the last months of the war while in Prussia, Private Parrington's story involves details that explain why he was not returned to England until January 10th of this year, two months after the armistice was signed.

When he reached Canada several months ago he had to undergo further treatment, despite the attentions he received in England. These facts indicate the extent to which his health had been broken by compulsory work in Germany. At the present time Private Parrington is undergoing examination and treatment for the sight of his right eye, which may be seriously affected.

Arnold was the fourth son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Parrington to return from overseas. The others were Percy, Tom and Ralph. The latter arrived home several weeks ago, and Tom, who has been in the pensions office, recently had to undergo another operation on his arm. These four sons have a fine record in the war, and their combined service should be a matter of pride, not only to the family, but also to the city as a whole.

NEW LOAN TO BE OFFERED BELOW PAR OR AT AN INCREASED RATE OF INTEREST

QUESTION OF OFFERING PORTION OF LOAN IN THE UNITED STATES LIKELY TO BE DECIDED IN THE AFFIRMATIVE.

OTTAWA, July 30.—A conference [illegible] has been called by the Finance Department [illegible] plans for placing the next domestic loan. It has already been announced that this loan will be taxable [illegible] as the last offering, will either have to be offered [illegible] par or at an increased rate of interest.

To stabilize Dominion issues [illegible] must, as nearly as possible, approximate [illegible] issues. It is probable that the coming flotation [illegible] early in November, about midway between [illegible] Christmas.

The question of offering a portion [illegible] States is to be considered, and the opening [illegible] Bureau in New York is charged [illegible] for publicity and disposal of the [illegible] procedure adopted with the last loan.

FREE FREIGHT NOW ON CATTLE AND HAY

New Scheme in Effect at Once for Relief of Farmers in Drought Area.

EDMONTON, July 30. — The special hay and stock tariff for the relief of the farmers in the drought area goes into effect at once.

The scheme thus agreed upon gives the privilege of free freight on cattle, hay and haying outfits to bona fide farmers within the districts affected by the crop failure. The Dominion and Provincial Governments will each pay half of the cost of moving cattle north for grazing.

BILL TO AID THE SOUDAN IN COTTON CULTIVATION.

LONDON, July 29.—The House of Commons this evening unanimously passed the second reading of the Government Bill introduced with the purpose of aiding the Soudan to raise a loan of £6,000,000 for irrigation, railway construction and the development of 300,000 acres of land at the conflux of the White and Blue Nile Rivers.

The main purpose of the bill which is meeting with strong approval in the House of Commons is to promote cotton cultivation in the Soudan, and thus render Lancashire less dependent on the United States for cotton.

MRS. MORGAN HAS GAINED 22 POUNDS

WAS TOLD THAT OPERATION WAS ONLY HOPE—TANLAC RESTORED HEALTH.

"Anyone who had noticed the dreadful condition I was in can readily see the wonderful change Tanlac has made in me," said Mrs. E. M. Morgan, residing at 1817 Norton Street, Kansas City Missouri, in telling of the remarkable benefits she has derived from the medicine recently.

"I have actually gained twenty-two pounds in weight on five bottles of Tanlac," she continued, "and have improved so much that my neighbours often speak of it. My health had been all broken up for more than a year and I was so nervous that the least noise would upset me. My appetite left me and what little I did eat would sour on my stomach, causing gas and intense pain. I would bloat terribly and during these times my heart would palpitate frightfully, almost cutting off my breath, and I was so weak and dizzy that I could not walk a block without stopping to rest. I was badly constipated, had raging headaches, and was losing weight and strength all the time. I would roll and toss all night, unable to sleep, and would get up in the mornings even more tired than on going to bed. I was constantly under treatment, and all the time taking some kind of medicine, but nothing helped me, and I finally got right down in bed.

"At the time I got Tanlac I had been confined to my bed for a month. I had been told that an operation would be necessary and was almost in despair, as I always had a horror of the operating table and knife. Up to this time I had not thought seriously about Tanlac being good for me, although I had often read the wonderful results others claimed to get from it. But, being so anxious to avoid an operation, I decided first to try Tanlac, and sent for two bottles. Well before I had finished my second bottle my appetite was better, the gas stopped forming on my stomach, and I did not suffer from shortness of breath and palpitation any more. Now to put it all in a few words, my nerves are normal and I have no more headaches, dizzy spells or trouble of any kind. Tanlac has not only relieved me of my physical suffering, but it has eased my mind, too, as I fully believe it has saved me from an operation. I can truthfully say Tanlac has made me feel like a new person, and I can't praise it enough."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Fowlers Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

COLOURED OFFICER NEEDED THE MONEY

MANNER IN WHICH HIS WIFE SOLVED THE HIGH COST OF LIVING.

WASHINGTON, July 29. — The high cost of everything is particularly binding on army officers, who have no other means than their rather meagre salaries.

The wife of one, a military man, thus unhappily situated, advertised for a girl to do general housework. The notice was responded to by a particularly neat and competent young coloured woman. The details were soon settled — number in the family, hours of meals, days out, no laundry, how often the drawing-room had to be dusted, when the silver had to be cleaned, etc.

"Ah couldn't work for less 'an fifty dollahs a month," replied the candidate.

"But, Mandy, that is impossible; my husband is only a first lieutenant, and we can't afford to pay you such wages."

"That's too bad," replied the maid, "but you see, mah husban' he's a lieutenant, too, an ah mus' have that much to keep him goin'."

DOWNEYVILLE CORRESPONDENCE

DOWNEYVILLE, July 30.—Misses Dot and Mary Flood, also Mary Millan, of Emsmore, were visitors to the former's sister, Mrs. Joseph Guiry during the past week.

Mr. Walter Carroll was in Omemee on Monday on business.

A large number of people attended the funeral of the late Miss Anastia Houlihan on Thursday last. The deep sympathy of the entire community is extended to the sorrowing relatives.

Messrs. Stanse Lucas and Garret Perdue were Sunday visitors to Mr. Joseph Harrington's, Ennismore.

BAVARIA LIMITS VISITORS.

They Can Stay Only Two Weeks Unless Health Necessitates Extensions.

Under an agreement arrived at on June 27 by representatives of the Bavarian Ministry of Agriculture, the hotel industry, and the Workers' and Peasants' Councils, Summer visitors and tourists may stay in Bavaria a fortnight without obtaining any especial permission, but if they wish to extend their visits they must produce satisfactory evidence from official dotcors, or from their superior officers if they are soldiers, workers, office employes, or State employes.

This rule was due to become effective on July 15, and a further regulation provides that no more than 50 per cent. of the beds available in the hotels and summer boarding houses were to be turned over to the outside visitors. Nevertheless, as the Munchner Neueste Nachricten points out, special consideration had to be shown to the communities which depend largely upon the tourist trade for their livelihood, so the local authorities were authorized to make the necessary exceptions to the 50 per cent. rule. On the other hand this percentage may be reduced in industrial districts where the presence of numerous strangers would be prejudiced to the interests of the workers. Special efforts are to be made by the authorities to prevent visitors from smuggling foodstuffs out of Bavaria.

MISCHEL CHERNIASVKY TO WED ON AUGUST 1ST

Mischel Cherniavsky, the famous 'celloist, will be married on August 1 in Vancouver to Miss Mary Rogers eldest daughter of the late B. T. Rogers, the Canadian "sugar king". The two other Cherniavskys, Leo and Jan, are in Honolulu, where the three brothers paused for some performances on the way home from a concert tour of the East and of South Africa. The brothers made a phenomenal tour of South Africa, India, Strait Settlements, Java, Philippine Islands, China and Japan. In India they gave two special performances for the viceroy and his wife Lord and Lady Chelmsford. In South Africa the Governor-General presented the brothers with gold cuff buttons. Mischel Cherniavsky will reioin his brothers in November when they will begin their American tour. They will make a European tour in the Spring.

To Overcome Redness, Tan, Freckles, Blotches

If your skin is unduly reddened, tanned or freckled, just dab a little pure mercolized wax on the face and allow it to remain over night. When you wash off the wax in the morning, fine, flaky, almost invisible particles of cuticle come with it. Repeating this daily, the entire outer skin is absorbed, but so gradually and gently, there's not the slightest hurt or inconvenience. Even the stubbornest freckles are affected. The underlying skin which forms the new complexion is so clear, fresh and youthful-looking, you'll marvel at the transformation. It's the only thing known to actually discard an aged faded, muddy or blotchy complexion. One ounce of mercolized wax, procurable at any drug-store, is sufficient in most cases.

SOLD BRIDGE TO PARIS

American Soldier Now Lankuishing in La Roquette Prison.

While New York went busily about its affairs, Brooklyn Bridge, City Hall and several other choice bits of property were being sold to shrewd French business men by Phillip Bender, an American soldier, who is now in the La Roquette Prison, Paris, says the New York Tribune.

Bender, according to Mr. Kehoe, of the Knights of Columbus, who has just arrived from Paris, was known to the French capitalists as Monsieur Kendairt. He would change his buck private's uniform for that of a major orgeneral, dine at the best cafes, and with forged letters of introduction meet the biggest financiers in France.

"He sold everything in Paris except the Government seat," said Mr. Kehoe.

The climax of his operations came when he borrowed 50,000 francs from prominent Paris bankers to obtain an option on the Paris subway system.

After rejecting a young man, nothing is calculated to make a girl so weary as to learn that he has married diagnostically well.

FOOD CONTROLLER SEES HIGH PRICES

If All Profiteers Were Guillotined, It Would Not Reduce H. C. of L., He Says.

LONDON, July 29. — George H. Roberts, Food Controller, speaking in Yorkshire, held out no hopes of prices this coming winter being lower than last winter. The Government was determined to stop profiteering, he said, but if every profiteer was guillotined to-morrow, it would not bring prices down to the level everybody desired.

Ilford, the enormous industrial area, which starts out from East London, has established a street market, where small producers sell fruit, poultry and vegetables. The market has had an enormous success. This week-end prices ruled fifty to sixty per cent. lower than shop prices.

While Ilford's example in thus attempting to stop profitering is generally commended, it is not forgotten that the shopkeeper has high rent rates, whilst the man with a street stall has few such liabilities.

Curiously enough, Ilford has a strike on hand of all the municipal employees. The town is in darkness, is unswept and no trams are running. The dispute arises over a small payment to scavengers.

CASUALTIES ARE NEARLY ALL HOME.

(Canadian Press.)

MONTREAL, July 30.—Information has reached military headquarters that the great majority of the Canadian casualties and invalids have been returned to Canada, and that only about four more trips will be made by the hospital ships. This means that the two hospital transports the Araguaya, which runs to Halifax and the Essequibo, which runs to Portland, will only make two more regular trips as hospital ships. Nothing is known as to what will be done with these vessels after their service.

STREET PAVING.

The decision of the City Council to embark upon an ambitious paving programme will, it is to be fancied, generally applauded as a progressive step. Before the war Peterboro made permanent roadways on a number of principal streets and other thoroughfares were destined to receive the same treatment. The war interrupted the program as it interrupted so many other enterprises. Now, however, seems to be the proper time to launch out new plans for street improvements. Permanent roads besides being the best are undoubtedly the cheapest as well. The cost of repair necessary to the ordinary macadamized roads, for a number of years, would soon equal the expense of paving.

The first street that is likely to be done is George street, South, from the C.P.R. Station to Romaine street. Peterboro's main street is already paved as far north as Smith sereet, and the new additions were given a long stretch of permanent roadway running through the city. The cost of work is estimated by the City Eginerr at $39,990 this summer, including the expense of providing for surface drainage. It should be money well spent.

THE SUMMER CAMP

That the work being done by the Peterboro Health Association in its summer camp for children at Jackson Park is apreciated is shown not only by the evident happiness of the little folks who are being so well looked after there, but the donations from a number of citizens who have been impressed with the story of the movement and what it means for the Health Association in this department of its work as in the other efforts it maintains for the benefit of the community depends largely upon the generosity of the citizens for the finances that are needed. The summer camp was a feature of the Association's work that had to be abandoned during the war, but which is this year being most successfully carried out. The benefit the children are receiving from their life in the open air and the good, nourishing food they receive at the camp is already making itself evident in the appearance of the little folks. The movement should appeal to the sympathy of the general public and doubtless there are other citizens who have not yet made a donation who will be grateful of this reminder. There is no finer investment; no investment that yields more satisfactory dividends than a subscription to the Peterboro Health Association's Summer Camp.

AMPUTATION BADGES.

There is much to be said in favour of the plan adopted by the Great War Veteran's Association to ensure the kind treatment and courtesy of those of its members who are badly disabled because of wounds, by providing them with a special wounded badge. It is a rather unfortunate necessity on the lack of consideration of the general public, however, that such distinguished mark should be necessary. Those who are visibly crippled, no matter what the cause might be, one would expect to find, kindly treated in street cars and elsewhere, but apparently, returned soldiers have found that this is not the case and have found that it necessary to provide disabled soldiers with a badge that will tell the observer at a glance that the wearer has given a limb for his country. For some people, it is necessary to conclude are thoughtless about such matters. Returned soldiers some of whose amputation cases have told their experiences to The Examiner; experiences that do not reflect favourably upon some of our citizens. They tell of the many motorists who often overtake an empty car who pass them as they hobble down town on crutches or with the aid of a stick, and who drive blindly by with no consideration to have a ride and with scarcely a glance at the disabled soldier on the sidewalk. In telling of these things they contrast their experiences elsewhere, especially in England with the treatment they receive here, and the result of the comparison is not such as to bring out a feeling of pride in our home city. If the amputation badge result in more consideration for our badly disabled soldiers, they will have served the purpose for which they were issued and the mere fact that it has been found necessary to adopt the badge should be sufficient to bring about a more satisfactory condition of affairs.

A VITAL MATTER

The work of the enumerators in West Peterboro is to be completed by Friday, August 1. Those who therefore have not yet been placed upon the voters' lists have only a short time in which to get busy and make sure that their names are not omitted. If the enumerator has not called upon, or has called and found nobody at home, a very likely happening with so many houses closed for the summer, you should endeavor to get in touch with the enumerator in your particular division and have your name put on. The lists now being prepared will be those in use not only for the taking of the referendum, but for the Provincial election as well, for the process will mean considerable time and trouble, and it will be a much simpler matter to atend to the registering of your name now.

Every man and woman in Ontario, according to the regulations who is a British subject by birth or naturalization and not otherwise disqualified has the right to vote, providing he or she has resided in Canada for twelve months preceeding the date of beginning the lists and has been a resident of the electoral district for three months. He or she must also be at least twenty-one years of age withing 56 days of the date upon which the taking of the lists commenced.

It is a vital matter that every one who has the right to vote should be listed. To avoid the chance of a mistake, look after the matter yourself.

GRAZ UNIVERSITY RAISES HER VOICE

There is an old university at Graz, Attached to it is a polytechnical academy. Each is presided over by a "rector magnificus." These "excellencies" put their wits together and produced a "declaration against the "Peace of Might"—that is to say, against the Peace of Versailles, as applied to Austria. The document, which has just reached New York, is probably unique for impudence and idiocy.

Speaking for the professors of the university and the academy, the two exponents of "scientific methods of thinking" appeal to all "scientific coras a word, from the statesmen of the Allies, who sat about the tables at which the treaties were formulated and announced.

Men of learning everywhere are exported to heed this "pathetic warning" and to check those who would "cripple and morally debase the German nation, hitherto indefatigably working for civilization." To this end it was proposed to have appointed, even at the eleventh hour, a committee of experts in law, history, political economy and technics to arbitrate between the Germanic nations and those who would cripple their usefulness in an ungrateful world.

The bright names of the places associated with Germany's "work for civilization" will never be forgotten as associated with her. The burning of the great Catholic Library at Louvain, the wrecking and desecration of the great French cathedrals, the efforts to destroy the spires of Oxford and towers of Westminster Abbey, the deliberate bombing of the truction of the Rialto—these are but city of Venice, with the partial desa few examples, indications of policy and a state of mind.

When the war began the boasted scholars of Germany, including theologians whose names were household Britain, were the first to justifyatial hold words in America and Great Britain, were the first to justify, over their signatures, the rape of Belgium and "war to the death on These were the men who demanded that those who defended their altars and thir homes against Germany should be "punished" for their presumption.

As for ourselves, the exchange professors from Germany, who tried to undermine our institutions, and American exchange professors who came back from Germany, with Red Eagles and a contempt for the Monroe Doctrine, opened our eyes long ago to the identity in method of German scholasticism and German militarism.

The teeth of both have been drawn. —New York Herald.

800,000 ACRES IN PERU PURCHASED BY JAPANESE.

LIMA, Peru, July 29. — It is reported that Dr. Augusto Durand, a prominent land owner and proprietor of the newspaper La Presna, has sold approximately 800,000 acres of land near Huenuco, on the Amazon watershed, to a Japanese syndicate. Three hunder additional acres are in negotiation. The land lies in the sub-tropical belt, and is suitable for sugar, coffee, cocoa, cotton and similar products. This land purchase is considered the forerunner of a big Japanese colonization scheme in Peru.

PROPOSES TO LINK UP BELLEVILLE AND TRENTON WITH FACTORY AREAS --OPTIONS ON 7,000 ACRES.

SOUNDS LIKE CHEESE SUPPER

At Bayside, a meeting that filled Bayside public school building to capacity, Mr. W. C. Mikel, K.C., of Belleville launched a project by which it is proposed to link up Belleville and Trenton in one great area of industrial development. Not content, merely with seeing visions and talking abut greater things for the Belleville district, Mr. Mikel has taken active steps to make dreams and predictions come true.

As the first step in the development scheme he called a meeting of the property holders, along the first concession of Sydney between Belleville cemetery and Trenton. The property holders turned out in large numbers to Saturday night's meeting, nearly every farm having its representative present.

Mr. Mikel, without any preamble, at once launched his proposals. His remarks were followed with strict attention by the audience. He spoke in part as follows:

You have met here to consider one of the biggest real estate deals in Canada. The acquisition of the land in the first and broken front concessions of the township of Sydney from the Belleville Semetery west lying between the second concession on the north and the Bay of Quinte on the South, about 7,000 acres. We have been rather timid about big things in this section. We hear of industries coming to other places, expending one, two, five hundred thousand dollars and even millions, but such things seem difficult to apprehend when spoken of with reference to this locality. Ontario has about 700 industries with capital of about 947 millions of dollars, and these pay out about 150 millins in wages and salaries a year. It may not do us any harm to get accustomed to big things. Our opportunities are as good and our people are as capable as they are anywhere.

One Big Opprtunity Missed

Mr. Mikel said he had been giving a good deal of attention to the question of this section before the war. He had tried to get an airship industry started in Belleville in 1912. We got one biplane built but people did not seem interested. If that industry had been taken hold of then, several Belleville people might have been millionaires. This presents a still better opportunity. He hoped the people in this section would not let it pass.

Advertise Our Advantages

The possibility of developing a big industrial community in what may be described as the Belleville section does not seem to have been fully appreciated by the people in that section or brought to the notice of utsiders with sufficient free. The merchant may have the best goods in the world, but if he does not adopt progressive methods to let the fact be known and shows up his goods in the most attractive manner, he may still be a dismal failure.

Past and Future

There was a time when the Belleville section did not have such opportunities as now possessed by it. There was only the one railway, the old Grand Trunk, operating in but two provinces, and one electric power. Even then we had energetic, progressive spirits who endeavored to make the most of our position. They were stimulated by observing the progress of other places that had no greater advantages than we had. Now this section is most favorably situated. It is on the main lines carrying goods and passengers to and from every corner of the country. It it on the main waterway betewen the head of navigation and the sea. It enjoys the benefit of the canal systems of the Rideau, the Murray, the Trent Valley and the newly opened canal to New York City. It is also in the great power basin, with immense quantities of electric power available at reasonable prices. It is situated between the two great industrial centres of Canada, Toronto and Montreal, and sufficiently far from each to enable development to either.

50 Industries frm the U.S.

For years there has been a pretty constant flow of industries from the United States to Canada. With the inevitable growth of Canada and its position of influence in the British Empire, this industrial flow from the republic to the south of us has reached 350 plants and will continue to increase. Even within the present year there have been many plants come to Ontario and many others already here have expanded, introducing very large amounts of capital.

Big Industries Need Plenty of Land

The need of big modern industries is plenty of land, some require as much as fifty acres. The trend of these modern, big industries is in the direction of acquiring large tracts of land not only for actual operation of the plant and for possible expansion, but also for the purpose of introducing new methods of taking care of the health of the employees and providing for their pleasure and recreation. This policy makes the employees happy and contented and insures a sufficient supply of the best quality of labor. Some have gone the length of providing restaurants, temporary hospitals, dancing halls, and other forms of entertainment. This demand for large quantities of land cannot now be supplied in the big Canadian and American cities.

Cemetery

Plenty of Land West of Belleville

Of course, we have no large blocks of land within the actual borders of the city as some of the big modern industries require. West of the Belleville Cemetery there is plenty of land for this purpose. If the owners there are prepared to dispose of this land, the last physical difficulty in the way of development will have been overcome.

Time and Money Required for Preparation

It will take some years to lay out thi sterritory by town planning engineers for the needs of industry, including shipping and intercommunication. The requirements of the residents of a modern community will have to be carefully considered, planned and prepared. Large sums of money will have to be spent. All this will have to be done before any work takes place on the ground. It will, therfore, be necessary to obtain options extending over a number of years. When all this organization work is complete and arrangements are made with large industries to take advantage of the opportunities, then the options will be taken up.

About half of the land will be set GALLEY TWO Belleville dope apatr to provide free sites for the industries and also for streets, parks and other public needs. A considerable portion of the balance will be sold or kept for sale, to employees of the industries at a very low price. The remaining lots will be sold for business purposes and residences and out of these a good profit will, no doubt be realized if the scheme proves a success.

Present Owners May Share in Profit

Those who own this land may take their pay for it in cash or in stock, or partly in cash and partly in stock, of the proposed company which will be organized to carry out the enterprise. In that way the owners may participate in the profit which it is hoped to make in final disposition of the land. Of curse, if the owners refuse to give the options or hold the land at to high a price the proposal to bring about this great development will be killed at the inception, but it is hoped that no such result will follow.

Work for Everyone

The wrecking of the existing building on this land, the building up of the various plants and their operation will give profitable employment to not only every one now living on the land who desire emplyment, but also to a great many more persons.

Homes Easily Obtained

Land is so scarce in the large centres now that it is difficult to procure suitable homes with large garden areas at all convenient to their work, and at moderate prices. This scheme will solve those difficulties. The housing scheme of the Ontario Government whereby money is loaned to enable persons to build modern homes at low interest, with the privilege of repayment by the month as rent, extended over a long time, will be taken advantage of.

Labor Follows the Industry

A few thoughtless persons have said industries can only be started where there is large quantities of labor. In other words, if you want industries you should first import five or ten thousand workmen into a place and then start up industries. This is not the way towns grow into cities, and cities into large cities. The labor follows the demand and the demand is created by the industries. Labor is forced away from a non-progressive place and compelled to seek emplyment in an enterprising community.

The natural increase in population in Belleville since it became a city would have made Belleville a city of over 40,000. It has only about 12,000, which means that an army of 30,000 good, enterprising men and women have marched away from Belleville to get employment in progressive towns. Belleville has always been a delightful place for young people to grow up in, and obtain an education, but when the young men and young women arrive at majority and commence to look for profitable employpelled to say good-bye t their parents and to the old home, and join the army of exodus. This propsal will keep your by and girl at home, and bring back to the promised land some of those who have wandered away during the last forty years.

Committee Appointed

After some deliberation the following men were appointed a committee to take the proposal into consideration and report at a later meeting:—Mr. C. B. Meyers, Mr. Burnham Mallory, Mr. Arthur L. Burke, Mr John Hess and Mr. Frank Wilson.

The meeting adjourned to meet again at the same place on Friday, Aug. 8, at 8 p.m.

BARBARA FINDS THE DINNER CONVERSATION ENIGMATIC

CHAPTER XXVIII.

Again, as I had been many times of late, I was worried because of what Neil drank. Miss Wilson touched nothing, neither did I. But Mrs. Orton kept the men company each time their glasses were filled. Not that any of them drank so that it would have been noticed; but I knew the effect it had on Neil, and was anxious.

The talk had soon drifted to business. I was astonished at Blanche Orton. She appeared conversant with even the details of the mining deal if which they were talking. I timidly asked where the mines were, and was told: "In Mexico."

Mr. Rayburn then turned to me and asked:

"Are you also interested in mining?"

"Certainly. Isn't a wife always interested in what her husband does?" I had spoken lightly, yet I meant my reply to be heard and noticed, especially by Neil and Mrs. Orton. They were conversing in low tones but earnestly.

"A man is fortunate who can enlist the interest of two charming women," his soft voice giving the words a meaning.

"Two?" the question slipped unconsciously from my lips.

"Yes—he glanced knowingly at Neil, whose head was bent toward his hostess as he listened intently to something she was saying.

"Oh, Mrs. Orton!" He must not think there was anything going on of which I was ignorant. "She is interested in everything and anything."

"You read character "

"Yes. At times. It is easy to read a woman of her sort. Charming, fascinating, unscrupulous — when it suits them."

I was surprised that he should speak in such a manner, and probably showed it, because he added:

"Of course I make mistakes. We all do— save the professionals."

"What are you two discussing " Mr. Dantzig asked. "Is Rayburn telling your fortune, Mrs. Forbes?"

"No—we were discussing character."

"Which he reads — or thinks he can. By Jove you can too, Rayburn! That is, you can at times. I recall that man in San Francisco you warned us against, and whom we all liked so well we would not believe you. You were dead right in that case. He turned out to be the biggest scalawag unhung."

"What did he do?" It was Blanche Orton's drawling voice that asked the question, "Did he refuse to come in with you on some deal " veiled sarcasm in her tones.

"Why insinuate, fair lady?"

"I, too, read character at times — I am only following your lead."

The conversation puzzled me. What did Mrs. Orton mean? I looked towards Neil and he was scowling. Presently he raised his glass and proposed a toast to success. I imagined he did it to change the subject.

For the remainder of the dinner the conversation was general. But later, in the drawing room, Mr. Rayburn rather devoted himself to me. Neil was seated on a divan talking earnestly to Blanche Orton, and Mr. Dantzig seemed to be trying to interest Marie Wilson.

"Have you been in Mexico?" Mr. Rayburn asked.

"No, Mr. Forbes has not been there since we have been married. I hope to go with him, should it prove necessary for him to go again. I have a great curiosity about that country."

"You will be delighted with Mexico City. Many of the old Spanish families are very delightful and entertain on a scale of which we people of this country cannot conceive unless we have been recipients."

"I am more anxious to see all these wonderful mines than anything else, I think. I want to see just how they are worked, and understand all about mining."

"You are asking a good deal for a promoter's wife," with which enigmatic remark, he turned to reply to a question Neil had asked.

Bad Results From Taking Substitutes For Nuxated Iron

Startling Case Cited — Physician Warns Public and Says Ordinary Metallic Iron Preparations Cannot Possibly Give The Same STRENGTH, POWER AND ENDURANCE AS Organic Iron—Nuxated Iron.

The tremendous success of Nuxated Iron as a tonic, strength and blood-builder (it being estimated that over three million people annually are now using it) has led to the offering of numerous substitutes and imitations. Investigation shows that many of these instead of being organic iron may be nothing more than a metallic iron compound which may in some instances produce more harm than good. Typical among the cases reported is one of a woman who has threatened to sue for damages the druggist who sold her something purporting to be the genuine Nuxated Iron but which, while similar in name, package and appearance was nothing more than a spurious article, imitating the real. This woman claims that instead of obtaining increased strength and improved health as she had with the true Nuxated Iron, she was seriously upset and in fact became ill as a result of using the substitute.

Such instances as these have led physicians mentioned below to emphasize that health officials and doctors everywhere should caution the public against accepting substitutes for Nuxated Iron. Those who feel the need of a strength and blood builder should go to their family doctors and obtain a prescription calling for organic iron—Nuxated Iron—and present this to their druggist so that there may be no question about obtaining the proper article. But if they do not wish to go to the trouble of getting a prescription for Nuxated Iron then they should be sure to look on the label and see that the words Nuxated Iron are printed thereon.

There are thousands of people taking iron who do not distinguish between organic iron and metallic iron and such persons often fail to obtain the vital energy, strength and endurance which they seek simply because they have taken the wrong form of iron. If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test. See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength and see how much you have gained.

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat Less Meat If You Feel Backachy or Bladder Troubles You—Salts Is Fine for Kidneys

Meat forms urio acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve the bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. The famous salts is made from the juice of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder disease.

Alder Dye.

For the purpose of making dyes the common alder appears to have been unnoticed by the pioneers of this country, who made use of so many barks and roots. However, it was well known to the Indians, who used it to good effect. It dyes a reddish color, and down to a few years ago was employed by natives of the northwest Pacific coast in coloring their fish nets. Alder dye, used for the same purpose, is said to be the oldest recorded dye in the world. It is mentioned in the Kalevala of Finland, supposed to date nearly 3,000 years ago.

EASY TO DAREN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You Can Bring Back Colour and Lustre With Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is mussy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years [illegible] ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite, and not a medicine. ### TREE TOPS AS ANTENNAE OF WIRELESS STATIONS

According to Major-General Squire chief signal officer of the United States army every tree-top is a potential wireless tower. The discovery was made during army manoeuvres at Camp Atascdero, California, when it was found that telegraph and telephone buzzers inoperative because of the dry season and unusual character of the soil become operative when connected with the trunk or roots of a tree.

During hostilities the American army, with a string of stations using treetops as antennae, read messages from ships at sea and principal European radio stations, but so far transmission with the tree-tops radio has only been successful over short distances.—Tit Bits.

The Doctor's Prescription.

Of historical interest is the emblem found on every prescription written by a physician, consisting of the letter R with a thin line across the tail at an acute angle. According to historians, it had its origin in the ancient custom of allowing the stars to dominate everyday incidents of life. The R thus marked is said to have been the emblem used by the ancients to designate the supremacy of Jupiter. Therefore it seems probable that some chemist of ancient days gave a prescription or a recipe to some patient and wrote upon it the emblem of the planet then in the ascendancy, which happened to be Jupiter. This emblem has come down to the present time and is always used. In a more modern sense it stands for a recipe, or an order or instruction to take something. Literally construed, recipe means "take" or "take thou."

How to Learn to Write.

Putting words together is not writing; making fine sentences is not writing; elaborating striking plots is not writing. Of all the arts literature is the most exacting mistress. To write you must have lived, you must have suffered and know joy, you must be able to analyze people, to understand their motives, to love them.

Granted that you have learned something of the motives, the passions, the sorrows that rack us humans, then you must also have your medium in control. Words are like little creatures that march and fight and sing. They are like extra hands and brains. All the passions wait on them. Until you get this sense of the choiceness, the fragility, the power of words, you are not ready to transcribe your thoughts.

FOREST PRODUCTS BRING MONEY INTO THE DISTRICT

HOW THE TIMBER AND LUMBER INDUSTRY EXPANDED THROUGHOUT THE COUNTY

AGGREGATE OUTPUT COLOSSAL—TWENTY-FIVE YEARS OF MANUFACTURING ACTIVITY.

(By F. H. Dobbin)

As one drives the boundary lines of the several townships of the County, and over the concession lines as well, comment is made on the apparently extensive tracts of lands exceeding well wooded and not under cultivation. This is seen on all sides. The territory included in this review embraces the district ranging from Rice Lake and South Monaghan on the south to above Apsley, some fifteen miles to the north. From west to east, Smith township to the confines of Belmont and Asphodel and Dummer, besides townships to the north-east. These may not be mentioned in detail for in this comment and observation on the timber and lumber business of the district, and some reference to its salient features, generally broad statements may be accepted, and not intimate particulars. Else narrative will run into tedious length.

While forest lands are still in the foreground, the one conspicuous and salient feature in the landscape of the year 1838 and for thirty years afterward is gone. That of the almost inexhaustable stands of pines that towered above the general surroundings, trees of hundreds of years of growth. Abundent on the stretches of territory to the south, but especially so to the north. A rich and meteous mine to be worked and the spoils marketed and only awaiting the time indicated some means of transportation to invite operations. And when such was afforded, truly was wasted our substance in riotous living, in that the stands of timber were felled in reckless and prodigal way. Nearly so much wasted as used.

It is true that the flood of money that came into the district was the financial salvation of the country, but it came in at too high a price. To the lumberman engaged in operations the cost in time of money was high and exacting. Large sums were locked up for almost excessive interest. Stock cut out and marketed, either lumber, for the English trade or deals for the American, the money made was gained not by those who manufactured the timber or lumber but to the dealer who merchandized it. England had no reason to build ships of iron or steel to any extent: The Western States demanded the forest of New England and Canada was to be exploited for the benefit of all concerned.

Searched the Flyes

The writer has searched each page of a weekly paper published in Peterborough, the issues being consecutive since the year 1843. For ten years the Peterborough Despatch was published, and in its columns may be found wealth of information on matters relating to the district and to its trade and commerce. One insistent one is the appeal for communication in the shape of a railway to afford an outlet for the products of the district, and notably for agriculture and lumber. In the issue of the Despatch for July 29th, 1847, under comments, as follows:—"We send out merchandize or take off the soil from 25s. to 30s. ton freight is paid. For the last two weeks we have scarcely been able to get a trunk conveyed to Port Hope or to Cobourg. The journey to Lake Ontario, of thirty miles, now occupies ten hours, and articles such as salt, plaster, etc., are in a great measure shut out from us by the expense of freight. The saw mills of our neighborhood can cut upwards of 60,000 feet per day, but are often in a great measure idle for want of a market for lumber, owing to the expense of transit."

And in further illustration of the situation, it is stated that in Peterborough, with no railroad in any part of the country wheat was worth only 37cts per bushel and about fifty cents at Port Hope, (turning the values into the decimal coinage, then coming in). On March 2nd, 1848, and with the prospective completion of the Grand Trunk Railway, along the "Front", the Despatch stated that prices that day were as follows: Fall wheat, 3s. 9d., Spring wheat, 3s. 3d., oats, 9d. to 10d., pail per bushel. Hay per ton from 27s. 6d. to 30s. per ton." These advances based on only a prospect of easier access to markets. How vitally the deprivation affected the lumber business can be judged.

In 1846 a charter was obtained to construct a railroad from Port Hope to Peterborough. Stock books were opened and over ten thousand pounds subscribed. For a time considerable enthusiasm existed, but owing to the difficulty of raising money the project dropped.

Opening a Road.

During the Session of the Legislature of Upper Canada 1852-3 an act was obtained incorporating a company to construct a road from Cobourg to Peterborough, and with subsequent amendments to carry on to Chemong Lake, to enable the lumber freight in prospect from mills at Bobcaygeon and on the lakes to be secured. In the fall of 1854 the line was opened for traffic, and an impetus was at once given to every branch of trade at Peterborough. The lumber trade increased immensely, and where before the export of lumber, (by means of the river to Harwood, and by teaming to Cobourg), had not exceeded from three to four million feet per annum it at once increased to about twenty millions and in future years exceeded by double the output named. Use was made of the bridge across Rice Lake, at the best a precarious means of gaining the south shore of the lake. However it effected a purpose. Then when a few years afterwards the line to Port Hope was opened the lumber trade found its own and the extent of the export was at once reflected in the increase of population in and about the town. A census taken in the town at the spring of 1852 showed that the population was only 1,500, a special census taken in 1858 gave over 3,500, and the officer who made the census, observes that taking the population outside the actual limits of the town, that there would not be much under 5,000.

Business Expanded

Beginning in the early forties the lumber business increased, expanded all through the Colborne District, and reached its highest point about the year 1868. From that time onward the output declined except from parts of the county especially favored with limits at that time in a somewhat virgin state. The district was favorably situated in one regard, that there was abundance of water available for operations. The lakes to the north and streams tributary facilitated operations much more so than in other localities. Those operating set up camps in the heart of the limits. By men housed in these camps, buildings of almost permanent construction and with roads connecting to the south, operations in felling the trees, cutting into log lengths and hauling, or "cadging," as it was termed, to the banks of the streams or shores of the lakes went on during the winter. When the snows melted in the spring and streams were in excess of water the logs were dumped into the current and floated to the lakes, where, formed into groups of "booms," they were guided through the connecting waters to Bobcaygeon, to Lakefield, or other point as desired. Logs for manufacture below Clear Lake were set loose and floated down the river, the "drive," as the group of men housed on a floating camp, followed the rush of logs carried onward by the current. Weeks and months of incessant and watery labour were required, the work being carried on principally by crews of men recruited from Lower Canada, and known by the facetious name of "pea-soups," from their fondness for that form of diet. They appeared in the early spring and went away when their special work had been performed. An experienced, daring, reckless set of men, inured to privation and clothed in strange apparel, rather grotesque. Prone to fighting and excess of liquor and contemptuous of the dweller in the habitations of the town or villages. It was from this class of experienced men that Lord Wolseley recruited his crews of voyageurs to man the boats on his famous expedition up the Nile to the relief of General Gordon.

Trade Divided.

The trade divided itself into two main products, those of square timber and sawn lumber. In the preparation of the square timber the best and finest trees were selected. Felled with care to avoid breakages, for a pine of eighty feet in height coming down like a gigantic flail had to be guided clear of rocks and boulders, else its commercial value would be discounted in the foreign market. Cut to from forty to fifty foot lengths, the shaft of the tree was squared by men who chopped and afterwards unerringly using the broadaxe, lined out the trunk to dimensions. Trees under twenty-four inches in diameter were not used, those coming out better in the manufacture of lumber. Having been prepared and pointed and bored at each end, the timber logs were drawn to the ice and formed into rafts, say, thirty feet in width, all tied together with withes, as the soft and string small elms and willows used in place of ropes were termed. With four huge oars or sweeps at front and back, the float was ready to undertake the voyage south, so soon as the ice released the material.

Just as the sailor assumes the perils of the sea, the raftsman took the dangers of the river passage. All the power dams were constucted with sluices specially prepared to allow of the passage of the timber rafts, with the largest and most powerful part of the water passing over the dam directed to that particular sluice. From Lakefield to Nassau was an exciting passage. With a fall in the river of not less than 180 feet in the ten miles to Peterborough, there was some current. And the river, as may be noted by following the Douro side to Lakefield, was diversified by numerous twists and bends. With an enormous quantity of water dashing down the river and at places confined by the banks, the trip was one of excitement and real danger. Many men perished, flooded right off the cribs, despite the life ropes to hang to. Year after year, local papers printed paragraphs noting the drowning of men. Cribs formed of hard woods, such as elm and oak, were especially dangerous, for being less buoyant than pine were always submerged in the rolling water at the foot of the slides and hard to handle. Such timber was despatched as early in the spring as possible to avoid being "waterlogged" and liable to sink. Myriads of logs are at the bottom of the waters at points all along the line of flotage.

Dangerous Trip.

Venturesome souls, those of great daring and high of aqueous purpose would hie them to any of the dams along the river, and as the crib started on its plunge down the slide, jump on and secure passage as a stowaway. Such contributions to the passenger list were generally hailed by threats and curses from the crew. It had quite enough on its hands without rescuing some dry goods clerk or baker from the clutches of the current. The trip was more dangerous than riding an airplane, which avocation presenting large opportunity to rise in the world, is equally impetuous in the way of coming down again. After a spell of rest in Little Lake, the cribs floated peacefully to Rice Lake and to Hastings for further passage down the Trent River to Trenton. Thence in bulk or dismantled to Montreal and Quebec for export. Once the G. T. R., as it is now termed, reached Lakefield, quantities of timber were loaded on cars and by rail reached destination. Also at Hastings and Campbellford shipments were made. Quantities were forwarded from Harwood, on Rice Lake, to Cobourg, and there loaded on lake boats for Montreal. Special sticks of red pine, of which many were located, had value as masts, and were given careful handling, but the expense called for in removal and preparation left but a limited profit on this branch of the service.

Nominal Sum.

Viewed in the light of present day prices and future scarcity, the emoluments from the business seemed ridiculously small. Loaded on the cars the sawn lumber averaged about $6.00 per thousand feet, board measure. It is true that the rights to cut on the limits cost only a nominal sum, and rated by labour costs of to-day the manufacturing costs were not large. The trade raised this district from a position of a restricted industry to comparative affluence. Especially so was the benefit seen in the country districts. At once came into being an almost unlimited market for the settler's produce. Hay, oats, and horse fodder was bought almost at the settler's door. He also was enabled to sell his services and his team to the highest bidder. His winter, instead of being one of inactivity, brought to him steady employment. For nearly twenty years he had his hands full of business. And during the late fifties and along through the sixties the town reflected the prosperity that had been brought about. George Street showed, by the buildings that there was money in the country and open to investment. Men of those days, who were behind the town and who had to an extent reaped from the harvest, in turn met the growing demand for business places and the appearance of the streets in the business section showed the impetus. Space will not permit of referring to this except in a general way.

The townships of Monmouth, Cavendish, Galway, and those further north, and afterwards brought under civic government as a part of the County of Haliburton, were prolific in standing timber suitable for manufacture of sawn lumber. Logs that now appear on the waters of the river were disdained as too small to make use of. Railroad ties, for instance, were in only moderate demand. Shingles were cut from logs culled from the drives as not suitable for boards manufacture. Vast quantities of slabs resulted from the slicing of logs down to the standard widths of lumber. Thirteen and sixteen feet in length, ten inches and twelve inches in width and of one inch in thickness was the accepted standard. Esteemed better for handling, shipping and for ship tonnage. Such lumber piled closely and evenly in or on a schooner or sea carriage vessel did not shift.

Free Wood.

The poor man of those days had his picnic. The cost of fuel did not bother if he were at all resourceful. From any of the seven or eight mills operating in or about the town massive and thick slabs could be had for haulage. Drawn and piled in the yard they formed excellent fuel. Large quantities of driftwood adorned the surface of the river and gave endless diversion to the boys in catching and bringing ashore. Indeed, the manufacture of plaster lath, in the form as we now have it, was not thought of in the first burst of manufacture. The builder would select clear, broad boards of pine, sixteen inches or more in width and half an inch in thickness. Placing the board on the ground, with an axe he split the board at intervals, for parts of its length. This when nailed to the studding and expanded by pulling and fastening formed the means by which the plastered wall was completed. Supremely wasteful, but lumber was a drug in the market.

"Strip Built Houses."

Many of the oldest houses now standing in the city are of the form of construction known as "strip built houses," a form of building so rigid, durable, solid and complete that it has been the standard for the erection of grain elevators and storage buildings for coal and weighty materials. The foundation being built a sill was laid on and closely grouted to the stones. On this the walls arose, being strips of inch lumber, six inches wide, alternate strips projecting one over the other to hold the plaster. Securely nailed, a wall was made the very finest. Openings for doors or windows were left or cut out afterwards.

It may be of interest to look at a list of sawmills in operation in the town and county about the year 1858. The number was added to during the ten years following. Quantities of lumber cut by these mills are in the main estimates, made at the time by the person who compiled the list. While the output from individual mills seems not large, it will be remembered that they were at it all the time, and often day and night. So that considering the output for single days, raising that day by day for a season (fully nine months) multiply the years nearly twenty-five, one gains some idea of how our forests were denuded. In addition mills at Eagle Lake, Harvey township, at Buckhorn, and at the head of Stoney Lake, added to the total of timber manufactured.

Various Local Mills.

Nassau Mill, Charles Perry. The largest and most complete mill in the counties and one of the finest in the province. About four miles up the river (and now the site of the C. G. E. power house). This mill had a standing challenge to cut against any mill in the province. Unanswered. Capacity as demonstrated 180,000 feet in 24 hours.

Perry's Mill. (E. Perry & Co.) East side of the river at what was afterwards the waterworks old dam. 100 saws in all. Average cutting 60,000 feet in 24 hours.

Snyder's Mill. West side of waterworks old dam. Similar to Perry's mill and of 65,000 feet capacity in 24 hours.

Blythe Saw Mill. On the river opposite where the Auburn mill now stands. Thirty six saws and shingle machines. Cutting 20,000 feet per day. James Bird, proprietor. Afterwards came into the hands of Geo. Hilliard, etc.

Dickson's Steam Mill. On the Little river, on the first and old government dam. Stood about the end of what is now Hazlitt street. Capacity 25,000 feet per day. One of the mills owned by Samuel Dickson.

Dickson's Stem Mill. On the Little Lake, about the end of Mark street. Well equipped for lumber sawing and special sizes of timber. Steam power and capacity of 50,000 feet per day.

Roger's Mill. East side of the river and at the end of the Otonabee bridge. 15,000 feet per day.

McDougall and Ludgate mill. On Little Lake, north shore. Steam driven. Destroyed by fire in 1868. This firm afterwards rebuilt this mill at Harwood on Rice Lake to take advantage of better shipping facilities, via Cobourg. 55,000 feet per day.

Dickson's Mills. (Samuel Dickson.) Two mills at the foot of London street, served by a new dam. One mill for sawing export lumber; the other for local trade and dimension timber. Capacity 60,000 feet per day.

Boswell's Mill, Douro, at the east side of the river and on the Hall dam. (Opposite Inverlea Park). 25,000 feet per day.

Scott's Mill. (Walter Scott.) About a mile beyond the village of Bridgenorth, shore of Chemong Lake. Steam power and production of about 500,000 feet in the summer months.

Bobcaygeon Mill. Mossom Boyd & Co. Drawing its supplies of logs from Harvey, Smith, Fenelon and district adjacent. At first of capacity of 20,000 feet per day but presently enlarged to treble capacity.

Shaw's Mill. Lakefield. Capacity of about 60,000 feet per day.

Allandale Mill. (Thomas Short.) On the Indian River, with steam power as reserve. Capacity of 20,000 feet per day. This mill introduced the first improved shingle machine, capable of cutting from 40 to 60 shingles a minute. The steam engine in this mill was brought out from Glasgow and afterwards being of the marine or walking beam type, was bought by Harry Calcutt, and placed in the steamer "Golden-Eye."

Kelly's Mill. (S. S. Kelly.) At Bridgenorth. Steam power, and a capacity of about 500,000 feet during the summer months. This mill or its successor, is still in service.

Hastings Mill. (Messrs. Fowlds.) Capacity about 14,000 feet per day.

Norwood Mill. (P. M. Grover.) 4,000 feet per day.

In addition the following may be summarized: Seawright's mill, on Round Lake, Belmont, 4000 feet per day; Breakenridge mill, also in Belmont, lot 18, con. 5, 6000 feet per day; Holcomb's mill, lot 12, con. w, Belmont, 2000 feet per day; Pearce's mill, lot 6, con. 9, Belmont, 2000 feet daily; Holbrooke's mill, lot 4, con. 8, Belmont, 3000 feet per day; Grover's mill, about one mile from Norwood, and of a capacity of 4000 feet per day; the Westwood mill, of same capacity; Ewing's mill, on lot 4, con 2, Asphodel, 15,000 per day; Pyne's, Ritchie's, Choate's, Buck's, and Carveth's saw mills, in Dummer, with a combined capacity of 12,000 feet per day; Ferrier's and Sawyer's mills in Douro, with a capacity together of 5,000 feet each day.

Along the borders of the adjoining counties on the east and west were a large number of sawmills, which need not be itemized, but whose consumption of logs and timber helped to turn out a very large amount of merchantable lumber. From the foregoing it can be estimated what the rate of demolition of the forests amounted to and how speedily the operations denuded the lands of timber, the loss of which we now feel most seriously.

POLICE FORCE MAY SAVE ENOUGH FOR SEWAGE PLANT, OR SOMETHING

The city may not be the best employer in the world, but in buying clothes for their uniformed staffs they never skimp on quality and seldom on price. Consider the new issue of blue serge suits that give to Chief Thompson's "finest" the appearance of near millionaires. In these days of so much shoddy and so little wool it might be expected that a piece of cloth comparable with the old standards must be a last remnant from the days before the war, but Merrell and Meredith have somehow or other procured an excellent quality of serge to deck the handsome gentlemen who, if they weren't the efficient protectors of life and property that they are would probably have been snatched off long ago by Messrs. Morris, Geat, Comstock, and other purveyors of musical comedy.

The police force is of course impervious to favourable comparisons with Adonis and all his kind, but in their service hats and togs they must know that real serge is even scarcer than gold, or is so reported by the clothiers, and hence every new blue suit, pressed to perfection, is an object of envy to the great majority of the men on the street who are not so exacting in their selection of cloth in these days when $75 is not worth the $25 of only four years ago. Probably the police constables realize this fact, although there was some comment that they had expected the new uniforms as a spring issue, but they should recognize the opportunity for economy by stretching the present suits over two years and saving the price of the 1920 models of police raiment. From the present outlook this prospective saving might pay for a new motor driven chemical engine, or the sewage disposal plant. Irish serge is set higher upon the sartorial pedestal than ever and the tailors, wholesale and custom, have visions of a steady ascent before it starts downward to a new normal level. Hence the police may become public benefactors by carefully spreading their trousers under the mattress every night and hanging their tunics over the biggest chair in the house.

Some of the citizens who have been impressed by the police uniforms are divided as to whether the palm for masculine pulchritude must be handed to Chief Thompson's or Chief Grange's men. Mr. Dahn overlooked a good thing when he failed to work in the gentlemen of the two departments, especially when dolled in their buttons and braid, into the popularity contest at the Grand. There is a possibility, however, that the peculiarly advantageous position of the police in such a contest might be a helpful influence with auto drivers who are tempted to cut corners when they think there are no constables looking, not to mention other persons who trifle with the statutes. By a subtle persuasion that might be employed in this way the Thompson men would probably carry off the verdict, deservedly or not in a contest to decide whether they or the Firemen are the better looking, more upstanding etc., etc., and all that is implied in the word "finest" as applied to uniformed staffs.

Such a Change

in feelings and looks! "After suffering pain, feeling nervous, dizzy, weak and dragged down by weaknesses of my sex—my eyes sunken, black circles and pale cheeks—I was restored to health by the Favorite Prescription of Dr. Pierce." So write many women. Changed too in looks, for after taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the skin becomes clear, the eyes brighter, the cheeks plump. Druggists sell it in tablets or liquid. It's a woman's best temperance tonic, made from wild roots.

HAMILTON, ONTARIO.—"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription helped me greatly at the turn of life. I commenced to have bad flushes and dizzy spells and became nervous and run-down. These conditions very quickly left me after I commenced with the 'Favorite Prescription.' I took several bottles of it and truly believe that I owe my good health of to-day to the medicine I took and the care exercised at that trying time."—Mrs. ROBERT HARRIS, 66 Bay Street, S.

CONVICTION WAS QUASHED

TORONTO, July 30.—Judge Morson this morning quashed the recent conviction by Magistrate Kingsford, against Rev. R. H. Spence, secretary of the Dominion Alliance, in connection with the famous "Parasite" banned by the censor. The Judge took this action because no attempt was made to circulate the "Parasite" after it was published. The conviction carried with it a fine of $300 or four months' imprisonment.

"NO WINE, NO WORK," SAY FRENCH SEAMEN

Liner Chicago Held up Until Fourteen Barrels Are Brought Aboard

NEW YORK,—July 30.—Substitution of an inferior sour wine for their stipulated ration of one quart of Bordeaux daily, precipitated a "no wine, no work" strike among the crew of the French liner Chicago, which was only ended when fourteen barrels of the desired vintage was brought alongside and put aboard, it was learned when the vessel arrived here from France today.

After the Chicago had steamed thirty miles down the Garonne River to Pauillac on July 17, members of the crew discovered something amiss with their daily potation. They immediately declared a "strike", and refused to handle the ship unless the wine was changed.

An officer was despatched to Bordeaux to notify the company of the situation, and soon afterwards a lighter, with fourteen barrels aboard was brought alongside. The crew appointed a committee of six to determine whether the new consignment was satisfactory. Each barrel was sampled and approved. Then the ship sailed, after a delay of 72 hours.

VETERANS ARE TOLD THEY NEEDN'T APPLY

PRESCOTT, July 30.—A delegation of the Great War Veterans called upon Registrar Johnston, who has charge of the enumerators for the county of Grenville, requesting that returned men be appointed for Prescott.

They were informed that the Conservative Association was appointing the officials and they need not apply.

xGrenville is represented in the Legislature by Hon. G. H. Ferguson.

PUPILS MADE A GOOD SHOWING

At the recent Entrance Examinations, Omemee, Miss Gladys Hunter's, (Peterboro), pupils made a splendid showing. Five candidates Orville Finley, Donald Jackson, Stuart McKague, Stella McConnell and Muriel G. Smith wrote and all were successful. This record is particularly good in consideration of the fact the school was closed down for two months during the influenza epidemic.

WORK PROGRESSING ON NEW PAVEMENTS.

Work is progressing rapidly on the paving of Lindsay streets, and in the course of a week or so all the ground work will be completed.

It is anticipated that the laying of the surface will not take nearly as long as the building of the foundation.

WILL VISIT STATES

WASHINGTON, July 30. — King Albert and Queen Elizabeth of Belgium, will visit America in September, it was learned to-day. They will be guests of the President in Washington after he has completed his trip.

CHATHAM POLICE ARREST MAN LOADED LIKE A PEDDLER.

CHATHAM, July 30.—James Smith, address unknown, was arrested by the police here on a charge of vagrancy. He was suspected of being Winfield Dungan, who is wanted on a charge of seducing the little six-year-old daughter of a Rondeau fisherman. Smith had been arrested once before as a suspect in the Walen murder case of Harriston. When he was arrested Smith had on his person about $175 in money, a bank book fixing his financial standing at $1,966.86, ten watches of various makes, 20 jackknives, a number of razors, a couple of flashlights. He claimed he earned money in dealing with these articles, but in spite of his wealth he will be tried for vagrancy. It is claimed he loads around the country and refuses to buy meals.

HOUOURS FOR MARSHAL FOCH

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, July 30.—King George received Marshal Foch at Buckingham Palace, and conferred upon him the rank of Field-Marshal of the British Army.

Marshal Foch later was escorted to the Guildhall, where he was given the freedom of the City and presented with a sword of honour.

PRISONERS TO BE RELEASED

Berlin Political Prisoners Go on a Hunger Strike.

(Canadian Press.)

BERLIN, July 30.— The greater part of the political prisoners who have been on a hunger strike for several days probably will be released, Gustave Noske, Minister of Defence, told the German National Assembly. His announcement was made in response to a motion by Independents in the Assembly calling for the release of political prisoners.

Minister Noske said an investigation had been ordered and that it probably would result in the release of a large number.

THE SITUATION HAS IMPROVED

(Canadian Press.)

CHICAGO, Ill., July 30.—State-Attorney Horn announced that the August Grand Jury will investigate the race riots and attempt to fix the responsibiliti for the outbreaks.

Coroner Hoffman to-day resumed the taking of testimony in the inquest on the bodies of the victims.

Adjutant-General Dickson, after making a tour of the danger zone early to-day reported that the situation was much improved compared with yesterday. He said the most serious situation confronting the police is in the stockyards district.

LAUNCH CAME FROM MONTREAL

Mr. Gordon Fraser's new launch, the "Wonder," which he purchased recently in Montreal to replace the launch burned recently at Burleigh, was taken through the Peterborough locks to-day en route to Mr. Fraser's cottage at Burleigh. The "Wonder" is a thoroughly equipped gasoline-driven boat weighing 48 tons net. Captain W. H. White, who went down for the launch to Montreal, took her through the Peterborough locks.

FAILED TO SETTLE THE COAL STRIKE

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, July 30.— An attempt to settle the Yorkshire coal strike to-day proved abortive. A conference of mine owners and strikers held at Leeds failed to reach an agreement.

LOCAL MARKET.

Live hogs took another jump today and are now selling at twenty-three dollars and twenty-five cents a hundred. This is the second increase this week. Other products are about the same.

They were: Violet McNevan, Olive Richardson, Margaret McCarthey, Marion Comrie, Janet Mollison and Margaret Campbell. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful.

Bad Breath? Don't Be Offensive Removes the Cause

Follow This Advice and Your Breath Will Soon be Sweet and Pure.

The bad part of Bad Breath is the fact that nearly every case shows considerable trouble from indigestion belching gas, bloating, piles or some form of stomach misery. Oftener than not a pimply face, a sluggish constipated condition is the true cause of many a man's failure in life.

By aiding digestion and building up the weak muscles of the stomach and bowels, DR HAMILTON'S PILLS completely overcome constipation and all forms of stomach illness.

"I was terribly run down with stomach trouble that arose through neglected constipation, writes Mrs P. D. Quigley, from Washburn, P.O. I simply couldn't half digest my food I had dreadful headaches, piles and yellow muddy skin. The effect of DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS was phenomenal. I have gained in weight, have a clear skin, no more headaches. I eat well, sleep well and enjoy my meals.

BIG ADVANCE IN PRICE OF SOAP

All Manufacturers of andry Soaps have advanced their prices within the last week or ten days from $1.00 to $1.50 per box, so that Cake Soaps that used to be sold retail at 5c or 6 for 25c are now 10c and in many cases 11c per cake, and he large bar that before the war retailed at 15c is now 30c for the same size bar.

The reason for this big advance is the high price of all fats and oils. On consulting the New York market reports for years past we find that tallow, which is the principal ingredient used in the manufacture of all the better grades of Soap, and which really governs the price of all the fast ond oils ,averaged 6 1-4 per lb. for 15 years previous to the war; las week it sold up to 20 and 22c per lb., or nearly 4 times tis former price; so that we need not be surprised to seme Soaps even higher, as the manufacturers have not yet advanced their prices nearly in proportion to the advance they are having to pay for their principal ingredient.

ODD LUMBER SHIP OFF SOON.

Vessel Built Solidly of Timber to Steam to England.

PRINCE RUPERT, B. C. — A ship unique in maritime history is soon to be launched on the coast for a trans-Atlantic voyage by way of the Panama Canal. It will be built solidly of 2,000,000 feet of British Columbia lumber and will sail for England under its own power.

By reducing transportation costs and automatically solving the tonnage problem this strange vessel is expected to revolutionize the overseas lumber trade and increase British Columbia's lumber exports speedily to gigantic proportions.

Sir James Ball, British timber controller, has already ordered the ship constructed. The timber of which it will be formed was cut in the vast forests of the central British Columbia, along the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway and is in course of shipment to the coast.

The method of constructing the vessel will be simple. Blocks will be laid for the keel and fore-and-aft, and cross timbers will then be placed in position. When sufficient timber has thus been put togeth r in regular shipbuilding style, to insure buoyancy the embryonic vessel will be launched.

Donkey engines on board will hoist the lumber into place. The planks will be so adjusted as to form rounded bows and stern for a ship of solid lumber which will ride low in the water. The vessel will be fitted with five masts with great fore-and-aft schooner sails and auxiliary engines, which will enable it to travel at fair speed in calm weather.

When the ship arrives at port in England, the fastenings, which hold the lumber in place, will be released leaving the lumber, now loose planks again, ready for immediate distribution. The unloadin of the craft will mean its demolition. When the lumber is taken away there will be no ship left. The engines will be taken out and sent back to British Columbia to be used in another vessel of the same kind.

RETURNED MAN LOSES LIFE FORDING THE RIVER MOIRA.

BELLEVILLE, July 28. — Pte. Wm. McFaul, a returned soldier, was drowned in the River Moira, near Foxboro village on Sunday afternoon. At the point where the accident occurred the river is shallow and McFaul was attempting to ford it when he slipped into a hole and lost his life. The victim was a former resident of Campbellford and enlisted and went overseas with the 254th Battalion from this city. He was an inmate of the Rockwood Hospital, where he was receiving treatment as his mind was unbalanced. The body was brought to this city to be prepared for burial at Campbellford.

June Elvidge, the famous Wolrd-Pictures star, was recently united in mariage to Lieutenant Frank Badgley, formerly of the 14th Canadian Battalion, who went overseas from his home in Ottawa, Ontario, with the first Canadian Overseas Contingent in 1914, and who later was attached to the New York British-Canadian recruiting offices.

Due to the prominence of Miss Elvidge in the motion picture world and the prominence of Lieut. Badgley in Canada, the marriage attracted a great amount of attention. The young couple received a notable reception when they went to Ottawa to spend their honeymoon with Lieut. Badgley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Badgley, of 361 Stewart street.

Lieut. Badgley, who was born in Ottawa, and served as a newspaper man in Ottawa and Montreal, went overseas with the First Canadian Contingent in September, 1914, as a private. He won his commission on the held and was decorated with the Military Cross at Courcelette for bravery in action.

He was wounded and gassed later, after which he was sent home. Eventually he was sent to New York to help the British Recruiting Mission there. He met Miss Elvidge, and it was not long before he was attracted into the moving picture business himself, becoming attached to the publicity department of one of the New York producing companies. Lieut. Badgley is also an athlete, having been a member of the eight-oared crew of the Britannia Boat Club of Ottawa. He also played football with McGill University, Montreal, and hockey with the Ottawa Collegiate Institute.

Miss Elvidge's Career.

Miss Elvidge has made a big name for herself by her work in World Pictures, where she began two years ago in minor parts, and soon achieved such tremendous popularity and such a striking screen personality that she was advanced to stardom. Among her recent successes are "Joan of the Woods," "A Woman of Redemption," "The Zero Hour" and "The Appearance of Evil."

WILLARD ONLY GETS $90,000 OUT OF $100,000

NEW YORK. — Taxes levied by the government on the $100,000 which Jess Willard received when he lost his heavyweight boxing title to Jack Dempsey, decreased the amount to $68,590, according to figures announced here to-night by E. J. Lynch, an internal revenue agent. Dempsey actually received $23,976 of the $27,500 called for in his contract, he added.

The former champion paid a normal tax of $7,868 and a surtax of $23,370, in all $31,410, according to the figures, while Dempsey's normal tax was $2,068, with a surtax of $1,468.

OPERATION ON DEMPSEY'S NOSE.

CHICAGO, July 29 — Jack Dempsey, world'd heavyweight champion, arrived here to-day from Salt Lake City for an operation on his nose According to Dempsey, he has been bothered by incorrect breathing for many months The champion was besieged to-day by promoters and others who want to put him in circuses, in the movies and on the stage Jack Kearns, his manager, declined to wait a few days before considering the propositions.

OAK HALL, 409-11 GEORGE ST

TEMPERANCE FORCES HAVE BEEN ORGANIZED IN DUMMER TOWNSHIP

MASS MEETING WAS HELD IN THE TOWN HALL BY T. M. WESLEY.

WARSAW, July 29 — At a mass meeting in the town hall, Mr. T. M. Wesley organized the Township of Dummer for the referendum campaign. Mr. Greystock was appointed chairman for the evening and Rev. Robert, secretary. Mr. Wesley said that prohibition was no new thing. 1600 Years ago a Chinese emperor threatened to pull up every grape vine in China and so stop drunkenness.

The referendum committee consists of representatives of the committee of one hundred: The W. C. T. U., the Council of Women and the Dominion Alliance. Everyone has a right to vote, man or woman, who is a British subject who has lived in the country one year and in the municipality three months (provision is made for returned solders) and who is twenty-one years of age. only they must see that ther names are on the lists.

Each township bears its own expenses, but there is a central publicity bureau at Toronto, from which anyone may obtain literature, and the different municipalities are asked to contribute towards this.

The township committee are — chairman, Mr. James Greystock, 1st. vice-chairman, Mrs. David Miller, 2nd. Vice-chairman, Mr. Nathan Payne, secretary, Mrs. William Wasson; treasurer, Mrs. Arthur Edwards; other members of the executive: Messrs. Aex Daling, John Jenkins, Williamson, Garfield Crowe and Mr. Percy Kidd.

This executive will appoint two more members from each of the poling places in the township. They will hold their first executive meeting in the basement of the Methodist church on Wednesday evening.

Home From Front.

Mr. Wasson Lynn, of Crossfield, Sask., is visiting in the village. As he had spent his childhood and early manhood in the village, he has many friends who welcomed him. He returned from overseas on the "Celtic" When the armistice was signed he was on the west coast of Africa, where he had been for one year. He had enlisted in the Canadian navy and was among those lent by the Canadian Government to the Imperial navy. He spent practically all his time on minesweeping trawlers. What the British navy did for the Allies can never be known and what the trawlers did as their work in the navy can never be realized. Mr. Lynn was in the English Channel for several months before he went to West Africa. His story of his life at sea is one of the most interesting your correspondent has ever heard. As he visited Gibraltar, Lisbon and many other points.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hawthorne started on a trip to Medicine Hat and other points west last Tuesday morning.

Mr. Spencer was in the village last week.

Mrs. Robert Hill of Swift Current is visiting relatives in Warsaw.

Mr. Wesley was a guest at the Baptist parsonage last Wednesday.

Mr. Arthur Hendren is delivering mail on R. R. No. 1.

Colonel and Mrs. Thomas Johnston, Otonabee spent Sunday visiting Major and Mrs. Wallace Anderson.

Mr. Ruber Stone, who has been visiting at the manse for a week, returned home on Saturday.

Miss Bessie Turriff, who has spent a couple of weeks with her mother at the manse, returned to Toronto on Saturday.

Pte. Theodore Douglas has returned from overseas.

Quite a number of our people attended the social in Cottesloe on Friday evening, given by the I.O.O.F. when signet rings were presented to Messrs. Bailey and Patterson. There was one for Mr. Cuffe also, but he was not there to receive it. A very pleasant evening was spent.

Sunday's hot gusty winds, caused much of the milk to turn sour and few people were able to get whey on Monday.

A good deal of spring wheat and of barley is cut already and yesterday's hot winds ripened the oats very rapidly.

Saturday's rain was welcomed. It seemed to moisten the earth more than any of the previous rains.

HASTINGS NEWS OF INTEREST

HASTINGS, July 30.— Those who were successful at the recent Entrance examinations held here were Clifford Baker, Joselyn Berry, Josephine Blue (honours), Philip Doherty, Arthur Dodd, Rose Gorman, John Howard, Roland Jones (honours), Teresa Noonan, A. Parker, Bryant Scriver, Mable Stewart, and Walter Whitred.

Public Meeting.

In the Methodist church on Friday evening, a public meeting was held for the purpose of organizing the temperance forces for the coming referendum campaign. The following officers were elected: Chairman, Mr. R. C. Doxsee; 1st Vice, Mrs. D. Scriver; 2nd Vice, Mrs. Wm. Hill; Sec., Mr. Harold Wilson; Councillors, Messrs. J. A. Brown, A. V. German, N .P. Plant, D. Scriver, Dr. De Lamatter; Mesdames J. McGrail, E. Beavis, A. Merrill, E. Tate and Miss Della Plant. Mr. G. A. McMullen, of Toronto, was present and addressed the meeting.

Diver at Work.

A traffic sign has been placed at the corner of Front and Bridge streets, which will make it much safer for pedestrians.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry McMillan are rejoicing over the birth of a daughter.

Mr. Cecil Doxsee of Hillsburg, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Doxsee.

Dr. King and family of Toronto, arrived last week and are enjoying their annual vacation on the Trent river.

The steamer Stoney Lake passed through on Wediesday morning, carrying a large company of excursionists from Peterborough to Healey Falls. All on board seemed to be thoroughly enjoying the trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Beavis, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Hess, Miss Gladys Stevenson and Miss Evelyn Beavis motored to Lakefield on Wednesday and attended the wedding of Miss Maude Beavis and Mr. Allan Clarke.

Mr. J. R. Laing of Toronto, visited his sister, Mrs. N. Beavis last week.

Miss Helen Greenley has returned to her home in Toronto after an extended visit with friends in Hastings.

Mr. J. G. Staples of Lindsay, spent the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Tate.

A large crowd from Norham boarded the steamer here on Friday morning en route to Peterborough. A number of our citizens joined the party and spent a pleasant day together.

Mr and Mrs. (Rev.) E. Kyle and children visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hess on Sunday.

Miss Wilkinson, who is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Doxsee, rendered a fine vocal selection in the Methodist church on Sunday evening.

Miss Elsie Laing, of Norwood, was in town on Sunday.

Mr. Robt. Simpson lost a valuable horse during the week by falling into a well. When the animal was discovered it was dead.

Miss Kathleen Howard of Toronto, is spending the holiday at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. McAllister of Monaghan, spent Sunday with Hastings friends.

AIRSHIPS WILL CARRY AIRPLANES

CAN BE RELEASED IN NOSE DIVE AT HEIGHT OF THOUSANDS OF FEET.

LONDON, July 30.—With the ratification of peace and the resumption of relations with Germany, there is every possibility that some of the chief Zeppelin engineers and designers will make an effort to reach America and there try to enlist financial backing for the development of rigid airships in the United States.

The correspondent of The Mail and Empire learned to-day that feelers have been put out in this direction. These Zeppelin builders feel that America rather than Germany will offer the greatest opportunities in the next decade. There have been other reports to the effect that interests in the big steel works in Germany would try to obtain financial control of the Zeppelin works, but so far they lack confirmation.

With Persistent Energy.

All the indications in this country are that the development and perfection of aerial liners will go forward with persistent energy. This is seen in plans for the voyage of the R-38 to Cairo, whence she may proceed to India.

Use of airplanes in connection with these liners is under serious consideration. It has been found practicable for an airship to carry airplanes, which may be released in a nose dive at a height of several thousand feet, if the propellers and the engines are started before the release.

There has been a suggestion that the R-38 be thus equipped when she goes to Cairo, and that the airplane will carry the mails. Before the trip eastward the R-38 may make a trial run to Spain and back, while the R-34 will undergo general overhauling at East Fortune to which place she is expected to fly to-morrow from Pulham, where she landed upon her return from Roosevelt Field.

To Visit Germany.

A commission representing the allied and associated powers is to go to Germany after the ratification of peace by the three powers, and to inspect there the Zeppelin and other airships as well as the seaplanes before their surrender, in accordance with the peace terms. The commission will include two American naval representatives and probably an army expert. It is said the United States would like to obtain one of the Zeppelins. In that case an American crew will probably take her to the United States.

YOUTH MUST BE SERVED?

NEW YORK, July 29.—It was clearly demonstrated a short time ago in a ring at Toledo, Ohio, that "youth must be served," but let's see if it really must.

Athletics, as a rule, in every line of effort, are about the same, so far as supremacy of youth or age is concerned. We find ball players passing out of the limelight at an age that strikes a fairly good average at 30 years; fighters drop hard after they have gone by that mark; runners, pole vaulters, football players—practically all who strive to amuse the public by athletic prowess, wither away as age creeps on them.

But there are exceptions to the rule. There are the Giants, for instance. Aged, decrepit, they have been called, yet the men led by John J. McGraw have set the pace for the National League practically all the season. There isn't a regular infielder on the club under 30. The pitching staff is composed of veterans for the most part. George Burns and Benny Kauff have by far too many years over their heads to be placed in the chicken class. The youngsters of the club are the chaps who are holding down bench positions, rather than the aged ones.

This club, it has been promised by many an expert, will crack in the dog days. But will it? It certainly is travelling at a fine clip now, and shows small signs of cracking.

Then we have Dick Remer. If you never saw Dick Remer do a walking race, you have missed a great sight. Dick has been winning walks for so long he can do it with his eyes shut and lead in his shoes. He walks around the youngsters. There isn't a man in the nation who can approach his form and speed when he is right. George Goulding is the only man on the track he has any great respect for, and Goulding has been making walking records for a good many years himself.

And then there is Jack Britton, who was defeated for the welterweight championship by Ted Lewis, only to come back and knock out Lewis. Britton is past 35, and is a better battler now than at any time in his career.

Pop Geers, who is so old he has quit counting, is still driving winning races on Grand Circuit tracks.

Doc Roller, who was considerable shucks as a wrestler before most of us knew what a rassle was, is still pinning shoulders to mats.

Youth will be served, of course, in most ventures, but age also has its fling in many cases, and don't forget that.

SKY IS LIMIT FOR PRO-GRID PLAYERS

CANTON, July 29.—Backers of professional football teams in Canton, Akron and Massillion have decided to make it a case of the survival of the fittest in the matter of players' salary limits during the 1919 campaign in which the Canton Bulldogs, led by "Indian Jim" Thorpe, famous backfield star, will defend the United States title, annexed in 1916 by a 24 to 0 victory over the Tigers of Massillon.

At a meeting here, officials voted down the proposition to establish a maximum compensatory sum. This decision means that the sky will be the limit in aligning star grinders for a series of games that presages keener rivalry than in recent seasons.

Officials, however, got together regarding contract rights. Once a player signs with one of the Ohio elevens, to tamper with him means that the manager of his agent will bring the team into disgrace. A scale of remuneration for officials was agreed upon for the big games.

LOCAL GOLFERS GO TO KIRKFIELD

Kirkfield Golf Club is holding a tournament, on Friday and Saturday of this week to which Peterborough players are invited. Lindsay, Kirkfield, Orillia and Peterborough will be represented at the tournament. Peterborough will send a team, and in addition to this, other local players will likely take part in the open handicap.

BELLEVILLE REPORT OF PETERBORO GAME

(FROM BELLEVILLE ONTARIO.)

—BELLEVILLE REPORT

Our team came back to Belleville after Saturday's game with the short-end of a 3-2 score, which should have been in no way the case. Peterboro played nice ball before their home crowd, which we would estimate numbered 2,000. With just a little care our boys could have scored a shut out. Goyer pitched great ball, once or twice retiring the side with the bases full by the strike-out route. On one or two occasions he pitched himself out of holes with one man down. We were real sorry to see him lose. In the first innings, the first man up for Belleville made a nice single which was followed by a double with no men down. The coacher let the man try to score from third on a short overthrow. He was caught. The man on second let off, slipped in the mud and was caught on a close decision, which Kay made sure to make in Peterboro's favour. Mills came along with his longest hit of the season, on which the two runners could have scored easily. He also slipped in the mud, going around first and was held at that base. Outside of this Belleville scored their first run on a wild heave. The second counter was earned when a sacrifice hit scored a man from third. In the seventh or eighth, Belleville had a grand chance with three on and two down, the third man one of our sluggers, died on a hit to second. Peterboro did not get an earned run. The tieing run came in on account of the ball being played to first with one down, when a man was on third and was trapped easily at home. The second came with two on and two down. A pop fly was hit which was dropped by an infield, letting the runner walk across the plate. Third came on account of overthrow by one of the fielders when the ball should have been returned to the pitcher.

Altogether the boys had eight errors, three of which were costly. The diamond being wet, marred the game at times, but it is a great ball team. Manager Soloman and the Peterboro fans gave the boys fair treatment and it is to be hoped that if Peterboro plays here again this season, the local fans do the same. Butler, of Lindsay, umpired behind the plate. He was very impartial to both teams and we like him fine. Kay, of Peterboro, was very poor on bases, in fact he gave Belleville three bad deals, each time they came when Belleville needed all chances and square deals. The G. T. R. team should not stand having him again.

DE VALERA MIGHT BE ARRESTED AT BORDER

Or Turned Back; If He Gets Across the Government Would Take Him.

OTTAWA, July 30.— If Mr. Eamonn De Valera, "President of the Irish Republic," accepts the invitation of the "Friends of Irish Freedom" in Montreal to visit Canada, his troubles will begin at the border, if the views of one Minister prevail in the Cabinet councils. The problem of dealing with President De Valera is one that the Dominion Government would rather avoid, but De Valera is regarded here as a political prisoner who escaped from custody. If he attempted to cross he might be arrested and turned over to the British authorities, who are not said to want him overmuch, or he might only be turned back at the border. It is thought, however, De Valera may avoid discovery at the border in some ingenious manner, and the Government would be forced to arrest him after he had arrived in Montreal as soon as he made a public appearance here.

WINNIPEG TRIAL STRIKE LEADERS

MAYOR GRAY IN THE WITNESS BOX

Special to the Examiner:

WINNIPEG, Man., July 30. — At the cross-examination to-day of Mayor Gray at the trial of the strike leaders, Mr. McMurray asked about the strike of 1918 and Senator Gideon Robertson's part in it. Mayor Gray said Robertson had said the men's demands were right.

McMurray—"You saw no connection between the accused and the riots on the 26th of January?"

Mayor Gray—"Only what I saw in the paper."

E. J. McMurray, counsel for the defence, protested against the presence of an army mounted policeman in Court as an orderly.

"We don't want any mountie interfering," he said.

Magistrate Noble expressed that as long as he was in charge he would see to it that there was proper respect for the Court, and that he depended on the mountie for it.

TWENTY BUSHELS TO ALBERTA ACRE

LETHBRIDGE, July 29.—Horace Eldridge is cutting 900 acres of fall wheat on the Blood Reserve, near Cardston, estimated to yield better than 20 bushels an acre. A two-thousand-acre crop, also near Cardston, is being cut, and will average 20 bushels.

Bordette farmers anticipate a 10 or 15 bushel crop. These are exceptions however. It is estimated that the alfalfa crop in the Lethbridge irrigated district will be worth a million dollars. Rain Saturday in the district only lasted an hour, and did very little good. Work has been started on extension of the irrigation system in the Taber irrigated district.

FAMOUS BALL PLAYER COMING

Peterborough ball fans will be interested in learning that two famous baseball players, Tris Speaker, the great outfielder, and Leslie Nunamaker, the clever catcher of the Cleveland American League club, are to be visitors in Peterborough this autumn. Together with Mr. Morris Ackerman, of Ackerman's Guide, they are to be the guests of the Pigeon Creek Shooting Club on a shooting trip in October.

ELIMINATE NIGHT WORK

TORONTO BAKERS WILL MAKE A MOVE TO SUBSTITUTE DAY WORK.

MAY CALL STRIKE

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, July 31. —"No night work" has been adopted as the slogan of the local Bakers' Union. At an executive meeting held yesterday, the chief item of discussion was the immediate abolition of the present system, and a substitution of day baking instead. The men declared themselves to be firm in their demand for a change and, if necessary, say they are willing to call for a strike vote of all local bakers to carry their project.

"Under the present system," said Thomas D. Watt, general organizer of the Canadian Federation of Labour, and business agent for the Bakers' Union. "We are given examples every day of how day work could easily be substituted for the present order. In cases where a holiday occurs on a Saturday the bread is baked on Thursday night, and lasts through without a further supply until Sunday night, a period of three full days. This effectually disposes of the argument that fresh bread could not be provided daily. It could be, as the bread baked on one day would be sold the next.

THE TERRORS OF PEACE

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, July 31.—Marshal Foch, submitting to photographers at his hotel in London yesterday, said to a reporter of the "Mirror": "For me the terrors of peace are worse than those of war. I hate all this position."

Major General Maxime Weygand, who is accompanying Marshal Foch, said it was for Great Britain to decide what should be done with the former Germany Emperor. "He is covered with shame, ignominy, and branded as a coward," the General declared. "The French people think that there is enough punishment."

MILITARY PATROL CHICAGO'S STREETS

RIOTING CONTINUED THROUGHOUT THE NIGHT--MORE DEATHS.

(Canadian Press.)

CHICAGO, Ill., July 31. — Six thousand troops on duty with rifles and bayonets, in the most densely populated negro quarters of Chicago, and a light fall of rain, had not stopped the fighting between the whites and the blacks. Long after midnight isolated groups shooting, stabbing and looting in places which the military had not been able to reach, continued. The death list remains at thirty, none being reported killed last night. Several hundred have been injured during the four days fighting, and a dozen of these may die.

Adjt. General Dickson on returning from the placing of troops, reported that snipers had fired on a company of soldiers on the way to Englewood. None were injured. The general reported that after the troops had taken their stations quiet had prevailed in the patrolled areas.

OFFICIAL DATE FOR END OF WAR

FRENCH DECIDE ON A DATE FOR OFFICIAL ACCEPTANCE OF PEACE.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, July 31.—The French cabinet approved to-day the proposal that peace should be considered to exist officially from the date of publication in the official journal of ratifications of the German treaty by the Chamber of Deputies, when completed. It was decided that the ratification of the German treaty should be considered to mark a state of peace without awaiting the completion of treaties with other powers still at war with France.

ESTABLISHED NEW ALTITUDE RECORD

(United Press.)

NEW YORK, July 31.—A new American altitude record was established late yesterday by Roland Rohlfs, a test pilot for the Curtis Airplane and Motor Co.

In a flight of less than two hours at Roosevelt Field, Mineola, Rohlfs attained a height of 30,700 feet. He was compelled to descend because his motor became chilled at a temperature of 25 below zero. He attempted to wrap the engine with strips torn from a cushion letting the plane run itself during the operation, but a hundred mile an hour wind tore the strip away.

CHURCH MINISTER NOT AN EMPLOYEE

BOARD CAN'T DICTATE WHAT A PASTOR SHALL PREACH, SAYS GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT.

TORONTO, July 31.—A minister of the Methodist Church is not "employed" to preach what his Board of Management directs, William Vokes to the contrary notwithstanding.

This was the opinion expressed by Rev. Dr. Chown, D.D., Superintendent of the Methodist Church in Canada. Dr. Chown was seen by a reporter at his home on Avenue Road, and consented to discuss some features of the friction between Rev. Dr. Bland and the Board of Management of Broadway Tabernacle. He would, however, touch only upon the general principles affecting the situation.

"Mr. William Vokes has made a public statement to the effect that the minister of a Methodist Church bears the relation of an employee of the Board of Management, and is expected to say what he is paid to preach," said the reporter. "Is that the general understanding in the Methodist Church?"

Minister Not An Employee.

"Decidedly not," was the reply. "A minister of the Methodist Church is not an 'employee.' Dollars and cents do not in any way enter into the calling of a minister. He is called to preach righteousness and justice. The Board of Management provides the means whereby the pastor may live and carry on his work, but it has no right to dictate [illegible] the pastor shall preach."

"Just what is the duty of the Board, under the discipline of the Church?"

"It attends to the affairs of the church. The members are also within their rights in discussing the preaching of the minister, and he should listen to what they have to say, but they cannot control him. He is expected to preach according to his own conscience, and according to what he feels to be right, within the general lines laid down by the Church itself."

Church Does Not Differentiate.

"Does the Church recognise the needs of the so-called labouring classes and attempt to meet those needs?"

"The Methodist Church does not differentiate between sections of the community. Its mission is to preach to all men the gospel of doing justly, loving mercy, and walking humbly before God. It is difficult to steer a straight line in these troublous times, but we do so as well as we can. We try to hew to the line, let the chips fall where they may."

Reference was made to an editorial in a recent issue of the Christian Guardian, in which the writer pointed out that labour had peculiar needs, and that there was a danger, unless the organised church supplied those needs, of the formation of a "Labour Church," which would be based on economic exigencies, and might tend to be on a somewhat lower level, for that very reason, than the present organised church.

"I do not remember having read the article," said Dr. Chown. "As I said, however, it is not the duty of the Church to serve any particular section of the people, but to preach righteousness and justice to all sections alike."

Minister Serves Church At Large.

The General Superintendent was most decided in his denial of the principle that a minister was in any sense an "employee" of a Board of Management. In fact, while the Board provided the stipend, it was generally recognised that the minister could not sue the Board were the payments not forthcoming. The minister served the Church at large, and was stationed by a committee of the General Conference. The idea, as expressed by Mr. Vokes, that the minister was "employed" by the Board, and paid to preach along certain lines only, was diametrically opposite to the facts.

"How about the stand taken by Rev. Dr. Bland? Does the Church support him in it?" Dr. Chown was asked.

"I must decline to make any statements along that line," was the reply. "As General Superintendent I may be appealed to in this case, and must keep my mind open and neutral. If I do not my usefulness will have disappeared."

TWO ARRESTS WERE MADE

STILL SEVERAL MILD SENSATIONS ARE SPRUNG DURING TESTIMONY.

PUZZLING CASE

DURHAM, Ont., July 31. — Two sensations were sprung during the Glenelg fire inquiry proceedings, the McDonald brothers, John and Angus, of Irish Lake, being ordered into custody at the close of their examination.

Official investigation here of the Glenelg Township evidence of incendiarism ended for the time being, after seven hours' examination of the second day witnesses before Fire Marshal Joseph E. Rogers.

Acting County Attorney H. G. Tucker, of Owen Sound, conducted the inquiry, and in all about seventy witnesses were hard. The net result is that not one lone fact had been adduced pointing to the identity of the mysterious pyromaniac.

The farmers of the district are even more puzzled than ever, such theories as they had formed and such suspicions as had been expressed having had the props knocked from under them by sworn testimony. The inquiry now stands adjourned sine die, to be reopened should further disclosures justify.

The sensation of the day, second in development but first in general interest, came out of the testimony of James Connelly about his having been taken out of his bed by the brothers, John and Angus McDonald, of Irish Lake, at about midnight on the 17th of August. He had been taken to a wild ravine some two miles from his home, but balked upon following John McDonald into its depths, and ultimately escaped by flight. He swore that he had done nothing to incur the enmity of the McDonalds, but that Angus McDonald had said only last week that they would "get him yet." George Jones confirmed this statement as having been made in his presence by Angus.

Just to Stop Gossip.

The McDonald brothers later, on oath, denied that they had intended violence upon Connelly, or had threatened to "get him yet." They frankly admitted, however, taking him from his bed and home to the desolate gully back of their own property, almost at the midnight hour [illegible] alleged, even if he had not sought safety in flight.

Pressed for the motive of their strange proceedings, the brothers agreed that they had been informed by one Heinrich, of Waterloo, a relative, that Connelly was responsible for the circulation of a scurrilous report concerning their sisters.

As each of the brothers left the witness chair, he was taken into custody of Inspector Greer by Mr. Rogers' order and held until bonds of $1,000 were furnished in each case, as a guarantee of non-interference with Connelly for one year, the older brother finally expressing regret for the course pursued.

Connelly subsequently was recalled and denied being the originator of the alleged slader, which he laid at the door of Heinrich himself, in connection with a separation from his wife six years ago.

The Connelly-McDonald dispute, after its incomplete unravelling, is admitted to have had no connection with the Connelly or any of the other fires.

WILL INVESTIGATE THE OCCURRENCE

FOUR JAPS PUT TO DEATH IN MANCHURIA.

(Canadian Press.)

TOKIO, July 31.—A second official statement on the incident at Kwang-Chang-Tau places the Japanese losses at sixteen officers and men killed and eighteen others wounded.

"No previous report of the incident referred to has been received. The place mentioned presumably is Kwang-Chang-Tou, about one hundred miles west of Kirin, in Manchuria."

The communique alleges that four Japanese, including an officer, were tortured before death.

It was understood that the Foreign Office has instructed the Japanese Minister at Pekin to investigate the occurrence and take steps to obtain satisfaction.

The Toronto Markets

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, July 31. — Receipts light, trade moderately active and generally steady, except hogs, which were firmer.

Choice export cattle, $13.50 to $14.50; choice butcher cattle, $12.25 to $13.50; medium butcher cows, $9 to $9.50.

Ewes, $8 to $10; lambs, $9 to $6.25.

Hogs, fed and watered, $24.80.

Calves, $18 to $19.

DECKER WILL BE RELEASED TO-DAY

(United Press.)

PATERSON, N. J., July 31.—Release of Lester Decker, aged 20, held in connection with the drowning of his sweetheart, Miss Mabel Harris, aged 18, was expected to-day. The girl's relatives, as well as the county officials apparently were convinced her death was an accident. Miss Harris was drowned in Pompton Lake Sunday night when Decker's canoe was swept over a dam. The youth failed to report her death until the next afternoon. He said he was lying down in the canoe and resting when the [illegible] went over the dam.

AUSTRIAN CABINET RESIGNS

POWERS THAT ARE DISSATISFIED WITH THE TERMS OF PEACE.

(Canadian Press.)

VIENNA, July 31.—The Austrian Government, headed by Dr. Karl Renner, has decided to resign.

It is thought that opposition to the Allies' Peace terms for Austria has caused this move.

Austrian Government affairs have recently been in a rather unsettled state. The Peace terms presented by the Allied and associated Powers to the Austrians at St. Germain-En-Laye have been stoutly protested against in official circles in Vienna—the financial provisions being considered as particularly onerous, and predictions being made that the Austrians were likely to be driven to bankruptcy.

Last week Dr. [illegible], Foreign Minister, resigned [illegible], legally, it was said, because of dissatisfaction at his failure to obtain important advantages for Austria [illegible] negotiations leading up to the [illegible] of the Peace Treaty. Dr. Renner, however, filled [illegible] caused by Dr. Bauer's resignation, taking over the duties of the Foreign Office himself in addition to the Chancellorship.

MAY GET FIFTY OR SIXTY PER CENT.

MR. G. T. CLARKSON ADDRESSED ANOTHER MEETING OF CREDITORS.

AYR, July 31.—Reviewing the conditions of the Standard Reliance assets, Mr. G. T. Clarkson said, at a meeting here last night, that there was approximately $8,000,000 in liquid assets, consisting of cash on hand, municipal bonds and first mortgages. "So you see," he added, "if we were to figure that the real estate is not worth a cent you will still get 50 or 60 cents on the dollar." Asked if the taxes would be a drag on the assets while being "nursed," the liquidator replied that properties without substantial equities in them could be dropped. The realty holdings, to a large extent, he said, were carrying themselves, but were making no profits on the investments in them. Creditors from Galt, Blenheim township, New Dundee, Roseville, Drumbo and North and South Dumfories besides these from Ayr, were present when the meeting opened in Reid's Hall, under the chairmanship of William Manson.

WARMING UP FOR THE ELECTION

Ontario Premier Denies His Allegiance to Newton Wesley.

(Canadian Press.)

QUEENSTON, July 31. — In a fighting speech yesterday Premier Sir Wm. Hearst answered the charges of Leader Hartley Dewart of the Opposition, and denied that he was in league with Rowell in various policies.

RESPIRATION KEPT THE WATCH GOING

(Special to The Examiner.)

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., July 31.—Seven years ago a farmer hung his vest on a fence. A calf chewed up a pocket in which was a gold watch. Last week the animal was butchered and the time piece was found between the lungs of the cow. Respiration kept the stem winder wound up and the watch lost but four minutes in the seven years.

LACK OF ACTION BY GOVERNMENT ONE REASON FOR WINNIPEG STRIKE

NOT OPPOSED TO PARTICIPATING IN DESTRUCTION OF THE STATE

FREE SOUP KITCHEN AND BREAD LINES TO FOLLOW IN WAKE OF STRIKE—TESTIMONY BEFORE THE ROBSON COMMISSION.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 31. — "My objective in this world is the destruction of the State, and I am not opposed to participating in part of that destruction."

The above statement, loudly cheered by the One Big Union enthusiasts attending, was made by George Armstrong, Radical Labour Leader; now on trial on a charge of seditious conspiracy, at a meeting of the Trades and Labour Council last night, with Alderman Queen, Rev. William Ivens, R. B. Russell, W. A. Pritchard, and many other prominent Radicals in attendance.

The speech, in the course of which Armstrong gave voice to the above utterance, was based upon a motion to order the Relief Committee of the Council to wait upon the City Council to ask for a grant for the relief of the unemployed. By "participating," Armstrong meant getting money from constituted authority.

President James Winning, secretary, Alderman Robinson, and Treasurer J. L. McBride, all prominent in the recent strike, are staying solidly with international unionism and with the Trades Congress of Canada, fighting the One Big Union advocates to the best of their ability.

ARMY OF UNEMPLOYED LOOKING FOR WORK

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Man., July 31: — Free soup kitchens and bread lines will have to be established in Winnipeg next winter, for the first time in the city's history, unless something is done now to find jobs for the unemployed.

This is the judgment of men in close touch with the employment situation, interviewed to-day by The Examiner correspondent.

Now, when work should be most plentiful, there are between ten and twelve thousand unemployed in the city, according to Capt. J. A. Wotherspoon, of the Dominion Employment Bureau Office.

"There are sure to be hard times next winter because there is not enough jobs to go around," he said. Anyone who visits employment offices around town and sees crowds looking for jobs will be convinced of the necessity of prompt action.

Building trade strike is assigned by employment office men as the main cause of unemployment. Because of the strike, work on buildings that would have cost $30,000,000 this season has been postponed until next year.

A VOLUNTEER.

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, July 31.—When Chief Sanitary Inspector Hague was examined at the preliminary hearing of twelve strike leaders to-day, he was asked by Mr. McMurray, defence counsel, if he had heard that the Citizens' committee of one thousand had volunteered to clear away the garbage, and if Sir Charles Tupper, grandson of the former Canadian Premier, had not volunteered to help Sir Charles had. He confirmed that these services had not been thought necessary, but citizens had been asked to burn or bury their garbage. He caused considerable merriment in court when Mr. McMurray said you had no confidence in Sir Charles and Sir [illegible] of the dollar and laxity on the part

REASONS FOR STRIKE.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 31 — "A strike is the only weapon of Labour. It is the only way by which it can voice the disapproval of existing conditions. Given the same circumstances, I cannot hope that any different action ever will be taken than was taken when the Winnipeg general strike was declared."

This statement by Alderman Ernest Robinson, secretary of the Trades and Labour Council summarizes testimony given by him and James Winning, President of the Trades Council, before the Robson Commission at the Parliament Buildings to-day.

The high cost of living, inadequate wage, salary depreciation in the value of the dollar and laxity on the part of the government in correcting abuses, were the main reasons given by Labour leaders for the cause of the general unrest, which, they said, forced a general strike.

"Conditions were such that the refusal of right of collective bargaining by iron masters late in April was like touching a match to gun powder," Alderman Robinson declared. "We were overwhelmed with complaints from bands of workers, telling of unjust conditions and inadequate wages. Always the question simmered down to how to exist with prices at their present level, at starvation wages."

James Winning said he had been in very close touch with Labour during past months and felt that he could speak authoritatively on Labor unrest. He said labour was very much dissatisfied with conditions as they existed. The causes of this were: Unemployment, high cost of living, profiteering, refusal on part of some employers to recognize collective bargaining and right of workers to organize, lack of action on the part of the government and poor working conditions."

TWO KILLED IN RAILWAY WRECK

REAR END COLLISION BETWEEN TWO FREIGHT TRAINS.

(United Press.)

NEW YORK, July 31.—Two men were killed and three injured early to-day in a rear end collision between two freight trains near East Portchester, Conn., on the New Haven railroad.

The electric engine on the second train crushed the caboose of the first train. Failure to observe signals was blamed.

WHAT THE HUNS GOT FOR SHOUTING "HOCH" AT FRENCH

WERE STRUCK ON THE HEAD BY STONES—EVIDENCE [illegible]

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, July 31. — The judge advocate attached to the second permanent court martial, who investigated the incident connected with the departure of the Germans from Versailles, finds that there is no case.

It has been established that the Germans aroused the protests of the crowd by sticking out their tongues at spectators, and shouting "Hoch!" and the charges that stones were thrown rests upon the unsupported testimony of Dr. Theodore Melchoir, one of the German financial delegates to the peace conference, and Frau Gretta Dorlbush, one of the secretaries to the delegation.

A despatch from Paris on June 17th said that Dr. Melchoir and Frau Dorlbush had been struck on the head by stones in the course of a demonstration against the German delegates on their departure from Versailles, the night previous. The demonstration had several phases but was mostly confined to jeering the Germans.

Premier Clemenceau later sent a letter to the head of the German delegation apologizing for the demonstration, and the police officials charged with protecting the Germans, were dismissed from office.

GRASS FIRE GAVE FIREMEN A RUN

The fire department had two calls to grass fires this morning, the first to Brown street, where a grass fire to the property belonging to the Misses Rubidge had gained considerable headway and later to East City to a fire on property belonging to the Quaker Oats at the end of London street. No damage was done at either fire.

SMITH TOWNSHIP LAWN SOCIAL

Last evening the young people of Smith township held a most enjoyable lawn social on the school grounds at Lily Lake.

An excellent supper was provided, after which an open air concert was held, with Mr. John Steinkrauss very ably conducting the proceedings.

Amongst the speakers were Mayor Duncan, Peterborough, Rev. Mr. Craw of Springville. Others entertaining with song and story were Mr. Fred Hartshorn, Peterborough, Miss Helen Houston and J. John

ASPHALT PLANT FOR CITY IS ENDORSED

ALD. McINTYRE'S PROPOSAL MEETS WITH GENERAL APPROVAL

Ald. McIntyre's proposal that the city purchase an asphalt paving plant has been commended by citizens who, like Mr. W. B. Breyfogle, believe that deferred repairs will seriously injure large sections of the pavement. The Chatham Council has decided to buy an asphalt plant at a cost of $18,000 and for reasons similar to those that prompt the local Council to consider Ald. McIntyre's suggestion. It has been recognized that the city should not be dependent upon outside contractors for the patching of the pavement, but the cost of the equipment has doubtless restrained the Aldermen's desire of possession. The citizens who have spoken of this proposal express their approval of the idea which the Council intend to discuss in the near future.

JUDGE HUYCKE IS CHAIRMAN

VOTERS REGISTRATION BOARDS HAVE BEEN ORGANIZED.

His Honor Judge Huycke has been appointed chairman of the Voters' Registration Board for East and West Peterboro and the Board has been organized to consist of the Chairman, Sheriff Hall, Mr. Bernard Morrow, Mr. G. W. Hatton, Mr. J. G. Sherry and Mr. W. F. Johnson, who has been appointed clerk. The enumerators are Mr. J. F. Strickland for West Peterboro and Mr. Bygott for East Peterboro, who are proceeding with their lists which will be handed to the Judge. His Honor [illegible] this morning that people should observe the lists carefully and any one finding omissions or errors has a right to appeal. Notice of errors may be sent to clerk of the Revising Officer when that official is appointed. When all appeals are in sittings will be held at such places as necessary to decide the appeals. A revising officer will preside at each sitting and hear all appeals. This will apply not only to the city but also the county.

The Revising Officer

The revising officer may be a member of the Registration Board or such person as may be appointed by them in case of necessity. Any one who wishes to vote must have his name on the lists as after the lists are completed they will be unable to get their names inscribed without an appeal to the Board.

MATTHEWS-BLACKWELL PICNIC WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

The second annual picnic of the Matthews-Blackwell Company, held yesterday afternoon at Wallace's Ponit, was a huge success. Over 600 people, consisting of the employees and their friends, were on hand, and three steamers, the Stoney Lake, the Geneva, and the Rainbow, were required to carry the happy crowd, the first steamer leaving at one o'clock.

At Wallace's Point the afternoon devoted to all kinds of sports ,a feature being a baseball match between the married and single men—the Bachelors, with Cunningham on the rubber, defeating the Benedicts by 8 to 6, Lefave doing the twirling for the losers.

The first steamer returned to the city at 8 o'clock, and the last at 10 p.m. The return voyage was an enjoyable affair, the time being pleasantly spent in dancing and singing.

NEXT WINTER'S PROBLEMS

The Winnipeg War Veterans, fearthat there will be a good deal of unemployment and distress in that city next winter, are suggesting the immediate formation of a Control Committee composed of representatives from all the associations connected with social work to bring pressure upon Dominion and Provincial Governments, and the City Council, to provide as much work as can be found during the winter months. At a risk of being called pessimistic, it must be confessed that the outlook in Peterboro is not much brighter than in Winnipeg. Many men have found it difficult to secure work during the past few months and the war gratuity of a large number of returned soldiers has expired. The result is that there will be suffering in Peterboro next winter if something can not be done to relieve the situation. The Winnipeg plan of a Central Committee has many things in its favor. Such a body might be of great assistance in this city in preparing for the problems of next winter.

THE NEW ASSOCIATION

The formation of a permanent organization to look after the interests of boating in Peterboro is a result of the recent successful regatta and is a progressive step that should be warmly encouraged by the citizens generally. The Peterboro Aquatic and Boating Association, which has just been organized with a list of capable officers, should have a very successful career. For years this city, the home of the best known canoes in the world, and situated on a beautiful river, has been unrepresented in aquatic sports. The absence of any organization to encourage interest in canoe racing, swimming and other forms of water sports, has been chiefly responsible for the failure of Peterboro to develop many expert exponents of these splendid pastimes. The new Association can do much to encourage the boys and young men of Peterboro to take an active and intelligent interest in aquatics and before long the city should be able to send representatives to the annual championships. There is certainly no reason why a crack war canoe crew could not be developed among the many paddlers who frequent the Otonabee, and while it is to late this year to do much along the line, the new Association should keep the suggestion in mind as a probability for next season.

The Association too, which is vitally interested in the matter should consider the question of making representations to the proper authorities for safe-guard at the locks for those who have occasion to use the canoe slide.

A WAR MEMORIAL

Everywhere throughout Canada the different communities are preparing memorials to honor the memory of those who laid down their lives for Canada in the Great War. In some cities considerable progress has been made toward the completion of a suitable memorial. Peterboro has yet to take the initial step. It is time the question was discussed several times during the war, but it seemed to be the consensus of opinion that action should be deferred until the end of the conflict. No particular fault is to be found with that decision, but the time seems ripe now for the re-opening of the question and the settling of a policy. The City Council should take the lead in the matter and should lose no time in doing so. The memory of the many brave lads from this city who live beneath the wooden crosses overseas must be honored in a suitable manner by the citizens for whom they fought and the city for which they went forth to battle. Our duty as a community is plain and the civic authorities should be prepared to inaugurate a movement to see that the city does not fail. The fact that there will be difference of opinion as to the policy to be adopted makes it doubly imperative that there should be a public discussion of this important matter as soon as possible

A GOOD PLACE IS OLD ONTARIO

(W.L.S. in Farmers' Sun.)

It was a privilege to have the opportunity of spending part of the second week in Winnipeg and to meet while there many of the most prominent leaders of the farmers' movement in the West. It is a still greater pleasure to be once more back on the home farm and amid the familiar surroundings. An occasional change of scene is a stimulus and relief but nowhere do scenes wear quite so well as here in good old Ontario. Nowhere is there greater cause for solid satisfaction in the things of life than is to be found in this Province. The limitless expanse of the prairie has an appeal of its own, but it palls in time, while here, with our hills and streams, our woodlands and cultivated fields, our orchards, and roadside trees, there is a variety that never grows old. We may not gain the sudden wealth that comes with one bumper crop of wheat, but we do not have the feverish anxiety, lasting from early spring to late fall, that goes with dependence on one main crop. Neither is there with us a total loss when one crop fails.

There may be a better place to live than in the Mother Province of Confederation but one would have to travel a long way to find it.

THE GLORIOUS FIRST OF AUGUST.

Why should the first of August in every year hold the highest place in that immortal calendar of great events in the history of man? anniversaries which mark mighty

Because it was on the first of August generations ago that Britain emancipated all the slaves within her boundaries.

But why should a little thing like that give the first of August precedence over the 11th of November, for instance, or the anniversary of the Plains of Abraham, Trafalgar, Waterloo, Queenston Heights and Lundy's Lane?

Because on the first of August was established a greater principle than any of these others stood for. For on that day a great nation obeyed both in letter and in spirit the tremendous injunction.

Britain was rich and powerful enough to declare the slave traffic illegal and thereupon confiscate the slaves and dispossess their owners. She did nothing of the kind. Caesar had enormous sums invested in these slaves, even as God's unfailing love and pity were invested in them and Britain proceeded to carry out both the terms of injunction, with the result that she won the applause of heaven and earth!

England—they know her best by that name—freed millions of human beings and not a barn or a fence was razed to the ground not a home burned, not a city ravaged, not an orchard destroyed, not a field laid waste. She freed the slaves, and there was not a tear shed, not a drop of blood spilled, not a heart broken or a family dispersed. She free!

For every Christian must learn sooner or later that one of the inevitable and inexorable, the most potent and tremendous law of God is the law of compensation.

A general in afterwards the great and only United States undertook to do a real service for God and started in to free their slaves. They certainly did! They freed their slaves all right, all rigth! They did not compensate their owners, however, but they spent ten thousand million dollars nevertheless, but they freed the slaves—don't you forget that! They also furnished the colored man with a vote, and—that's about all I can think of just now.

The "In God We Trust", people absolutely refused to consider Caesar in the matter at all, at all. Slavery was a sinful practice and, being a sin, how could a holy and righteous people have any business transactions with sin? You can't compensate sin—now can you?

They laid waste and desolate the then best part of this continent, they spilled the heart's blood of a million men, they destroyed ten thousand stately and beautiful homes, they blazed a thousand towns and cities, and they perpetrated horrors of which Sitting Bull and our recent acquaintance, Von Bissing, would have been ashamed. Indeed I think Von Bissing's record in Brussels is cleaner than that of Gen. Ben Butler's in New Orleans.

But they freed the slaves.

And what have they got for it? They have got the Black Death! When Abraham Lincoln signed the Emancipation Bill he signed the charter of the Great Black Republic of North America.

If you can tell me that you can confiscate and not compensate, I will point you to the United States.

She or they (which is it?) has got cancer of the stomach!

THE KHAN.

ON JACK'S CREEK, STONEY LAKE

(BY SAM HUNTER)

A crooked, swift, rushing stream is Jack's Creek. It was surely only denied the more ambitious title of river by a people whose familiarity with big northern waters had made them contemptuous of smaller streams. Navigable by canoes at any season, provided you have time and tenacity, in the spring it must send down a boiling flood of white water to empty into upper Stoney, twelve miles below Jack's Lake, its source. It carries little on its surface to-day, and the tote roads and "carries" are overgrown and difficult to negotiate; but to judge from ancient lumber clearings at its source, and the many and permanently built timber slides along its course, it must have transported great timber wealth in days past.

To the lover of the wild it must always remain beautiful. Its little canyons of sheer rock, fir crowned and motley in many-tinted vines, alternating with low, flower-bordered banks, and wider stretches of rock-strewn rapids, are a joy forever. One forgets the hard portages, the flies, the many and cruel "carries," in the remembrance of so much that shall always appeal to eye and ear and sense of smell.

The day we entered it an Indian and his squaw were coming out with blueberries. I should judge that they had about forty quarts. They had walked in they said, about four miles, and were hot and tired looking. He looked at us, our canoes and duffel, and was frankly skeptical.

"Jack's Lake? Too much carry," he said. "Too much portage, too much load. You do this on bet?" And when we said "No," in a chorus of four voices, he looked us over again with—for an Indian—a show of interest, and tapping his forehead with insulting significance, motioned Minnehaha to shove out, and left us.

We put this down at the time to race prejudice and ignorance, but at present time of writing we are not so sure. You can never tell about an Indian anyway. Shortly after noon, we started up the river. At its mouth it was wide but as we paddled on it narrowed rapidly and became more rapid; the low banks gave place to higher ones; the white and yellow lilies and the rushes on its surface were replaced by water hyacinths, trumpet flowers, vines and cardinal flowers, growing along its tree bordered banks, their shaken reflections tinting the stream in a wavy wash of color.

Ten minutes later we had reached our first "carry," canoes were run ashore and we were soon engaged in carrying canoes, blankets, provisions, over three hundred yards or more of precipitous granite to smooth water above a falls. This accomplished smooth water again and a stronger current; traces of beaver everywhere in freshly fallen poplars, gnawed stumps and the litter, in a little bay, of an old beaver dam. Now a stronger current, the many keyed voices of rapids in the distance and the twilight effect of taller sombre-toned pines and fir trees, through whose narrow defile the river ran. Cool, sweet scents of balsam and juniper, the reedy, clarionet tones of a water thrush, and the first sight of the rapids as we round a bend in the river. Here, poling, wading and dragging, a hundred yards of rapids are accomplished, sans nether garments, and with a slip or two, and an immersion, which arouses enthusiasm in everyone but the dripping and breathless victim of the accident. Again smooth water but with a powerful current in which we edge in toward shore to avoid the more masterful mid-stream. More rapids, more carries, and finally a six hundred yards carry in which canoes and contents must be carried in a series of back-breaking climbs, with rests between. Everywhere we find the tote road overgrown with at least a year's growth of vines and underbrush in which the axe must be used to clear a way.

As sundown approaches we enter a narrow stretch of river only lighted by the gold and crimson sky above. The river runs deep and still between walls of sheer granite crowned with firs. The reflections are sombre, the silence, except for the dip of the paddles, is absolute. We finally emerge where the rock falls away and the suggestion of a clearing gives promise of a camping place for the night. Hurrah! But no one says so—we are too blamed tired and wet, and—what's the use. In the dusk our canoes are run ashore. Axes are used to clear away enough poplar and white birch to admit of tent pitching, and the tent is soon up. On a flat rock at the river's edge, for we have no desire to start a fire near timber, our camp fire is at last burning. Soon there is the smell of frying bacon mingled with the aroma of green tea, and the less appetizing fragrance of drying clothes. A semi-nude group of four answers the first call to supper, and the camp fire plays fitfully for a while on a quartette of the quickest lunchers in America. Then a douched fire, a tired climb to sleeping quarters, and deep sleep, in which the sound of whispering waters and a rising wind only serve to color our dreams.

At daylight a scout is sent ahead to spy out the route. He returns in about two hours with an injured ankle and a gloomy report. We are still, he believes, five or six miles from the lake, and the going is getting worse with every mile.

We have breakfast, and turn back. We had arranged to make the trip to the lake and back in three days, including a day at the lake. It simply could not be done. As we climbed, and paddled and waded, and climbed and waded and paddled our way down stream, we regretted and said so that we had not the time in which to complete the trip. And everyone said he wouldn't have missed the trip as it was, not for a thousand dollars. But everyone heaved a deep sigh when we finally made the mouth of the creek a little after eleven.

There was an ancient fisherman there when we paddled ashore, and as we lay on the bank and rested up for our farther journey down the lake, he came over, a freshly acquired bullhead in his hand, and wanted to know if we "was the gents that started for Jack's Lake yesterday noon?" Two of the boys brazenly denied it; the other two pretended to berasleep. "I mind," he said, "when I wouldn't be takin' no bull head home—not from the mouth of Jack's Crick—I wouldn't. Say, ye may believe it or ye mayn't, but I kin mind yet seein' a log jam just above here, thirty years ago, that was caused by a run of logs jammin' against a solid mass of big spawnin' lunge. Neither would give way and th' was a jam of pine logs and big spawning' lunge thrown up as high as a barn, clear across th' crick. Couldn't break it until a Frenchman found what ye might call the key lunge and bust it with two sticks of dynamite. Us boys in th' spring ust to walk across th' crick on lunges' backs, same as ye might on a tow of logs, an'—"

But we had heard the honk! honk! of a friendly launch and were "beating it" for open water, and home, and arnica.

Increases Your Weight, Restores Lost Strength, Prevents Illness

Every day come new converts to that great army of men and women who rejoice in new-found health that came to them through the use of that wonderful blood-renewing preparation is called "FERROZONE." Very simple how it acts. All you have to do is take two small chocolate-coated tablets with a sip of water at the close of each meal.

Ferrozone is a marvel. It contains just what thin blood lacks—lots of iron, but mark you, the kind of iron your blood is able to absorb. Ferrozone puts life and vim into the blood Makes it rich, red and nourishing Naturally the body is better fed and grows stronger day by day.

Of course digestion must be improved, and probably the stomach will require aid as well. Ferrozone serves the purpose admirably. Those who use it, enjoy appetite and digestive powers far beyond the ordinary.

That tired feeling is replaced by the buoyant, joyous sensation of health and vigor. Day by day as your strength increases, you feel new energy surging through your veins, and know that a great tonic of great merit is at work.

No remedy more nourishing or uplifting, no treatment so sure to bring lasting health, good spirits and contentment. Ferrozone contains just what run-down folks need; it cures because it supplies more nutriment than you can get in ay other way. 50c per box or six for $2.50 at all dealers, or by mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

LOCAL MARKET

Raspberries are practically off the market to-day but have been replaced by thimbleberries, which are selling at 30c a box now and will probably on account of the heavy crop, be lower this week. Plums are at present offered at 20c a quart but are not in extensively enough to sell by the basket. Cucumbers, which are very plentiful, are selling at 75c a large basket.

A. E. F. IN FRANCE 20,000.

Only 4,000 Troops Left in Paris, and but One Army Hospital

PARIS,—American troops in Paris are being rapidly reduced. At the end of July only 4,000 remain, while the whole of the A.E.F. in France numbers only 20,000. The number of troops in Germany is kept secret.

Base Hospital 57 in Paris was evacuated to-day. The building returns to its former use as a school. The patients were transferred to No. 121, the only army hospital left in Paris.

Seventy-five military prisoners were forwarded today to the United States to serve the remainder of their sentences. Others are awaiting repatriation.

FIVE-DAY WEEK IN COAL MINES.

United Mine Workers Start New Plan This Week on Own Initiative.

GLACE BAY, N.S., July 30.—Beginning this week, the miners employed by the Dominion Coal Company will inauagurate a five-day week in accordance with the overwhelming favourable vote at the referendum held recently in connection with the U.M.W. elections.

The intention is that no coal mining or hoisting shall be done on Saturdays, only repairs and similar work.

The five-day week is being put in force by the U.M.W. on their own initiative, no arrangement being made with the company for it.

PRESENTATION AND ADDRESS BY THE PARISHONERS TO REV. FATHER MEAGHER

BON VOYAGE TO LAKEFIELD MINISTER—BANQUET IN THE EVENING.

A very pleasant and sympathetic function was held at St. Paul's church, Lakefield, when the parishioners gathered at their church to testify their love for, and appreciation of Rev. Father Meagher, their popular and painstaking pastor, and wish him bon voyage.

The atmosphere was pervaded with the sincere and genuine spirit of fidelity and gave a true ring to the beautiful sentiments of the following address, which was read on behalf of the congregation by Captain M. Kennedy:

The Address.

To Rev. Father Meagher, St. Paul's church, Lakefield:

Rev. and Dear Father Meagher,—It was with feelings of deep regret that we, the members of your little parish of Lakefield, learned that you are about to leave us, called home by the serious illness of your dear mother. We offer you rev. and dear father, our hearfelt sympathy, and assure you that you and your good mother have the earnest prayers of the people of Lakefield.

In the few years you have spent amongst us, you have by your kindness and fidelity, endeared yourself to every member of your congregation.

We ask you to accept this purse as a small tribute of our appreciation of your worth and many good qualities.

Wishing you, dear Father Meagher a safe journey, and that you may return to us in the near future.

Signed on behalf of the congregation—
Martin Coughlin,
Denis Garvey,
Patrick Sullivan,
Thomas Spencer,
Thomas Sullivan,
Peter Gooley.

At the end of the address a well-filled purse was presented to their pastor by Mr. Garvey.

Although taken completely by surprise, Father Meagher, in a few well chosen words, expressed his keen appreciation of and heartfelt gratitude to his people for their thoughtful kindness ,and also expressed the hope that he would soon be able to return again to them.

Later in the evening a dainty banquet was served to the visiting clergy at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawless. Here Rev. P. J. McGuire in his usual brilliant and sparkling manner spoke most fittingly of the whole function, and very graciously thanked the host and hostess. Other clergymen present were: Rev. P. Galvin, Downeyville, Rev. J. V. McAuley and Rev. Capt. P. Costello, Ennismore, Rev. J. J. O'Brien and Rev. J. J. Guiry, Peterborough.

DRIVING WAGON FOR FAILING STORE, LEARNED SECRETS WORTH MILLIONS

CINCINNATI, O., July 29.—B. H. Kroger has built up a $30,000,000.00 retail grocery business from a job driving a delivery waggon for a failing store, by a four-rule formula—and the ability to apply it.

The formula: First—Do it first; When seasonable goods come into the market, have the first; when the prices go down, be the first to reduce them. Second—Never sell anything except for just what it is; and don't sell it then if it isn't good. Third—Advertise as liberally as business income permits. Fourth—Sell on a small margin and make the turnover rapid.

The ability is best explained in the narrative of Kroger's business advance. Like that of many other men who have arrived, and arrived big, it bore all the marks of lack of success in early results.

At eighteen he was driving a delivery waggon for a small and none too successful grocery. He noticed many things which to his mind contributed to his employers' failure to build a permanent and profitable trade. Kroger was a good "noticer." He constantly had to work up new customers; for no matter how much the old ones liked him personally, they would not continue to purchase goods of inferior quality from him. He made up his mind that if he ever got a store of his own he would have goods of such quality that they would bring trade to him, and not drive it away. It was during this period also that he figured out those four basic rules in his formula.

Finally he made up his mind to quit. This brought an offer from the two owners, whose $3,500 had dwindled to $600 in two years, to let him run the business for them and take $12 a week and 10 per cent. of the profits. He accepted.

The next day he put in a cash register and a cashier, which seemed to the owners a great extravagance. But at the end of eleven months a profit of $3,100 was shown, with all expenses and depreciation cared for. Of this Kroger got $310, a pretty small return for brain work in turning a failure into a success. The $12 a week barely covered manual labour on his part.

In all his years of working he had been able to save just $72. This, with the $310, he offered to the partners for a one-third interest. They refused and made a grudging counter-offer of 15 per cent. of the profits. So Kroger left them to their fate and went in business for himself with his $382.00.

He had, however, a big asset in his personal credit with the wholesale trade. This alone, he figured, was equal to $4,000 capital.

Then came a run of adversity. He wanted to advertise, and decided to accomplish a double object by buying a horse, gold-plated harness, and a brilliant red waggon. A friend told him it looked like a circus waggon. "Good," said he. "If you notice the waggon so quickly, other people will, too. It will be good advertising." But it only lasted a month, for a locomotive knocked to smithereens the $195 horse ,the $225 waggon, the $35 gold-plated harness, and $65 worth of groceries. The driver was not injured.

Then followed a flood of the Ohio, into which his stock dissolved, though he had taken the precaution to pile it up on the counters.

These two disasters wiped out double his entire capital, but nevertheless, he showed a profit of $2,600 at the end of the first year.

Much of the work around a grocery is of a routine nature, so that an employee of ordinary ability, under proper direction, may be entrusted with it. With this in mind, Kroger determined to open another store, relieving himself of the routine work, and concentrating on management.

The opening of the new store was the beginning of the big success. Since that time hardly a month has passed without seeing the advent of a new Kroger store.

Kroger calls himself a driver. He says he drives himself and everybody around him. "I like to hire young fellows with pep and ambition," he says, "and watch them develop."

Others disagree with him, pointing out that the driver is invariably behind the driven, while Kroger himself sets the pace. They call him a leader and assert that he doesn't merely watch the youngsters develop. Rather, he develops them.

To-day there are Kroger stores operating in twenty cities. Last year the aggregate business was $30,000,000 averaging 39 cents per sale. This year Kroger has set his heart on making $100,000,000 worth of sales of this amount or larger.

TEN PER CENT. OF PAR VALUE

COMMON STOCK OF DEFUNCT STANDARD RELIANCE CORPORATION.

(Special to The Examiner.)

NEW HAMBURG, Ont., July 31.—The common stock of the defunct Standard Reliance Mortgage Corporation is being offered for sale here by local holders at ten per cent. of its par value.

J. U. Clemens, a local broker and merchant, stated to-day that he could get all the stock he wanted at $10.00 a share. One man, he stated, had offered him a block of shares at that figure. "I did not buy because I did not think it was a good investment," he declared.

PUTTING THE CASE UP TO WOODROW

ASK PRESIDENT TO BRING DOWN THE HIGH COST OF LIVING.

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 31. — The problem of bringing down the cost of living was put squarely before President Wilson to-day.

It was put to him by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, who made a flat demand for lower prices or higher wages.

Keen interest was manifested in Congress in "What is Wilson going to do about it?"

A resolution by Representative Wood is pending in the House asking President Wilson what additional authority he needs to bring down prices.

Action on this is expected soon.

ISSUE FRENCH TREASURY BONDS

(United Press.)

PARIS, July 31.—France, it was announced officially to-day, has concluded arrangements with American bankers, headed by J. P. Morgan & Co., to issue French Treasury Bonds in the New York market at sixty and ninety days.

The amount of the issue is $90,000,000. It was stated that the United States Treasury Department has agreed to the operation.

WANT SASK. TO CONTROL LIQUOR

DRUGGISTS EXPRESS DESIRE TO BE RID OF TRAFFIC IN PROVINCE.

Regina, Sask., July 30.—In an endeavor to curb the illicit liquor traffic, a deputation of local druggists waited on the Provincial Government asking that stricter regulations governing the sale of liquor in the drug stores be drafted and put into effect as soon as possible.

The delegation, which comprised four or five of the druggists, met Premier Martin and the Hon. W. F. A Turgeon. They represented that a great many of the druggists feel very strongly on the question as they feared that the liquor traffic was likely to bring them into disrepute. Many of them, it was stated, would be glad to be entirely rid of the traffic and would like to see the Government take over complete control of the sale of liquor by the operation of dispensaries.

In the event of the Government not seeing its way clear to again operate dispensaries, the deputation suggested that new regulations might be drafted which would enable the Government to assume supervision over the quality and price of liquor sold under prescription, and also with a view to regulating the traffic. It was suggested that the sixteen-ounce bottle should be banished and that prescriptions for eight ounces and a reputed quality be valid, and that the regulations require all liquor to be sold in sealed bottles.

The reputed quart contains twenty-four ounces, and this is suggested instead of sixteen ounces as the larger amount is the size of the regulation sealed bottle upon the liquor trade. The opinion was expressed that the use of the larger size in place of the 16-ounce prescription would largely eliminate the opportunity to adulterate the liquor.

The fact that some people are prepared to pay almost any price to procure liquor, it was pointed out, is a strong incentive to some members of the profession to cater to the demand in an illicit manner. It was felt that if the price was regulated there would not be so many anxious to embark in the traffic, and the suggestion was made that every bottle sold should have a price label attached.

The deputation stated that if their suggestions were met the Government would be able to step in any time and make analysis of any bottle found on the premises and ascertain the standard of quality was being maintained.

While no announcement was made as to the Government's decision, the deputation came away hopeful that some action would be taken which would meet the requirements of the situation.

FIRST CAR OF NEW WHEAT BRINGS $2.70 A BUSHEL.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 30. — The first car of new wheat on the market here brought $2.70 a bushel—47 cents above the Government guaranteed price.

Grain dealers look for high prices to be maintained on all of this year's crop, because of the demand for wheat and the damage the crops have sustained.

DAYLIGHT SAVING BEFORE SENATE

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 31.— Daylight saving was at the mercy of the Senate to-day. Action was expected on a bill already passed by the House, to repeal the law.

LEMON JUICE TAKES OFF TAN

Girls! Make bleaching lotion if skin is sunburned, tanned or freckled

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle, sunburn and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very small cost.

You grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of Orchard White for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles, sunburn, windburn and tan disappear and how clear, soft and white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless.

LAWTONBERRIES ARE SELLING AT 30c NOW

BLACK CURRANTS AT $3.75 A BASKET —TOMATOES 15c A POUND.

Thimbleberries are retailing at 32c a box and in crate lots at 30c. Black currants in 11-quart baskets are bringing $3.75. It is said that the cost of picking a basket of the blacks is from 90c to $1.00.

Grimsby reported a heavy rainfall that set in at seven o'clock this morning. The fruit men of the district, it was said, were taking the day off in full contentment if the rain would continue long enough to relieve the drought.

Tomatoes are 15c a pound, and by the basket $1.60 to $1.75 for 11 quarts and $1.25 for six quarts.

CHILD INJURED BY A CARELESS DRIVER

MARY ROGOW CUT ON THE HEAD—MIGHT HAVE BEEN SERIOUS.

Mary Rogow, six years old, was slightly injured when she was thrown to the pavement at the corner of George and Brock streets by an automobile at noon to-day. She was standing in the roadway and, according to eye-witnesses, the automobile had the width of the street to pass her. Instead, it brushed close to her. The child was not seriously injured and some projecting part caught jured. Her head was cut by the fall upon the pavement. The little girl's home is over the Rogow Brothers, ladies' tailors, at the corner of Brock and George streets.

OLD FOLKS' COUGHS, CATARRH, BRONCHITIS QUICKLY CURED

THIS TELLS OF A METHOD THAT CURES WITHOUT USING DRUGS.

Elderly people take cold easily. Unlike young folks, they recover slowly That is why so many people past middle life die of pneumonia.

Cough syrups seldomm do much good because they upset digestion. Any doctor knows that a much more effective treatment is "CATARRHOZONE," which heals and soothes the irritated surfaces of the throat.

In using Catarrhozone you do not take medicine into the stomach—you simply breathe into the throat, nose and lungs rich piney balsamic vapor, so full of healing power that colds, catarrh and bronchitis disappear almost instantly.

The germ-killing balsamic vapor mixes with the breath, descends through the throat, down the bronchial tubes and finally reaches the deepest air cells in the lungs. All parts are soothed with rich, pure medicinal essences, whereas with a syrup the affected parts could not be reached and harm would result through benumbing the stomach with drugs.

A Catarrhozone inhaler in your pocket or purse enables you to stop a cold with the first sneeze. Large size costs $1.00 and supplies treatment for two months, small size, 50c; trial size, 25c; all storekeepers and druggists, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

Canvas gloves are excellent to use when dusting.

AT THE Y.W.C.A. GIRLS' CAMP

Y. W. C. A. Camp.
Burleigh Falls.

Dear Girls:—It is not because we have had nothing to write about that it has been so long since you have heard from us, on the contrary it is rather because our time has been so filled up. There has been a very jolly group of girls at the Camp lately, and although some of them were strangers to one another, before they came they never will be again.

Having become pretty well acquainted with our "own end of the lake," we have gone farther afloat and we have had some interesting experiences. You would like to know about our trip to Lovesick Lake, I am sure. There were two canoes and a skifffull of us, including our dinner and necessary cooking utensils. The lock-master kindly "locked us through," and the next time you go through the double locks at Burleigh on the steamer you will imagine what thrills we had bobbing about as the water sluiced in. Finding our way to the fine raspberry patch on the shores of Lovesick Lake we felt like explorers on unknown waters and we camped on a deserted island like a Swiss Family Robinson. Besides the fun of the trip, and the novelty of cooking our meal in the open, and the enjoyment of the beauty of the scenery, we had the satisfaction of bringing back to camp a goodly supply of berries, which finally took the form of raspberry pies. The huckleberries are practically over, though we succeeded in gathering some just a couple of days ago. The raspberries are quite plentiful if you go to the right place, but we do not like picking them so well, they are so scratchy.

Our next expedition was down through the "back channel" to Clear Lake. It was rather fun for those in the canoes to watch the rather unwieldy skiff forcing its way through the reeds and submerged logs, and again we felt as though we were breaking a trail, though, no doubt, most of the Stoney Lake people know that pretty, weedy "back channel," and have watched, as we did, for the red-winged black bird, and been interested in all the different kinds of plants that grow in the water, and been stung by the "dear" flies.

Pictures Taken

We must not forget to tell you that we all had our pictures taken by a motion camera that came past our cottage in a little steam boat. We all dashed out from dinner to hail the strange-looking boat as it passed, and discovered that a man with a tripod was taking moving pictures along the route. Of course, we all smiled sweetly and waved wildly, and no doubt some day we will all come out somewhere on a movie screen!

Last week five canoes with boys from the Belleville Y.M.C.A. gave us a hail in passing on their way to Lindsay. They promised to call in on their return trip but they have not been seen since—up to the present.

Weekends at our cattage are growing in popularity. It is so convenient for people to come up on Saturday afternoon and return on the early morning boat on Monday. Every Sunday the camp has been well represented at the service at Juniper Island—that is where one sees nearly all the population of Peterboro, it seems. Through the kindness of one or two friends with launches, we have been able to make the trip without having to paddle all the way.

You would be interested to see what fine swimmers we have at the camp. A number of the girls who learned to swim in the Pool last year are very proud of their ability, and are trying all sorts of diving and long distance stunts. It is rather amusing to watch the punt racing what fine swimmers we have at the hear there is going to be a swimming exhibition at the Y.W.C.A. Pool in a couple of weeks, and the girls are practicing hard in preparation.

A Funny Story

We heard a funny story that there were restrictions about the camp, such as going to bed at nine-thirty, and getting up at six, but it was all news to us. We haven't noticed that any of the girls go to bed early or get up in the morning at any unearthly hour. We are all just having a real good time, there is nothing slow about the camp, except perhaps the fire sometimes. Of course people who are used to flying and looping the loop in the acroplane at the Fair Grounds might find life at Stoney Lake a wee bit slow, but no one else would.

Well, good bye for the present girls.

We shall look forward to seeing you, for a week-end at least. Only do not plan to come up over the 11th, for that is Regatta Day at Juniper Island and our accommodations for that week-end are all spoken for, except floor space.

Yours Swimmingly,
The "Y" Campers

P.S.—Our cottage will not be in use during September. If you know of anyone who would like to rent it, please let us know.

FARMERS TO GET $1.75 FOR WHEAT

Also Added Amount from Proceeds After Grain Is Pooled.

HITS DEALERS.

Grain Commissioner Will Do All the Buying and Selling.

OTTAWA, July 31.—Arrangements for handling this year's wheat crop are such as to preclude profiteering and speculation. The Grain Commissioner will do all the buying and all the selling. The farmers will be paid an initial price of $1.75 a bushel. After the grain is pooled and sold, they will be given whatever additional amount is realized.

This system, considering everything, is regarded as the best solution of a troublesome problem, although it unquestionably will hit hard the exchanges and dealers. At the same time it will prevent wild speculation and the boosting of prices to an extent where the United States, whose crop is controlled by one man, may offer both lower prices and extensive credits and thus secure the European markets.

Children Cry for Fletcher's

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for Baby. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

What is CASTORIA?

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep. # GERMAN TROOPS WILL ASSIST

WIRELESS MESSAGE FROM THE RUSSIAN BOLSHEVIKI.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, July 30. — The government of Lithuania has taken measures for the evacuation of that country by the German troops, it was stated in a Bolsheviki wireless message received to-day from Moscow.

Information was given by the Bolsheviki at Moscow of the movements of hostile forces.

Russian troops, commanded by General Livin, the wireless despatch said, would be taken by the British ships to Russian northwestern front, and German troops, under the control of British General Alexander, at Tukumu, 37 miles west of Riga, will be sent to the front against the Bolsheviki soon.

SECOND SERIES SPECIAL ADDRESSES

Th second of the series of special addresses by Evangelist H. D. Kennedy to the converts in the recent campaign conducted in Peterboro will be given to-morrow (Friday), in the Y.M.C.A. Last week some of those who endeavored to attend the meeting were confused by finding the front door fastened owing to the alterations being made in the building. The entrance is by the side door.

Besides a considerable number of converts at the meeting last Friday night several of the personal workers were present and assisted in the meeting. Mr. Kennedy gav practical instruction dealing with what Christ has done and offers to do for thousands who have been saved and showed ways in which those who accepted Christ can look to Him for victory in daily life. Quite a few converts gave personal testimony to the reality of their conversion and the blessings that they have already received. These meetings promise to be very helpful to the converts.

Don't make that boast until you have had your eyes examined. Remember that slight eye defect seldom register their defects in the eye itself. # GUM TENDERNESS —A TOOTH-MENACE

It is true that four out of five people over forty suffer from gum-shrinkage, or Pyorrhea (Rigg's Disease). But many people even under thirty have Pyorrhea. Women, particularly after the baby comes, are peculiarly subject to Pyorrhea. At such time they cannot be too careful about their teeth.

Pyorrhea commences with tender gums, or with gum-bleeding, at tooth-brush time. Gradually the gums become spongy. They inflame and then shrink. The teeth become exposed to decay at the base and tiny openings in the gums become the breeding places of disease germs which infect the joints—or tonsils—or cause other ailments.

Beware of that first gum tenderness! Try Forhan's for the gums. It positively prevents Pyorrhea, if used in time and used consistently. No ordinary tooth paste will do this.

And Forhan's cleans teeth scientifically as well. Brush your teeth with it. It keeps the teeth white and clean.

If gum-shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment. 35c and 60c tubes. All druggists.

FORHAN'S, LTD., 807 St. James St., Montreal.

Forhan's FOR THE GUMS

A human riddle is any man or woman you happen to know—including yourself.

A man does a lot of things he dislikes to de because his neighbors don't wan thim to do them.

It's dead easy for a woman to beat a man in an argument; all she has to do is to turn on the briny flow.

A girl will cheerfully give up a dollar to have a fortune teller inform her that she isn't gong to be an old maid.

The Promoter's Wife

BY JANE PHELPS

NEIL TELLS BARBARA MORE ABOUT HIS BUSINESS.

CHAPTER XXIX

"What in the world did Mr. Rayburn mean when he said I was asking a good deal for a promoter's wife?" I asked.

"What did you say to him to call forth a remark like that?"

"I said I was more anxious to see the workings of the mines in which you were interested, than I was in seeing the people of Mexico."

"What brought up the subject" There was a frown on Neil's face—the kind of look I had learned to dread.

"He asked me if I ever had visited Mexico."

"And you told him"—

"That I hoped to go with you if you went again," I interrupted.

"Rayburn is all right, but he is apt to think things. Be very careful what you say to him."

"Thing things'—what do you mean?"

"Oh nothing in particular. He prides himself upon his skill in reading character; and sometimes he is pretty shrewd in getting information from people without the one he is talking to, realizing he is pumping them."

This conversation had taken place in the car on the way home from Blanche Orton's dinner. Neil did not appear sleepy, and seemed inclined to talk after we reached home. So we went into the library, where, in spite of all I could say, he took another drink—his "nightcap" he called it.

"Suddenly I thought:

"This is a good time to urge him to tell me about his business." So I commenced:

"Neil, please tell me how you sell the mines you get hold of? That is what you do, isn't it?"

"I don't sell mines at all. I sell stock, shares."

"But it is mining stock"

"Yes, naturally."

"But just how do you go about it? Do you do it by mail? I saw such a stack of circulars and addressed envelopes the day I was down at the office—the day you were not there."

"We do a lot by mail. Occasionally we get hold of some—rich man", he had hesitated, "and land him for a few thousand shares."

"And does that mean that people who are not rich buy mining stock?"

"It means that people who want to be rich buy it." Then: "By the way, Bab, I am going to bring a prospective customer home to dinner tomorrow night. Look your prettiest. Better wear that dress. We will be alone, but I want you to make a good impression. And that is a stunning gown."

"I thought it was, too, until I saw Mrs. Orton's."

"You couldn't wear the same clothes Blanche does. You aren't the type."

"But why? She looked so wonderfully—well,—different. I was quite out of conceit with my dress."

"Don't be foolish. Blanche can wear those things; you couldn't!"

"I'd like to try," I pouted. "You admire her immensely, don't you?"

"She's a very clever woman. But we were talking of to-morrow night. Scot is a fine fellow, and is rotten with money. I want to interest him in his new deal. It will mean a killing if I do."

"In what way will it be a killing"

I am almost ashamed to say that I questioned Neil with more confidence because he had taken another drink. Liquor seemed always to make him talkative. I didn't want him to take it, had objected; but so long as he paid no attention, I would try to turn it to advantage. I so wanted to know what Mr. Frederick referred to when he said others would suffer from Neil's business methods even if he did not.

"But if the mine is worth what you ask, and you had to pay for it, how can you make a killing if he does buy the stock?"

"Oh, let's go to bed. You make yourself attractive to him, and let me attend to the rest."

ORGANIZED LABOUR PUT ON DEFENSIVE BY BOLSHEVISM

GUSTAVE FRANCQ SAYS IT HAS RIGHT TO AGGRESSIVENESS AT THIS TIME.

MONTREAL. — "Bolshevism or Trades Unionism. Which?" is the title of a pamphlet issued by Gustave Francq, editor of the Labour World, who has made a close study of the eviedcne for and against Bolshevism. He scores Russian Bolshevism with the responsibility for having placed the cause of labour in Canada and in other countries on the defensive, when it had the right to be on the aggressive. Bolshevism, he states, has become the popular name for every wholesome movement undertaken in the name of labour, and organised labour has consequently suffered.

Dealing with the causes which brought Russian Bolshevism into being, Mr. Francq declares that it could only find root among illiterate multitudes, such as are found in Russia. It represeated liberty in its widest form for a class of the population, but complete oppression for the others. Evidence of the failure of Bolshevism to reach any democratic ideal is shown by means of quotations from the contemporary writings of Herman Geulich, a veteran Socialist of Europe and a lifelong friend of Karl Marx, Catherine Breshkovsky; "the Grandmother of the Russian Revolution," Vladimir Bourstoff, Socialist and ex-exile of Siberia, Maxim Gorky and others, all of whom, though democratic in principle, unhesitatingly condmen the methods of Trotzky and Lenine.

Mr. Francq points out that production has been demoralized under Bolshevism, that free speech has been suppressed and that personal liberty is no longer recognized. He deals with the horrors that have been perpetrated under the Bolshevist regime.

Discussing the situation as it exists to-day throughout the world, between capital and labour, Mr. Francq declares that the solution lies with organized labour. Bolshevism will make little headway against the nelightened organized worker of the world, he says, provided his life is worth living and not exploited. The pamphlet closes with the labour charter, formulated and adopted at the Trade Union Conference in Berne last February and later adopted by the International Socialist and Labour Conference.

THIRD DOSE RELIEF! FIFTH DOSE! DIARRHOEA STOPPED

Diarrhoea does not need to persist for any length of time until the whole system is weakened and debilitated. No other disease so quickly undermines the strength and brings about a condition of prostration and very often total collapse.

Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is not only prompt and effectual in checking the diarrhoea, but at the same time acts as a stimulant, strengthening the heart and braces up the whole system, and one of its principal points is that it does not leave the bowels in a constipated condition.

Mr. W. H. Arnold, Fort Qu-Appelle, Sask., writes: "A few years ago while out threshing I had a severe attack of diarrhoea. Nothing I took seemed to do me any good. I was getting worse all the time. Hearing that Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry was good for diarrhoea I went into town and procured a bottle. After the third dose I felt relief and after I had taken the fifth dose the diarrhoea had stopped. I always keep it in the house and would not be without it."

See that you get the original "Dr. Fowler's." It has been on the market for the past 74 years. Substitutes may endanger your health. Price 35c. Put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

GIVING UP CHEESE-MAKING.

Some Western Ontario "Corsbination" Factories Go in For Butter.

Is cheese to become scarce? The Farmers' Sun says: "Factories that started out this spring to make both butter and cheese found that their volume of cream was running heavy, and of milk light, with the result that they have not been making cheese for some time past. In western Ontario, however, the number of combination cheese and butter factories is small, and it is argued by some that the cheese factories will do close figuring before they will switch from cheese, even at the present price. Personally the writer can see little reason for making cheese on the present level of price. Exporters are hammering down the price of cheese so low, which practically amoutns to 24 cents at western Ontario factories, and at the same time farmers are realizing close to 24 cents per pound for pork on the hoof, and all other foods are exceptionally high. One surprising point is that no matter how low the price goes at the fatcory, bargain counter cheese in the store is something that is very hard to locate

"With cheese at the price going, it should be selling to the stores at 28 cents to 29 cents per pound, but the dealers at Toronto declare that they have not any of this cheap stuff to handle as yet, having been paying 26 cents to 27 cents per pound in a small way at the factories, where they were forced to go."

THIN, NERVOUS PEOPLE NEED BITRO-PHOSPHATE

What It Is and how It Increases Weight, Strength and Nerve Force in Many Instances

SHOULD BE PRESCRIBED BY EVERY DOCTOR AND USED IN EVERY HOSPITAL

Says Editor of *"Physicians' Who's Who"

Take plain bitro-phosphate is the advice of these physicians to thin, delicate, nervous people who lack vim, energy and nerve force, and there seems to be ample proof of the efficacy of this preparation. Moreover, if we judge from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are often due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpansive and is sold by McDermid & Jury in Peterborough and most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate should produce a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

Clinical tests made in St. Catherine's Hospital, N. Y. C., showed that two patients gained in weight 23 and 27 pounds, respectively, through the administration of organic phosphate; both patients claim they have not felt as strong and well for the past twelve years.

Increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, should soon disappear, dull eyes ought to brighten and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

Physicians and hospitals everywhere are now recognizing its merits by its use in ever increasing quantities. Frederick Kolle, M.D., editor of New York Physicians' "Who's Who," says: "Bitro-Phosphate should be prescribed by every doctor and used in every hospital to increase strength and nerve force and to enrich the blood."

Joseph D. Harrigan, Former Visiting Specialist to North Eastern Dispensatory, says: "Let those who are weak, thin nervous, anaemic, or run-down, take a natural, unadulterated substance such as bitro-phosphate and you will soon see some astonishing results in the increase of nerve energy, strength of body and mind and power of endurance."

Bitro-Phosphate is made entirely of the organic phosphate compound referred to in the National Standard Dispensatory as being an excellent tonic and nervine and a preparation which has recently acquired considerable reputation in the treatment of neurasthenia. The standard of excellence, strength and purity of its substance is beyond question, for every Bitro-Phosphate tablet is manufactured in strict accordance with the U. S. Pharmacopoeia test requirements. Bitro-Phosphate is therefore not a patent medicine and should not be confused with any of the secret nostrums, so-called tonics or widely advertised "cure-alls."

CAUTION: — Although Bitro-Phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, owing to its tendency to increase weight it should not be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

$5,000,000 LOAN IN NEW YORK TO KOLCHAK GOVT.

WASHINGTON, — An Ameerican syndicate of financiers in New York City has arranged to advance a loan of $5,000,000 to the Kolchak Government to Omsk, Siberia, to enable it to buy foodstuffs and other necesaries in this country.

The loan to be secured by $5,000,000 worth of gold bullion, which the Kolchak Government has sent to Hong Kong where it will be held, with a five per cent. margin as security, for the advance which the American bankers make. The advance is made for a period of two years, durding which the $5,250,000 gold bullion will be held on deposit in the International Banking Corporation, an American Bank in Hong Kong.

Within the two years the Kolchak Government expects to be able to pay off hte loan through the shipment of pigskins, furs, and other commodities to the United States. These, it calculates, will cover the shipments of foodstuffs and other commodities from this country to Siberia, and ultimately release to the Omsk Government its gold deposit.

The object of this orrangement is to save the Kolchak Government the cost an dtrouble of shipping $5,000,000 worth of gold to this country, and then, after two years, sending it back to Russia. The Omsk Govern ment, it is understood, has quite a quantity of gold which it has recovered or saved from the grasp of the Bolsheviki. The loan is entirely a private arrangement between the Kolchak Government and American bankers, without American Government participation, although American officials know of the arrangement.

LOSES HIS SAWMILL, SPENDS NIGHT IN BOAT.

Archie Bishop's Heavy Loss in Forest Fire at North Lake.

FORT WILLIAM, July 30.—Forest fires southeast of the city have been doing untold damage to property and to the timber limits. George H. Matthews, who has just come back from his mill at North Lake, reports that on Wednesday last, while he was in that district, Archie Bishop lost his whole sawmill plant, valued at $25,000 and that the fires were encroaching badly on his timber limits, the loss on standing timber being at present not capable of being estimated. Mr. Bishop and his wife and family were driven from their homes by the flames and had to spend the night in a row boat out in the middle of North Lake.

EARLY IN OCTOBER.

Unless There Are Further Delays in Repatriating Canadian Troops.

LONDON, July 30.—The repatriation of Canadian troops will be delayed one week by the strike of Liverpool dock workers which ended yesterday. Nearly all Canadian troops will be home by the middle of October unless there are further delays. The headquarters troops leave and a re-organization of headquarters in London will shortly be announced.

GLENELG PEOPLE VOICE SUSPICIONS

WITNESSES THINK FIRES ATTRIBUTABLE TO SOME GERMAN SYMPATHIZERS.

Durham, July 30.—That most of the series of mysterious barn fires in Glenelg township during the past few months are attributable to German sympathizers from outside the district fire zone is the conclusion of John O'Neil, whose barns were fired and destroyed with their contents on May 24, Victoria Day. This fire came as the sequel to a reception and presentation at the home of a neighbor, John Dunbar, whose son had lately returned from France. O'Neil giving a speech about the midnight hour, in which he expressed himself strongly as to Hun savagery.

"After the last fire in the district I think if the swamp had been searched the man who is causing the mischief would have been caught," said Mr. O'Neil in the course of his examination at the fire inquest opened at Durham Town Hall yesterday. He added: "I think the people responsible for these fires come from outside."

A similar opinion was indicated by R. T. Edwards another district farmer, who declared that he "suspected no one now," and was afraid of nothing but the officials not doing their duty. The present inquiry, in his view, was not the way to get results. He would not suggest that strangers exactly were causing these fires, but believed that if certain roads had been patrolled the individual who has been causing the fires would have been caught long ago. Cross-examined by Superintendent Joseph Rogers, who is presiding at the inquest, Mr. Edwards admited that he could not say that the roads had not been patrolled since the fires of the 13th and 14th July.

"It would look as though the fires had stopped now, would it not?" suggested Mr. Rogers.

"We must not count too much on that," Mr. Edwards replied. "Wait until the full of the moon.

Of the twenty-three witnesses examined to-day none produced even a moderate surprise, much less a sensation, their testimony being largely repetition and elaboration as to the series of fires of which the public is already cognizant. Each witness fought very shy of voicing his own views or repeating speculative gossip, and when names were demanded of persons who had been talked about as open to possible suspicion, these names were written and handed to the court to the disappointment of the large concourse filling the hall.

A single name is admitted to have figured in almost every case as that of a suspect, with some four or five "scattering."

All witnesses testifying as to the first three fires in the series consuming the Township Hall, Malcolm Black's home and Hugh Firth's barn, could see no reason, even in view of the more recent burnings, for changing their first conclusion that these at least were accidental fires, to have been incendiary and the relationship of many of the fires to patriotic exercises of some sort appears to be considered the strongest evidence supporting the theory of a mysterious pro-German pyromaniac.

But one tangible clue to the identity of the miscreant, whoever he may be, presented through the first day's examination was in the form of an anonymous letter received by Jacob Levine and produced by him. This letter antedated the first of the Glenlg fires, and conveyed a warning that if any more dances were held on the Levine place the barns would go up in smoke. The inquiry proceeds to-day and will probably be concluded this evening, the most important examination apparently having occurred on the last.

PETES IN FIRST PLACE AND ARE SURE OF A TIE, AT LEAST

WON THEIR FINAL SCHEDULE GAME OF CENTRAL LEAGUE BALL AT COBOURG LAST NIGHT BY 13 TO 6 —MULHERN'S HOME RUN AND BEAUTIFUL CATCHES BY M'CARNEY AND ROSE WERE FEATURES.

| Lindsay | 5 | 5 | .500 |
| Cobourg | 0 | 10 | .000 |

Games to be played—Port Hope and Oshawa to-day; Port Hope at Belleville, Monday, August 4th.

The Petes stepped out in front of the Central League race and made sure of a tie at least last night when they journeyed to Cobourg and inflicted the tenth straight defeat to the Lakeshore outfit. The score was 13 to 6 and the Petes were ahead from the first innings and were never in danger.

Mulhern did the twirling for the terborough outfit, and although the youngster was wild, giving seven bases on balls and hitting one man, the Cobourg gang could not hit his speedy shoots to any extent, six hits being the limit of their club-swinging. Old Dick Turpin got three of the six safeties. In addition to baffling the Cobourg hitters, Mulhern did a Babe Ruth stunt by cracking out a home run in the fifth innings. He connected with one of Bill Skitch's shoots and the ball shot by Burge in centre like a machine gun bullet, going right to the pavilion in deep centre. Mulhern was at third before the fielder reached the ball.

The Petes played snappy ball behind their pitcher, Rose in particular being in the limelight. The second baseman accepted nine out of ten chances in clever fashion, and his catch of Payne's fly in the sixth was one of the features of the game. It looked like a sure hit, but Rose dashed back into right field, and running at top speed, caught the ball as it came over his shoulder. Jack McCarney also starred with a beautiful catch of a hard drive from Higginbottom, which looked good fr a double at least. McCarney had to go right to the foul line for the drive, which he gathered in on the run.

Cobourg had their strongest line up of the season out in an effort to finish their schedule with a win from the leaders. They, however, played loose ball, and the Skitch brothers, who did the heaving, were not only wild, but could not keep the Petes from bunching their hits.

Three umpires were used. Thoms, of Cobourg, was behind the bat, and his vision was like the old grey mare, "not what it used to be." However, he was evidently trying to do his best. Nagel Phelan started out as a base umpire, but when he called Cherrett safe at third on a close decision in the fourth, the Cobourg crew kicked so vigorously that Jack Rosevear of Port Hope, was substituted.

The Petes looked like a big league club with seventeen men in uniform. In addition to the nine who started, Kirn, Adams, Cavanh, Murray, Alan Wade, Heenan and Manager Solomon were on the bench, while Hagerman was also on hand, but not in uniform. The size of the squad made a hit with the Cobourg spectators.

First Innings.

Peterborough.—Cherrett walked and stole second. Rose flied to Higginbottom. Long hit to McKinnon, who threw high to first, Cherrett scoring and Long going to second. Swanston singled past Boundy, scoring Long, but W. Skitch intercepted the throw to the plate and Swanston was nailed off first. McKinnon threw out Jackson. Two runs, one hit, one error.

Cobourg. — Boundy walked. H. Skitch grounded to Holyman. McCarney made a great catch of Higginbottom's smash to right. Butler rolled to Long. No runs, hits or errors.

Second Innings.

Peterborough.—Clancy flied to Higginbottom. Holyman drew a pass. Mulhern also walked. McCarney moved them up a peg wilth a neat sacrifice. Mulhern was caught off second and Holyman tried to score on the throw to the middle station, but was out at the plate. No runs, hits or errors.

Cobourg.— W. Skitch was passed. Payne hit to Mulhern, who threw to Cherrett at second and the shortstop's peg beat Payne to first. Umpire Phelan called Skitch safe at second because Cherrett did not touch the bag on the play. Drumm grounded to Rose. A wild pitch scored W. Skitch. Burge walked, and when Swanston threw wild to second to stop him stealing, Burge tried to go to third, but was out by yards on Jackson's fine throw to Holyman. One run, no hits, no errors.

Third Innings.

Peterborough.— Cherrett doubled down the first base line. Rose was passed. Long's solid double over Higginbottom's head scored Cherrett and Rose. Swanston singled to centre, scoring Long. Jackson walked, but Clancy fanned. Holyman flied to Higginbottom and Mulhern to Burge. Three runs, three hits, no errors.

Cobourg.— McKinnon was safe when his drive got away from Cherrett, but was forced at second, Cherrett to Rose on Boundy's roller. Boundy was forced at the middle station on H. Skitch's tap to Holyman, the batter going to second when Rose, in attempting to complete the double, threw wide to first. Higginbottom flied to McCarney. No runs or hits, two errors.

Fourth Innings.

Peterborough.—McCarney walked. Cherrett beat out a bunt. Rose's grounder to third forced McCarney. Cherrett and Rose pulled off a double steal. Long hit to Butler, who threw to third, but H. Skitch let the ball get away and Cherrett and Rose scored, Long going to second. Swanston's single to centre, his third consecutive hit, scored Long. Jackson bunted to H. Skitch, who threw to second in time to get Swanston, but Boundy muffed the toss. Clancy fanned and Holyman flied to Burge. Three runs, two hits, two errors.

Cobourg.—Butler was safe on Cherrett's fumble. W. Skitch flied to Jackson, who dropped the ball, but recovered in time to force Butler at second. Payne lined inao Holyman's hands and W. Skitch was doubled off first. No runs or hits, one error.

Fifth Innings.

Peterborough. — Mulhern hit past Burge in centre field for a home run. McCarney walked. This was enough for W. Skitch and he went to second base, his brother going to the box and Boundy to third. McCarney stole second and went to third on H. Skitch's bad throw. Cherrett fanned. On Rose's tap, McCarney was caught between third and the plate, but Turpin ney scored. Long flied to W. Skitch. Two runs, one hit, two errors.

Cobourg. — Clancy made a nice catch of Drumm's liner. Cherrett threw out Burge. Turpin singled through short. Boundy walked. H. Skitch drove a fly to left which Clancy could not reach because of a collision with some lady spectators who were encroaching on the diamond and the drive went for a double, Turpin and Boundy scoring. Higginbottom fanned. Two runs, two hits, no errors.

Sixth Innings.

Peterborough.—Swanston was safe on Butler's fumble and moved around to third on Jackson's sacrifice and a wild pitch. Clancy's sacrifice fly to Burge scored the catcher. Holyman struck out. One run, no hits, one error.

Cobourg. — Butler grounded to Long. W. Skitch flied to Clancy. Rose tore off a circus catch on Payne's fly to short right. No runs, hits or errors.

Seventh Innings.

Peterborough.—Mulkern struck out. McCarney popped to Turpin. W. Skitch threw Cherrett out. No runs, hits or errors.

Cobourg.—Drumm walked. Burge hit to Rose, who tagged Drumm on the line and then doubled Burge at first. Turpin singled over second and Boundy was hit, but H. Skitch fanned. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Eighth Innings.

Peterborough.— Rose fanned, the first two strikes being called before he got to the plate. Long walked and stole second. Swanston flied to Higginbottom. Jackson's single to right scored Long. Jackson went to third on H. Skitch's bad throw to second. Murray, batting for Clancy, singled to first, scoring Jackson. Holyman was hit, filling the bases. Mulhern singled to left, scoring Jackson, but Murray was called out at the plate when he tried to score on the play. Two runs, three hits, on error.

Cobourg.— Higginbottom walked, but was forced at second, Cherrett to Rose, on Butler's tap. W. Skitch beat out a bunt to Holyman, Butler going to third. W. Skitch stole second. Payne grounded to Cherrett, Butler scoring. Drumm flied to Jackson. One run, one hit, no errors.

Ninth Innings.

Peterborough.— Head, batting for McCarney, was called out a tap to Butler. Cherrett walked and stole second, but Rose flied to Drumm and Butler threw Long out. No runs, hits or errors.

Cobourg.—Burge walked and went to second on a wild pitch. Turpin doubled over Jackson's head. Burge only went to third on the hit, but scored when Cherrett threw high to the plate, Turpin going to third. He scored while Cherrett was throwing out Boundy. H. Skitch struck out. Higginbottom singled to left. Butler grounded to Rose and the game was over. Two runs, two hits, one error. The score:

CRACK MOOSE TEAM HERE ON MONDAY NIGHT

While the Petes, having completed their Central League schedule, are waiting to see whether they meet Belleville or Port Hope in the play off the game here on Monday night with the crack Moose team of Toronto, champions of the Western City Leagues, will give the fans a chance to get a line on the Petes' prospects if they annex the Central League honours and qualify for the O. B. A. A. play-off.

The Moose are touted as the coming Toronto and Ontario champions. They put the fast Hillcrest bunch out of the running, and are headed for the Ontario title.

As Monday is Torontos civic holiday, the visitors will have the strongest line-up in action, with Lefty Hardman, their crack southpaw twirler on the rubber.

The Moose are reported to be fast in the field and effective with the willow, and the Petes will have to be on their very best behaviour to hold them.

The game is a twilight one, called at 6.30 o'clock, which will give the local fans a fine chance to see what promises to be one of the best games of the season.

CENTRAL LEAGUE PLAYERS TO MEET

There will be a meeting of the players who have signed Central League certificates at the Water Street Bowling Alleys to-night at 7.30. All players are asked to attend.

SOMETHING FOR NOTHING

WICHITA FALLS, Texas, July 31—"He gave me $20 for a kiss and then took his money back," was the complaint made to the police last night by a pretty waitress here. Officers looked up statutes to fit the charge.

SMALL BOY SUSPECTED

MOUNT PULASKI, Ill., July 31—Fifteen hundred persons reside here, but no one has had a bath in 48 hours. A consumer left his faucet open all night and this morning found the city supply tank empty.

BUTLER'S DECISION ALTOGETHER WRONG

UMPIRE DID NOT FOLLOW EITHER AMERICAN OR NATIONAL RULES

Ever since last Saturday there have been arguments over Umpire Butler's decision in the Belleville game here whn he called Jackson out at the plate. President Sandy Lockington, in the Port Hope Guide, has partially upheld the umpire in his decision, admitting, however, that he erred in not sending the batter to first base.

As a matter of fact, Umpire Butler was totally in error. If the game had been played under American League rules, he should have sent Kirn to first for the catcher's interference and sent Jackson back to third. The game was played, however, under National League rules, which were officially adopted by the Central League at the beginning of the season, and the decision should have been to score the run and send Kirn to first.

Butler, however, did not follow either American or National League rules, but adopting a code of his own,

The St. Louis Sporting News, the best baseball authority possible, answers an inquiry in regard to a similar play to that pulled off here as follows:

Q.—Runner on third. One strike and one ball on batter and none out. Runner attempts to steal home and catcher runs up in front of the plate and catches pitched ball and tags the runner. Does runner score, and would you give batter his base for interference?—J.M.S.

A.—This play frequently has been explained. In the American League the runner goes back to third and the batter takes his base. In the National, the runner scores and the batter goes to first. The two Leagues do not agree on the play.

CARPENTIER WILL NOT MEET BECKETT

LONDON, July 31.—The Carpentier-Beckett heavyweight bout appeared to-day to be indefinitely postponed, with a possibility it may not be staged before the first of next year.

Inability of Promoter Cochran to rent Olympia Albert Hall on any suitable date after September 2, and the reluctance of French authorities to allow Carpentier to leave France before then was the reason given.

To-day Cochran planned to go to Paris, where he will make an effort to induce French authorities to change their minds regarding the battle. It is understood that Socialist Deputies have brought strong pressure to bear on Premier Clemenceau to keep Carpentier from making the trip to England. They point out that whereas Carpenier is able to accumulate several thousand dollars in a single night, French workmen are struggling hard to overcome the poverty left by the war.

McGoorty Instead.

Cochran hopes to substitute Eddie McGoorty, the American light heavyweight, in case he is unable to bring Carpentier here.

There is no chance that Fred. Fulton will be chosen in place of the French champion, for Beckett's manager wisely side-stepped the match, declaring his boxer was not meeting Jack Dempsey's victims.

There is a feeling here that Carpentier is loathe to do battle with Beckett, and after seeing him fight Dick Smith I don't blame him. I have heard two excuses—the first that he couldn' get a furlough to allow him to train, and the second the yarn about pressure being brought to bear on Clemenceau.

Manager Mortimer, for Beckett, announced that if Carpentier goes to America before meeting Beckett, the latter will follow him there with a claim of the European champion, and hound him about the country.

MIRACULOUS ESCAPE

Lightning Tears Off Legs of Bed—Occupants Unhurt

BROCKVILLE, July 29.—Reports are coming in of great damage wrought by lightning during a thunderstorm which passed over this section yesterday. Near Lyn, the barn, horse, stables and garage of John W. Stewart caught fire and were burned, entailing a loss of between $4,000 and $5,000.

The occupants of the home of Sanford Darling, in the same vicinity had a miraculous escape from injury and death. The lightning struck the roof of the house, tore off a part of it, and then descended into the living room below. Mrs. Darling and a grandchild were in bed together when the current hit it and tore off the legs. Both were unhurt except from shock. Several other places were struck and damaged.

Horses are fond of alfalfa hay; for this reason it should be fed to them in limited quantities. If fed judiciously it will suffice as the sole roughage, even for working horses.

HUDSON BAY CO. MADE BIG PROFIT

LONDON, July 31.—Accounts presented at the meeting of the Hudson Bay Company showed a profit on fur trade of 10,382 pounds against 40,045 pounds and sale at shops and other trading profit of 206,543 pounds against 234,600 pounds.

The chairman, Sir R. Kindersley, said the epidemic of influenza last year resulted in considerable mortality amongst the aboriginal tribes from whom their principal fur hunters were drawn. This would doubtless have a somewhat adverse effect on collections of furs, but if prices ruling at the moment were maintained as seemed probable, the directors looked forward to a satisfactory return from this branch of the business.

Next year they were specially concentrating on organisation and development of this side of the business. The stores department continued to show satisfactory progress, particularly in the larger centres where modern stores are situated. In the prairie centres results were not so good, the effect of bad harvests being generally and severely felt.

The land department results were satisfactory. In the farm lands section, being second highest in the history of the company, they sold 285,561 acres for 1,023,071 pounds. They had received cables in regard to the fur department that returns from trading posts indicated that the fur collection were equal to last year except foxes and lynx, in which there would be a shortage. The stores commissioner cabled that sales for the first six months were satisfactory and showed an improvement over the corresponding period of last year, and the net trading results would compare favorably.

BLAMES PACKING RING FOR INCREASE IN PRICE BOOTS

Government regulation of the price of hides and an embargo on Canadian skins for export to the United States was the solution of the high price of footwear in Canada offered by Joseph Daoust, tanner and shoe manufacturer of Montreal, in an address delivered before the convention of the Canadian National Shoe Retailers' Association at Toronto last week.

"Who are the boot and shoe profiteers?" was the question which he had no hesitation in answering, laying the entire blame upon the Chicago packing ring known as the "Big Five."

Mr. Daoust did not mince matters. The Chicago packers, he said, were sharks, and blood suckers, preying upon the poor. Not only did they control the hide markets of the world but also 700 food-producing companies, so that when they raised prices in Chicago up went prices all over the world.

The Canadian packers were not wholly responsible, he admitted, but he added that, like good sheep, they followed the lead of the Chicago bosses. On this he based his assertion that what Canada needed was an embargo on hides, and a maximum price set by the Government.

This, he admitted, might result in retaliation on the part of the United States, but of this Canada need have no fear, for he declared there was an abundant supply of hides in Canada to care for internal needs and cover

PRIVATE O'NEILL RETURNS HOME

Pte. Ormiston O'Neill, C.R. T., recently returned from overseas, is visiting relatives in the city before returning to Montreal to obtain his discharge from the C.E.F. Pte. O'Neill heard the call of the Empire through the British-Canadian Recruiting Mission while in Pittsburg, U.S.A., and after having passed through some exciting experiences in the war zone, he is very happy to be back in Canada once more.

DANCE AT THE GOLF CLUB

About fifty couples attended the weekly dance given by the Golf and Country Club last evening and the affair proved a decided success. Ideal music was furnished by Moher and Fitzgerald. A few of those noticed at the dance were Mr. and Mrs. Roland Denne, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Bond, Mrs. Gardiner, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Patterson, Mr. R. Dobie, Mr. and Mrs Gerald Wood, Mr. Hudson, Montreal, Miss Dorothy Hill, Miss Phyllis Young, Miss Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Rogers, Mr. Walton and Miss Georgie Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. Basil Hall, Dr. and Mrs. Young, Miss Seabourne Hamilton, Mr. R. M. Hamilton, Mr. Frank Patterson the Misses Patterson, Miss Margaret Anderson, Major Harold Wallis, Major Hugh Wallis, Mr. Frank Bradburn, Mr. Herb Rush, Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Carruthers, Mr. and Mrs. Sangster, Mr. Dodds, Mrs. McLeod, Mrs. V. T. McElderry, Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Meyers, Mr. Gordon Matthews and Mr. Wilfred Stratton.

GROW MEAT AT HOME IN THE FORM OF RABBITS.

SYRACUSE, N.Y., July 30.—Raise rabbits and have a meat market in your own back yard—is the sum and substance of the advice given by Dayn Brothers & Co., one of the city's largest dry goods and departmental stores in connection with a window display of rabbits.

Further information is given by the store in booming the purchase of rabbits by the ultimate consumer to the effect that the maintaining cost of one rabbit is one-half cent a day and that by keeping a few rabbits in the back yard rabbit roast and stew may be had at a cost of ten cents a pound.

Advertising rabbits is a new departure for Syracuse dry goods stores.

HAD GOOD OPINION OF HIS DRIVING

BUT POLICE GAVE EVIDENCE THAT TOOK $8.10 FROM I. EASTWOOD

For cutting the corner at George and Brock streets, Mr. Isaac Eastwood was fined $8.10 his morning. He pleaded not guilty and in his defense gave the opinion that he was so careful a driver that he could scarcely have skimped his usual sweeping curve at the corner. P. C. Young provided the details of the case. In the end Mr. Eastwood paid the usual fine, peeling off a twenty dollar bill from a roll as big as a bed bolster.

BLOODSHED AT SCENE OF STRIKE

Strikebreakers were not Permitted to Disembark at Textile Plant.

QUEBEC, July 31. — There was bloodshed this morning among the textile strikers at the Dominion Textile Co. plant at Montmorency Falls. About 60 strikebreakers arrived on a train at 7.45 this morning but were not permitted to disembark, about 300 strikers preventing them from landing. A picket of twenty special constables rushed the strikers and rescued the workers, but had to club some of the strikers, and some of the constables hard pressed had to fire in the air. Three or four of the strikers were slightly injured.

TO-DAY'S SESSIONS OF GRAND LODGE

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, July 31. — This morning's session of the Sovereign Grand Grand Orange Lodge of British America was occupied entirely by discussions or recommendations of the committee on the constitution and bylaws of the insurance branch. The sessions of the Grand Lodge are secret.

THE SOPORIFIC SAUSAGE.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31.—Even camouflage can be overdone. A heap of sausages on an incoming steamer here yesterday looked so toothsome that a customs inspector lifted one to admire it. Altogether they contained $10,000 worth of opium.

STAR CAMPED ON ISLAND WHILE PRODUCING PLAY

While taking scenes in Santa Cruz for the "Island of Intrigue," the latest picture in which she is starred, May Allison and a large company of Metro Players were forced to camp for a week on the lonely shores of the beautiful island.

Director Otto had discovered the ideal spot but it was far from any town and he had almost decided to give up the idea of making scenes there when Miss Allison suggested that they camp out.

The idea met with instant approval and the company picnicked for the entire week.

"The Island of Intrigue," which will be shown at the Grand Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday for a 3 day engagement, is a thrilling drama of intrigue and adventure.

READY FOR CONVENTION

LIBERAL LEADERSHIP WILL LIKELY BE SETTLED ON WEDNESDAY NEXT.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, July 31. — Plans and programme for the National Liberal convention meeting here next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday were discussed and partially arranged by the Advisory committee this morning. There will be three sessions daily, and it is probable that the vote which will settle the question of Liberal leadership, will be taken on the afternoon of Wednesday. Accredited delegates will include between two hundred and three hundred women, it was learned this morning, most of them from the western provinces.

Premier Oliver of British Columbia, Premier Murray of Nova Scotia, and several Provincial Cabinet Ministers were among those who attended the Advisory committee meeting this morning. Prominent among the delegates was the Hon. George P. Graham, a former Laurier lieutenant, and one- time Liberal leader in Ontario. Hon. W. S. Fielding still remains the favourite in the race for the leadership. Premier Elect Bell, of Prince Edward Island promises to be quite a figure owing to his recent success in redeeming that province for the Liberals.

FALLON TO BE TRIED ON MURDER CHARGE

FORMER PETERBORO MAN CHARGED WITH KILLING GIRL.

MONTREAL, July 31. — William Fallon, the returned soldier who is accused of murdering Bella Roy in a rooming house at 300 St. Lawrence Boulevard, during the night of 15th-16th July, was sent up for trial by Judge Leet in the Enquette Court. He will give his voluntary statement on 5th August.

While the evidence was being given Fallon stood in the dock, looking ghastly pale and so weak that he was obliged to sit down several times during the short preliminary trail.

CHICAGO IS QUIETER TO-DAY

(Canadian Press.)

CHICAGO, July 31.—Chicago was comparatively calm to-day for the first time since Sunday, and public officials expressed the belief that the use of five regiments of State troops had effectually quelled the race riots, which resulted in thrity deaths and the injury of more than a thousand persons.

Funerals were held to-day for twenty victims of the race riots.

GERMAN'S VIEW OF ARMENIA'S TRAGEDY.

Admits Wholesale Massacres—But Excuses Germany.

BERLIN, July 31.—What is described as the "truth about the Armenian massacres is revealed to the German public by the Tageblatt, which prints extracts of a book based upon diplomatic documents which the Foreign Ministry commissioned Johann Lepsius to write.

The writer shows that the Turkish committee of Union and Progress deliberately decided to realise national ideas by assimilating or destroying the Armenians, who in Turkey number about 1,850,000. He describes the arrest and massacre of 600 Armenian leaders in April, 1915, and how the previous so-called Armenian rising was provoked as a pretext for young Turks' schemes.

Lepsius repudiates the charge that Germany favoured the crimes or that German officials incited the Turks to commit them, saying that the German Embassy was impotent.

Theodor Wolff, editor-in-chief of the Tageblatt, in connection with the book, refers to the deportation of the Belgian unemployed, saying that of 56,000 who were deported and treated as slaves, 1,500 perished in two months.

Australian sheep-breeders, who at one time would shoot a stray dog on sight, are now scouring the country for any kind of an animal that is able to hunt down rabbits.

MINERAL OIL

For Chronic Constipation

By buying this product from us you can get the Highest in Quality that can be procured at an ESPECIALLY LOW PRICE.

There are many thin oils on the market that are not suitable for internal use; other oils have irritating qualities which render them also unsuitable. The one we are selling is guaranteed thick and entirely pure.

It is recognised that a good grade of Mineral Oil is one of the best remedies for CHRONIC CONSTIPATION that is being used. It acts mechanically and does not irritate the intestinal tract, nor does the dose have to be continually increased as is the case with ordinary purgatives.

It is much better and cheaper than Castor Oil as a laxative for Children, since Castor Oil has two effects, the first of which is purgative and the second or after effect, which is Constipating.

HUNGARIAN SOVIET GOVERNMENT HAS RESIGNED

BIG FIRE IN CHICAGO

(United Press.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.— Fire, which broke out in the stock yards district this morning, had destroyed between thirty and forty houses by 8 o'clock, the police reported. Three persons are reported missing and property damage was said to be above $250,000.

Police declare the fires were started by five negroes who, they said, were seen in the neighbourhood shortly before the alarms were sounded.

PRESENTED THE PEACE OVERTURES

ALLIES ASKED TO RECOGNIZE THE GOVERNMENT IN HUNGARY.

Canadian Press:

VIENNA, Aug 2.—The peace overtures were made by Jacobs Weltner, President of the Soldiers' and Workers' Soviet of Hungary. Arriving in Vienna from Budapest, Herr Weltner asked Colonel Cunningham, the leading representative of the Allies at Vienna and other allied officials here to recognize the new government and treaty for peace.

GAVE UP GHOST.

United Press:

VIENNA, Aug. 1 (Delayed). — Hungary's Soviet Government experiment ended to-day, according to reports from Budapest, when Bela Kun and the entire Red Cabinet resigned. The move followed a conference of several hours, during which the Commissionaries decided that capitulation of the Bolsheviki Government was the only means of saving Hungary, due to the recent military defeats. A Socialist Democrat Coalition Government is being formed under the leadership of Julius Peidl, who will be Premier. The Hungarians have decided to give up the Soviet system for good, according to the reports.

COULD NOT RIVAL BRITISH FLEET

Canadian Press:

PARIS, Aug. 2.—The Peace Committee of the Chamber of Deputies, which, by a vote of thirty-four to one, yesterday recommended to the Chamber that the German Peace Treaty be ratified before balloting, listened to George Leygues, Minister of Marine.

After recalling the magnificent role played by the French Navy during the war, and especially in the Mediterranean, the Minister said France could not rival Great Britain but must have a fleet assuring her naval position. The Commission unanimously recognized that the Peace Treaty meant the disappearance of the German fleet.

AMERICA MUST HAVE A VOICE

SAMUEL COMPERS' DECLARATION TO THE AMERICAN CONGRESS.

United Press:

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 2. — America must have a voice in the direction of the International Labour Congress or the workers of other powers can "play alone," Samuel Compers and Daniel Lobin, American delegates, declared to-day before the Congress in session here.

LATE DESPATCHES

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Aug. 2. — Despatches from Odessa report three days of massacre of Jews there by troops.

SEEK REFUGE.

VIENNA, Aug. 2. — Bela Kun may seek refuge here as it is felt that his life would be endangered if he remained in Budapest.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

MADRID, Aug. 2. — Without discussion the Spanish Senate voted unanimously to support the League of Nations covenant.

GOOD FISHING AT THE FIRST BRIDGE

PRESENT COST OF LIVING THREATENS TO BECOME A LIVE ISSUE IN THE STATES

BUILDING TRADES MEN ARE SCARCE

SIXTY-SEVEN APPLICANTS FOR WORK AT LABOUR BUREAU.

Plasterers, carpenters and bricklayers, it was stated at the Employment Agency this morning, are almost impossible to get in the city, and the Agency is busy trying to find men on such work in Lindsay. Men to work in the woods are also being insistently called for, and splendid wages are being offered for the work. Sixty-seven applications for work were received this week and 37 men placed locally, 7 transferred to other points, also 3 to the West. Fifty-three vacancies were reported and two domestics applied for work, asking wages of from $20 to $25 a month.

TWO MONTHS IN JAIL FOR GUNNER ALLEN

CHANGED HIS PLEA TO GUILTY THIS MORNING

Gunner A. L. Allen was sentenced to two months in jail at hard labour when he pleaded guilty before Magistrate Dumble this morning to the charge of theft to which he had entered a not guilty plea yesterday. He had been remanded until Monday but notified Chief Thompson of his desire to plead guilty, and was therefore, brought before the Magistrate this morning. The charge against Allen was that he kept money collected from subscribers of a magazine he was selling. Magistrate Dumble said that he could not give him his liberty. Such thefts could not be excused. He advised Allen to make an honest living when he had served the two months. The accused was wanted in Port Hope for similar charges.

FEW FARMERS AT TO-DAY'S MARKET

FARMERS ARE BUSY GARNERING THE THE CROP—TO-DAY'S PRICES.

The attendance at the farmers' market this morning was rather light due to the fact that the great majority of farmers are more concerned in harvesting operations than in marketing produce.

This is the peak season of harvesting operations, and with favourable weather a fairly good crop will soon be tucked away in the barns that dot Peterborough County.

Prices were about the same as last week, as the following list will show.

Apples are beginning to put in an appearance.

The price-list follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Cucumbers, each | 2c |
| Corn, dozen | 25c |
| Tomatoes, pound | 15c |
| Potatoes, peck | 80c |
| Cabbage, each | 10c |
| Beets, bunch | 5c |
| Beans, 4 qts. | 25c |
| Lettuce, bunch | 5c |
| Radishes, bunch | 3c |
| Onions, bunch | 5c |
| Carrots, bunch | 5c |
| Cauliflower, each | 5c to 15c |
| Butter, pound | 60c |
| Eggs, dozen | 50c |
| Chickens, each | $1.25 to $1.40 |
| Apples, peck | 45c to 50c |
| Salmon, pound | 20c |
| Trout, pound | 14c to 18c |
| Whitefish, pound | 18c |

MR. M. D. CHENHALL WILL NOT BE HERE

Mr. Matin B. Chenhall, Cobourg, who has been engaged as organist for St. Paul's Church to fill the vacancy left by Mr. John Allan will not play at St. Paul's Church tomorrow as arranged. He will probably take over his duties next Sunday. Efforts are being made to retain his services in Cobourg.

MR. J. W. WORTH'S NAME INADVERTENTLY OMITTED

By an obvious error in a misplaced line, the name of Mr. J. W. Worth did not appear in last night's report of the Board of Education. He had refused to vote for the report of the Special Building Committee for the reason that fire escapes were not provided from the second storey. This correction is made without any solicitation from Mr. Worth.

SHOPMEN ON STRIKE.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—Approximately 100,000 railway shopmen in the Chicago district, which embraces the territory within 200 miles of the city, went on a strike to-day for higher wages. Shopmen in Atlanta, Ga., district, also walked out, it is said.

UNREST THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY INTERFERES WITH VACATION OF CONGRESSMEN AND SENATORS.

WAYS AND MEANS

By L. C. Martin.
(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2. — Congress has been sealed up shors by the unrest throughout the country over the high cost of living. Not only has the House's five weeks' recess been called off but the League of Nations fight in the Senate may be affected before Long, senators said to-day.

Lodgers of both houses to-day were concerned with devising some plan whereby the insistent demand from the whole country for an adjustment of wages into proper relation to the cost of living may be worked out, they said. House and Senate leaders were to confer in an effort to lay the foundation for action which will meet not only the railroad men's problem but the broader one which affects all workers.

CHILDREN AT THE FRESH AIR CAMP

GOOD RESULTS ARE BEING OBTAINED —A FEW DONATIONS.

The children who are being cared for at the fresh air camp in Jackson Camp by the Peterborough Health Camp by the Peterborough Health their young lives. Pale, wan cheeks quickly take on a ruddy glow under the healtful influences of the wooded paradise that shelters them during the day. The camp is in full swing and under careful management good results are being obtained. Some of those who have kindly assisted the Association include the following: Mrs. Stenson, Harvey street, beans; Mrs. Matthews, Kirk street, eggs; Mrs. Russell Copping, Aylmer street, ice cream; Mr. Stocker, Weller street, grape juice, and Mr. G. A. Gillespie, large supplies of milk and dairy products.

DESERTION AND BIGAMY CHARGED

Thomas Keeler a war veteran and a former resident of Coldsprings was arrested at Kingston on information sent out by Chief Ruse, charged with deserting his wife and family of four children. Mrs. Keeler was living at Coldsprings at time of her husband's enlistment, but is now residing here.

Chief Rose went down to Kingston on Wednesday and brought Keeler back to town. He came up before Magistrate W. H. Floyd that night and was remanded until Saturday, and another charge is preferred against him. The Chief found Keeler enjoying the society of another wife in the Limestone City. He was married there, it is stated, on April 28th, 1919, by Rev. Mr. Brown a Baptist minister, to Margaret Jane Grant. Previous to this he was a patient in the Military Hospital at Kingston; his wife here states he received his discharge on the day that he was married the second time.

HEALTH BROKEN NOW, HE WENT OVER WITH 93RD

He was 45 when he enlisted in the 93rd Battalion in 1916, and a few days ago, when he applied to the city to assume the expense of his care in the Nicholls Hospital he was 48 years old. The discrepancy of course is explained by his eagerness to get overseas, although it is now recognized that the war was only a young man's job.

Mr. F. W. Miller, who investigated the conditions in this case, reported that the applicant was simply worn out, exhausted." He needed hospital attention, and perhaps would recover some strength. The committee approved the application.

ACTIVITIES IN TRUCK BUSINESS.

A. Brown & Co. has received a carload of Republic Trucks. Those considering a truck proposition will do well to look into the merits of the Republic. They are now to be seen at the McLaughlin Garage, Water street. 1d-27-4331

DRUNK AT LAKEFIELD.

James Isbister of Lakefield was fined $10 and costs, amounting to $17.80, by Magistrate Langley for having been drunk and disorderly in the Commercial Hotel on June 29th.

THE "ONE BIG UNION" HAS SECURED CONTROL OF WESTERN LABOUR NEWS

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Aug. 2.—One Big Union leaders control the "Western Labour News," it was [illegible] to-day's issue a notice appears stating that "[illegible] of the Council on Tuesday, 30th July, 1919, automatically transferred the property rights of this paper to the Central Labour Council."

Labour followers freely predict that the next clash between International and One Big Union interests will concern the right to the possession of the official labour organ.

William Varley, American Federation of Labour organiser, when informed that the One Big Union claimed possession of the paper, said: "There may be a change in that."

Rev. William [illegible], editor of the "Western Labour News," and one of the [illegible] in the recent strike, will run for alderman in Ward [illegible] which includes the Western C. P. R. Shops District.

WORDING OF THE "PERMIT" CARDS WAS UNFORTUNATE

ROBSON COMMISSION HAS BEEN ADJOURNED UNTIL SEPTEMBER 2ND—REINSTATE STRIKERS.

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 2.— The general strike that tied up all industry for [illegible] was called for the sole purpose of bringing pressure to bear upon certain employers in order that employees of those firms might secure their rights, according to the evidence given by Ald. Robinson, secretary of the Trades and Labour Council before the Robson Commission Friday. There was no thought of usurping the powers of government and one idea was to have a strike conducted in an orderly manner.

James Winning, R. B. Russell and G. F. Veitch, members of the General Strike committee, personally composed the wording, set the type and printed the famous "permit" cards according to a statement made by President Winning.

"The wording of the cards was unfortunate," Ald. Robinson said. "There certainly was no intention to establish a Soviet nor any thought of such thing in the minds of the Strike committee."

Commissioner Robson said he would make an effort to persuade the railways who have refused to re-employ many men who went on strike to relax their attitude. "I think perhaps there has been enough punishment," he said.

ANOTHER MEETING OF SHAREHOLDERS

AGENTS OF DEFUNCT LOAN COMPANY ACCUSED OF FRAUD.

Special to the Examiner:

BROCKVILLE, Aug. 2. — Irate creditors and shareholders of the defunct Standard Realty Mortgage Corporation whetted their anger in a short but fiery discussion at a meeting of four hundred [illegible], debenture holders and shareholders held last night, the gist of [illegible] charge that agents [illegible] company falsely represented that [illegible] second mortgage loans were [illegible] and that loans on real [illegible] made on first mortgages [illegible] but fifty per cent. of the [illegible]. They demanded the prosecution of every agent guilty of such [illegible] and one creditor, Robert [illegible], farmer of Caintown, [illegible] his personal fortune [illegible] to justice." George [illegible] Clarkson, Toronto, the provincial [illegible] expressed his sympathy [illegible] determined in this way [illegible] all persons who desired [illegible] application [illegible] examined under oath [illegible] of their claims.

"No doubt," [illegible] son, "there were some agents who made statements that were not true. Agents must have said that only fifty per cent. on first mortgage, was loaned by the company, which, from what I have been told by some, they knew was not true."

SOME OF THE PASSENGERS RECEIVED A SHAKING UP.

The G. T. R. morning train which leaves Lindsay around seven o'clock, came to grief on its way to Port Perry and Whitby. The train was made up of two box cars, mail car, and one passenger coach.

Near Sonya the whole train left the track, the direct cause of which is yet unknown. As a result, the cars were damaged considerably, but luckily no passengers were seriously injured, although all received a shaking up.

The passengers seated themselves along the roadside, and many journeyed to nearby farmhouses for the midday meal.

The auxiliary was rushed to the scene and had the track cleared last evening. Passengers from Lindsay on their way to Port Perry, Oshawa, etc., did not get further than Sonya, and returned to town at eleven o'clock at night.

The train was in charge of Conductor Thompson and Engineer Lytle.

KILLED BY TRAIN AT ST. CATHARINES

Special to the Examiner:

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 2. — Arthur Mover, who lived with his widowed mother on Salina Street here, was instantly killed early this morning by being run over by a train on the Hydro Power Canal Construction at Niagara Falls. The remains will be brought here.

MR. CLAYTON TELFORD HAS SOLD HIS FARM

Mr. Clayton Telford, of Emmsmore, has sold his farm of 103 acres to Mr. T. Crough, and has bought a house in Bridgenorth, which he will occupy about November 1st. The sale of Mr. Telford's farm stock and implements will be conducted on October 30th by George Jackson. It is Mr. Telford's intention to retire from farming. He is quite a young man, and has made his success, not only as a farmer, but also in the public life of his township, in which he is held in high esteem.

ENUMERATION NOT YET COMPLETE

Mr. W. F. Johnston, clerk of the Enumeration Board, said this morning that on account of the fact that the lists are incomplete, nothing definite had been done by the Board. The first meeting of the Board, which was held yesterday morning at the Court House, was of a preliminary nature and contained nothing of public interest.

In Bad Shape.

It was stated by a member of the Board to-day that the Peterborough enumeration is in very bad shape, and not only are the lists far from complete, but some of the enumerators are not even appointed as yet. "The whole thing is terribly bungled," the Examiner was informed.

RUNAWAY THRILL FOR CHARLOTTE ST. CROWD

BUGGY SMASHED AGAINST TELEPHONE POST AT RUBIDGE ST.

Detached wheels, pieces of shafts, and splinters of the body of their waggon were suggestive of the narrow escape from serious injury of Wm. Dunnet, 420 McDonnel Street, and F. Sherwood, 501 Cross Street, yesterday afternoon, when after a short mad flight their horse crashed against a telephone pole at the corner of Charlotte and Rubidge Streets.

The two men had been driving leisurely west on Charlotte Street, but near Bethune Street the buggy was slightly bumped by the automobile driven by Mrs. Robert Sutherland, 356 Water Street. With that minor mishap as a spur, the horse bolted, and in two short blocks gave the home-going west-enders a thrill as the animal raced over the lawns and threatened to fetch up at any minute against tree or post.

Mr. Dunnet managed to drop off the buggy early in the flight, but Mr. Sherwood was not so fortunate.

The horse showed a glimmer of good judgment by selecting Dr. Neal's corner for its big stunt. It blindly dashed against the big telephone pole, breaking the harness and freeing itself spee, and by the impact, reducing the buggy to kindling wood [illegible] Sherwood had been dragged [illegible] Charlotte Street, and had to be [illegible] by Dr. [illegible] reported that he was [illegible] injured. The horse was [illegible] west on Charlotte [illegible] its feet were cushed and [illegible] other marks of [illegible], and the waggon appeared [illegible] beyond repair.

WATER STREET RESIDENCE WAS BADLY DAMAGED BY AN EARLY MORN FIRE

FAMILY DRIVEN FROM THEIR BEDS—SHORT CIRCUIT WAS THE CAUSE.

STABLE SAVED

The residence of Mr. E. Dundas, 716 Water street, an employee of the E. H. Mann Company, Aylmer street, was almost totally destroyed by fire this morning at 4.37 o'clock.

At about 4.15 Mr. Dundas woke and heard what he thought to be heavy rain, and looked out of the window to find flames circling about him. He immediately aroused his two boys, who were sleeping in the next room and after dressing, proceeded to arouse the neighbours on both sides, Mrs. Jas. Clancy and Mr. T. J. Quinlan, 718 Water street. Mrs. Dundas and the smaller children were out of the city. The fire department was immediately called, and with the use of 1,700 feet of hose from two hydrants and 45 gallons of chemicals, succeeded in getting the fire well under way in a few minutes.

The Cause.

The cause of the fire was due to a short-circuited wire in Mr. Quinlan's roof, which took fire, sending the sparks to the north-east corner of Mr. Dundas' roof, which burned like tinder and in a few moments was completely enveloped in flames. Directly the firemen arrived they took the greatest precautions that the stable next door in which six horses belonging to the Imperial Oil Company and kept by Mr. James Clancy, should not be allowed to burn. Chief Grange stated this morning that the houses were built contrary to fire regulations, with the gables of the roofs touching.

The Damage.

The exact damage could not be estimated this morning, but approximately it will amount to several hundred dollars. The wooden [illegible] which [illegible] the furniture throughout the house, as there was not sufficient time to remove any of it before the Fire Department took hold. A limited amount of insurance is carried on both the house and furniture. Mr. Quinlan's house, which is also insured, was considerably damaged by the water and the roof badly burned. Only the metal sheeting on the walls saved the house from total destruction.

At the time of the fire Water street north presented an extraordinary appearance, both sides of the street being lined with neighbours in different stages of dishabille. No one waited to find out how much or little he had on before hastening to the aid of his neighbour.

CHICAGO STRIKE IS SPREADING

EVERY RAILWAY SYSTEM IN THE STATES MAY BE AFFECTED.

(United Press.)

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 2.—That every railroad system in the country will be affected by to-night through the strike of shopmen, was the prediction to-day of J. D. Saunders, secretary of the Council, directing the Chicago strike.

Twenty-five thousand were reported in the Chicago district. Union officials said the strike will affect one hundred thousand throughout the nation.

The men demanded a wage of eighty-five cents an hour, an increase of seventeen cents. A helpers' minimum of sixty cents was also asked. Those affected are car repairers, machinists, inspectors, electricians, blacksmiths and sheet metal workers.

POLICE STRIKE IS BREAKING UP

LOOTING AT THE LIVERPOOL DOCKS —MANY ARRESTS.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Aug. 2.—The ranks of striking policemen in London and Liverpool have not been materially increased and all strikers have been summarily dismissed. There was considerable looting at Liverpool docks and the troops were called out. Loyal police and troops charged rioting civilians with fixed bayonets and order was restored. Many arrests were made.

NEW FLAG OF THE GERMAN REPUBLIC

FIFTH ANNIVERSARY OF GERMANY'S FIRST DECLARATION OF WAR

BERLIN, Aug. 2.— The black, red and gold of the new German Republic floated for the first time over the National Assembly at Weimar to-day. The fifth anniversary of Germany's first declaration of war. The constitution of the new regime adopted yesterday, provides the basis of a genuine democracy with men and women voting alike. Workers and employers' councils are a feature. Precession for free economic development are outlined to be elaborated further with respect to financial and taxation questions at the next session of the Assembly.

NEW GOVERNMENT HAS BEEN FORMED

TRADE UNIONISTS HAVE FORMED A SOCIALIST GOVERNMENT.

COPENHAGEN, Aug 2.— Trade Unionists have formed a Socialist government, with Julius Beidel as Premier, in succession to Bela Kun's government, which has resigned, according to official advices from Budapest to-day.

The new Cabinet issued a proclamation stating its main objects were negotiating with the Allies and the maintenance of order.

AERIAL TRAVEL PROBLEM SOLVED

The problem of Aerial naviagation has been greatly assisted by the very recent discovery of a very high percentage of "HELIUM GAS" in Texas petroleum—"HELIUM GAS" is the lifting gas of the "DIRIGIBLE" it is non-explosive and non-inflamable and will practically eliminae the gas trouble which was encountered by the crew which recently made that memorable trip from England to United States—with this wonderful discovery newer and greater possibilites are offered. not only to Texas oil producing Companies (Texas being the only oil fields where "Halium Gas" is found) but offers unusual opportunity to the investor. The United States Government is greatly interested and it is expected that extracting plants will at once be effected. This riscovery not only makes safe aerial navigation but opens up a channel which gives Texas Oil interests an entirely new avenue of production. Texas Oil is surely having its day as recent statistics covering operations in the oil fields of Western Texas shw that out of every one hundred companies started. there have been to date but five complete failures—seemingly the investor has ninety five chances to win against only five of losing—. Comparing these figures with other commercial enterprises would apparently take the element of chance out of oil speculation. eaneeially in Texas Companies. This refers only to the legitimate onerating companies and does not include the orbenective wild-catters with leases in Texas but of questionable value.

New oil fields in North Central Texas are now estimated to be paying more than 60% on a total of $200,000,000 invested.

DUST OF METEORITES FOUND ON OCEAN BED.

To an enormous extent the bed of the ocean is covered with lava and pumice stone. Still more remarkable is it to find the floor of the ocean covered in many parts with the dust of meteorites. These bodies whirl about in the heavens like miniature comets, and are for the most part broken into innumerable fragments. We are all familiar with these heavenly visitants as shooting stars; but it has been only lately discovered that this cosmic dust forms layers at the bottom of the deepest seas. Between Honolulu and Tahiti, at a depth of two thousand three hundred and fifty fathoms—over two miles and a half—a vast layer of this material exists. Falling upon land thisimpalpable dust is indistinguishable; but, accumulating for centuries in the sea depths, it forms a wondrous story of the continuous bombardment of this planet by cometary bodies.—Family Herald.

BRITISH INDUSTRIES SHOCKED AT BIG INCREASE TO COSTS

RAISE IN PRICE OF COAL, HIGHER WAGES, SHORTER HOURS, RESULT IN CALCULATION OF WHAT IT MEANS TO VARIOUS BRANCHES OF TRADE.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Surprised and shocked by the Government announcement that coal is to cost the consumer $1.80 more a ton because of increased wages, shorter hours for the miner, and steadily decreased production per workman, British manufacturers have been calculating just how much they must add to the price of their products in order to maintain the accustomed level of profit.

The federation of British industries, representing well over $5,000,000,000 invested capital, has made public the following statement of increased prices under the new coal charges:

Engineering products, 3 to 10 per cent.; textiles, 3 to 4 per cent.; metal trades, 2 to 6 per cent.; chemicals, 10 per cent.; gas and electricity, 10 per cent.; paper, per ton, $2; salt, per ton, $1.50.

In the building trades increased costs will be:—

For steel, $6 per ton; bricks, 5 per cent.; glass, 5 to 10 per cent.; drain pipes, $1.50 per ton.

Steel Trade Alarmed.

The steel trade took immediate alarm, and when the announcement was made promptly withdrew all quotations, pointing out the difficult position in which the industry was placed, as already British manufacturers were being undersold in the home market by American steelmakers.

Grimsby fishermen also made their position very plain, declaring they could not operate their steam trawlers with the new-priced coal and sell fish at old prices.

In Manchester it was pointed out that the smaller industries would be the most seriously affected, while leading coal operators said they would receive nothing from the advance.

The public generally also took alarm when it was pointed out that with coal at the new price it would have to consent to increases in gas prices that would make up a deficiency every year of some £36,000,000.

STOMACH TROUBLE

Thin blooded people generally have stomach trouble. But they seldom recognize the fact that thin blood is the cause of their indigestion, but it is.

Thin blood is one of the most common causes of stomach trouble; it affects the digestion very quickly. The glands that furnish the digestive fluids are diminished in their activity, the stomach muscles are weakened and there is a loss of nerve force. In this state of health nothing will more quickly restore the appetite, digestion and normal nutrition than good, rich, red blood.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on the blood, making it rich and red, and this enriched blood strengthens weak nerves, stimulates tired muscles, and awakens to normal activity the glands that supply the digestive fluids. The first sign of returning health is an improved appetite, and soon the effect of these blood-making pills is evident throughout the whole system. You find that what you eat does not distress you, and that you are strong and vigorous instead of irritable and listless. You are on the road to sound, good health and care in your diet is all you need. If your appetite is fickle, if you have any of the distressing pains and symptoms of indigestion you should begin to cure yourself at once by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

These pills are sold by all dealers in medicine or you can get them by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GIVES CAUSES FOR RIOTS.

Colored Editor Says Chicago Negroes Are Herded in Black Belt.

Willis N. Huggins, editor of The Search Light, a Chicago weekly periodical published in the interests of the colored people, and a teacher in the Chicago public schools, told of the causes of the recent uprisings of the negroes in that city last night, and predicted that the "uneducated" negroes of New York would riot soon and that conditions would be far worse that either Chicago or Washington.

"In Chicago the primary causes for the uprising," said Mr. Huggins, "were the housing situation, the conditions of employment, and the political situation. The statement that the throwing of a stone brought on the riot was untrue. Of course, there are many cases of negro brutality against the whites, and instances far too numerous of their uncauthness, but a few of the whites have retaliated against the negro, and there have been reported twenty cases of dynamiting in the black belt within the last fifteen months.

"During the war employers brought thousands of coloured people from the South to work in the Chicago factories, and now that the war is over, they are making no provision either for sending them back or for finding them a place to live in. The black belt is overcrowded to such a degree that six persons are packed in space which ought to be occupied by two. They are herded like cattle.

"The negro vote can either elect or defeat a candidate. It elected Mayor Thompson, but one cannot say that he is a particular friend of the colored persons; it is his purpose that every racial element in Chicago gets its rights under law."

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

A Word to Husbands.

Love and appreciation are to a woman what dew and sunshine are to a flower. They freshen and brighten her whole life. They make her stronghearted and keen-sighted in everything effecting the welfare of her home. They make her to cherish her husband when the cares of life press heavily upon him; and to be a very providence to her children. To know that her husband loves her and is proud of her and believes in her; that even her faults are looked upon with tenderness; that her face, to one at least, is the fairest in all the world; that the heart which is to her is the greatest and noblest holds her sacred in his innermost recesses above all other women, gives a strength and courage and energy and sweetness and vivacity which all the wealth of the world could not bestow. Let a woman's life be pervaded with such an influence, and her heart and mind will never grow old but will blossom and sweeten and brighten in perpetual youth.

It is worse than useless to attempt to repress a girl's natural impulses. The society and companionship of the opposite sex is a perfectly natural desire. Shut her up and she elopes with a coachman—cross her in love and she may fill a suicide's grave. Many of our young women are consumed with ambitious desires—they feel the divine spark which might be fanned into a splendid flame, but parental authority decrees they shall "fold their hands and wait" while the spark becomes dim and goes out, taking hope, perhaps life, with it.

One fault in the way of living of not a few people is that they never make company of their own families.

The talk of women's extravagance is only accepted as truth because the man keeps the ledgers and his wife has nothing but a debt in them. It isn't fair. If a man were to deal honestly and squarely and figure up his own expenses and all he gets for them the woman would rise up before him a perfect angel of economy and make him blush.

Which way is your life pulling? Is it upward or downward? Are you helping somewhere or hindering anywhere? Is this week's record the best chapter of your life story? Are you ready to have it printed and left as is the matter with it? Important a legacy to your friends? If not, what a problem, isn't it?

Social workers and reformers all over this broad land of ours are constantly trying to remedy problems of vice and install new reform methods; and it behooves every mother of our Home, Sweet Home to do her share by exerting preventive measures upon her boys and girls. Prevention is better than reform.

The boys and girls look at the older people and see what they do. They watch the words of the father and mother and the friends, and take their cue quickly. Even the little ones are ever watchful to see just how closely father and mother adhere to the truth.

The habit of treating those who are nearest and dearest to us with discourtesy and disregard, is one that clouds the sunshine of too many homes.

When we learn to be polite, not only as society people, but as husbands and wives, sisters and brothers, parents and children, we shall do well. No home can be happy wherein sarcastic speech and rude disregard for one another's rights is the rule.

Let us stop to think of the aged For us, too, the evening shadows will close at length and we shall perchance, be left at desolate hearthstones. We shall need to be remembered then.

A GLOOMY OUTLOOK.

The industrial situation in Great Britian presents a critical aspect and not only is the downfall of the Lloyd George government prophesied, but the disturbances have reached such a point that disaster threatens the commerce of the country. The unemployment that is resulting from the series of strikes, and the lessened production, inevitably culminating in higher prices for everything the people require, are the greatest evils of the present crisis. With Great Britain still outpouring her money to the extent of $22,500,000 every day, the economic loss as a result of these labour troubles, will be a terrible burden to the Mother Country. What will be the end of the trouble nobody can prophesy. Labour seems to have got beyond control of the old leaders, Will Thorne, John Hodge, William Adamson, and the others of the old school, whose warnings that the future of Britain is being imperilled by the present agitation, are being unheeded by the rank and file. To meet the situation the People's League has been formed to look after the protection of the unorganized classes, which naturally suffer the most.

SETTING THE PACE.

While better housing means nothing to the members of the city council, judging by the failure to consider seriously the government housing scheme, the people generally will be interested in learning how Ottawa is dealing with the problem. The capital is setting the pace and is launching out on entirely new lines. A new garden sub-division has been laid out and plans finished for the erection of 168 new houses in one of the prettiest districts around Ottawa. The best of it is that the lots are to sell at one-third of their original price. Every house will be detached and the lots will be at least 40 feet wide, while the houses are to be varied in design. The plans call for public bowling greens and tennis courts, the providing of several little parks in the subdivision and a swiming pool for the children; while if the residents so wish, there will be a community garage. These ambitious plans are a long way in advance of anything attempted by other municipalities, and Ottawa is to be congratulated upon the vision and enterprise shown in this splendid scheme.

THE PROHIBITION ISSUE.

Criticism has been directed at Mr. Hartley Dewart, the Liberal Leader in Ontario, because, his critics maintain, he has not declared himself personally in favour of a temperance policy. Mr. Dewart has taken the position that the will of the people must govern, and has pledged himself to faithfully carry out that will when it has been expressed. The Globe is not satisfied with that position. Now it finds that Sir William Hearst is standing on exactly the same ground as Mr. Dewart. The Ontario Premier, in his speech at Queenston Heights the other day, practically repeated the words of Mr. Dewart. "It is now for the people to say what they want," declares Sir William. "We live in a democratic country. We believe in government by the people and for the people. All public men and all students of public opinion agree that in a British country the will of the people must prevail; and whatever the will of the people in this province is, as given expression to in the ballot box, will be carried into law by the Government and faithfully and honestly carried out." Exactly Mr. Dewart's position as expressed by him a few weeks ago.

The Globe has now discarded both laggers. "We know now," remarks the Toronto journal, "that from the Conservative party as a whole and from Sir William Hearst as an individual, no help is to be expected in the battle for permanent Prohibition."

It has taken The Globe a long time to realise, or at least to express, what a lot of people had long since grasped. Government leaders like Hon. Mr. McGarry have been frankly anti-Prohibitionist in their attitude, and their influence is easily apparent.

One-third to one-sixth of an ounce of potassium iodide to each one hundred pounds of feed will prevent half-hoss pigs." Do not use more.

THE LIBERAL CONVENTION.

In his recent and much-discussed letter to Mr. W. J. B. Davison, of Port Hope, Hon. N. W. Rowell makes this interesting if somewhat peculiar statement:

> In reference to the proposed convention in August, as you are aware, it was not called by the Liberal members of the House of Commons, but by Mr. McKenzie, as the Leader of that section of the Liberals opposed to Union Government. . . . The Liberals in the House of Commons, who supported the Union Government, were not, and are not, parties to the calling of the proposed convention. You will, therefore, see that the convention is not a convention of the Liberal party, but a convention called by a section of the party that was hostile to the war policy of the Union Government and to the Union Government itself.

We very much fear there will be a rude awakening for those Conservatives, those Conservative-Unionists, and even those Liberal Unionists, intending to remain under the leadership of Sir Robert Borden, who allow themselves to be lulled into a false sense of political security by this remarkable statement of Mr. Rowell.

The simple truth of the matter is that the facts do not bear out Mr. Rowell's assertion, save in the one single respect that the call for the Liberal convention has been issued by Mr. McKenzie, and that undoubtedly some of the Liberal-Unionists now in the House or in the Cabinet will not attend the convention. But to say that the convention is called "by a section of the party that was hostile to the war policy of the Union Government and to the Union Government itself," is, to say the least, not within the facts. More than that, the statement does an injustice to those Liberals who, all through the war, loyally supported the Government, but who, peace established, are not now prepared to continue that support for reasons which undoubtedly they think good and sufficient, however much Mr. Rowell and others honestly think to the contrary.

For instance, it can scarcely have escaped the attention of Mr. Rowell—certainly it has not escaped the attention of Conservatives and Conservative-Unionists in this neck of the woods—that there will be no fewer than eight Liberal Provincial Premiers at the forthcoming Liberal convention, namely, Brewster of British Columbia, Murray of Nova Scotia, Bell, the newly elected Premier of Prince Edward Island, Martin of Saskatchewan, Stewart of Alberta, Norris of Manitoba, Foster of New Brunswick, and Gouin of Quebec. These, surely, are fairly "representative" Liberals—some of them, too, men who were by no means unfriendly to Unionism during the war. But in any event, whether friendly or unfriendly, they clearly are not the "rump" of the Liberal party, but a decidedly influential and representative group of leaders who cannot be dismissed merely on Mr. Rowell's say-so or ignored as "not counting" because they are called together by temporary Leader McKenzie.

Certainly, so far as The Standard is concerned, it does not believe that Conservatives should sit idly by, with hands folded, and take it for granted—and this with all due respect to Mr. Rowell—that these Liberals are assembling "just for the fun of the thing," and are not to be reckoned with as political factors or are just "a section" of the party. Any "section" that comprises eight Liberal Premiers is admittedly a fairly large-sized "section," and has it in its power, by the adoption of a wise national policy, and the election of a safe and sane leader, to make trouble for the strongest Government. — Kingston Standard (Conservative).

THE HUNTER STREET BRIDGE

A SKETCH OF MR. JOHN RUSSELL, WHO WILL BE THE "BIG NOISE" ON THE JOB.

(To The Editor of The Examiner.)

Sir—The form of contract under which the bridge is to be built and which the Council has entered into with the contracting firm is the subject of comment among our citizens. Quite rightly so, as the expense is to be met by the citizens, and each is vitaly interested in the work and the outcome.

May I congratulate the members of Council, with several of whom I was associated with in civic affairs, on having selected as the builders a firm of whose bonafides there cannot be the least possible doubt. I would like every citizen to have the same confidence in the personality and business grip of thefirm that I am sure the majority of the Council feel. I write this to assure and convince, so far as something put in print and which may be vouched for, can do so.

The form of contract and its execution presents possibilities, and it will be in the way that these are approached, seized and handled that the cost of the structure will be determined. And confidence in the men handling such a proposition is the basis of the work. As the contract has been awarded there can be no objection to remarking on the personality of the firm that will handle the proposition. The senior member of the firm is John Russell, a man esteemed almost beyond others as a self-made man, absolutely square, rigid in his determination to do good work, known to never slight that to which he puts his hand, a master of his profession and of ample experience. Mr. Townsend may not be so well known, but he is the kind of man that John Russell could and would only have associated with him. If we know one horse of the team, we can pretty well judge that the off horse is a good match.

When the Harbor Commissioners of Montreal want a big thing done and done right they send for John Russell. If the Water Front Commission at Toronto have a constructing problem that looks like a frost to the average man, John Russell tackles it and anxiety is done away with. He and those associated with him have handled work running into the millions and the prices have been fixed after the work was done. That expresses confidence.

A Definite Price.

The public, that is the roperty holders—whose holdings will carry the burden of the cost of the bridge, may, I am assured rest easy, that the bridge will cost just what it would cost, and no more, so long as Mr. Russell has the say so. That no contracting firm—and other firms, good ones too, who tendered — can or would build the bridge at lesser cost. If the plans to be followed are right the bridge will be right. Council is satisfied that Mr. Barber understands his business, and we accept his proposition. But while many citizens, men who are careful and successful in their affairs, shake their heads and demur that a definite price was not exacted, those of us who haven't anything to say about but to help to pay may rest assured that we shall not be mulcted by the contractors who will do a fine work and as reasonable as it can be done.

Besides it may not be known to the public that if it were not for John Russell the bridge would cost something more than it will cost. Some years ago the cement makers arranged that cement would be manufactured just somewhere; in process of time the mills at Lakefield and other points closed. Possibly a good business proposition if the mills left operating couldn't make all cement needed. Mr. Russell found that in his work he was being held up and hampered. He put his money into a cement proposition, an independent mill, which he handles as a part of his business and there is very little doubt but that fact has been a determining factor in the present price per barrel, of cement, to the extent of at least 10 cents per barrel.

We are interested, and rightly so, in our men who do things. Especially in those who have climbed. In the skilled surgeon, at the top of his profession and who came out of a farm house. In the scientist whose father did teaming for a living. In another whose father carried on his occupation as a carter. So we might print a few sentences of John Russell.

He began life as a boy of fourteen, driving a team that drew bricks from the brickyard of his uncle, on the Don, to the waterfront in Toronto. He said, and proved it, that he would drive a team and do it better than any hand on the job. The contractor, a man now living, noticed the earnestness and fidelity to an ideal in the boy and offered him a job on a pile driver, as fireman. Russell was just sixteen. In two years he was bossing the pile driver and when he was twenty-one he owned it.

Driving Piles.

Finding that driving piles was, when properly driven, a pretty fair way to drive on in his future, he bought another. Larger work came to him. Such was handled with accuracy and thoroughness. Today he carries in stock a producing and working plant worth probably half a milion dollars. You saw in yesterday's papers that ten tons of dynamite had been let off on the Chippawa Creek canal work of the Hydro, above Niagara Falls, just to show our American cousins that we are on the job and that the resulting explosion shivered the rock into chunks of five and seven tons pieces. Now a seven ton rock is about half as big as one of our street cars. The piece of plant that lifts those rocks, easily and neatly, belongs to John Russell Co., cost $250,000 and is rented to the Hyrdo at so much per day. What is paid for the use of the shovel for a year, would just about pay all expenses of the city of Peterborough for six months.

And may this invocation be offered. That now the bridge turmoil is settled, that confidence in the Council, the engineer and the contractors, throw all those injunctions into the Lake Street bathing place for the boys to cut themselves on if they collide with them, loyally get behind the bridge proposition, quit our grouching, have a little decent business sense, give everybody a chance to do what is fair, and those of us who havn't a finger in the pie at least consent to avoid criticism of those who are cutting the crust and serving the contents of the dish.

Respectfully,

F. H. DOBBIN.

LETTER TO RETURNED SOLDIERS

By CANON J. C. DAVIDSON

The following leter issued by Can. on Davidson a few weeks ago to returned soldiers in connection with St. John's is reprinted for the benefit of St. John's, who have since returned and also because it seems to express the feelings of clergy and leaders of all churches towards returned men. It is certainly true that they have been steadily remembered in their home churches where their experiences qualify them now to find a splendid sphere for influence and usefulness. We look to the country's soldiers to help forward everything which make for uplift and wider fellowship in our country.

The Rector, Wardens and a Committee of the men of St. John's Church desire on behalf of the Congregation to extend to you and to all returned soldiers a hearty welcome back to Canada and to your old Home-Church, where, during the war, you have been remembered by daily prayers, by appropriate music on the chimes at mid-day, in services and sermons by personal letters and parcels and on the Honor Roll.

Yes, looking back over those days of suspense, we are glad to think how greatly the Church has helped to stimulate the patriotism of our people and has kept alive the grateful remembrance of beloved sons and daughters fighting and toiling for the triumph of the Right.

And now that nearly all have victoriously returned we take this means of saying how proud we are of your services, willingly rendered for your Country's cause and how thankful for your safe return.

The revised Honor Roll will be a permanent remembrance and a more enduring Memorial will, we hope, be erected to the undying memory of our Fallen soldiers (some 16) who will also be remembered in the prayers of the Church. As with other parishioners their names may be sent in with flowers for the altar on their anniversaries.

Your presence in th eChurch and active co-operation as returned soldiers is so valuable that we cannot but express the hope that these will be given to the fullest extent possible.

We want to move forward, to improve our methods and to make the Church more vitally useful. To this end let us have your advice and the aid of your well-earned influence.

You have served and helped God's Cause to triumph through men acting solidly and steadily together and cheerfully enduring hardships and monotony—not because these things were pleasant but beacuse impelled by duty.

Your Church now holds before you for similar support the cause of the same God for peace and construction in place of war and destruction. This is a "man's job," and you men who have done such fine service abroad and have been mercifully preserved, will your not be willing to "carry" under the Church's Banner—again not because you like it, but from a sense of duty?

But whatever you may do or not do your Church is always interested in your welfare and offers you a glad welcome, which is the main object of this letter.

Yours on behalf of St. John's,

J. C. Davidson, Rector
J. A. Aylmer, G. S. Cameron, (Wardens.)

MAYOR OBJECTED TO TAX COLLECTOR'S BILL

SAID IT WOULD BE A PRECEDENT FOR OTHER OFFICIALS.

Mayor Duncan objected to an account for $34 presented to the Finance Committee last night by Tax Collector Green, covering the services of a special assistant for eight days. The Council a short time ago fixed Mr. Green's salary at $1,550, and $450 for office help and expenses. There seemed to be some misunderstanding as to whether he should submit this item or not to the Council, but Ald. Edgar moved, seconded by Ald. Morrison, that it be paid. Shortly after the Mayor arrived and stated that he would not support that motion.

"Mr. Henry didn't get half what Mr. Green got and is talking of quitting, and if we pay this will there will likely be others following it," said the Mayor. It was decided to pass up this item for the Council's decision.

MR. BURNHAM TAKES LETTER AS A JOKE

It was stated at Mr. J. H. Burnham's office, that Mr. Burnham has no intention of going into the paper delivery business as was suggested in a letter to the Examiner by Mr. R. J. Soden. "He is treating the whole matter as a joke, "the Examiner was told," and will indeed take no action. "He understands that the suggestion was only a hit." No direct statement from the member could be secured.

The Promoter's Wife

BY JANE PHELPS

TWO CODES—ONE FOR A MAN, ANOTHER FOR A WOMAN.

CHAPTER XXXI

The next morning at breakfast I recurred to the subject:

"You and I are partners, dear. I would do anything in the world to help you. But you must tell me things, let me understand what you are doing, if I am to be of use. Attempting to do something blindly, I might make an irreparable mistake."

"Don't moralize, Bab. I really have nothing to tell you. Do as you did last night. Be charming when I ask you to, even to a bore like Scott. Be sure I shall not inflict his like upon you without a good reason."

Clearly, he did not wish to continue the subject, for he began at once to talk of something else. He had met Lorraine Morton;' he thought she was looking particularly well—anything but the one thing about which I was curious.

Neil never had taken me into his confidence upon subjects that were of interest to him. I believed that the lightest, as well as the heaviest anxieties, the smallest as well as the greatest pleasures, should be equally shared by husband and wife. Yet, after three years of married life, I had accomplished nothing. Practically, I knew no more of his affairs than I did the day the dear old minister at home had married us. I recalled with dissatisfaction that never had he talked to me of the many little details which surely would have been of interest to me. His attitude always had been: "I've made the money. I shall make more as we need it. Your wants are anticipated, what more can you possibly demand of me?"

Many women are fated to spinsterhood, and properly. But I had been constituted by nature to be some man's wife; the repository of his secrets, his helpmate. It was, therefore, with a shock that I discovered how little I meant in Neil's life; how little I really knew him. I was unusually in love with Neil, and I was correspondingly anxious that he love me unstintedly. That he was eternally busy, his mind and thoughts occupied with these "deals", as he called them, seemed to me a matter for complaint. Yet I rarely complained. I had learned that was not the way to hold his love. I adored him. I adored living with him in our beautiful home. I fancied there was here an atmosphere which I found nowhere else. I couldn't explain the difference; I could only feel it.

Neil, at times, was voluble and witty. Under the spell of his animated conversation, worries and anxieties seemed to vanish. I had begun to understand that he might have a wonderful attraction for other women, as well as for me. The thought was far from being either pleasant or comforting.

I knew Neil well enough t know that he would brook no divided allegiance on my part. I thought he should realize that I held the same ideas, was swayed by the same emotions; yet I knew he did not, could not appreciate that this was so. He was Neil. I was some one else.

Two codes—one for a man, the other for the woman who bore his name.

That this was unfair, did not alter the facts. Women have kicked against the pricks from time immemorial—and they will go on kicking as long as the world shall last and there are men and women to love and to be loved.

Niel had one attribute that convinced me he still loved me, even when I had dared doubt it; that was he still took delight in the merest trivialities of affection. An unexpected gift, a little surprise of the table, something of which he was fond, and which it was difficult to procure would always call forth the most extravagant praise and expressions of pleasure. Once I said to him;

"I don't think, Neil darling, that you realize what an exquisite joy it is for a woman to be told that she is loved. I like to be told so over and over."

And in saying this, I was not only speaking for myself, but for all women who love and who long to be loved in return.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Said

"After all, what a man does with his money is to invest, and there is no better way to invest it than in Life Insurance."

As an ESTATE BUILDER there is nothing to equal Life Insurance.

TAKE THE FOLLOWING ACTUAL RESULT

A young man, sixteen years of age, took out a 15-year Endowment (No. 210380) in the Sun Life of Canada, which matured on the first of April. This young man paid annually $66.30 for fifteen years, and he has now, through that investment, an immediate estate of $1,425.00 in case of death.

DO YOU KNOW THAT THIS AMOUNTS TO ALMOST 15% COMPOUND INTEREST ON EVERY DOLLAR HE PAID?

No wonder Sir Wilfrid said (and he might have added, No better place than the Sun Life of Canada), "There is no better way to invest it than in LIFE INSURANCE."

AND THE SUN LIFE OF CANADA GIVES THIS RESULT.

1 Quart Pasteurized Milk

You would not think of feeding a child 5 eggs or ¾ lb. steak, or 1½ lbs. chicken every day. Certainly that would soon ruin the child's health.

But you can give your child the same amount of nourishment every day, in a Quart of Milk, and the child will be better for it in every way.

That is the secret of Milk as a food value. It is a light, pure food, rich in body-building nourishment. It is a "balanced" concentrated food that supplies more and better nourishment than any other food in the world. And it is also the cheapest food value in the world.

Milk is rich in protein. And protein is that substance that builds bone and muscle and repairs worn tissues.

GOOD TASTE IN DRESS

By LINA CAVALIERI,
The Most Famous Living Beauty.

Among women it is a trite saying that there is no satisfaction equal to that of knowing one is always becomingly and suitably gowned for every occasion. Even the members of the sterner sex have long ago acknowledged the truth of this aphorism. More than that the honest ones among them will candidly admit that the prettiest women they know can be transformed into a perfect fright by the matter and styles of her clothes.

Attractive and becoming gowns are necessary because they furnish a suitable frame for the picture. For this reason a woman's dresses and hats must be selected with the utmost care that they may not overshadow or distort her personality.

Keep in mind after studying your own individuality, certain art principles that apply to dress. This is a good one as to color. "Dress up to your eyes, your hair or your complexion." Permit me to explain. If a girl has brown eyes she may not always wear brown gowns. But she can be exceedingly careful to wear no tint that will make her creamy skin sallow. For her creamy shades are becoming because they harmonize with her complexion.

If a woman has red hair she will be wise, if she wears shades, regardless of the tint of the moment, that will throw the hair into relief — as blue, green or black. If a woman has Irish eyes—that fascinating mixture of blue and gray, that holds in its depths much of infant innocence, yet much of wordly wisdom, deep eyes that fascinate because they are inscrutable—she will invariably look her best in gowns that match her eyes, the same indeterminate blue and gray.

Think of yourself steadily and not tenderly in the selection of stuffs. If you are thin and active, soft materials, such as chiffons, crepe de chines, light-weight silks and other diaphanous materials, will be most becoming. If you are of heavier build, then the heavier silks and broadcloths are most expressive of your personality and are, therefore, much more effective.

Do not forget that the dividing line between the skirt and the bodice is ugly. If you cannot have a one-piece dress, then hide the dividing line by a girdle with long hanging ends and tassels. If you are stout, let the girdle be of the same shade and material as the gown.

Within the past few years almost all women have learned the value and the beauty of long straight lines for the figure. Parallel lines running lengthwise are the lines of beauty in dress, because they consistently follow those of the body. For this reason a gown whose pronounced lines are from the shoulder, the drapery curving slightly at the waist, gives a touch of infinite grace and beauty to the figure.

Trimming must be harmonious in effect and blend well into the background of the dress itself. Trimming that runs around the figure lack beauty, and if of contrasting material they have a most ludicrous and unbecoming effect. The high girdle gives the appearance of greater length to the limbs. And if the girdle should happen not to be of the same color and material it should not be too glaringly of the opposite.

Remember, too, that stiff effects are highly inartistic; so avoid the appearance of being trussed up like a fowl in the oven or a soldier on dress parade. For this reason, no matter what the fashion dictates, shun tight sleeves, tight gloves or the tight skirts that are so narrow they give the wearer a mincing and unnatural gait. Loose gloves give a feeling of ease to the hands and are far more graceful than the tight ones that give the hand an appearance of being stuffed into it.

When selecting your hat, a bit of brilliant colour may be introduced, but let it not be directly above the face, for then the cheeks will have the illusion of being pale, whether they are or not. Whatever looks best on you is the style that is suited to you.

ANOTHER COAL WARNING ISSUED

Ontario Deputy Fuel Administrator Issues It.

Bituminous coal mines are, some of them, on quarter or half time because demand is poor.

Europe is facing a coal famine, with the U.S. the only hope of supply.

Canada, from April 1 to July 30, has received 2,180,597 tons of coal, or 1,615,670 tons less than in the same period last year.

These points are made by H. A. Harrington, deputy fuel administrator for Ontario, in a statement in which he goes on to say:

"Anthracite will not now be produced unless the demand is there; experience has taught the mine owner that the storing of anthracite is an expensive proposition; the production cannot be increased at will, it being limited to the development of the mine. At the recent investigation in mining costs it was found that it cost $1.10 to dump a ton of anthracite into storage, keep it there six months, and then load it for shipment. If operators are compelled to resort to storage, this $1.10 will be passed on to the consumer."

Combatting the general preference for "stove" coal, he says: "The consumer will find more heat, energy, better consumption and less labour in a mixture of two tons 'egg' size and one ton 'chestnut' size than in three tons 'stove' size."

He goes on to say that anthracite coal will never be cheaper, that miners' wages are soaring, and that "we must seriously consider the necessity of education in the use of substitutes for coal. The conversion of silt and screenings into briquettes is one solution; as these ingredients will always be available. Then we have buckwheat, of which there is a continuous supply; coake which for domestic use, is now a times more expense than coal, but with the establishment of by-product plants will be readily available."

PORT HOPE PEOPLE SATISFIED THAT KIDD BYRNE WILL GET HIS MILLIONS

DAVID GETS A NEW SECRETARY AND TAKES ANOTHER HOP OVER TO NEW YORK.

PORT HOPE, Aug. 2.—Reputed to be the sole executor and devisee of the estate of the late Wellington Byrne, a Pittsburg multi-millionaire, amounting in round figures to $10,000,000, and of which $1,800,000 is said to be bequeathed in the will to erect a memorial building in Toronto, David S. Kidd Byrne, who was born at Bewdley, ten miles north of here, and lived here for some years, left last evening for New York to commence proceedings of realization upon ihs legacy.

Rev. David Byrne, as he is known here, gives his present address at 714 Shuter street, Montreal, and at present in engaged in rescue mission work in Montreal, having been ordained by the Christian Workers' Congregational Church. This work has been carried on for the last five or six years during which time he has paid periodical short visits to the town, where the reported huge legacy has been talked over and over since it was first brought to light in 1908. It is needless to say that both pros and cons as to its validity have had a thorough tongue thrashing since that time, until lately, when owing to Mr. Kidd Bryne's last visit, two weeks ago, it was announced that the will had been filed for probate at Jasper, Hamilton County, Florida, and that after nearly twelve years of persistent and patient pursuit the colossal fortune was within the grasp of this former resident of the town, which has caused renewed life to the much discussed heir and his millions.

Introduced by Rev. C. S. Applegath.

It was manifest by his appearance last Sunday evening in the pulpit of the Methodist church, being introduced by Rev. C. Sinclair Applegath, the pastor, and in graphic language and in his own original style, blended humor and pathos in the telling of the most remarkable story of how through the Providence of God he was strangely led to Chicago where one day in entering what seemed to be a real estate office, in search of a directory in an effort to find his brother, he discovered that he was in a dive of the underworld. He was accosted by a young woman who asked her to buy him a drink. Instead of doing so he read the Bible to her, and she followed him out of the place into a nearby restaurant, and it was there that he led her to abandon the life of sin she was living, and to go home to her parents.

The girl's parents were so delighted at receiving back after twelve years the one they believed to be dead that they adopted into the family the rescuer, David Kidd, who upon changing his name legally to theirs was made a participant in the family estate of millions. Gradually the remaining members of the family have died, leaving him the entire estate of many millions.

Consequently the town is all agog with the name of Kidd—the name Byrne seemingly being out of place for one so familiar by the name of Kidd. Stop anyone on the main street and ask if he or she knows David Kidd!

"What! the family from Bewdley and Kidd's Corners, and David Kidd who had a fortune left to him?" accompanied by a stare at your apparent ignorance.

The reporter called on Judge H. A. Ward, senior judge of Durham and Northumberland counties, who is said to have been in close touch with the Kidd family and who has taken a friendly legal interest in the affair.

Judge Ward is Satisfied.

His Honour Judge Ward discussed the estate and expressed himself as quite satisfied that this huge fortune is awaiting David Kidd Byrne. He particularly pointed out that some time ago the legal firm of Hill, Ross and Hill, of Baltimore, who were acting for the wife of Wellington Byrne and a son, when they were living, had offered David Kidd Byrne, $2,000,000 to relinquish his title to the estate. This was refused.

"I have no doubt whatever that the estate is there," said Judge Ward, and that David Kidd Byrne is entitled to the whole estate. He receives legacies already of $300,000, which are the first charge on the estate."

Judge Ward stated that he understood David Kidd Byrne was required to place $12,000 as security before the court at Washington would consider his claim.

W. R. Trenouth, garage proprietor, with whom David Kidd Byrne has resided during his recent visit, tells of having started him off in the world as a boy. Mr. Trenouth claims to have financed him as a tea peddler and set him up with a horse and rig.

Monuments Erected in Port Hope.

While there is nothing definitely stated in the will regarding an endowment for the Port Hope General Hospital, David Kidd Byrne has told Judge Ward he will grant money from $100,000 to $500,000 to erect a new wing on the hospital.

An old resident of the town, William Rutter, has also known Kidd practically all his life. Mr. Rutter, who is a stone mason by trade, has recently erected several monuments for Kidd in memory of various members of his family. The most recent is one in memory of his mother, and father, one sister, Selina, and a brother, Joseph. His father, the late Arthur Kidd, died in Ottawa, in 1895, and his mother, Eliza Wood, died in Port Hope, in 1904.

The sister and brother died in 1864 and 1867 respectively. These have cost in the neighborhood of $500. Another memorial he has been interested in was to Joseph Scriven, the author of the well known hymn "What a Friend we have in Jesus," and who spent much of his early life with Kidd. Scriven is buried in Pengelly Farm, near Rice Lake and Bewdley. Kidd expressed a desire to give $250 in order to have a memorial erected but a committee of citizens of Millbrook were in favor of a larger grant, which has prevented a definite step in this regard.

Details of the Family.

"I remember," said Mr. Rutter to the reporter, "when Kidd received the letters from Byrne thanking him for the kindness he had done Byrne's daughter, Lucy. He just got the letters from the post office and happened into my office with them.

He thought nothing of them at the time and crumpled them up in his hand. He has shown me pictures of Miss Byrne and the house in which he located her in Chicago."

Mr. Rutter also stated that he has received letters from Kidd while he was in Australia.

A brother, George Kidd, is a farmer at Bewdley, where the reporter saw him. Kidd stated that he had also had various legal communications regarding his brother's reported millions. There were six sons in the family, George and David, Elijah who in St. Louis, Robert in Chicago, Napoleon, farming at Bewdley, and Arthur who died two years ago. The family originally lived at Kidds Corners, lot 30, concession 8, Hamilton township, about ten miles north of Port Hope. The house was burned to the ground some years ago. His wife resides in Montreal.

Accompanying him on his journey to New York is Kenneth Haskell, 18 years of age, of Port Hope. Kidd had previously employed a youth named Elliott of Philadelphia, but he severed his connection at Port Hope, and Haskell had been engaged as his secretary.

In Montreal, he is reported as pastor of the Christian Workers Congregational Church, meeting at Victory Hall, 319 University street, Montreal.

TONE IN A PIANO

Many elements enter into the construction of a piano, but first and foremost and outstanding among them all is tone. Nothing else can take its place. For this reason we have an artiste of the high standing of Jan Cherniavsky writing of the piano made by Ye Olde Firme of Heintzman & Co., Limited, George and Hunter Streets, Peterborough: "I attribute a great deal of my success to the facility with which the emotions are expressed by the perfect response and brilliant tone of your piano."

The Cherniavsky Brothers make the Heintzman & Co. piano their exclusive choice in their touring of Canada, as also in South Africa and Australia.

BY-LAW FOR BILLBOARD LICENSE IS RECOMMENDED TO COUNCIL

FINANCE COMMITTEE LEARNS THAT CHARGES ARE MADE IN OTHER CITIES OF THE PROVINCE—BRANTFORD HAS A SLIDING SCALE OF FEES.

After listing the billboard license charges that obtain in some of the cities of Ontario, the Finance Committee of the Council last night, on a motion by Ald. Edgar, seconded by Ald. Phelan, recommended the preparation of a by-law for the licensing of the billboards in Peterborough.

The Committee preferred to let the council fix the fee which will then be inscribed in the by-law. It was also decided to ask Mr. Walter Stocker to inform the committee as to the total length of the billboards in this city.

The replies to the queries sent to a number of the cities of the province showed the following license charges: Chatham $10, Kitchener $25, Kingston $5, Windsor $25, St. Catharines $15, and liability to assessment.

Brantford has a sliding scale of $25 for a total length of boards up to 1,000 feet, $50 from 1,000 to 5,000 feet, $75 for boards aggregating from 5,000 to 10,000 feet, and $100 for all over the 10,000 mark.

St. Catharines was the only city that referred to a business tax.

No Objection to License.

It was stated that Mr. Stocker had expressed himself as being unopposed to a license, providing the fee was fair and commensurate with the charges set in other cities of this size.

The committee apparently favoured the Brantford idea, for the reason that it promised the most revenue.

SANDY VISITS "MIDNIGHT FOLLIES"

(WITH POLACK'S SHOWS IN PETERBORO)

"Me an' Maggie gaed doon tae whit they ca' 'The Carnival' last nicht, an' a' I've got tae say aboot it is, that if the last day's got onything on yon, it'll be a fearsome sicht.

Neither me nor Maggie had ever been tae onything o' the kin' afore, an 'she pit on her best silk goon an' me ma funeral breeks—ye ought tae see ma breeks!

"Weel," says Maggie, "noo we're here we'd better see a' that's tae be seen."

"Imphm!" says I.

"Here's a thing they ca' the 'Midnicht Follies," says she. "We'll begin wi' that."

Bang went 20 cents, and I wis jist gettin' set toe keek through a hole in the wa', whan Maggie grabbit me by the airm an' says, "Oot o' this, Geordie!"

"Whit wis't, Maggie?" says I.

"The limmers!" says she, an' that wis a' I could get oot o' her.

Weel, we daundered roon until we cam' tae a place wi' "The Arabian Nichts" pented up eotside.

"The Arabian Nichts," says Maggie, "should be a' richt; we hae the book at hame."

Bang went 50 cents and in we went.

A birkie wi' a reed bonnet on did some awfu' clever things wi' bottles an' glesses an' things, an' then a lassie got up, an' efter paradin' roon the stage aince, gaed a wiggle which landit me an' Maggie outside the tent in aboot twa ticks.

"Efter that, Geordie," says she, "I could dae wi' a cone."

Bang went ten cents, an' then Maggie says, "Let's gang ower Niagara Falls." I thocht she'd lost her reason until I saw it wis jist anither o' thae shows. Bang went mair siller, an' in we went. I winna attempt tae describe whit happened, but o' a' the inventions o' the deil himsel', yon's the worst.

Maggie, whan she wisna skirlin', wis prayin'. Then we baith got involved in an earthquake, an' Maggie did things in common wi' ither weemen, wi' her skirts, that I blush tae menshun.

We got oot, an' it took twa cones, a bag o' popcorn, and a sausinger afore Maggie wad stop talkin' aboot gaun hame tae her mither. Ma breeks wis tore in fower places, an' Maggie's gaun tae see Chief Thompson aboot it the nicht.

I'm tellin' ye, they widna permit sic goin's on in Aiberdeen. An' tae croon a', the bandit that took us up tae the corner o' George an' Charlotte Streets in a jitney chairged us ten cents each; and there wisna a poliisman in sicht.

P.S.—Dinna tell Maggie, but I'm gaun doon again the nicht tae get a proper keek through yon hole.

SITTING ROOMS FOR GIRL BOARDERS WAS WOMEN'S PROPOSAL

FINANCE COMMITTEE TOOK NO ACTION UPON REQUEST FROM COUNCIL OF WOMEN.

A letter from the Local Council of Women to the City Council requested that rooming and boarding houses be licensed, that they come under the supervision of the Medical Officer of Health, and also that their proprietors be required to provide a sitting room for the particular purpose of enabling young women to meet their gentlemen friends under proper surroundings. This communication was referred to the Finance Committee and was discussed at last night's meeting.

Mayor Duncan explained that a deputation from the Women's Council had interviewed him at his home, and had emphasized the desirability of the licensing system they proposed. Referring to the suggestion that every rooming house have a sitting room for its "paying guests," the ladies had pointed out that girls and young women could not receive their "gentlemen friends" in their rooms, and hence if a sitting room was not available they were forced to seek companionship in the streets. The seriousness of the moral side of this situation was alluded to by the Mayor in reporting the wishes of the deputation.

The committee last night, however, believed that the proposed restrictions were unnecessary. Ald. Edgar expressed the opinion that boarding houses fell within the scope of the regulations for standard hotels.

No action was taken, therefore, but it was remarked that the Women's Council would probably press their idea by attending some meeting of the City Council.

UNITED FARMERS IN FENELON FALLS

At a meeting of the United Farmers in Fenelon Falls it was unanimously decided to start a branch U. F. O. store. The capital required was $5,000, which was all subscribed for in a few minutes, for which they will receive 7 per cent. interest. The U.F.O. is starting branch stores all over the Dominion. The stores will all be managed from the head office in Toronto. Mr. Lobraw, manager of that department, with head office in Toronto, was present and addressed the meeting. The members of the U.F.O. who patronize the store will share in the profits at the end of the year. No one person can hold more than ten shares. This is to prevent any individual from getting a controlling interest.

SILVER WEDDING AT DOWNEYVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. William Herlihey, of Downeyville, celebrated their silver wedding anniversary Wednesday evening and the occasion was taken advantage of by about 150 friends to extend congratulations. Guests were present from Lindsay, Peterborough, Indian River, etc. Mr. and Mrs. Herlihey were the recipients of many beautiful presents. The afternoon was spent in music and dancing. Mr. Paul Hahn, the celebrated 'cellist of Toronto, was present and delighted the gathering with a number of brilliantly rendered selections.

TWO BIG FEATURES AT GRAND THEATRE

PROGRAMME FOR FIRST THREE DAYS OF NEXT WEEK.

"Everyone has some secret fear, some haunting dread of some one thing, that masters him at times," said Pauline Frederick in discussing her new Goldwyn picture. This forms the theme of the "Fear Woman," which comes to The Grand Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The play depicts the psychology of fear with uncommon skill and understanding and admirers of the fervent star's graphic histrionism are promised a treat in her portrayal of Helen Winthrop. The girl is possessed of every attribute of happiness, is about to marry the man of her heart, yet is racked by fear lest her father's weakness manifest itself in her and destroy both her own happiness and that of the man she has chosen. Her parent is a secret hypochondriac.

From the start Paulines Frederick entered into her role with zest, pointing to "The Fear Woman" as an example of what she has long been desirous of doing on the screen.

"Character, its development and ultimate victory over invironment and heredity—this is what should be depicted on the screen as it is in novels and the better plays," said Miss Frederick to a caller at the Goldwyn Studios. "It is what gives photoplays definite value. Merely a series of episodes may have their value as entertainment, but any form of self-expression should be constructive, in my opinion. When I encounter a play like 'The eFar Woman' it stimulates me—it causes me to feel that I am part of the trend toward better things in the cinima.

"For all its psychological value," went on Miss Frederick with enthusiasm, "the new Goldwyn picture has no lack of physical action. As for pictorial beauty it is remarkable. Never before have I seen such rich and beautiful settings nor has the opportunity been given me to assume a more vital sympathetic role.

"Fear suggests overacting on the screen and tempts many a well-poised player into this indiscretion. It is an especial pleasure to me to see just how strongly I may stress Henen Winthrops fear by the slightest symbol. After all one may accomplish much by scarcely more than a momentary look in one's eyes. Indeed, this is all that is done by me in the play—in those episodes where fear is uppermost in my mind.

"For the other part there are moments of laughter and lightheartedness, gay throngs and brilliant festivities. Altogether I do not think that 'The eFar Woman' runs the risk of being too dark a study of the human mind. To prove this in advance,—I don't mind saying that its lighter aspects, the tennis tournament and the riding scenes—are giving me more pleasure in just being alive than anything yet encountered in California."

Captain David Elliott, who arrived from overseas a few days ago, and who has been visiting his relatives in Peterborough, is in Lindsay. Dave as he was familiarly known by the boys, went overseas with the 109th Battalion. He performed very important services overseas and returns in excellent health.

Lieut. W. Elliott, M. C., brother of Capt. D. Elliot and Lieut. H Elliot, was also in Lindsay on Wednesday He is attached to the Pensions Department.

BABY'S GREAT DANGER DURING HOT WEATHER

More little ones die during the hot weather than at any other time of the year. Diarrhoea, dysentry, cholera infantum and stomach troubles come without warning, and when a medicine is not at hand to give promptly the short delay too frequently means that the child has passed beyond aid. Baby's Own Tablets should always be kept in the house where there are young children. An occasional dose of the Tablets will prevent stomach and bowel troubles, or if the trouble comes suddenly the prompt use of the Tablets will relieve the baby. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

AN ALBINO ROBIN.

White Member of the Family Is Reported from Ohio.

As the Observer has remarked before, you can find almost anything at Clintonville, and his latest find in that vicinity is a white robin. The bird is not pure white, but rather a light grey. It seems to have mated with a robin that is regulation itself as to its physical make-up and the two appear to be housekeeping, though no one as far as the Observer has heard has been able to locate the nest. Some curiosity is manifested as to what the brood of this pair will prove to be. It is an albino robin and is said to be very rare.—Columbus Dispatch.

We've Heard This Often

We often hear people say: "My Eyes are Perfectly Strong"

Don't make that boast until you have had your eyes examined. Remember that slight eye defect seldom register their defects in the eye itself. They draw upon some other part of the system and many a slight disorder, whose cause you may have been at a loss to know, may be due to the presence of unsuspected eyestrain.

PLEADS GUILTY OF SON'S DEATH

MRS. GLADYS DUNN SENTENCED TO YEAR FOR MANSLAUGHTER.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., August 1.—Mrs. Gladys C. Dunn, on trial in the Superior Court here for second degree murder for the shooting of her son, Joseph Allan Dunn, Jr., on 11th August, 1918, pleaded guilty to manslaughter shortly after the opening of the Court, and was sentenced to one year in jail.

Mrs. Dunn is the wife of J. Allan Dunn, of New York, an author. The boy was two and a half years old. The parents had quarrelled, it appeared in evidence, and the wife, in anger, said she would kill the child and herself. She rushed to her room, obtained a revolver ther, and, according to the statement of her counsel in his opening address, held it to her head. When her husband called to her, she turned and discharged the revolver. The child was killed. Mrs. Dunn said she had intended to shoot herself. She is 35 years of age. Her husband has been at her side constantly during the trial.

DON'T THROW AWAY YOUR OLD SHOES

I Can Make Your Old Shoes Last Longer, and Save You the Price of a New Pair

SHOE PRICES are soaring higher than ever before. In these days economical people are turning to the shoe repair man for a remedy against expensive shoe leather.

I am advising customers that if they take my advice I can save them the cost of a new pair of leather shoes.

HOW? This is my plan: If the leather uppers are good, I make a NEW WELT and put on a new pair of half soles. This gives you as good a pair of leather shoes as a new pair, and in some cases better, because the leather in the old uppers is often better than the leather now used in new shoes.

THE WELT IS THE LIFE OF THE SHOE. What is the Welt? In Shoemaking a WELT is a narrow strip of strong leather sewed around a shoe that holds the upper leather and the insoles.

With a new welt and a new pair of soles you have as good a pair of leather shoes as you can buy now for $9 or $10.

A broken seam, a worn sole, an uneven heel—these are but excuses for throwing away old shoes. With my shoe-craft knowledge I can restore their good looks and give you a good pair of shoes at a trifling cost that all can afford.

I am advising customers to send in their sole-worn shoes before the Fall, and have them repaired in this way now, instead of having to buy a new pair at the present high prices.

Come in and I will explain my process and show you how it will pay you not to throw away your old shoes.

IT WAS CURED BY

DR. FOWLER'S

EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY

Any one suffering from bowel complaints such as diarrhoea, dysentery, colic, cramps and pains in the stomach, summer complaint, etc., will find that Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry will give quicker and more permanent relief han any other remedy on the market to-day.

This old tried and proven medicine has been on the market for the past 74 years. You don't experiment when you buy it. Surely the test of time proves this.

Mrs. Daniel Hartwick, Mountain Grove, Ont., writes:—"I used Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry and have found that it is a good remedy. When my little girl was 2 1-2 years old she had a very bad attack of bowel complaint. Nothing prescribed by the doctor seemed to do her any good. She got worse, until we thought we would loose her. I got a bottle of Dr. Fowler's, and she soon found relief. Every one who has children should not be without it in their home.

IF BACKACHY OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or there times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

LIFT OFF CORNS WITH FINGERS

Doesn't hurt a bit and costs only few cents

Magic! Just drop a little Freezone on that touchy corn, instantly it stops aching, then you lift the corn off with the fingers. Truly! No humbug!

Try Freezone. Your druggist sells a tiny bottle for a few cents, sufficient to rid your feet of every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and callouses, without one particle of pain, soreness or irritation. Freezone is the discovery of a noted Cincinnati genius.

STORY OF THE SON OF MAN

(By H. D. KENNEDY.)

Chapter II.

THE SON OF MAN.

Jesus was the Son of man, not of a man, not the offspring of any family, not the product of any nation, not the outcome of any age. No family, no nation, no generation, had any monopoly of Him. As well try to monopolize the sunlight. He was the Son of man; the common blood of humanity flowed through His veins. He is as much at home in China or Japan as in England, as much the possession of the African negro, or the North American Indian, as of the civilized white man.

He was human as we are, "touched with all the feelings of our infirmities," or else He is no Saviour. Human and divine, "the door" through which God was revealed to man and through which man must come to God. In Jesus the human was lived and the divine revealed. When Christ came, it was not to begin an existence, but to reveal a life. He must do, as a man, what God had asked Adam to do, or else God had demanded of Adam what could not be done. He lived a life of love with God and men. He did always those things that pleased His Father; and in His dying agony prayed for His enemies.

Adam had failed, the gates of Eden were closed, and the tree of life was guarded by the sword of justice and divine wrath: Jesus must open again the gates of Eden, the garden of innocence, and open also the way to the tree of life, though the sword of flame pierce His own soul.

Christ's humanity was perfect because it was all love. He loved men not because they were members of any class but because they were men. He loved Mary because she was a woman and not because she was His mother. At the beginning of His ministry, at Cana, and again at the close, on the cross, He called her "woman," not "mother." "Who is my mother, and my sister, and my brother?" During His life at Nazareth He called her "mother," but now she was to Him more—a woman. No doubt He was naturally drawn to some more than others, but as man He stood alone, and loved all.

Men needed Him, though they rejected Him. Not only the Jew, but others, were looking for a much needed Saviour. Job has cried in his day, "I know if there is not someone to take my part, there ought to be—'I know that my Redeemer liveth. I know He shall stand upon the earth'." The wise men of the East, and even Balaam, seem to have had a vision of this coming One. And many out of all nations seemed to believe that out of Israel would come a Redeemer who would save His people.

Son of God He was indeed—"The Eternal Word was made in flesh and dwelt amongst us." "He was in the world and the world was made by Him, and the world knew Him not." He could walk on the sea, still the tempest, heal the blind, cleanse the leper, raise the dead, and ascend to heaven. But if this were all, He need never have come. This shows His greatness, and commands our worship; but does it draw us to His heart? Yes, He was the Son of God, but it is as the Son of man that we are specially attracted to Him. And as the Son of man let us here consider Him.

What is it that attracts us to people? Is it their talent, or genius, or greatness? Might we not be with such and be very uncomfortable in their presence? We go into some homes and almost immediately we feel at ease there, though no one apparently takes any notice of us; still we can go from parlor to kitchen and feel at home. We go into other houses where they fuss over us and are attentive, too attentive, yet we never feel at home there. Why is this? Because it is only with those who are congenial to us that we can feel easy. We go into church sometimes and see men and women who are good, we know they are, and yet we never want to come too near them. We would never think of confiding in them. On the other hand, we sometimes see among bad men those who seem to draw us to them. What attracts us to them? It is not their looks nor manner nor dress. It is that unexplainable something we call affinity of soul.

Jonathan loved David; he could not help it; loved him even as his own soul. Why should a man love a boy? Why should a prince love a shepherd? Why should the heir to Israel's throne love his rival, the man who above all other men crossed his path? We cannot explain it, except that he was Jonathan and David was David. What draws us to people, anyhow? There must be something in common somewhere, some plane on which to meet. Are we attracted to Elijah or Carmel? Is it not rather to Elijah under the juniper tree? Does David killing the giant draw us to him? Do we not rather feel that he is more like us in the cave when he cries, "I shall now perish one day by the hand of Saul." We stand in awe looking on at Elijah on Carmel, but when we see him under the juniper tree we feel more at home with him. We stand in admiration of the shepherd hero, but it is to the doubting David in the cave that we are drawn. We realize that, after all these are but men like ourselves.

So with Christ; as Son of God we worship Him; as Son of man we love Him. "Behold this man," said Pilate. Yes, behold the Man. He weeps at the grave of His friend. He is thirsty by Samaria's well, and hungry by the lakeshore. Tired, He goes into a desert place to rest, and weary, sleeps on the stormy sea. He stops to think, when a woman asks Him a hard question. He turns anxiously to the grateful leper and cries, "Were there not ten cleansed? Where are the nine?" He would like to be appreciated in this world. Did nine go away and say nothing about it? In preaching He uses all the natural advantages, goes up on the mountain, or out on the water, so more can hear. And in the garden He asks again and again for human sympathy. How pathetic the words, "Could ye not watch with me one hour?" Yes, He is man. As the ocean mirrors every star and every tint of blue sky, so Jesus, the man, reveals God in universal love.

He is never so occupied with one set of duties that He cannot attend to another. On His way to heal Jairus' daughter He heals a woman with an issue of blood. Jairus may have cried, "Yes, Lord, that woman needs healing, but my daughter is dying." And yet may it not have been that the sight Jairus witnessed, when the woman was healed, was intended to prepare his mind for the awful news, "Thy daughter is dead." He was always making the rough places smooth and the crooked places straight for those who loved Him.

Like the flower, absorbing from all the sources of nature, light, heat and moisture; or like the magnet attracting only that which is congenial, so Jesus walked the earth in spotless purity, before which the angels would have veiled their faces, and only the good, the needy and the pure were attracted to Him. But the self-righteous Pharisees had nothing in common with Him. They were austere, and Christ and Christianity had no attraction for them. But Jesus, tired of their sham and the hyocrisy of men, one day cried, "Suffer the little children to come unto Me." They wanted Him; they were drawn to Him. He was drawn to them. Their purity and innocence and naturalness made Him think of the garden of Eden, and of God's idea of manhood.

Some rebuked those who brought the children, as many do now. No sooner was the Babe of Bethlehem born than a king of this world sought to destroy His life. And no sooner is any babe born into this world than the king of this world, the prince of the power of the air, working in the children of disobedience, seeks its life to destroy it. Bring the children to Jesus; yes, the "little" children, for He loves them. He wants them, not only to save them, but their lives to bless in a world of sham and make believe. There is no gift, save eternal life, that God has to bestow upon man, greater than the privilege of dying for His Son. Every apostle gave his life for His Master, the innocents of Bethlehem had died for the infant Jesus. And ever since that day children have been honoured as never before, and it may be that in heaven the souls of these little martyrs are nearest the throne.

Yes, the spotless purity of Jesus had not attraction for the worldly Pharisee. He was not of this world; they were. But the children, the needy, the helpless, the sick, the broken hearted, and the outcast were all darwn to Him. They felt the touch of His true sympathy. He knew His sheep. He could call them all by name, and His sheep also knew His voice. He knew them because He was human, and they knew Him because He was human. He knew men because He had studied them, and His great heart of love longed to bless them. The denial of Peter did not daunt Him. He believed Peter would still love Him. The strength of a river does not depend upon the quality of the soil it runs through, and the love of Jesus does not depend upon the weak hearts of the men He loves. As the ocean's tide affects every river and stream, so the heaving tide of His love flows into every avenue of our experience. Love is universal and is interested in all that is human, and humanity is the sphere of its activity. As the silent moonbeams, draw upon the bosom of the ocean, hurling the mighty tides along our continents' shores, though the strongest winds oppose, so Jesus, the Son of man, full of love and sympathy, longing to bless a world that did not want Him, cries, "and I if I be lifted up, will draw all men unto me."

APPEALING FEATURE.

General March was talking about the impressions soldiers received in the war. "One," he said, "when I asked him how he felt, said he was too busy to feel, and when I asked him what appealed to him as the most remarkable thing about the war, answered:

"The number of bullets that missed me."

IF STRENGTH DECLINES AS AGE ADVANCES FOLLOW THIS SUGGESTION

So many women grow old before their time, perhaps your wife or sister. A little while ago, buoyant, full of vigour and activity—she enjoyed life and imparted pleasure to the whole family, but now in a few short years she has faded and lost colour and strength. She is just ready to develop some disease that will further weaken and debilitate. You remember how it began, failure of appetite, tired in the morning, found housework burdensome, always nervous, and a little irritable. It's a shame to let her go down hill further when you can build her up so quickly with Ferrozone. The change this nourishing tonic makes in a weak woman is surprising. It gives great zest for food, increases appetite and digestion enormously. The blood gets richer and stronger and adds new life to every organ in the body. A rebuilding process works through the entire system. The first week will show an improvement, and a month or two will fatten up the thinnest, most run-down woman you can think of. Take Ferrozone for lost colour, for nervousness, for weakness—use it when run-down and feeling poorly—it will do you more lasting good, keep you in better health, than anything else. Just as good for men and children, too, because Ferrozone is harmless and safe. 50c per box, or six for $2.50, at all dealers, or direct by mail from the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

BRIDGE WILL BE REPLACED

TRAIN SERVICE WAS DELAYED FOR A DAY.

To replace the bridge burnt yesterday on the G.T.R. about ten miles west of Campbellford, a temporary bridge will, it is expected, be completed to-day, but it will be some time before the permanent bridge is constructed. The cause of the fire, which almost totally destroyed the bridge, was, it is thought, due to a spark from an engine which had passed through the bridge some hours before, and the fire was not discovered until about four in the morning. All trains to and from Belleville were held up the entire day, and the baggage and express had to be transferred over the burnt bridge to an auxiliary.

HICKEY'S UNDERWEAR SALE

Any man whose wardrobe needs replenishing with seasonable underwear should not miss the stock reducing sale at Hickey's, the gents' furnisher, George Street. Bargains beckon buyers, because the dip in prices is caused by overstocks. The quality of the underwear is the popular "Trukmit," and is to be had in combinations and single garments. The goods are attractive — prices irresistible.

DESIGNS FOR CERTIFICATE ARE ASKED FOR

BOARD OF TRADE TO PRESENT MEMORIAL CERTIFICATES TO NEXT OF KIN—JUDGES APPOINTED.

The Peterborough Board of Trade, in testimony of the heroism shown by our soldiers, who made the supreme sacrifice in the Great War, will present a memorial certificate to their next of kin. The sacrifice will be of artistic merit and of durable form for preservation as a momento of the Great War and should serve as a patriotic inspiration to the rising generation.

The competition for the design will be open to all residents of Peterborough.

Competitors will forward their designs in plain sealed envelopes, addressed to Mr. Ryerson Ritchie, care of the Board of Trade, 358 George Street, on or before Saturday, August 9th, 1919. Each design is to be signed by a pseudonym, the key to which is to be given in a separate sealed envelope.

To the successful competitor an award of twenty-five dollars will be paid. The winner of the prize will at the same time have the happy satisfaction of having contributed to the official record of the part Peterborough's fallen heroes played in the Great War for Democracy.

The judges of the competition will be H.R.H. Kenner, B.A., Francis P. McNulty, M.D., William A. Logan, C. E. Mrs. Vincent Eastwood, President of the Women's Art Association and Mrs. Arthur Stevenson. The award when made will be announced in the local press.

LOCAL MARKET

There have been a few price changes in the Peterboro market with a strong upward tendency to many lines. Dairy products are included in the advances recorded during the week with a promise of more increases to follow. An abnormal demand due to the world shortage is among the chief reasons given for the price advances.

Catarrhozone

Remember this, Catarrh can never be cured or even relieved by a cough syrup, a spray, or tablet treatment. Trouble is these remedies slip quickly over the sore irritated membranes, drop into the stomach and do little else but harm digestion. It's different with "Catarrhozone"—you inhale it. Every breath sends healing balsams to the inflamed tissues. Tightness, soreness and inflammation are cured by healing pine essences. The cough dies away, throat is strengthened, huskiness is cured. Nothing is so simple, so convenient, so certain to cure as Catarrhozone. The dollar outfit includes the inhaler, costs $1.00, and is guaranteed to cure. Small size 50c, trial size 25c, all dealers or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Voice Of The People

Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—Would you allow me space to give expression to a remark that a good old Scots mother in Victoria County made last week. She said the world is facing a crisis, and does not realise it. She said it was her opinion that the Almighty was raining vengeance on the man that was crying for 8 hours' work and loafing 16 hours. (The Scots do not always make a mistake.) God's plan was and is "Six days shalt thou labour and do all thy work." He divided twenty-four hours into two sections, day and night—the day for faithful service, and night for the rest of the body. He gave us light for our service and darkness for our quietude, and any deviation from that plan is man's.

We cannot expect the farmers' wives and daughters to leave their home work and go out in the field and toil to produce so long as we are loafing around the parks and streets in idleness, we don't know the worst yet; and the only remedy is concentrated energy on the part of all. While it may be that 5 per cent of the high cost of living may be traced back to profiteers, 95 per cent might be traced to our own indolence. Thanking you.—I remain, yours truly,

W. H. Merrell.

MOOSE ANXIOUS TO GET HERE ON OPPOSITION, MONDAY'S GAME A TEST

Word comes from Toronto that the Moose, winners of the Western City League, who are to meet the Peterborough Central League team at Riverside Park on Monday night at 6.30 o'clock, will have the strongest line-up on. Like the Petes, the Toronto Club look upon Monday's game as a test. Secretary Walker and other O.B.A.A. officials who have been down this way and seen some of the Central League games, have taken the information back to Toronto that the Central League winners will bear watching, and the Moose, while supremely confident of their ability to win the O.B.A.A. title are anxious to get a line on the opposition. Hardman and Walker will be the Toronto battery. The former is a crack southpaw, while Walker is well known as a clever catcher and a good sticker as well. Kirn or Mulhern will work for the Petes and Swanston will be behind the bat. The Toronto Club will be here at noon Monday and will be entertained by the Petes by a drive around the city in the afternoon. The game will start at 6.30 o'clock sharp, a convenient hour that should suit every fan in the city. Although it is not a league game there is as much interest in the battle as if it were, and the indications are that there will be a grand crowd out to see the fast Toronto gang battle with the Petes.

Carpentier Looked "Dud" In His Bout With Smith

FRENCHMAN HAD NO STEAM AND SHOWS LITTLE OF HIS OLD-TIME FORM.

Georges Carpentier's feat of going eight rounds before knocking out Dick Smith, former English heavyweight champion, has been followed by anything but a favourable opinion of the French title-holder's pugilistic ability, says the Chicago Tribune's foreign news service. Critics who had seen Carpentier in action before the war and who watched his work against Smith were almost unanimous in saying that his value as a world's championship contender has greatly depreciated.

In Friday's battle both Carpentier and Smith were dog-tired after the first couple of rounds. The battle simply see-sawed back and forth up to the time the Frenchman sent the Britisher to the mat with rights and lefts to the jaw and a final uppercut.

Smith a Poor Boxer.

Smith was anything but a satisfactory fighter. Had he shown anything bordering on class he might have been able to finish Carpentier. At several stages the Frenchman was suffering acutely from punishment, was rocking like a bobby horse, and unable to keep up his guard.

Carpentier showed a flash of speed in the initial round, but was soon slowed up when he ran into a straight left to the face. Then during the clinches which followed Smith repeatedly hammered Carpentier's kidneys and took the fire out of the Frenchman.

The French champion scored a knock-down in the fourth round when Smith took the count of nine. In the sixth round Smith again went to the mat while trying to elude his foe. Carpentier fell on him in a corner of the ring.

Fulton Anxious for a Chance.

Fred. Fulton, the American heavyweight, was at the ringside. He looked mighty sore to think that he had missed picking up some easy money. Fulton challenged the winner, but Carpentier probably will fight shy of American boxers until after his scheduled twenty-round battle with Joe Beckett, the British champion, September 2.

Before this bout many predicted that Carpentier, after months in the French army, never would display his old form. His showing bears out this contention. He never possessed a real knockout punch, but was long on skill. A few punches from Smith took all the steam out of the Frenchman and left him as slow as the peace conference.

LYTELL HAS NEW "BOSTON BLACKIE" STORY

Bert Lytell Will Be Seen in the Second of the Series at the Grand Theatre as an Added Feature.

"Blackie's Redemption," which will be the added feature at the Grand Theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, with Bert Lytell as the star, is the second of the clever Red Book Magazine stories from the pen of Jack Boyle to be made into screen plays by Metro. The first was "Boston Blackie's Little Pal," in which Mr. Lytell did splendid work.

"Blackie's Redemption," is the story of a "gentleman crook,' who desires to "go straight." He gives up his lawless pursuits and is about to marry the girl he loves when he is arrested and sent to prison for a crime committed by others.

How he makes his daring escape is one of the many thrilling incidents which will be revealed in the play, and which leads to a powerful and startling climax. A heart-appealing feature is the beautiful love of Mary Dawson for Blackie—a love which withstands every test and which is the means of his ultimate redemption. The clever cast supporting Mr. Lytell includes such artists as Alice Lake, Henry Kolker, Bernard Durning, Jack Duffy, William Musgrave, Gertrude Short, Don Bailey, Wilton Taylor, and Ah Tov. The direction was the work of John Ince and the production was made under the personal supervision of Maxwell Karger, director general.

FAVORITE PICTURE OF THE PEOPLE'S PRINCE

When it became definitely known that H.R.H. the Prince of Wales would open the Canadian National Exhibition this year the management at once got into touch with the official photographers in London andrequested a profile photograph of him for reproduction on the Victory Year Medal to be awarded to the winners in the Agricultural and other sections of the Big Fair. The photo shown above was received after considerable delay, and immediately a cable was rushed back to this effect:

"A mistake has been made. An official picture is desired. One you sent shows the Prince without hat or coat and with khaki shirt collar turned in. Charming deshabille, but hardly dignified enough."

Then came the answer:

"Sorry you dislike it. It's the Prince's favorite picture, taken with the Canadians in France and is every sense official."

And that is the reason why the Prince's Prince will appear on the Canadian National Exhibition 1919 medal, lifeless, coatless and in the careless attire of the Fighting Man in France. It will open the Big Fair on Monday, August 25th.

ENGLAND HAS NO POLO TEAMS

ONE OF THE PROBLEMS ARISING FROM THE WAR.

New York.—Each and every one of the long list of amateur sports has its problems as a result of the great war and none are more difficult than those which now confront the men who are interested in polo.

This particular sport suffered cruelly during the great contest between the nations, and particularly so in England, which has ever been recognized as the game's hotbed. England's polo men and her ponies, too, were literally wiped out in the stupendous struggle that finally resulted in Germany's downfall. Of the high-class players and ponies that were England's at the start of the great struggle in 1914, but a pitiful handful remain—hardly enough, in fact, to organize polo activities in the United Kingdom on as skeleton basis.

Now polo needs most of all, to bring about a complete revival, an international match between England and America. In this country mounts and practically the same players who represented America in the 1914 matches—Milbury, Beadleston, La Montague and others. The Meadowbrook Club is ready to challenge for an international match in 1920, but unfortunately our British cousins are in no way prepared to accept the defi.

English polo, to be perfectly plain, is "shot to pieces." The splendid strings of ponies that existed before the war are scattered and only too sad to relate, the great majority of their riders lie sleeping in the fields of Flanders. Altogether the polo situation in England is most discouraging. The Hurlingham clubmen realize that, for the good of the sport, an international match in 1920 is almost imperative, but they are at their wit's ends to organize their playing strength into a combination that will be able to make any kind of a showing against the American veterans.

A British expert wrote recently of the recent big matches in the "tight little isle":

"In the final ties of neither the Ranleigh Open Cup, nor the Championship Cup—the two principal events of the season—was the play above mediocrity for a high-class tournament. Nothing like test-match form was in evidence. / There is a prime cause for this poverty of exhibition—the scarcity of good, young players and good ponies. The war has taken a heavy toll of both and the places of our former best men cannot be filled this year, or even next, by those who would reasonably be chosen to replace them, but who are still serving overseas."

It is understood that the Meadowbrook Club has already approached the Hurlingham Club as to the acceptance of a challenge in 1920. This fact is quite generally known among polo men in England and the brand of sportsmanship that prompted it is appreciated by our allies in the world war.

The London Times correspondent writes on this theme:

"It says a great deal for the sportsmanship of those in charge of the negotiations for the challenge that they should be reported to be willing to forego the very great advantages which they are aware that they possess."

Says Willard Never Whipped A Good Man In His Whole Career

WAS ONE OF THE WORST CHAMPIONS THAT EVER STEPPED INTO A PRIZE RING

(By Frank G. Menke.)

Through the years the writer has contended that Jess Willard never was a real fighter, and that he was the jokiest champion of all time.

And now the sporting world in general admits that Willard's awful showing against Jack Dempsey proved it conclusively.

Willard never whipped a good man in his life—and a lot of ordinary performers doled out beatings to him. He was a manufactured fighter pure and simple, who got into the game merely for the money that was in it, and who was piloted through to the championship by some cunning managers. Willard was lucky to get a fight with the aged Jack Johnson just at a time when the negro was so far gone that a good middleweight could have whipped him. Yet some folks construed Willard's victory then as a "great triumph."

Willard Just An Amateur.

Willard fought like an amateur against Johnson—and he never fought otherwise in his life. He couldn't because he was nothing more. Only his great size, his poundage and his reach were assets. Yet, big as he was, and old and worn out, and fat and flabby as was Johnson, it took Willard 26 rounds to win—about three times as long as Jack Dillon or Mike Gibbons would have required.

The cry that Willard won the fight from Johnson through a bit of jobbing in Havana now has been revived since Dempsey showed up Willard to have been a fistic performer of amazing inability.

Why Did People Back Jess?

Just why so many people—before 4th July—figured Willard invincible and backed him with their bank roll, a one of sportdom's greatest mysteries. Anyone who analysed Willard's career could have found all the needed evidence to the contrary. All he had was great power in an uppercut. But what does it avail a man to have uppercut power sufficient to knock off the head of the Statue of Liberty if he can't land that punch?

Willard at his best was only an ordinary fighter; a man who never would have emerged beyond the second or third rate class if it had not been for the skillful and cunning handling of Tom Jones and Jack Curley, who piloted him to the top. They picked his way for him, and it was those two men who engineered the deal that brought him a fight with Jack Johnson.

Moran Bore a Good Tip-off.

The comparative showing of Jess Willard, 6 feet 7 inches, and 259 pounds, and Jack Dillon, 5 feet 7 inches, 170 pounds, against Frank Moran, should have been the best "tip-off" in all the world that Willard was a joke—and nothing more.

Willard in 1916 outpointed Moran—yes, but not by any really wide margin. Moran put up a good fight, and forced Willard to give his best. Willard cut loose with all of his big guns, but Moran was on his feet at the end of ten rounds, but little worse for the wear and conflict with the giant Kansan.

About three months later Moran fought Dillon—a man a foot shorter and nearly 90 pounds lighter than Willard. And this midget Dillon gave to Moran one of the awfullest beatings a heavyweight warrior had been accorded up to that time. Dillon cut Moran almost to ribbons; had him bleeding like a fellow who has tried conclusions with a racing auto; had him staggering and groggy, and backed on to the ropes times without number.

Jess Just a Big Cheese.

Dillon, a Jilliputian in comparison with Willard, whipped Moran five times as decisively as had the champion. Wasn't that proof conclusive of the roquefortishness of Willard as a champion?

But some folks couldn't see it.

Willard was not in condition when he fought Dempsey—he was far from it. But lack of condition did not whip him. It was one left hook that turned the trick. Lack of condition whips a fighter only when he is forced to travel at a fast pace for quite a number of rounds, and then wearies. But Willard never got a chance to do any wearying. The fight wasn't under any wearying iteark htmaf dowaf rfh way a full minute before Dempsey cracked him with a left hook—and right then and there the doom of the giant was sealed.

Willard the Poorest Champion.

Willard can be called at one and the same time the worst champion the prize ring has ever known, and the luckiest. An ordinary performer at his best, fortune smiled on him to the extent of getting him a match with Johnson at a time when the negro was all in. And although it took Willard 26 rounds to turn the trick, he won the fight, and in the years that followed garnered a fortune of close to $750,000.

Fair enough!

PETERBORO GUN CLUB SHOOT

PORT HOPE AND LAKEFIELD SHOOTERS HERE.

The Port Hope and Lakefield Gun Clubs paid a visit to the local Gun Club's grounds last evening, and a very pleasant shoot was held.

There was a very high wind, and it made the shooting difficult, but some very good scores were made

H. Reynolds and B. S. Watson, of Port Hope, and Roy Hutchinson, of the home team, were high guns, with scores of 41 each.

The Port Hope squad won the team shoot for the cigars, with Peterborough two birds behind. Mr. Reynolds won the blind handicap with 22 and T. Curvin and Chris. Graham were tied for second with 21.

The Port Hope club is shooting fine and sent up two squads.

Lakefield had a nice turnout of gunners, and are doing great work for a new club.

The executive of the Peterborough Gun Club were delighted with the number of shooters who attended the evening's sport, there being twenty-seven.

Return visits will be made to Port Hope and Lakefield in the near future. Below are the scores:

MIRRORS SHOW TOO MUCH.

Street cars in Los Angeles are equipped with safety mirrors so the motorman can see the rear end of his car. Many women have made complaints to the traction officials that these tiny mirrors reveal more than they are intended to do. Fashion's decree of tight and short skirts is the real cause of the complaints. Women say they are embarrassed by the stares of the motormen as they climb aboard the cars. Officials of the company enter counter complaint that tight skirts delay the cars and sometimes cause accidents. In addition, the officials contend, the motormen are doing their duty when they watch the mirrors to see that passengers are on the cars before starting.

EIGHT HOURS ESTABLISHED BY TORONTO RAILWAY.

Nine Hundred Motormen and Conductors Now Working Shorter Hours

TORONTO, Aug. 2.—The eight-hour day was established by the Toronto Railway Company in two of their barns at five o'clock yesterday morning, and now 950 of their motormen and conductors are enjoying what they have fought for for years.

The management declared to-day that the shorter workday would be established in the other barns immediately.

The introduction of the eight-hour day will also mean that more men must be employed, and in establishing it in the two barns required about 50 extra men.

In Dundas Street barns there are 400 men enjoying the shorter workday, and in Yorkvill barns 350. The men in the shops have been enjoying the shorter workday for about a month.

Controller W. D. Robbins, secretary of the Union, at noon reported taht the new order of things was working satisfactorily, and "we are all proud of the eight-hour day."

"We have fought hard to get it, and the men thoroughly appreciate it," he said.

Business Manager Josseph Gibbons shared in the opinion of the secretary, and added that the shorter working day would work to the advantage of the company.

RUSSIA DEMANDS CHANCE TO BE FREE

STRONG OPPOSITION TO CIRCLE OF BUFFER STATES—OUTLET TO EAS.

OMSK,—The Siberian newspapers comment favorably on articles in the French press that insist on the re-establishment of a free, united Russia. Some articles that deal with the advisability of the creation of so-called "buffer states" on the borders of Russia are severely criticized. The Russ published by the agricultural co-operative organization, comments as follows on the ex-change of notes between the Allies and the All-Russian Government in Omsk:

"The All-Russian Government recognized as such by all the local governments, made a dignified reply fully expressing the democratic principles upon which it is built. We greet the Allied note, but we cannot refrain from observing that it took the Allies a long time to understand the movement which originated at Omsk. This has weakened us immensely.

"We have more than once heard that Bolshevism is the enemy of the world's civilization and that we are defending the entire world in fighting actively against this evil. Until lately these unfortunately were only words. We understand those democrats in the Allied countries who would like to postpone recognition until there is a government created in Russia by the constituent assembly. But, on the other hand, it must be understood that the convocation of the constituent assembly is impossible until anarchy is conquered and normal conditions are somewhat re-established. The sooner the government led by Admiral Koltchak conquers Bolshevist anarchy, the nearer is the moment of the constituent assembly: Our enemies are making great use of the Allies' hesitation in their policy toward Russia."

The Socialist paper Nasche Dyelo, published in Irkutsk, says: "The German imperialists have long desired to reduce Russia to the old Moscovia by depriving her of outlets to the sea. Russia cannot exist without such outlets. This was one of the reasons why the entire nation repudiated the shameful Brest-Litovsk peace, concluded by the Bolshevik. Fortunately German militarism is crushed and we are deeply gratified to say that Russian conributed very much to the splendid Allied victory. We rejoiced at this victory, feeling certain that the annulment of the Brest-Litovsk treaty meant the re-union with Russia of the territories she lost.

"But now it seems that Russia faces the same danger. Cables coming from Allied countries show that certain circles maintain the ideas of creating a series of small, independent states on the borders of Russia. We cannot think that our Allies would impose upon Russia the conditions which Germany imposed upon us after destroying our army. We, Russian citizens without any distinction of party, raise our voice to the entire world and say that we do not deserve this humiliation; that the cutting off of outlets to the sea will kill our industries and agriculture; will create impossible conditions for our working class and will make us vassals of other nations. Russia's future can be decided only by the constituent assembly, and no one has the right to deprive us of a single foot of our territory."

Although the war is over there should be no slacking up in the growing and preserving of food.

THE BIG PROBLEM.

He's a Chinese or a Wop, he's a Dago or a Greek,
And the language of our country is a tongue he cannot speak.
He has sought the land of freedom for the dream is in his breast,
And he's groping rather blindly for the things he knows are best.
He's a power for good or evil, he will hate us or revere
And become a friend or traitor from the way we treat him here.

He had heard about our country in a vague and hazy way,
It's the land where men are happy and where the little children play,
But he's strange to all the customs that surrounds him now he's here;
And he misses much that's spoken, but he understands a sneer.
He would like to do as we do, but he doesn't quite know how,
And he'll never grow fo like us if we all neglect him now.

There's a mighty force within him if we only understood,
We can spurn it to our danger, or can mold it to our good;
We can turn our backs upon him, or can make of him a friend,
Who will come to speak our language and the flag we love defend,
But it's not enough to pay him for the labour of his hand
We must teach him all our custom till he learns to love our land.

He's a Chinese or a Wop, he's a Dago or a Greek.
But he's very busy thinking; also his thoughts he [illegible] when you are In the future he'll be [illegible] is true of every [illegible]
And the blame must [illegible] not Canada's good.
So let's make him a Canadian, and let's treat him as a friend.
And let's teach him love of freedom—it will pay us in the end.

DANCES AT CHEMONG AND SOUTH BEACH

The weekly dance given by the Peter Robinson Chapter I.O.D.E. at Chemong Park Pavillion was a pronounced success last evening and attended by a large number of the young people. Moher and Fitzgerald's orchestra furnished splendid music and the floor was in ideal condition. Mrs. Vincent Eastwood, Mrs. Alex. Elliott and Mrs. T. G. Campazzi acted as chaperones and amongst those noticed present were: Mr. and Mrs. Walter Burritt, Mrs. Northedge Birks, Mr. Ivan Kirkhouse, Miss Phyllis and Ruth Robertson, Miss Margery Bull, Miss Dorothy Hill, Miss Halpine, Mrs. T. F. Matthews, Miss Jessie and Mr. Jim Matthews, Miss G. Stevenson, Miss Audrey Huycke, Miss Robina Gordon-Cumming, Mr. Walter Perks, Mr. H. Bradburn, Mr. Hugh Carmichael, Mr. Vincent Eastwood, Miss Grace and Mr. Pat Burritt, Miss Helen MacLaren, Miss Jessie Cressman, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cressman, Miss Irene Scott and Mr. Emmerson of Toronto

At South Beach

About twenty motor loads of young people drove out to the dance at South Beach Hotel last night, where a splendid dance with music furnished by the Pavlowa orchestra

The Belmont Club also entertained about fifty couples at a very pleasant dance last evening at their summer club rooms.

WOMAN DIED FROM STORM FRIGHT.

Heavy Rainfall in Spruce Damaged Railway Tracks.

QUEBEC, July 31. — Mrs. S. Roy, St. Francis, Beauce, died here in her home, when a thunderbolt struck a tree barely one hundred feet from her home. She was in good health, but the doctor stated she died from fright.

Heavy damage was caused to the tracks of the Quebec Central Railway in Beauce, between St. George and Beauceville and St. Joseph and Valley Junction, by the severe storm. The track was washed away for a considerable distance.

The heavy rain has caused the Chaudiere River to rise considerably and fears are entertained that Beauce will have another serious flood should any more rain fall within the next few hours.

ROYALTY OUT OF JOBS, BROKE, MAKE NO BIG HIT WITH SWISS; STAR BOARDERS ARE TABOO

ERSTWHILE ENEMY ARISTOCRACY NOT PROFITABLE IN THE ALPINE REPUBLIC.

Zurich, Switzerland, is "fed up" on aristocracy.

Threadbare, but unchanged in their domineering demeanors, the hundreds of star boarders, who fled here for asylum when the Central Empires went to smash, are not profitable to the home folks of the Alpine republic and they are far from popular.

Tragedy and comedy are incongruously mingled in the plight of the fugitive royalty and nobility as contrasted with what might have been had autocracy won the war.

Former King Constantine of Greece finds himself in an embarrassing situation. He lives at the National Hotel, Lucerne, with former Queen Sophia, his brother Prince Nicholas, and his son, the Duke of Sparto, who renounced his right to succeed Constantine to the throne, and 57 rather dim satellites.

Stands Off Landlords

Although the hotel keeper makes Constantine a wholesale rate of $10 a head per week for his party, the former monarch frequently has the unpleasant job of fixing it up with the landlord to wait a week or so for his money. Among the wary capitalists of Switzerland and even with his personal friends Tino is achieving a reputation as a deadbeat, because he has borrowed "to the hilt," and failed to pay back. Some of his "touches" have been for small amounts.

The Greek party could have a private dining saloon for an extra $100 per week, but in the present state of their bank-roll, it might as well be a million. So all hands mingle with the common herd in the public dining room and "pass the salt" to a rabble of vacationers and travelling salesmen

Has No Car

Constantine has no car, not even a motor-bike, and his chief recreation consists of strolling on the shores of Lake Lucerne, usually alone. His one dissipation is a strong cocktail, of which he used to drink many, but since Germany recently sent a curt refusal to his request for a loan of 6,000,000 marks, he has become more temperate.

Prince Nicholas also walks a great deal, swinging a cane and toying with an unusually conspicuous monocle. The women of the party, including Sophia, unable to afford carriages, have somehow bought or borrowed several bicycles of varying antiquity and go riding in the afternoons.

Among the people of Lucerne the Greeks are extremely popular and as they are "broke" their departure would be welcomed.

Field Marshal "Rests."

At Zurich is Field Marshall Baron von Hoetzendorf, former chief of the Austrian general staff, who beat the Russians in Galicia in 1914 and was "fired" in 1918, following the great Italian smash which brought the Dual-Monarchy to their knees.

Count Leopold Berchtold, foreign minister of Austria-Hungary, at the outbreak of the war, lives close by and Count Andrassy, former cabinet minister and foremost of Bela Kun opponents in Hungary, also is quartered in town.

The Swiss people resent the undiminished banteur of these once omnipotent military and political leaders and they begrudge them their scanty rations of food. Provender is scarce and prices, already Switzerland has become the prisoners' "base" of a horde of exiles.

Von Tirpitz Unpopular.

Admiral von Tirpitz, who first announced Germany's unrestricted submarine campaign, is extremely unpopular at Lausanne and Prince Alfred of Windisch-Graetz, a Hungarian noble, is similarly "in wrong" at Locarno.

The former King of Bavaria leads a colorless life at Zizers, where he occupies a feudal manor with the sad companionship of an aged Bavarian general. The former King's sole recreation is botany, and he spends much of his time plucking wild flowers and weeds.

Prince Leopold of Lippe, a German, lives near the Bavarian King, but their interests apparently do not harmonize, as they have not been seen together.

Former Emperor Karl of Austria maintains the aloofness which, for generations, made the Hapsburg court the least approachable in the world; and hit attitude has made him an object of some bitterness when he might have assumed a more democratic and popular air.

Shabby and Bored.

Shabby, dyspeptic and bored, the Hapsburg exiles have plenty of time and nothing to do but reflect, saddly, on the lurid pleasures of the "good old days."

Switzerland estimates that her pantry is now feeding, in addition to the Greek party, half of the royal and noble class of the central empires and the people are singularly unappreciative of the honor.

Not only do the visitors consume too much food and crowd the best lodgings in the cities, but they also demand constant vigilance, lest they perpetuate embarrassing political plots.

Now it is reported that Field Marshall von Hindenburg is coming to Locarno, and the only interest of the Swiss is in the vigor and scope of his appetite.

BRIGHT PROSPECTS FOR THE DOMINION DUSTLESS SWEEPER CO

Careful investors are buying stock of the Dominion Dustless Sweeper Company. They evidently realise that not only is the present management entitled to confidence, but that the development of their utility is destined to produce good interest-bearing dividends.

It is gratifying to learn that already Peterborough investors have absorbed about one-third of the amount necessary for actual production. Others are sure to follow, inasmuch as the names of those who have already subscribed will be a guarantee for increased activity in these shares. Local men should familiarise themselves with the policy of the management, and the field for this dustless street sweeper.

What Peterborough is likely to do is to bring the favourable position which this stock already enjoys into greater prominence.

The Dominion Dustless Sweeper Company starts with neither "preferred" shares nor "watered" shares. New data is accumulating evidence of the great need of a dustless street sweeper for large cities. According to the reports received from day to day, the demand for information is coming in fully; and it is believed that with the bright prospects already assured this industry will be enabled to coordustries so vitally necessary to her prosperity.

Investors who purchase these shares will not only secure safety and high income-yield but will assist in the most practical way the development of Peterborough's local industries so vitally necessary to her property.

Prospective investors will be cheerfully given detailed and complete information by applying to H. M. Bishop, manager.

WOULD BOOST PRODUCTION

German Hrsch-Hunker Unions Stress Need of Reviving Industry.

Great stress was laid upon the necessity for German workers and industrialists to do their utmost toward increasing production, thus bettering the country's economic condition, in resolutions adopted by the representatives of the Hirsch-Dunker Trade Unions at their general convention held in Berlin and reported in the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung of June 12.

The delegates expressed their satisfaction at the "anchoring" of the Workers' Councils should be limited to promoting production and protecting the right of self-determination in industrial matters. Attemnts to turn the Councils into political clubs and instruments for the suppression of one class by the other were condemned. The convention declared for progressive socialization of such industries as were ripe for such a process and which would be of more benefit to the nation as against killing private initiative, and demanded sufficient protection for Germany's foreign trade.

Gustav Hartmann, president of the National Union, which in principal corresponds to the "pure and simple" American trade unions, and is supposed to keep out of politics, reported a membership of 160,000 at the end of March, against 50,000 in 1010, when the preceding convention was held.

THE OLD GARDENER SAYS

People were surprised at the high prices charged when they came to buy bedding plants this season. For less than a dollar invested in the best seed obtainable you can grow enough plants for the whole garden. Now is the time to start the seed. Sow it in a cold frame or in a well prepared seed bed in the open garden. Keep the ground moist, even if you have to throw some straw or grass clippings over it, until the seedlings come up. Then do not stint them for water. When the plants are well grown you should transfer them to another bed, raised a few inches above the surface of the ground. If covered very lightly they will winter safely and begin to bloom early in the spring.

Syrups for canning are made by boiling sugar and water together until they are of the required density.

A HIVE OF BARGAINS AT CHESLER'S

The fact that B. Chesler has succeeded in making his business a growing concern during the past four years down in the Lundy Block, is an evidence that his business has been well conducted. Central situations for business do not always count and his is a case in point. Merchandise and prices and good treatment have their reward, as shoppers have found out that Chesler's is a safe and satisfying place to shop, day in and day out. His August clearance sale is a bona fide one, and the bargains announced will doubtless keep this store busy this month.

BACTERICIDAL EFFECT OF SUNLIGHT EXAGGERATED.

Results of experiments made at Algiers by M. de Laroquette, published in the Annales de l'Institute Pasteur indicate the necessity of revising current ideas concerning the bactericidal action of sunlight, says the Scintific American. These experiments show that sunlight is bactericidal only with prolonged or direct insolation and its acton is chiefly effective on the surface of dry media and in air, where bacteria are fully exposed to the sun's rays and to desiccation. In liquid media the bacteria are only destroyed when the light is very intense, and then only at shallow depths.

Total white light is much more efficient than any partially colored light. Blue light is slightly more bactericidal than other coloured lights. Contrary to a prevailing opinion, ultra-violet light plays but a slight part in the bactericidal action of sunlight, and the same is true of intra-red. The luminous part of the spectrum is the most active in killing bacteria. These experiments indicate that in hygiene and therapeutics it would be useless to rely largely on the bactericidal action of sunlight, especially in temperate regions, as it has no effect at a depth exceeding a few millimetres and is inhibited by thin layers of fat or muscle.

THE PAVEMENT

They took a little gravel,
And they took a little tar,
And various ingredients
Imported from afar.
They hammered it and rolled it.
And when they went away,
They said they had a pavement
That would last for many a day.
But they came with picks and smote it
To lay a water main;
And in time they called the workmen
To put it back again,
To run an electric cable,
They took it up once more;
And later put it back again
Just where is was before.
They took it up for conduits,
To run the telephone.
And then they put it back again.
As hard as any stone.
They took it up for wires
To feed the 'lectric light,
And then they put it back again.
Which was no more than right.
Oh, the pavement's full of furrows.
There are patches everywhere;
You'd like to ride upon it.
But it's seldom that you dare.
It's a very handsome pavement,
A credit to our town;
They're always digging of it up,
Or putting of it down.

HISTORIC OCCASION

FIFTH ANNIVERSARY OF THE HISTORIC MOBILIZATION OF THE BRITISH FLEET.

NAVAL PAGEANT

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Aug. 5. The important role played by the British sea services in the great war was commemorated by a naval pageant on the Thames to-day, the fifth anniversary of the historic mobilization of the British fleet. Plans for the event, while giving recognition to Allied Powers, laid stress on the fact that this was purely a British occasion and British flags predominated in decorations alongside the river side.

WILL RATIFY PEACE TREATY

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Aug. 4.— The session of Parliament beginning Sept. 1st is not expected to last more than four or five weeks, and the ratification of the peace treaty will be the principal business. The deposit of the British ratification is postponed, awaiting the action of the overseas Dominions, and therefore Parliament is called to meet four weeks from to-day. Besides the ratification of the peace treaty, Parliament will deal with the question of continuing the legislation passed under the War Measures Act, such as prohibition and race track enactments.

BICYCLE SMASHED

BIG DRAY RAN OVER IT NEAR STREET CURB.

A bicycle belonging to a messenger boy of the Canadian Express Company's telegraph office on the corner of Charlotte and George streets this morning, and while talking to a friend on the sidewalk a Dominion Express dray in passing knocked the bicycle down and ran over the hind wheel, crushing it beyond repair.

JUVENILE FETE IN NORTH END

FUNDS WILL GO TO THE G.W.V.A.

On Friday last, frob 7 to 9, a small number of North-end children gave a most successful juvenile fete, comprising a fairy play, concert, and sale of home-made candy and fancy articles kindly donated by friends and made by the young people. Barbara Massey-Cooke, who wrote the little play and arranged the whole affair, was ably assisted by the following children: Betty Massey-Cooke, Evelyn and Albert Roberts, Myrtle and Marguerite Quinlan, Evelyn Mchacy, and Madeleine Fletcher.

At the conclusion, "God Save the King" was sung, and when the children counted their proceeds, they found they had taken the substantial sum of $9.05, which they have donated to the fund of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the G.W.V.A. to be used in cases of need and sickness for our soldiers and their families.

THE PASSING OF A PETERBORO LANDMARK

"Glen Morrison," the Carnegie property, and one of the landmarks of Peterborough County, will, in the course of a few months, probably become a memory. A $300,000 filtration plant will replace the historic homestead. The Utilities Commission have not commenced to tear down the old house as yet, but have definite plans laid as to how to proceed directly the Council hands over the funds to the Waterworks Commissioners for the proposed plant. It was originally the intention of the Commissioners to divide the house into a semi-detached building to provide a home for the men who will be in charge of the proposed filtration plant and who will have to live beside it, but upon expert advice it was found much more advisable from a standpoint of economy to build the plant in exactly the site of the present house and erect a house for the workmen. Several thousand dollars it was found could be saved by proceeding with the latter plans.

OLD BUILDING.

The house was originally the property of a man named Morrison, and from him it derived the name of "Glen Morrison." From Mr. Morrison the porperty passed into the hands of Mr. Wm. Snider about 60 years ago. At this time Mr. Snider was the was the owner of a large lumber mill standing in the site of the present pumping station. In 1877 Mr. Snider gave the house to Mr. John Carnegie, his son-in-law, who immediately proceeded to remodel the then low rambling building with its many wings. The central portion of the house was left and the walls bricked over to such a thickness that an expert valuator who was called into consultation, stated that the house was undoubtedly the best constructed in the county. Since last fall when the old house was bought by the Utilities Commission for the filtration plant, it has ben vacant, pending such repairs or changes as the Commissioners saw fit to make.

RIOTOUS CROWDS IN LIVERPOOL WERE DRIVEN FROM THE STREETS THIS MORNING BY TROOPS CHARGING WITH FIXED BAYONETS

STRIKE SPREADING

(Canadian Press.)

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 4.— Riotous crowds were driven from the streets this morning by troops charging with fixed bayonets. Rioters filled the streets during the night and it was not until daylight that the soldiers were ordered to charge. Employees of bus and tramway lines failed to report this morning.

Six hundred locomotive engineers on the southwestern railway struck this morning, restricting the service but not entirely tieing up the system.

Turbulent Element at Work.

Terror came to the Mersey side when, taking advantage of the police strike, the futbulent element of cosmopolitan Liverpool which lurks in slumdom wherever the occasion permits, started the work of destruction.

Scotland road was the scene of the early depredations of the mob. Many of the shops were stripped bare. The looters paid particular attention to boot shops and clothing stores, very few of which escaped, but there were also many successful raids on jewellers and pawn brokers' shops. Other places were smashed out of pure devilment. Violence abated during the daylight hours and the municipal authorities went ahead with their bands of hooligans again merged

Police Join the Strikers.

About half the police had joined the strike. Official figures show that of the total force, 929 have refused to do duty and 961 have remained loyal. Special constables were called out, and a public appeal by the mayor resulted in 500 citizens responding.

When night closed down over the city everyone was apprehensive of trouble and the misgivings were more than justified. About midnight the bands of hooligans again merged from the side streets and alleys and without hesitation embarked on an orgy of pillage and violence. They made a determined attack on the magnificent shops in London road, one of Liverpool's finest thoroughfares. Again they concentrated on boot and clothing shops.

The soldiers marched up and down the road in columns of four, but the mob dodged around them, scarcely heeding them. Under the eyes of the troops they scrambled through the shattered windows and hurried back to their homes with boxes of boots and suits of clothes, and then came back for more. They ransacked general draper and outfitting stores, carrying off women's costumes and furs.

Those in charge of the military were loath to give orders to fire on the crowd and failing drastic measures there was little that the troops could do. Eventually they fired a volley over the heads of the mob but it had comparatively little effect. The loyal police with greater experience in mob warfare, hit upon the idea of breaking up their forces into little parties which guarded the entrances to the side streets. This was more effective but the rioting and looting still went on.

Canadians Willing to Help

Showers of bricks and stones fell upon the soldiers and police alike and many minor injuries were inflicted. The police charged with their batons and many of the hooligans retired with broken heads. The law abiding citizens who were present begged to be allowed to take part against the rioters and some of the Canadian soldiers expressed a burning desire to take a hand.

"Give me a rifle and I will clear the street myself," said one who had been serving since the outbreak of the war.

Read Riot Act.

A Magistrate read the Riot Act, and the police and the rioters came into violent action. The military fired into the air and with bayonets fixed fired among the mob with rifles held at high port. I heard that one man received a flesh wound from a bayonet but have been unable to confirm

RAILWAY SHOPMEN STILL ON STRIKE

SEVERAL THOUSAND JOINED THE RANKS OF THE STRIKERS YESTERDAY.

(Canadian Press.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—The strike of the Federated Railway Shopmen, already involving a quarter million men, will soon spread to every section of the country, local officials of the Union declared to-day, unless the demands are speedily met. The ranks of strikers were augmented by several thousand yesterday.

PRESENTATION TO MR. H. C. TRENEER

FOR TORONTO THIS MORNING

At the conclusion of the morning service at St. Andrew's Church yesterday, a large representation of the congregation gathered in the vestry of the church, when, on behalf of the congregation, Mr. E. B. Fowler presented Mr. Herbert C. Treneer with a purse containing a considerable sum of money on the eve of his departure to take a course in Arts in Toronto.

In making the presentation to Mr. Treneer, Mr. Fowler expressed the general regret felt throughout the congregation at Mr. Treneer's leaving the duties of organist and choirleader, and the appreciation for the manner in which he had filled the positions and for the help he had given in other departments of the work of the church. He concluded by conveying to Mr. Treneer the best wishes of the congregation for his success in his new work.

Although quite unprepared for such a presentation, Mr. Treneer responded feelingly, and expressed his regret at leaving a congregation which had become so dear to him during his long term of office.

Mr. Treneer left this morning for Toronto.

During the service in the morning, Rev. F. E. Malott made a fitting reference to the work of Mr. Treneer.

HUNTER ST. BRIDGE WORK BEGAN TO-DAY

LABOURERS EXCAVATING FOR EAST SIDE APPROACH

The construction of the Hunter street bridge was begun this morning, when a gang of twenty or more labourers hit their picks into the Hunter street hill across the river to excavate for the foundation of the retaining wall of the eastern approach. This afternoon the men sweated in the heat while as many others lounged in the shade near the sidewalk eager to get to work, and wondering if the bridge would provide them, too, with a meal ticket.

The office building opposite the Quaker Oats plant is practically completed, and this morning another car of heavy machinery was being unloaded. The evidences of activity are indicative of the briskness which may be expected when the preliminary work has been laid out, and "elbow room" obtained for the men.

FARMER WAS KICKED BY HORSE

On Saturday Herbert Miller of Omemabee, residing near Keene, was kicked by a horse and severely injured about the face, the nose and jaw being broken. He was removed to Nicholl's Hospital.

MRS. A. STUDHOLME DEAD AT HAMILTON

PASSES AWAY ONLY FOUR DAYS AFTER HER HUSBAND'S FUNERAL

HAMILTON, August 4.—Yesterday afternoon death claimed priscilla widow of the late Allan Studholme, M.L.A., who was buried on Wednesday last. Mrs. Studholme had been in a very serious condition for some time, and it was expected that her death might occur several weeks ago. The shock of her husband's death hastened the end.

She was born in Rochester, N.Y., and had resided nearly all her life in Hamilton. She was married in 1874.

Rev. R. C. Morrow, father-in-law of Mrs. Studholme's daughter, will conduct the funeral service on Wednesday afternoon. Three sons as well as the daughter survive.

MANY PEOPLE NOT ON THE LISTS

REGISTRATION BOARDS WILL HAVE BUSY SESSION.

Now that the enumeration for the city has been completed, many eligible voters are waking up to the fact that they have not been included in the enumeration. This means that they will have to have their names placed on the list through the medium of the Registration Board or sacrifice the privileges of the franchise. In commenting upon the failure of the enumeration nothing but credit is due to Mr. Fordyce Strickland an dhis staff for the able manner in which they performed their duties with the Government machinery at their disposal. The inadequacies of th epresent method of enumration are general and it is doubtful if more than two thirds of the eligible voters are on the lists.

PREACHERS ASK THAT NAMES ARE ON

London Congregations Reminded of Importance of Referendum Vote.

LONDON, On., Aug. 4.—Responding to appeals made by local organizers of the campaign in support of the Ontario Temperance Act, the majority of the clergymen of the city to-day admonished members of their congregations to make certain that their names are properly recorded by enumerators now compiling voters' lists for the autumn referendum.

The church is to have an active part in the campaign and temperance discourses, particularly recalling the evils of the abanished liquor system, will be regular features of sundays between now and polling day.

THE LIBERAL CONVENTION

DELEGATES ARRIVE AT THE CAPITAL IN LARGE NUMBERS—PARLIAMENT OPENS.

ELECTIONS WEDNESDAY

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Aug. 4.— Hundreds of delegates to the Liberal convention arrived to-day, and the Billeting committee have been kept busy. It is probable the vote for selection of leader will not take place until Wednesday because a number of delegates are enroute to Ottawa who cannot arrive before that day. The National Liberal committee, which has made all arrangements for the convention, held its last meeting this morning. Hereafter all business will be dealt with by the committees of the convention which will be nominated to-morrow.

OTTAWA, Aug. 4. — Parliament meets Monday, September first, and on the same day the Prince of Wales will lay the corner stone to the Parliament Buildings.

ADVANCE IN LEATHER GOODS

THE LEATHER SITUATION IS VERY BAD—HIGHER PRICES

The leather situation is getting worse instead of better. In conversation with the Examiner this morning, a traveller for a well-known shoe manufacturing company stated that he had received orders to await further instructions owing to the uncertainty of the situation.

All prices on raw material made a substantial advance last week, and much higher prices are anticipated before the top is reached.

SOCIALISTS ARE MEETING

ARTHUR HENDERSON LOOKS FOR THE FINAL ANNIHILATION OF CIVILIZATION.

CONDEMNS ENTENTE

(Canadian Press.)

LUCERNE, Switzerland, Aug. 4.—Before winter sets in there will be a terrible spasm of rage and despair among the peoples of Europe in which the final remains of civilization may be totally annihilated, it was predicted by Arthur Henderson, British Labour leader at the opening session of the Socialist conference here yesterday.

Mr. Henderson declared the principle points of peace treaty ought to be subjected to immediate and thorough revision.

James Ramsay Macdonald, of England, and Marcel Cochin, French Socialist leader, condemned the Entente nations' support of the Russian anti-Bolshevik government.

ABANDONED TRUCK ON KINGSTON ROAD

JOHN MERVIN'S MEAT DRAY RECOVERED—DRIVER DISAPPEARS.

Mr. John Mervin's motor delivery truck has been recovered and will be returned to him at once. It was abandoned on the Kingston road outside the city and was noticed by the Toronto police who had been requested to watch for it. There were no traces of the youth, who drove off last Friday, not only with the car, but also, it is alleged, with a sum of money he had collected.

CANADIAN LUMBER WILL BE SHIPPED FROM CANADA TO BUILD BRITISH HOUSES

SHIPMENTS TO BEGIN—LOW RATE CHARGED BY GOVERNMENT VESSELS FOR CARRYING STOCKS.

LONDON, August 4.—Shipment from Canada of heavy stocks of lumber purchased by the British Government during the war, is to commence without delay.

This material will mainly be utilised for the peaceful purpose of building houses, the lack of which is regarded as one of the causes of the present industrial unrest, as well as a serious obstacle to the resettlement of the agricultural districts at the moment when high wages and the brightening of village life are specially favourable for the back-to-the-land movement.

It is improbable that the shipments will be as heavy as was first anticipated, because the resolve to bring over one million tons of lumber during the coming twelve months was apparently taken without full consultation with the Ministry of Shipping, which is not a particularly pliant body, and which, it now transpires, is unable to arrange for the necessary tonnage.

Regarding cargo rates, the most that can be expected during August is 20,000 tons, of which 10,000 would be shipped from Montreal and 10,000 from Halifax.

Another 4-500 tons are expected to come from Montreal before navigation closes.

GERMANS PREPARE TO DUMP LARGE STOCK OF PIANOS ON THE MARKET

MADE DURING THE WAR—BRITISH PAWNSHOPS ARE FILLED WITH INSTRUMENTS AND WILL TAKE NO MORE.

LONDON, August 4.—"There are in Germany to-day forty-three thousand pianos waiting to be dumped on the world's markets at cut prices," says a leading British piano manufacturer.

"The State is offering a subsidy to German manufacturers in the form of a grant based on the cost of manufacture, prices current in the market at the time the pianos are offered, and the prices actually realised.

FOR DUMPING PURPOSES.

"During the war the German Government prohibited the sale of German pianos even to its own people, although the manufacturers maintained production. The object was to accumulate stocks for dumping operations after Peace was signed. The cost of manufacture of the British instrument is far in excess of the prices charged for high-grade American and Canadian instruments, and within three months hundreds of orders placed with British manufacturers, notably from South Africa and Australia, have been cancelled in favour of cheaper American pianos of equal quality."

PIANOS IN PAWN SHOPS.

Although the prosperity of the working class in Great Britain has declined since the armistice, there still are thousands buying pianos, the favourite sport of the munition workers during the war. But the pawn shops also are being filled with pianos, and in some places in the north of England pawnbrokers refuse to take any more.

FRENCH ARMY AND MILITARY TOURNAMENT.

The Minister for War in Paris has notified that the French Army will be represented at the military tournament to be held under official auspices at London's largest resort, Olympia. They will furnish the Musical Ride, and instructions have been given to the French Cavalry School to be ready to embark a cavalry detachment for the purpose.

The Ride will be given in the picturesque colours of the French cavalry, and twenty-five trumpeters will be included in the detachment to furnish the requisite music. This Musical Ride, during the thirty-six years in which the tournament has been in existence, has been given by all the most famous regiments in the British service, and the allotments of the Ride this year to our Allids is a welcome innovation.

The detachment will bring their own horses, and its members, in the case both of officers and men, will be serving soldiers in the war.

The Musical Drive will be furnished by the British Royal Horse Artillery.

REMARKABLE ESCAPE.

LONDON—Percy Silk, a boy of 10, in South Lodon, has become famous as the hero of a remarkable escape from death. He was playing by the side of the Thames when a companion gave him a playful push, and the child fell into the river. He was soon struggling in a whirlpool, and the next thing he remembers was "his head striking something hard."

What he struck was a suction pipe over 200 feet long and 8 feet in diameter, through which the water is drawn for the cooling plant of the City of London Electric Lighting Company. Through this pipe the boy was carried by the current. A man on shore noticed his disappearance, and the officials cut off the water and went to the water circulating chamber to remove the body. Removing the cover from the well, they were surprised to hear a lusty shout, and out clambered the lad, little the worse for his adventure.

HOW TO FOOL FLIES.

We can keep our houses free from flies by a very simple contrivance. This is to stretch nets of thread or string with meshes one inch wide over the window or door of a room. It is, however, absolutely necessary that the rooms to which this is applied should have the light enter by one side only. But you will say the flies could easily get through such wide meshes. Of course they could. But—and this the remarkable thing about it—they don't, and they won't!

This is not a new idea at all. In fact, it is over two thousand years old. Herodotus records that the Egyptian fishermen protected themselves from the attack of mosquitoes by spreading their fishing nets over their beds. Americans often have mosquito nets with meshes an inch square put over their beds, and find them a perfect security, though, as is well known, mosquitoes will creep through any small hole in an ordinary guaze net.

Get your net ready.

PHOTOGRAPHIC SURVEY OF LONDON.

The war has changed the aspect of London perhaps to a larger extent than any other city in the kingdom. It has occurred to the members of the London Camera Club that it is quite possible the changing needs of peace and reconstruction may soon wipe out many of the most interesting features of war-time London, and that while there is yet time they may serve a useful purpose in making a photographic survey of the capital as it now presents itself. Already I understand the idea has caught on, and the committee of the club have had numerous offers from competent photographers among their own membership and elsewhere to take part in the scheme. The idea is to divide the city up into districts, and to allot certain workers to each area. The work ought to be a record of great interest and value to future generations.

The Episcopal church proposed to be the first orthodox denomination to grant full equality to women in church affairs, provided the canon now in course of preparation is approved at the Triennial General Convention to be held in Detroit next October.

TENDERS WANTED

Sealed tenders addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Public School at Peterborough, Ontario," will be received until 12.00 o'clock noon on September 1st, 1919, for the work mentioned.

Plans and specifications can be seen and form of tender obtained on application to W. & W. R. L. Blackwell, Architects, Room 17, Bank of Commerce Building, Peterborough, Ont., or to Melvern F. Thomas, Consulting Engineer, 289 College St., Toronto, Ont.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the forms supplied, and signed with their actual signatures, stating their occupation and place of residence.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Board of Education, Peterborough, Ont., equal to 5 p.c. of the amount of the tender, which cheque will be forfeited to the Board if the tender is accepted and the person tendering fails to execute a contract to perform the work, or if he fails to complete the work contracted for. If the tender is not accepted, the cheque will be returned.

The Board of Education does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

Secretary The Board of Education,
Peterborough, Ontario. 12d28

NEXT LOAN MAY NOT BE TAX EXEMPT.

Preliminary preparations for the Dominion loan, which is to be floated in the fall are under way. Now that the war is over and financial conditions are more normal, it is regarded as probable that the loan will not be tax-exempt as was its war time predecessors. Should the Government decide to follow this course, there is little doubt that the rate of interest yield will be made quite attractive as compared with the rate at which Victory Bonds can be bought in the open market.

The tax exemption feature has added materially to the value of previous issues and was, it is believed, the means of attracting a much larger volume of subscriptions than would have been otherwise obtained. During the last two years of the war, for instance, securities of Great Britain, France and other countries could be bought in New York to yield 7 1-8 per cent.

The terms of the new loan and getting the organization together for making it a success will be one of the first problems to be taken up by the new Minister of Finance, when he is appointed.

THE LIBERAL CONVENTION.

The Liberal convenion presents an opportunity for an advance upon real Liberal lines. The country is ready for such an advance. Everywhere men and women are thinking and striving to find a way to better social conditions, to social justice, to real democracy and liberty. Under the banner of democracy and liberty our young men went forth as to a crusade. Many of them lie "in Flanders' Fields," and in McCrae's famous poem we are bidden not to break faith with them. Among those who return there is much unrest and discontent, and some of them are asking whether they are really to win the things for which they fought for themselves and for us. Farmers have organized an independent party. Labor men are striving to better their condition, some by labor legislation, some by direct action. The churches are feeling the same impulse. Men and women differ as to ways and means but the desire for progress and reform is widespread. Leadership is required to show the way.

This is the opportunity of the Liberal convention to play a real part in making Canada a country "fit for heroes to live in." If the opportunity is allowed to slip by it will be because of a besetting sin of party conventions—a desire to play safe, to avoid great issues, or merely to doff the hat in deference to principles, and pronounce upon them in a perfunctory way. Convention resolutions are too often mere platitudes—declarations made for the purpose of satisfying and quieting reformers, and then taken out of the shop window, and laid on the shelf.

A platform so constructed will not satisfy the country. There is a craving for realities, for declarations that spring out of sincere conviction, and are meant to be followed by energetic advocacy and action. The country is still full of that crusading spirit which sent nearly half a million young Canadians to France. There is not only unrest and discontent, but generous enthusiasm, waiting to be shown the cause that needs assistance and the wrong that needs resistance. Canadians have done their duty in Europe. The field of action is now Canada itself. Peace does not mean stagnation and ignoble ease but constructive effort, conflict with evil, the removal of obstacles to national progress and social justice.

Old-line politicians are apt to think too much of the mere possession of power and office and too little of the opportunities and responsibilities of power. A political party is not an end in itself. It is useful only so far as it serves the people, and makes itself an instrument of good government. A party convention will command and deserve public sympathy to the extent that it sees beyound party advantage to the public good, and enlists on its side those who are Liberal not only in name, but in love of reform, of liberty, of liberality, of broad and liberal views upon public questions. If we are to have contending parties let them contend in generous rivalry for the unity and growth of Canada and the welfare of Canadians.—The Toronto Globe.

RETAIL SERVICE.

Until the ascending cost of living laid a new and inevitable emphasis on the question of prices, service was the feature of merchandising to which retailers gave first thought. They vied with one another in the facilities and advantages they sought to provide for their customers. Prices were often a secondary consideration, for merchants realised that the public appreciated and desired the improved methods of doing business. Telephone orders, prompt motor delivery, credit accounts, careful vicarious selection of goods, courteous attendance by clerks, these and other conditions were comprehended by the new idea of service. The public generally raised that their tastes were not only catered to, but anticipated by the most progressive stores.

These conveniences remain to-day, but while appreciating them the public is more concerned about prices. Likewise, merchants still conduct their offensives to secure new trade by linking up their advertising and salesmanship with the quality of their stock. But business is on the defensive, too. For example, the Cost of Living Commission announced on Saturday that the wholesale grocers, as a class, had not taken advantage of the war to increase their earnings.

Something of the suspicion that prompted that inquiry is also felt by the public toward retailers. No doubt, of most retailers this opinion is unjustifiable, and there are signs that business men are extending their service in a new direction. To illustrate this development under present day prices, a boot retailer recently declined to re-stock certain lines because of such advances in the price that, according to the Examiner's information, they were actually dearer than the remnants he had in his store.

In other words, this merchant was convinced that the public, and his customers in particular, could not afford to buy that brand of boots at the new price, and he determined to try to replace them as advantageously as he could. This trend is probably general throughout retail business, but the public is unaware of it. It would seem wise, therefore, on the part of retailers by some means to inform the public of such service.

Publicity, however obtained, is the surest way of allaying suspicion and creating or maintaining confidence. Business men are certainly beset with difficulties peculiar to the present disturbed conditions. Wholesale grocers can easily submit their records for they are thoroughly, perhaps too thoroughly, organised; but the retailers are not so unionised, and therefore cannot defend themselves as a class. Besides, the public often overlooks the fact that the retailer is usually at the mercy of the wholesalers unless he could contrive to avoid them. If the retailer is striving under the existing system faithfully to serve the public, he would be wise to inform his customers, and thereby help to direct any criticism from the local or distributing channels to those which may deserve condemnation.

SIMPLE AS A.B.C. TRY IT TO-NIGHT FOR YOUR NERVOUSNESS

Worn out, tired in the morning, you lack the energy and ambition to work as of old. This means nerve decay—nerves that are starved for the want of good, rich blood.

It's blood nourishment that vitalizes the nerves. Your blood is thin, weak, watery. It's filled with poisons that hang on because your kidneys don't filter properly.

See here, fix up your kidneys, put new life in your liver and you'll feel like new in a short time.

To do this, you must use Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they make life look bright and pleasant because they restore harmony and vigour to the organs that need repair.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills warm the blood and fill it with nutriment that's bound to build you up, that's sure to lift your weakness, that invariably does make joyous, robust Good Health.

Think of it — youthful strength, lots of nerve force, plenty of red blood surging through your veins—isn't this reason enough for your using Dr. Hamilton's Pills? Sold in 25c boxes by all dealers.

SECRET 'DRY' AID IN BRITAIN.

LONDON. — In connection with the prohibition campaign in England, the members of Parliament who sympathize with it will conduct an energetic secret movement in Parliament to maintain the existing liquor control regulations established during the war, and especially the restricted hours of sale, says the Daily Mail.

These members are trying to persuade Premier David Lloyd George to receive a secret deputation, the newspaper asserts.

WHO ARE THE HEATHEN

Will Dispute Raises Curious Question in Case in Edinburgh.

"Who are the heathen?" was the question raised in Edinburgh Court of Session in connection with a legacy of £3,200 by Fdk. Rinouf, of Hawick, who instructed his trustees to pay out of the estate the salaries of two native missionaries, chosen by them, for preaching the gospel of Jesus Christ among the heathen. Relatives and residuary legatees of the testator maintained that the provision was void from uncertain and the direction would cover the whole non-Christian world."

Their Lordships by a majority held that the bequest was valid. Lord Salvesvesen, who differed, asked hether thew followers of Buddha and Confucius were to be included among the heathen, or only those among whom no religion existed and who worshipped idols and fetishes.

OSHAWA BOOMING.

It is estimated that about three million dollars are being expended in the erection of manufacturing plants and workingmen's homes in Oshawa. General Motors of Canada, Ltd., the Chevrolet Co., and the Oldsmobile Co. are all carrying on extensive building programmes. About 800 dwellings are in course of erection and will be completed before the snow flies. Builders from Brockville, Kingston, Port Hope, Bowmanville and Toronto have secured contracts for dwellings. It is practically impossible to secure accommodation for the workers and contractors have erected large tents and are housing and feeding the workmen in them. With the influx of population there is a lively demand for stores, and in order to retain occupancy of their premises merchants are being forced into buying. Property is being sold at city prices.

Credit System.

The credit system is one of the greatest evils that the labouring man has to contend with. It tempts him with its alluring offers, he eagerly seizes the deceptive bait, and chains himself—a slave. He can build a fine house, or build a fancy carriage, own a new piano like neighbour B.'s, by simply giving his note to be paid next year, when his crops will perhaps be better, and the desire overrules his better judgment. In an evil hour he allows the trap to be sprung upon him. With a load of interest bearing upon him he struggles on, growing fainter and fainter beneath the burden, and when the time of payment arrives he is not better able to pay the debt than he was the day it was contracted. The interest eats into his prosperity like a corroding cancer, and gradually takes everything he can earn above what is absolutely necessary for his family. The financial horizon looms up dark and threatening. An hour of adversity happens and then the crash comes. His property is sold under the hammer at less than half its value, and he is turned out upon a cold world, penniless and destitute. In many instances the shock of transition from affluence to pauperism is more than his mind can bear, and he finds relief in a suicide's grave.

Be Natural.

Heaven help the man who imagines he can dodge enemies by trying to please everybody. If such an individual ever succeeds, pass him over this way that we may have one look at his mortal remains ere he vanishes away, for surely this earth cannot be his abiding place. Now we do not infer that one should be going through this world trying to find beams to knock and thump his head against, disputing every man's opinion, fighting and elbowing and crowding all who differ from him. That, again, is another extreme. Other people have their opinions, so have you. Don't fall into the error of supposing they will respect you more for turning your coat every day, to match the colour of theirs. Wear your own clothes in spite of wind and weather, storms and sunshine. It costs the irresolute ten times the trouble to wind and shuffle and twist than it does honest manly independence to stand.

How to Be Miserable.

In the first place, if you want to be miserable, be selfish, think all the time of yourself and of your own things. Don't care for anybody else. Have no feeling for anybody but yourself. Never think of enjoying the satisfaction of seeing others happy, but rather, if you see a smiling face, be jealous lest another should enjoy what you have not. Envy everyone who is better off in any respect than yourself; think unkindly toward them and speak lightly of them. Be constantly afraid lest some one should encroach upon your rights; be watchful of it, and if anyone comes near your things, snap at him like a dog. Contend earnestly for everything that is your own, though it may not be worth a pin, for your "rights" are just as much concerned as though it were a pound of gold. Never yield a point. Be very sensitive and take everything that is said to you in playfulness, in the most serious manner. Be jealous of your friends lest they should not think enough of you; and if at any time they should seem to neglect you, put the worst construction upon their conduct you can. Thus you will keep yourself unhappy.

LORD BUYS LONELY ISLAND.

St. Kilda, a Wireless Station in Atlantic, Owned by Leverhulme.

It now appears that the part of Harris bought by Lord Leverhulme, as announced some days ago, is South Harris, which is practically an island, being connected with North Harris by a narrow isthmus only a quarter of a mile broad, says the London Telegraph. The Central News learns that the purchase price was $180,000. Included in the purchase are numerous smaller islands, said to number something like fifty, one of which is St. Kilda.

The population of St. Kilda, a lonely island in the Atlantic, some forty miles west of North Uist, is only about one hundred. It is seven miles in circumference, and has lofty, precipitous cliffs on its coasts. The island swarms with sea birds, which are killed in great numbers by the inhabitants for the feathers, and also for the oil which some species yield. The fisheries, which have hitherto been neglected, are capable of great development, and in this connection it is interesting to note that Lord Leverhulme has expressed his intention of doing everything in his power to make the fisheries of the Hebrides a source of increased revenue to the natives. The crofter inhabitants of St Kilda—all Gaelic speaking—are practical Communists, but the advantages they may thus derive are counter-balanced by destructive tempests and consequent famine, by poverty and by an absolute lack of amusements. Events in the island's "history" include the reduction of the population by smallpox to four adults and twenty-six children in 1724, and the emigration of thirty-six of the islanders to Australia in 1852. A regular school was established at St. Kilda in 1884. A mail is sent to the remote island at only very rare intervals, but of recent years it has had the distinction of being a wireless station.

BAB ENCOUNTERS NEIL AND BLANCHE LUNCHING TOGETHER.

CHAPTER XXXII.

The telephone shrilled.

"I'm coming for you to go to the museum with me. I'll be there in half an hour." Lorraine Morton's voice informed me. "There's a new picture hung that I want to see."

"I'll be delighted!" I told her, and I meant it. I knew I should be thinking of what had occurred between Neil and Mr. Scott; what had been said. Neil was determined to tell me nothing of his affairs; and so long as he refused, what was the use of making myself unhappy over them? I was convinced now that it was more because he was smarter than these other men, that they were in a sense jealous of his success, and that was the reason, and that only, why they had flung out their insinuations.

I really enjoyed the morning. Lorraine was always good company, even though she was inclined to gossip a little,—perhaps more interesting because of this! She insisted that I stay out and lunch with her. I was nothing loath, and we fixed upon Sherry's as the place where we could see more people we knew.

The head waiter, who knew us both, gave us a very nice table on the balcony, looking out upon the Avenue. We ordered and were waiting to be served, when, hearing a loud voice objecting to being given a certain table, I turned. To my surprise, the owner of the objecting voice proved to be Mr. Scott. Blanche Orton was his companion. They were finally seated to please him, but to my disappointment, where I could neither see nor hear them. I own frankly that I should have been glad to hear what they were talking of.

Why should they be together? Neil had said nothing of their knowing each other. Did he know it? If he did it was strange that he had not invited Mr. and Mrs. Orton to dinner the night before. No, I concluded he knew nothing of it. Just then I turned again toward where they were seated, and saw—Neil come in and join them?

Lorraine had not seen him. Should I tell her, or should I say nothing? I was positive that Neil had not seen us; that he would not, if I decided to go without letting him know I was there. But why should I act as if either of us were doing something we wanted to keep secret?

I called the waiter.

"Did you see Mr. Forbes, the gentleman who just sat down over at that corner table?"

"Yes, madame! I know Mr. Forbes quite well. I often wait upon him."

"Tell him, please, that his wife would like to speak to him."

The garrulous waiter immediately crossed to Neil. He looked surprised but rose and came over at once.

"Mrs. Orton has no need of two escorts, you come over here with us," I said, after he had spoken to Lorraine.

"That's impossible, much as I should enjoy it. I can't even ask you and Lorraine to join us. We are talking business to-day."

For the first time I noticed that he had an anxious look; the lines in his face were unusually prominent.

"But I thought you had finished with Mr. Scott!" I would not mention Blanche.

"Not by a good deal. He was told something this morning that seems to have upset him considerably. It is up to me to undo the mischief. Excuse me now, I must run back."

Lorraine told him to run along and be a good little boy and not flirt with Blanche Orton. I added: "Be sure you remember."

But while we ate, only one thing occupied my thoughts:

Why was Blanche Orton with them?

ARE MODERN GIRLS UNGRACEFUL? MOST OF THEM ARE

DECLARES ENGLISH WRITER, WHO BLAMES NARROW SKIRTS AND HIGH HEELS FOR PREVAILING "WOBBLE."

"Have you ever noticed how few women, that is townswomen, look graceful when they run to catch a bus or a train?" asks a London writer. So general, indeed, is this lack of grace that the occasional sight of a woman running without awkwardness or "wobbling" from side to side is quite attractive. The other morning, for instance, I saw a girl running to catch up to a friend, and her easy, swinging movement from the hips was so delightful to watch that I was sorry when her short run came to an end.

The present tight-skirt fashion is, of course, largely responsible for the awkward gait one sees so often, for it is hardly possible to run gracefully in a skirt that restricts even one's walking movements. A girl who wears a skirt that permits only of short mincing steps in walking looks perfectly ridiculous when she tries to run. Heels that are too high also prevent graceful movements, even in walking, for by throwing the body forward they give a wrong poise, and cause the wearer to tread too much on the forepart of the foot. In walking the heels should touch the ground first.

But the frame of mind that some women cultivate is also prejudicial to grace. "Young girls up to about fourteen years of age are usually delightfully easy in their movements," said a teacher of gymnastics, "but when they put up their hair and wear fashionable clothes they adopt a proud sort of attitude that is not becoming, and this is particularly noticeable when they do not know, or choose to forget, the principles of walking or running. An athletic girl, in the way she stands, walks or runs, is usually to be admired for her grace and freedom of movement and good carriage if she does not generally follow hampering fashions too closely—whereas a townswoman, or one who allows modern ideas and mothern clothes to impair her movements, often stands badly, adopting an affected, possibly stooping, pose that is decidedly ugly, and walks and runs in a way that is either too dignified or silly.

"I would not say that all sports girls are graceful. No, for some are inclined to exaggeration. The upright, swinging movement of the hockey girls is correct, but when she walks with those long steps that are known by the term 'the hockey stride,' she overdoes it and so loses grace."

"What a noisy person that is overhead! She doesn't know how to walk." That is a very usual remark among flat-dwellers. A noisy tread, however, does not necessarily imply ignorance in the art of walking, but rather vitality. An energetic person is often the most noisy, because he, or she, feels alert, and the liveliness is expressed in a certainty and firmness of tread. But every noisy person is not energetic. A heavy tread is sometimes due to lasiness, and then it is caused by bringing the flat part of the foot first on the ground.

In running only the toe of the foot should touch the ground, and the body should swing from the hips. There are three forms of running—for racing purposes, for exercise, and for pleasure or on occasion. When racing there should be a swinging-from-side-to-side movement of the arms that impels the body forward. In exercise running, which does not aim at speed, the toe presses the ground and draws somewhat backwards and forwards in a line with the hips, and never further back than the body. When running for pleasure, the movements should be on the lines of those for exercise running, but in a simplified form.

When next one tries to catch that elusive bus or car, instead of being self-conscious, and hoping "nobody is watching," would it not be as well to think of the principles that will help you to run gracefully?

TELLS HOW DENIKEN HAS DEFEATED REDS

NEW YORK.—This is the story of General A. I. Denikine, with Admiral Kolchak the foremost of the Russian military leaders now fighting to rid Russia of the curse of Bolshevism.

General Denikine has figured much in the news of the last few weeks, because of the victorious advance of his armies in Southern Russia, an advance destined, in the opinion of loyal Russians, finally to link up the Denikine forces with those of Kolchak, which will mean an unbroken front against the "Red" menace in all Eastern Russia. The story of Denikine is told by Prof. N. A. Borodin, now in New York as the representative of the Ministry of Agriculture of the Omsk, or Kolchak Government.

"After the Bolsheviki took possession of Moscow and of all the reins of government — the army, the telegraph, the railroads, and the treasury —it became clear to every patriot," said Prof. Borodin, "that the first prerequisite for waging a successful fight against them was the formation of an armed force.

"In December, 1917, there arrived on the Don, after escaping from prison, General Kornilov, to whom General Alexeiev transferred the command of the voluntary army — the army which later achieved wonderful feats of heroism, and laid a solid foundation for the anti-Bolshevist rule throughout Northern Caucasus.

"The leaders did not live to see the results of their sacrifices. Some died in the fight — among them Kornilov himself—and others expired from the hardships and sufferings of the campaign, including the old General Alexeiev. The leadership of the entire voluntary army thereupon went over to one of the closest aides of General Kornilov — General A. I. Denikine. His troops already possess all Southern Russia, have joined on the Volga the left wing of Kolchak's army (the Ural Cossacks) and are feeling their way toward Moscow.

"Who is Denikine? He is described briefly in a book on the Kornilov campaign written by A. Suvorin. In this, the writer says:

"'Of medium height, strong and well-s[illegible] he is as calm and direct as a Little Russian and his lively, bright eyes leave a lasting impression. Such is the outward portrait of Denikine. He gained particular renown at the time of the Brusilov blow, in the spring of 1916, when the sharpshooters of his division in the Volhyn broke through the front of the Austrian positions and occupied a few days later the City of Lutzk.

"'Only luck and his personal star saved Denikine and his staff, upon leaving Berdichev, where everything was set for their massacre by soldiers. The mobs did not dare. The closing words of the Stavropol speech of Denikine, at that time Commander-in-Chief of the volunteer army, reflect fully the soul of this strong, brave Russian:

"'"There will come a day when the cup of Russia's patience will become filled to its brim, when from end to end of the Russian land there will ring the ancient chimes in indignation and in a clarion call to the great combat. Then the ranks of all of our armies, of the voluntary, of the Siberian, and of the Constituent Assembly forces, will close together. The great and the small streams will merge together in one Russian sea, in a stormy, mighty ocean that will sweep away all the impurity which has settled upon the wounded and bruised body of our motherland."'

"The most characteristic act of this man is his latest declaration, in the midst of his successes, that he recognises the rule of the All-Russian Government of Kolchak. This surrender of his own will and the sacrifice of his own fame to the general cause does honor and yields genuine renown to the hero of Southern Russia.

"Through the joint efforts of the military leaders of the anti-Bolshevist forces, General Denikine in the south, Admiral Kolchak in the east, and General Youdenich, who recently reappeared in the west, near Petrograd, the Russian patriots are assured that Petrograd and Moscow will be taken during the summer, the Bolsheviki will be defeated, and together with them will be ended the 'Soviet' regime.

"General Youdenich, with whose name is connected the anticipated occupation of Petrograd, is one of the ablest fighting generals of the Russian Army. He commanded the Russian Army on the Caucasus - Turkish front, and his troops captured Trebisond, Erzerum and Van.

"With our military forces in the hands of such generals we may confidently anticipate success, provided our allies aid them with military supplies."

A SAILOR PRINCE.

Their Majesties' youngest surviving son, Prince George, is now completing his course as a cadet at the Senior Division of the Royal Naval College at Dartmouth, and it is intended that he shall adopt the Royal Navy as his career. As soon as his present training comes to an end the young Prince — who will be seventeen in December next—is to go for a lengthy trip on board a training cruiser, and will be absent from this country for about a year. Upon his return he will be gazetted to the rank of midshipman, and will then start in earnest. He has a very great liking for the sea, and is extremely pleased at his father's decision to allow him to enter the Service.

DREAMS OF SHELL-SHOCKED PROVIDE CLUE TO CURE.

Cases of shell-shock and spent nerves are being treated by an officer of the British medical corps through study of the patient's dreams. The afflicted man is persuaded to relate the features of any nightmares or other dreams, concentrating particularly upon the emotional recollections. The observant physician is able to identify, by the expression of the subject and sometimes by symptoms of sleep, the exact nature of the disturbing vision, and thereby to adopt means to combat its influence.—Popular Mechanics.

THE HOW AND WHY OF FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

The foreign exchange market at the present time has been more disturbed by conditions growing directly out of the war than any other phase of business, and will in all probability be the last to return to normal. If you pick up the financial page of your newspaper you will find London exchange quoted at $4.64 or thereabouts to the pound, francs at 6.42 to the dollar, and lire at about 7.00 to the dollar.

This represents a state of affairs that before the war was absolutely inconceivable, for any length of time. Up to 1914 a rise or fall of the pound to $4.84 or $4.86 would be enough to cause a commotion, as the exchange markets were run on the closest of margins, going up or down by sixteenths of a point at a time. Now the exchange market is a wide-open speculative affair, going up or down in huge waves, like stock prices on an active day.

It is obvious that the "pounds," "francs," and "lire" quoted at those abnormal prices are not the actual gold pounds, francs or lire. There is just as much gold in a pound sterling as there ever was. What these transactions represent is not gold, but commercial paper, called "bills of exchange," and representing a right to draw on a foreign bank to a specified amout in some foreign currency. # SIR DOUGLAS HAIG TELLS THE COMMONS THAT WOUNDED SOLDIERS AND CHILDREN ARE STARVING

NOT ONLY ARE PENSIONS PAID SHAMELESSLY INADEQUATE, BUT EVEN THE DOLES AVAILABLE ARE DELAYED BY DEPARTMENTAL DULL-HEADEDNESS AND HEARTLESSNESS.

RED TAPE TO BLAME

Utter and shameful inadequacy of pensions being paid to British soldiers and officers who have served in the great war, and terrible poverty due to the "red tape" officialdom, were summed up in charge, by Sir Douglas Haig himself, with many actual instances to back up his words, before the Select Committee on Pensions in the British House of Commons.

Sir Douglas Haig reminded the committee that the nation was expected to celebrate peace. "How," he asked, "can the nation be expected to rejoice when those who have given their all in the struggle are in such a state of want as many of them are proved to be? No man should suffer because he has served his country. My desire is to get the best possible terms for every man. You surely do not want to pauperize any man who has risked his life on the field of battle. You want to be generous."

Sir John Butcher—And just.

Sir Douglas Haig—Yes, and just.

A Plain Statement.

Sir Douglas Haig handed in a statement of evidence which was as follows:—

In the late summer of 1918 I was appalled by the evidence received as to the methods of the State to provide for the disabled. Not only were the cases which were dealt with by the Disabled Officers' Fund brought to my notice, but also daily I received letters from all parts of the United Kingdom with the same piteous appeal. Since then matters have been in some degree improved, but not so far as the officers are concerned. I hold strongly that it is the duty of the State to provide for those who have suffered in the great war, but I am quite prepared to admit that there may be small gaps which must be filled by voluntary effort. The strain thrown on the charitable institutions, and the high pressure at which they are forced to work, are sufficient condemnation of the Governmental methods and proof of the inadequacy of State pensions.

Should Link Effort.

In the first place I wish to call your attention to the action of a single authority to co-ordinate and advise the three Ministries — War, Pensions and Labor—who are affected. The necessity was forseen in the spring of 1915, when Sir G. Murray's committee recommended that "for the discharge of those duties (that is, those connected with the care of the sailors and soldiers disabled in the war) a Central Committee should be appointed and empowered to act, either through the agency of the public department or independently, as the case may require." Its necessity was again brought to notice in the autumn of 1918, when a conference was summoned by the Ministries of the Admiralty War and Air to co-ordinate, advise, and supervise, as well as to promote comradeship and mutual help among those who had served in the war. Nothing, however, has been done, and the result is that, on discharge, officers are in many cases left penniless.

There is no chain of responsibility. The War Office should not discharge the man until the Ministry of Pensions can take him over. The Ministry of Pensions should then assume responsibility until the Ministry of Labor notifies its readiness to accept him.

Ignorant Medical Boards.

Secondly, I would call attention to the Medical Boards. In some cases the members of the boards are ignorant of the actual disease suffered. In others they are lacking in all sympathy and generosity. There is no uniformity in their decisions, and some treat every wretched individual who appears before them as a malingerer.

I strongly advise the appointment of a selected combatant officer to act as assessor, so as to produce some confidence in the decision. Again, in some cases the disability is re-assessed at the Ministry of Pensions to the individual's disadvantage. That this should be done without the individual being seen or heard is contrary to all ideas of British justice.

Thirdly, the action of the War Office, in putting officers on insufficient half-pay can only be described as inhuman. One instance will suffice. An officer, commission, 29-12-14; previous service, 10 years in ranks his 1914 Star, the Medaille Militaire, long service and good conduct medal, wished to be gazetted out so as to obtain a gratuity; was placed on half-pay on account of ill-health due to service, 28-1-19, but on March 25, 1919, had not received any half-pay and is very ill. The result is that a disabled officer, with 23 years total service, married, with one child, has to live on a daily income of 5s.

"Red Tape."

Fourthly, delays in the Government departments produce much hardship and distress:—(a) Delay in awarding the wound pension, and in its renewal; (b) delay in awarding the service gratuity; (c) delay in the assessment of disability retired pay, often owing to non-receipt of papers from the Air Ministry or War Office; (d) delay in obtaining a temporary grant from the Special Grants Committee; (e) delay in obtaining a grant from the Civil Liabilities Commission owing to strict adherence to inelastic conditions; and (f) delay in the completion of training arrangements by the Ministry of Labor.

Families in Abject Poverty.

Fifthly, I strongly advocate a more general provision for the wives and children of officers and men, and also for the education of their children. On their present allowance families live in abject poverty, and the widows are unable to give a proper education to their children.

Sixthly, the total disability rates for both officers and men are inadequate. Cases are brought to my notice of which officers drawing the maximum rate are in a state of abject poverty. In the case of other ranks, the flat rate of 27s 6d with the 20 per cent bonus places the disabled man at a pecuniary disadvantage compared with his neighbors. The weekly allowances should be increased to at least 40s.

Scandalous Treatment.

Seventhly, I would urge a more generous and sympathetic treatment to all who suffer from gas poisoning, shell shock and neurasthenia. It is admitted that their suitable treatment is no easy matter. Employers are shy of giving them appointments. The many piteous appeals brought to my notice cry for an immediate reform in the method of treatment.

Eighthly, the attitude of trade unions.

Ninthly, I cannot close my evidence without calling attention to the scandalous treatment of those who had earned pre-war pensions. Many of them served in the present war. The wretched pittance received for a lifelong service is a disgrace to a civilized state. I wish to say my tribute to the courtesy and sympathetic attitude of the present Ministry of Pensions, and of the excellent work of the Officers' Friend.

Need More Generosity.

The decentralization of the ministry's work is a step forward, and I urge that a representative of the Officers' Friend be attached to each centre. There is at present, no official outside London, who can give sympathetic advice and assistance to officers. To sum up, on behalf of those who have suffered in the country's cause, and especially on behalf of their wives and children, I appeal for:—

(1) A greater generosity on the part of the state.

(2) A single authority to co-ordinate the work of the Ministers; and

(3) An improvement in the machinery that has been set up and is now working, laboriously, no doubt, but too slowly, and in many cases unsympathetically.

Sir Douglas Haig said that the appeal be referred to first of all was appeal referred to first of all was many cases of officers who were absolutely starving. He added that on June 20 last he had a letter from the secretary of the fund showing the classes of appeal which they had had in the course of one morning. They were typical of what officers had to put up with under the present regime.

The first case was that of a captain, 19 years' Territorial service, mobilized in August, 1914, and demobilized in April 1919. He was shot through the thigh, and walked with pain and difficulty. He was married, with five boys; received no wound gratuity; service gratuity was paid, but no pension. Either the War Office was holding up his papers, or the Ministry of Pensions were neglecting his case. Probably the former. By this delay he was unable to get children's allowance or an allowance against his pension. He had employment but could only get about at considerable expense.

The second case was that of an engineer of the Royal Naval Reserve, who had come from Western America to serve, and had five years' commissioned service. He was invalided out in June, 1919. He was married, with two boys, (one ill). He had no pensions, as the papers had not yet arrived at the Ministry of Pensions. He had been without funds since June 13. A Government department was holding up that to which he was entitled.

The third case was that of a second lieutenant, suffering from tuberculosis and in a sanitorium. He had a pension of £175, minus 4s 6d per day, which brought it down to £93. It was impossible on this to provide for the family. He was probably entitled to a grant from the Special Branch Fund. "But surely," wrote the secretary, "it was the duty of the Government department to bring this fact to his notice. It was a typical case of utter inadequacy of the pension for total disablement, and the neglect of a Government department to inform people of what they were entitled to."

Starved to Death.

Incidentally, it was added, the service gratuity had not been received, and the officer also appeared to be entitled to children's allowance. Of this, of course, he was not notified. However, his little boy had just died, probably from starvation, so this would save the Government £24 a year.

Sir Douglas Haig remarked that he could give the committee a whole file of these cases.

He cited several others showing deserving men to be in absolute destitution through ill-administration.

Sir Douglas Haig, after further comment and statements of actual cases, read from a letter by the secretary of the Pensions' Fund, furnishing the instances as follows:—

"Pensions must be at least double for the totally disabled, and very much higher than now all round. I do not believe that things are any better than they were, nor does there appear to be any effort to improve things, while the cost of living is going up all the time. Perhaps if charity refused to do the work of Government departments any longer, and published their correspondence, it might bring things to a climax."

"That is the opinion of the secretary," Sir Douglas Haig said, "and I am sorry to say from the evidence before me it appears to be true."

Haig's Remedy.

Asked if his idea for improving the state of affairs was that it would be desirable to have an independent tribunal for an appeal in regard to the amount of the pensions granted. Sir Douglas said, "Yes." I think an appeal tribunal independent of the Pensions Board would restore confidence."

Dealing with what he describes as "the hostility of trade unions to train disabled men in obtaining employment," Sir Douglas Haig cited the case of a man who was trained in a technical school, and at the end of the training received a certificate. He obtained an offer of employment in a district but the Boilermakers' Union objected to his going into the works.

"Why should we allow the question of trade unionism to prevent a man obtaining a situation when he can get it, and is qualified?" indignantly asked Sir Douglas. "This man had been trained in a Government school, and had his certificate. The trade union ought to have allowed the firm to employ him."

The chairman said that he did not think this was hostility. It was reasonable trade union regulation.

Sir Douglas Haig—"The Government train disabled men. They turn them out with a certificate of efficiency and though a man get an appointment he is unable to take the place in the works because the trade union objects."

The chairman said that he did not mittee would try to investigate.

Sir Montague Barlow, M.P., presided, and the chairman expressed to Sir Douglas the appreciation of the committee for his kindness in coming to assist ther deliberations by giving evidence.

CANADIAN CATTLE PLEASES BELGIUM

FIRST CONSIGNMENT GIVES GREAT SATISFACTION TO BELGIAN GOVERNMENT,

OTTAWA, Aug. 4.— The first consignment of Canadian live stock bought by the ministere du travillement of Belgium, has aroused great satisfaction on the part of the Belgian government, according to advices received by Sir Robert Borden from Philippe Roy, Canadian commissioner general at Paris.

"I am glad to be able to inform you," Mr. Roy writes, "that the quality and the good state in which the live stock arrived gave the greatest satisfaction to the government of Belgium. Indeed they gave the proof of their appreciation by increasing, the next morning, their orders for Canadian live stock.

"All the Belgian newspapers gave a most favourable account of this first Belgian-Canadian transaction made since the war has ended, and we have the right to hope for the best results as a consequence."

GREAT CLOTHIER HAS SPENT $5,000,000 IN ADVERTISING

A young man started a small men's clothing store in a Middle-Western city. He had a capital of $12,000 and borrowed $9,000 more. He also had ideas and nerve. Before he opened his door he had invested $5,000 in newspaper advertising.

To-day, thirty-two years later, he is reputed to do the largest retail men's clothing business of the world, and his store—The Hub, Chicago—has a nation-wide reputation as a leader. In those thirty-two years he has spent $5,000,000 in newspaper advertising.

Speaking of the part newspaper advertising played in his success, the other day, this man said:

"It may seem strange, but the people believe what they read in the newspapers. That's what makes advertising in the newspapers so valuable. I have always made it a point to state the truth exactly, never to exagerate. I would rather have the customer a little surprised when he looked at the goods than a little disappointed.

"I've tried advertising on billboards, in street cars, in magazines and pamphlets, in novelties. I once sent up a flock of balloons with letters tied to them, and prizes—$500, $100 and other awards—to the finders.

"I stuck up sign posts all over the city. Well, some of them went for kindling wood; some were torn down by the city. I tried many other ways of advertising—but the newspapers proved by all means the best, and I kept everlastingly at it. Advertising is to the building up of a business what steam is to commerce.'

SMOKY PITTSBURG

"Have you ever tried any smoke-abating devices in your town?" asked the New Yorker.

"Sure thing!" replied the Pittsburg man. "The cigar stores did once stop giving out coupons."

August Sale of Furniture and Rugs

All articles will be promptly delivered to you and in case of out-of-town buyers who reside in Peterborough County we will deliver any purchase of twenty-five dollars or over. We render this service not only during the August Furniture Sale, but all year. Our furniture trade has increased to such an extent that we have placed a new furniture truck at the disposal of this department.

HISTORY repeats itself. Once more we are holding the August Sale of Furniture. But this year it is a bigger and better sale. Not only larger assortments of better furniture but greater sales; because the furniture that has gone before it is serving as a better advertisement than we could write of what our August Sale means. We could tell you the old story of higher prices and of our purchases before the advance. It would be true enough but we will leave it to you to judge. Our one desire is that you inspect the sale offerings for we know that you will appreciate the values. In our main show window on George St. will be displayed some of the pieces described in this advertisement. All the sale items are not mentioned here; there are only a few. So if you have a furniture need, visit our department and we will fill it satisfactorily at the minimum cost.

REV. CANON J. C. DAVIDSON ADDRESSED A LARGELY ATTENDED PUBLIC MEETING

"CANADA IN WAR AND PEACE" FORMED THE SUBJECT OF THE SPEAKER'S REMARKS.

Last Friday an open-air Patriotic meeting was held in front of the Town Hall, Apsley, addressed by Rev. Canon Davidson, who has been assisting Rev. Mr. Spence during part of this week. There was a large audience many coming from a considerable distance. Several patriotic songs and hymns were sung.

The speaker took as his subject "Canada in War and Peace". He began by referring to the splendid services rendered by Apsley soldiers in the 93rd Battalion and how well they were supported by the workers at home. Few districts in Canada had other more men proportionately or suffered more casualties, some 23 gallant men having been killed. It was a high honour to the district. After dealing with the sacrifices made for Canada and the Empire in the war, Canon Davidson said that similar efforts were to-day called for in this critical period of reconstruction.

Greater Production

Greater production in all lines was urgently needed. The country needed more wool, hides, butter, eggs, etc., the scarcity of which was raising the cost of living to an intolerable degree. Let Apsley people do their part in this. We had a heavy national debt and every loyal citizen should work hard to help pay it. Large healthy families of well trained children were perhaps Canada's greatest need and he honoured those who were rearing them. Another call of country was for greater unity. We ought to be far more closely united and to cultivate a community spirit with realization of duties to the community and state.

Our churches must come closer together and find common grounds of union so that they might unite our people instead of separating them. We must learn to be tolerant and broad-minded.

In conclusion the speaker urged that people should call themselves Canadians and work together as Canadians. A Canadian was not necessarily born in Canada but one who imbibed the Canadian spirit, worked for this country helped to develop it and made it his own. We could do this without any reflection on England or the Empire. Indeed by developing herself on her own distinctive lines Canada could make the most valuable and appreciated contribution to the Empire.

A hearty round of cheering expressed the feelings of the audience as Canon Davidson concluded his address.

Rev. C. A. S. Spence, the Chairman said the whole audience appreciated the sentiments uttered and everyone would be stimulated to better and bigger things. Rev. Mr. Beck the Methodist minister then led in the Lord's Prayer and pronounced the benediction after which refreshments were served in the Town Hall. The Ice Cream being the gift of Mrs. Jones, who had lost two fine sons in the war.

REDECORATING THE LOCAL Y.M.C.A.

The re-modelling of the Y.M.C.A. is going forward rapidly, and the officials hope to re-open the building this week. Several changes are being made, among them the converting of the boys' parlour into a men's reading room and the boys' department office into a general office. The general office is to be used as a private office.

The lobby and all rooms on the first floor are being re-decorated, also the plunge and locker room. The outside of the building will be repainted in the near future.

The moving of the general office will make supervision of the main floor by the officials much easier because of its central location.

Of late there has been some unfavourable comment concerning the decorations of the "Y," but when the present re-modelling is finished there should be little cause for such comment.

THE MEMBERS OF THE ROYAL BLACK PRECEPTORY ATTEND TRINITY CHURCH

ORANGEMEN MET AT VICTORIA HALL AND PARADED TO THE CHURCH—REV. F. E. MALOTT ADDRESSED THE GATHERING

Last evening the annual church parade of the Royal Black Preceptory, No. 261, augmented by visiting Sir Knights from all parts of the district, was held to Trinity church. About 180 Orangemen attended.

The pastor, Rev. F. E. Malott, chose as his subject, "Protestantism in the Twentieth Century," taking as his text, Galatians, 5:1: "Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ has made us free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage."

The speaker then went on to compare the Protestant and Roman Catholic churches. They are not two different religions, merely two different methods. The Roman Catholic method is authoritative and repressive, the Protestant method gives each man freedom of conscience. Protestantism is the "assertion of true individuality," founded on the Scriptural principle, "Ye shall know the truth."

Not Enough.

Continuing, he said that Protestantism is essentially critical, and hence should not be satisfied with itself. In the past four hundred years it has done much, but even yet it has not done enough. It has overthrown the medieval idea of supreme government vested in rulers and supreme ecclesiastical authority vested in the Pope by awakening men to the fact that each man is entitled to personal liberty. Luther has been called "the unconscious herald of democracy."

It has led to intellectual, as well as political and religious awakening. It is a significant fact that the early reformers were practically all university professors. It might even be stated that the renaissance was an outgrowth of the Protestant movement. Changes in the Roman Catholic church itself may be traced to the Protestant movement. Erasmus said that the reformers turned back culture, but culture is a secondary part of a man's nature.

Political Force."

Turning to present day conditions, Mr. Malott went on to say that there is much enthusiasm for Protestantism where there is little for Christianity. There is a tendency to regard Protestantism as a political, rather than a religious force. The only remedy for this is the Bible. In the days of Elizabeth is was said that England was a country of one book, the Bible. It would be better for us if such were the case to-day. Protestantism must not shirk social reform and we must learn that in working out our salvation we must be concerned for the great familyof God, regardless of race. If we settle the question of man's relation to God we have gone nine-tenths of the way toward attaining Protestantism's ideal.

The speaker concluded by commenting on the great work of the Orange Order, remarking that it has always been loyal to the traditions of the Empire and of Protestantism.

FURNITURE PRICES MAY REMAIN HIGH

BIG INCREASES IN ALL LINES—OPINION OF LOCAL DEALER.

A local furniture dealer stated this morning that at present furniture prices are extremely high, and that in all probability they will remain so. This is caused partly by the scarcity of lumber. The demand for lumber, and the large quantities of it being exported have led to advances in price of 100 to 180 p.c. Furniture prices have also been greatly influenced by the increased wages of furniture makers. Prior to the war furniture makers' wages were very low, almost insufficient to meet the cost of living, but with the inauguration of a new policy by the factories, wages have been raised and prices increased proportionately. The high prices, however, seem to have had little effect on sales.

SHIPS WHICH FAIL TO RETURN

"Chamber of Horrors" in London, of Which the World at Large Knows Nothing.

In the very heart of the city of London there is a "chamber of horrors" which none but the privileged may enter, and of which the world at large knows nothing says Pearson's Weekly.

There is nothing at all gruesome in the aspect of this chamber, which is, in fact, a small, cheerful room leading out of the great hall of Lloyd's, and on walls of which is an array of flimsies, yellow and brown.

It is in these innocent-looking pieces of paper that the latent tragedy lies, for they tell of ships missing and lost, and each telegram has quite a tragic importance to some of the 500 underwriters who haunt the room.

Whenever a ship leaves a port she is insured by her owners at Lloyd's against loss or damage to herself or her cargo; and this risk is divided among a number of underwriters, who insure her for certain sums ranging from £100 to thousands of pounds, in return for a premium.

Huge Gambles.

A slip is passed round from one underwriter to another, and on the [illegible] supplied as to the destination, cargo and class of the [illegible] the names of her owners and captain, the insurance required and its rate, each underwriter puts down on the slip the sum for which he is prepared to make himself responsible in case of loss or damage.

The limit is entirely at the discretion of the underwriter, and there have been cases in which a man has ventured £50,000, and even £100,000, on the safe voyage of a vessel.

When she is overdue the anxiety of thousands on a stake so full of uncertainty as the safety of a ship, which naturally encounters so many dangers, her voyage is a matter of daily anxiety to him until she reaches her destination.

When she is overdue the anxiety of the underwriter increases, and each day that passes without the ship's arrival at her destination being reported adds to it. He begins to see the wisdom of reducing his risk by "hedging," and at this stage the "doctor," as he is called at Lloyd's, comes on the scene.

"Doctor" Deals in Risks.

The "doctor" is a man who deals in overdue risks, and for an increased premium is willing to take the original underwriter's responsibility on his own shoulders.

Where the original premium was, says, 25s. per cent., the "doctor" demands five guineas—or, as the risk increases through the continued non-arrival of the overdue ship, ten, twenty, fifty, or more guineas for each £100 insured.

In some cases an underwriter has paid as much as seventy and ninety guineas per cent. to reinsure an overdue vessel, which has turned up safely after all, to his chagrin and the "doctor's" great jubilation.

It is thus easy to see with what trepidation a man who has staked a large sum on an overdue vessel must enter the "chamber of horrors," dreading day by day to see the fatal announcement that must mean a heavy loss, and may mean absolute ruin to him.

GROW WHEAT IN ALASKA

Farmer Satisfied With Experiment Last Year Now Has 12 Acres

Already P. J. Rickert is looking forward to eating bread next winter made from wheat grown on his own farm, says the Alaska Citizen. He has twelve acres of this grain sprouting and the stand is excellent.

The wheat was planted on May 6, but shortly after it was put into the ground a severe cold spell came along, which retarded its growth. The result of this was to set it back, and instead of showing above the ground in five days, as usual, it took thirteen days.

Last year Mr. Rickert planted a single acre in wheat more as an experiment than anything else. He was so impressed with the yield and quality of the harvest that he increased his acreage this year twelve-fold. Other farmers are doing likewise and more wheat will be grown by local farmers this year than ever before.

TENDER GUMS —A WARNING

Beware of gum tenderness that warns of Pyorrhea. Four out of five people over forty have Pyorrhea—many under forty also. Loosening teeth indicate Pyorrhea. Bleeding gums, too. Remember—these inflamed, bleeding gums act as so many doorways for disease germs to enter the system—infecting the joints or tonsils—or causing other ailments.

Forhan's positively prevents Pyorrhea, if used in time and used consistently. As it hardens the gums the teeth become firmer.

Brush your teeth with Forhan's. It cleans the teeth scientifically—keeps them white and clean.

If gum shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

BREAD DIFFERENT AS COULD BE

VARIOUS NATIONALITIES EMPLOY VERY DIFFERENT METHODS—DIFFERENT TASTE.

How Some Unassimilated Immigrants Keep up Old Customs.

It may long have been your pet hobby to vary your diet by varying your bread, says Clara Winlow in the Los Angeles Times. You may feel almost over familiar with that offered by your baker; whole wheat graham rye, raisin and varieties of wheaten loaves that are similar. You may some times complainingly ask whether there isn't something different, quite different.

Now if you'll only take the trouble to go gallivanting around the city I'll warrant you to get a taste of somthing that's real bread, but "as different as different can be." Let us visit the Armenian quarter.

Two dark-skinned, black-eyed Armenian women are in the backyard engaged in burying a big sewer pipe, standing upright, half way in the ground. This pipe is really a stove, the only kind of stove used by the Armenians of Los Angeles for baking. It is a stove, too, with which they have no faults to find.

A big wood fire is made inside of this stove pipe or pipe stove, and while the pipe is heating, you accompany the younger of the women into the house for the weaten dough. This she kneads, and when ready takes out of doors. The older and more experienced breadmaker has already squatted on the ground next to the pipe.

How Flat Loaves are Made.

The younger sits down not far away, and breaking off a piece of the dough, throws it dexterously to the baker. The latter pats it and then begins whirling it and stretching it evenly with very quick motions until it looks like a piece of round paper. She then throws it in a convex cushion which is kept for this sole purpose. Dipping her fingers into cold water, she wets the edges and then taking up the cushion, slaps the dough on the pipe where the wet edges adhere.

While the bread bakes, a new piece of dough is handled and rests on the cushion until its turn for the fire comes. When the cakes are done they are piled one on top of another, and when the baking is completed, they are carried to a shed in the back yard where the children have free access to them whenever hungry.

Less than three blocks away, another kind of baking is in preparation. A pleasant-faced Russian Molokon woman, all in spotless whitet except for a black lace scarf over her head, explains the process.

Using Bricks for Baking.

The oven here is a more complicated affair than the one we have left. It is in a shed in the back yard, half way between a front and a rear cottage. It is made of bricks, covered with cement. Back of the chimney, which is in front, is a big round oven. A wood fire has been made in this oven and its sides are red hot. It is time to rake out the coals and mop the floor of the oven, both of which the Molokan woman manages to do without soiling her snowy white garments.

Three large round wheaten loaves, raised with compressed yeast, are brought out and placed on the clean floor of the oven. Its tin door is closed and the coals which were raked out are piled around it. In three-quarters of an hour the loaves will be ready.

Our next visit is to the home of a Greek candy manufacturer. There is no baking going on, but we are offered slices of a delicious white bread, which we are told was baked in an oven similar to the Russian one. Greek cheese, made of sheep's milk, is served with the bread.

We meet a Japanese friend, who disappoints us by telling us that the Japanese do not eat bread, rice taking its place. "What about rice waffles?" we ask with a glimmer of hope. The Japanese smiles and politely regrets that "these are served with the regular meals; that they are most for the children."

Hospitality of the Mexicans.

We saunter—for hurrying would never do here—to a low adobe house in "Spanish Town," and are ceremoniously ushered within by a dignified wrinkled Mexican woman, who may be a hundred years old. She quickly calls out something in her musical tongue to her grandmother in the kitchen.

We know what it was when the latter enters a quarter of an hour later with cups of chocolate sweetened with sugar and cinnamon, and bread of three kinds. There are round, flat sweetened loaves, called pan corrients and pan fino, but not unlike ours in appearance, and twisted cakes, the last two with a nice orange cinnamon flavor. None of these was baked at home, but came from a bakery near the Plaza, that caters to Mexican trade. They are served only with chocolate and coffee, for tortillas, a kind of pancake, always freshly made, take the place of bread at regular meals.

Montenegrins Make Rich Bread

At a Montenegrin home a delicious cake-like bread is offered us. It is made rich with eggs, butter and milk. In the beautiful home of a Dalmatian restaurant keeper, a half loaf of similar bread, but shortened with olive oil that came all the way from Dalmatia before the war, is given us to take home.

We share supper that same day with a Czecho-Slovak family, at which real home-made rye bread occupies a prominent place on the dinner table. It is deliciously moist, and yet light, so that it will keep a week or more. Much depends on the proper kneading of this, we are told.

We have another treat when we are taken into the pantry of a Swedish home and are shown a fine array of flat wheaten loaves, others of sweetened raisin rye bread, and what seems the most peculiar of all the kinds of bread we have come across, a dark, reddish-brown loaf made with ox-blood.

If Heat Causes Wrinkles to Form, Try This

It the heat tends to loosen and wrinkle your skin there's an effective and harmless remedy you can readily make at home. Just let an ounce of pure powdered saxolite dissolve in a half pint of witch hazel and bathe your face in the liquid. This at once tightens the skin and smooths out the lines, making the cuticle and underlying tissues much firmer. The ingredients of course can be obtained from any druggist.

The saxolite lotion is splendid for flabby cheeks or chin as well as for enlarged pores. It makes a tired, wilted face more refreshed and youthful looking.

EMBARRASSMENT AND THE LAWYER

Watson is a young barrister who is feeling rather pleased with himself. I confess that he has deserved it.

The situation was as follows. Before the war, he had had no briefs, but had always had a conscience. A hopeless state of affairs. Then he went to the war and shed his conscience somewhere in the Balkans. So far so good. But, when he was demobilized and began to take stock of what had been happening at home in the meanwhile, he found to his horror, that a conscience had again been thrust upon him by the General Council of the Bar.

Such was the situation he had to face, and he has won through.

How, you ask, did the G. C. B. play this trick for him? It happened in this way. Having nothing better to do during Watson's absence, and at a critical moment of the war, these idle, elderly, well-fed lawyers solemnly deliberated upon the following fantastic problem:

"What is the duty of counsel who is defending a prisoner on a plea of 'Not Guilty,' when the prisoner confesses to counsel that he did commit the offence charged?"

With a cynical disregard for their own past, these sophists propounded the following answer:

"If the confession has been made before the proceedings have been commenced it is most undesirable that an advocate to whom the confession has been made should undertake the defence as he would most certainly be seriously embarrassed in the conduct of the case, and no harm can be done to the accused by requesting him to retain another advocate."

The new Watson was unable to agree with this doctrine so far as it concerned himself. Nevertheless, he had no choice but to accept it.

The legal conscience thus gratuitously thrust upon him was soon to undergo its first ordeal. An acquaintance of his, in a moment of absent-mindedness, murdered somebody, and asked Watson to persuade the inevitable jury that he hadn't. The said acquaintance explained to Watson that he simply did it when he wasn't thinking.

Watson was in a hole. Obviously this was a case to which the embarrassment, prescribed by the General Council of the Bar, was applicable. This legal embarrassment, which, strictly speaking, ought now to be his, would not, however, have worried him in the least had it not been for another consideration. Suppose, after Watson had triumphantly got his client acquitted, it got about that the "innocent" had confessed his crime to council beforehand? That would mean an end to Watson's professional career. One does not thus slight the edicts of the mighty with impunity.

Watson was too proud to ask his client to keep the deadly secret, or to apply the famous wriggle of Hippolytus: "My tongue hath sworn, but my heart remains unsworn."

Nevertheless Watson gave his mind to the problem. In the end he decided on the following line of defence: "Not Guilty." and in the alternative, "Guilty, under justifiable circumstances, without malice aforethought, but with intent to benefit the person murdered."

Happily, the General Council of the Bar has not yet assigned any moral embarrassment to a counsel who pleads "Not Guilty," and in the alternative, "Guilty." Watson, therefore, reasoned that if the jury returned a verdict of "Not Guilty," his client's alternative confession could be written off as an obvious mistake; on the other hand, if he were found "Guilty," the fact of confession would be an ethical asset towards securing for him a lenient view of the case.

As I said, Watson behaved well. He proved to his own and the jury's satisfaction (1) that his client did not commit the murder; (2) that alternatively he did commit the murder, but that he did so for the good of everybody concerned; and (3) that in either case he never meant to do it.

In the end the prisoner was acquitted without a stain upon his character or upon his advocate's.

Watson is now well established as the last hope of abandoned causes. He is a specialist in defence, and criminals of every shade throng to him. When a new one swims into his ken Watson meets him on the threshold and says, "Don't say a word. Read this"—and puts into his hand a printed slip. The slip reads:

Conditions of Advocacy

"(1) If you put your case into my hands it ceases at once and from that moment to be any concern of your own. You are not entitled, for instance, to express any opinion as to whether you committed the alleged crime or not. That is my affair exclusively.

"(2) If, however, there is anything which lies so heavily on your conscience that it must out sooner or later, let it be later. I am open to receive confessions at any time after proceedings have begun.

"If you accept these conditions, good; if not, go."

Watson says they always accept them, so he never worries about the General Council of the Bar.—Punch.

Sunshine may be healthful, but the tan man seems to flourish best in the shade.

FRIENDS ARE ALL TALKING ABOUT IT

SACRAMENTO WOMAN SAYS IMPROVEMENT ON TANLAC WAS WONDERFUL.

"Every time I meet any of my friends now, they have something to say about how well I am looking of late, and it just does my heart good to tell them how completely Tanlac has overcome my troubles," said J. G. Faria, who lives at 1105-0 Street, Sacramento, Cal., the other day.

"My kidneys went back on me about a year ago," he continued, "and although I have been taking medicine and treatment ever since, I gradually got worse right along until I got hold of this Tanlac. For the past few months my condition has been much worse than it ever was, and I had a dull, heavy pain in the small of my back all the time. I had no appetite to speak of, and when I did get a little hungry occasionally, I would eat just a bite or two and that would satisfy me. I work at night and often when I would finish my work I would be so completely worn out and nervous I couldn't sleep more than a couple of hours during the day. I was badly constipated all the time and suffered a lot from headaches.

"I heard about this Tanlac and made up my mind to give it a trial, and it certainly has done the work for me. Why, I honestly never felt better in all my life than I do now. I have completely regained my health. That awful pain in the small of my back is a thing of the past, and my nerves are in such good condition that I sleep like a log from the time I go to bed until time for me to get up and go to work. I have such a good appetite that I just want to eat all the time nearly, and my food is agreeing with me fine. I have gained a good deal in weight, and all my strength has come back to me. I haven't had one of those terrible headaches since I finished my first bottle of Tanlac, and am entirely free from constipation. Yes, sir, Tanlac is a fine medicine, and you will have to go a long way to find its equal."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co. Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co. Ltd., in Fowlers Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

FRANCE PRESERVES MONUMENTS OF WAR

The French Government has selected about 140 famous sites along the whole front, which will be preserved in their present state as monuments of the war. Care will be taken to select a large variety of points of interest. For example famous battlefields, deep dugouts, long underground galleries, ruins, pillboxes, observation points, and several of the Verdun forts will be kept and extensive shelters carved in rock on the wooded heights of the Vosges will be preserved, as well as entrenchments on both sides of the Meuse and in the Champagne. Soissons and Noyon areas. Among the sites in the British sector will be the Butte de Warlencourt, ruins of Bapaume, some destroyed monuments at Peronne, several completely devastated castle estates, like the Chateau de Thiepval, the underground maze of Combles, tanks, churchyard at Pozieres, observation points on Hill 80, Givenchy battlefield, and the famous slagheap and tower bridge at Loos.

WILL OF A BERESFORD.

Mr. Wm. Warren de la Poer Beresford, only son of the late Col. Lord Wm. Beresford and Lily, Duchess of Marlborough, has left estate of the value of £452,533, the net personality being £355,624. Testator gives an annuity of £1,000 to his uncle, Admoral Lord Beresford, £2,500 to his old tutor, Cecil Augustus Hendricks, and £2500 to his old nurse, A. M. N. Tiencken. All his real and the residue of his personal property he leaves in trust for Lord Marcus Beresford, for life, then for his wife, with ultimate remainder to his cousins.

SCHOOL GIRL TELLS OTHERS

How They Can Find Relief From Periodic Sufferings.

Nashua, N.H.—"I am nineteen years old and every month for two years I had such pains that I would often faint and have to leave school. I had such pair I did not know what to do with myself and tried so many remedies that were of no use. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers and decided to try it, and that is how I am and feel so much better than I use to. When I hear of any girl suffering as I did I tell them how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me."—DELIA MARTIN, 20 Bowers St., Nashua, N.H.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, therefore is a perfectly safe remedy to give your daughter, who suffers from such painful periods as did Miss Martin.

The reason so many girls write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for advice, is because from their 40 years experience they have a store of knowledge which is invaluably helpful.

MOTORCYCLE PARTY HAD EXCESS GOODS

TORONTO PARTY WERE DRUNK IN CHARGE OF MOTOR VEHICLES.

Infractions of the Motor Vehicle Act yielded $83.40 to the city treasury this morning. Four motorcyclists from Toronto provided the bulk of the fines, which were imposed by Justices of the Peace H. Rush and F. Adams. Rene Pelotte and Joseph Pelotte were each fined $24.10 for having been drunk while in charge of motor vehicles, and Henry Michauld and Thomas Boudette pleaded guilty to having been simply drunk. The little tourning party was gathered in on Saturday night by Constables Thomas and Briscoe at the corner of Charlotte and George streets. The party had started out on a week end holiday tour to take advantage of Toronto's civic holiday to-day, but they "lit up" with more than the law allowed and strayed unsoberly across the paths of the night police.

Goldie Drain of Clarina, was also fined $5, and F. N. Downer $2 for minor breaches of the Motor vehicles Act.

CANNON BALL SCOTT REFUSED PERMISSION TO PLAY IN THE FINALS

LINDSAY'S PREDICAMENT—CLAIM TO HAVE SEVERAL GOOD PITCHERS IN RESERVE.

Secretary Norman Mark, of the Oddfellows team, winners of the Town League, attended the executive meeting of the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association, which was held in Toronto. He reports that the Association refused to grant Lindsay's request to play Pitcher Ed. Scott in the Ontario championships.

Scott's Case.

Lindsay fans will remember that "Cannon Ball" Scott arrived in Lindsay in time to participate in the Central Ontario League matches, namely before July 15th, but according to the rules of the O.B.A.A. he should have been in Lindsay, or at Fenelon Falls (his summer home) prior to March 1st. Consequently the Lindsay baseball management had a fear that he would be unable to play with the Oddfellows team in the play-off with Peterborough City League. However, by communication, personal appeal, etc., an effort was made to have Scott still remain in baseball circles for the balance of the season. The claim was made that he was a strictly amateur player, a good ball player, and should not be barred from participating in the balance of the season.

The stand the O.B.A.A. took at the meeting was that the Association had refused a similar request on the part of the Hamilton Club, and therefore could not stretch a point in favour of Scott, much as they would like to have done so.

Peterborough delegates present stated that as much as they would like to get a chance at Scott again, yet they could not see their way clear to allow him to play in the next series.

Lindsay's Situation.

Although the fans will regret to hear that Scott cannot perform with the Lindsay team in the play off with Peterborough City Leaguers, yet the team is well equipped with twirlers, and at the present time have a good right hander in "Abbie" Hill, and a good southpaw in "Lefty" McElroy.

The boys will commence practising every night this week, to get ready for the championship series, the first of which will probably be played in Lindsay on Thursday night. —Lindsay Warder.

ORIENTALS FATTENED THEIR AVERAGES AND BEAT THE PACKERS BY 26 TO 10

SORRY EXHIBITION BY CITY LEAGUE CHAMPIONS IN LAST GAME OF THE SEASON—BASE HITS, STOLEN BASES AND RUNS WERE A DRUG ON THE MARKET.

The Matthews-Blackwell team, City League champions, had their pictures taken and were presented with their championship medals on Saturday afternoon and then proceeded to go out on the diamond to meet the Orientals in the last League fixture of the season and gave the poorest imitation of a ball team that has been seen at Riverside Park in many a day. The champs may have been satisfied at having won the title and decided not to exert themselves with nothing at stage, especially as the Orientals got the jump on them by scoring four runs in the first innings. That hardly excuses them, however, for they owed to the fans who turned out, a chance to see a ball game.

The Orientals won the burlesque by the record score of 26 runs to 10, with a patched up line-up, and minus the services of Head, McLeod and Manager Solomon. The runners up were out to beat the Packers from the drop of the hat and the four run start they got seemed to take most of the fight out of the champs. The game was not so bad until the seventh when Frost, disgruntled at the support he was getting, started to lob the ball over. He had not much stuff to start with, and was being nicked pretty well anyway, and when he tossed in a few slow ones the Orientals started to hammer the ball all over the lot. Holyman finally went to the rescue and the side was retired after seven runs crossed the plate. The shortstop pitcher got by in the eighth without a score, but the Orientals fattened their averages in grand style in the ninth, getting ten runs on two bases on balls, doubles by Cherrett, Kirn and Clancy, a triple by Murray and singles by McCarney, Phelan, Mulhern and Kennealey, the latter getting two safeties in the innings.

Kirn and Mulhern did the twirling for the Orientals and between them only allowed eight hits, errors paving the way for the majority of the Packers' runs.

It was a wild game. Everybody who got to first base, and they were getting there by the dozen, stole second without the slightest trouble, neither Lefave or Phelan coming near to throwing a man out at the middle station, while the fielding on both sides was lose. Orientals got 20 hits, including three triples and half a dozen doubles to 8 safeties by the losers, which accounts for the difference in the run column.

There is not room enough to tell how the runs were scored. The box score speaks for itself:

THE MOOSE TEAM OF TORONTO IS HERE FOR TO-NIGHT'S GAME

The Moose team, winners of the Western City League, arrived in town yesterday from Toronto, and are waiting confidently for to-night's battle with the Petes. They will be entertained this afternoon by a drive around the city.

The game, which will take place at 6.30 this evening should be well worth seeing, for both teams have a good reputation, and will bear watching.

The Toronto line-up is a strong one. Hardman, the pitcher, is a well-known southpaw, and Walker, the backstop, is clever, and a strong hitter as well. The Moose line-up follows: Donohue 3rd, Stringer ss, Bellingham rf, Eagison 2nd, Walker c, Spanton 1st, Burt lf, Kenny cf, Hardman p. There are nine extras as well.

A GUARD SAVES WHEAT.

CHICKASHA, Ok. — Eighty-five per cent. of the Grady County wheat crop, which was beaten to the ground recently by hail, has been harvested. The wheat was saved by use of "extension guards" on binders. This guard is an implement attached to the binder directly in front of the sickle; it raises the wheat stalk and thus places it in a position to be cut by the sickle.

S. A. Anderson, a blacksmith of Snyder, Ok., is the patentee of the extension guard. It is said that Mr. Anderson has been offered $20,000 for his patent, but declined the offer, stating that he intended to organize a company and manufacture them. The guards are being used in all sections of Southwestern Oklahoma, where hail beat the wheat to the ground.

COALS TO NEWCASTLE

Gen. Charles T. Menoher, the brave commander of the brave Rainbow Division, said at a dinner in Washington:

"The civilian who tried to teach a soldier how to conduct a court martial reminds me of the young man who tried to teach the parrot to talk.

"This young man said he knew all about parrots and guaranteed to teach a bird—a bird he thought was young and untrained—to say 'hello.'

"So he sat down in front of the parrot and said 'Hello,' hello, hello' —like that— for 45 minutes. The parrot didn't pay him the slightest attention, but when he got through it opened its eyes, lazily, drawled, 'Line busy, ring off,' and then closed its eyes again."

BOWLING TOURNAMENT OPENED THIS MORNING ON THE LOCAL GREEN

CANINES MUST BE ON LEASH

Inquiries at the City Hall concerning the dog by-law as a result of many conflicting reports being circulated as to whether a dog may or may not run at large found that the by-law remains unaltered and that dogs must not be permitted to roam at large unless the authorities happen to be looking the other way.

FIRE AT LONGO'S FRUIT STORE

About midnight on Saturday, the Fire Department was called to A. Longo's fruit store, Hunter Street, where a fruit stall-nurse emulsi( where a fire had started beside the counter. Outside of the damage to th fruit by smoke, which as yet can not be estimated, there were no serious results.

The cause of the fire is unknown.

COUNTY ROAD SUPT. BEGAN IN BELMONT

ORGANIZED WORKING STAFF IN THAT TOWNSHIP.

Mr. Duncan McFarlane, the County Road Superintendent, visited Belmont Township last week and began the organisation of a road gang for work on the roads that have been designated in that township for improvement.

It was reported that a beginning has been made, and that the superintendent will soon have men at work in all the southern townships.

At the same time some of the municipalities will continue their own repair work on roads that lead to the main highways designated under the proivncial system.

DISCUSSED FILTRATION

DR. M'PHERSON MET UTILITIES COMMISSION THIS MORNING.

Dr. A. W. McPherson, Medical Officer of Health, discussed with the Utilities Commission this morning methods of purifying water. The latest and most approved ideas employed in filtration were touched upon.

In this exchange of views the Commission was following up the steps they have already taken preparatory to a decision regarding the proposed filtration plant for Peterborough.

WILL NOT TURN LION.

Monument of Field of Waterloo Not to Have Position Changed.

Brussels—A proposal made in the Chamber of Deputies by a Socialist deputy that the huge Belgian lion on the battlefield of Waterloo, marking the victory of the British and Prussians under the Duke of Wellington and Blucher over the French commanded by Napoleon in 1815 be turned about so that the head of the lion would face the north and away from France, has met with opposition by the Finance Minister.

The Minister of Finance said this monument recalled one of the greatest events in history, and that it held no hostile significance towards France, whose army, in which there were many Belgians, covered itself with glory in the fights in which Waterloo was the centre of the battle. He added that it formed as much a part of British history as of French and that other monuments in Belgium would be raised to commemorate the great war in which France Great Britain and Belgium as allies, fought their common enemy.

LLOYD GEORGE'S LOCKS.

They tell me from Paris that the Prime Minister is letting his hair grow very long again, and that he is now only second to M. Paderewski in length of locks. Long hair over the back of the collar is a mark of the bard, the emotional Nonconformist in Wales, and the Premier, who retained it up to the days when he saw the Welsh Church Bill through the House of Commons, trimmed his hair closer on going into Coalition with the Unionists. I wonder what we should infer from his reversion to the older habit. Certainly he is the most unconventional of the Big Four in dress, for he wears a light grey suit and a soft hat even to attend a full meeting of the Peace Conference. President Wilson occupies a position of "splendid isolation" at the Peace Conference in his diplomatic attire. At the last meeting of Allied plenipotentiaries at the Quai d' Orsay he alone conformed to the old convention that top hat and frock coat shall be worn at International congresses.

LONDON'S THEATRICAL SLUMP.

The slump over which the managers are lamenting will not be a bad thing for the London theatres. It means the end of many of the long runs, which have a deadening effect, and there is now a chance of seeing new things tried. At the moment thirteen theatres are advertising a change of programme. During the latter part of the war, at any rate, almost anything that was lively would fill the theatres every night. The long spell of fine weather is the chief cause of the empty seats at theatres. Even the West End diner-out can find something else to do with these glorious nights than to sit in a stuffy atmosphere looking at stuffy plays. Then, too, there is no longer the great crowd of soldiers on leave, who were the mainstay of the theatres, and the "demobbed" are now getting used to being demobbed and have given up joy parties. Managers will have to produce unusually attractive things if they wish to fill their pockets as they have been doing for four years.

LOAF OF 6o POUNDS

Pumpernickle is the rye bread used by the Westphalian peasants, which in some other parts of Germany is regarded as a great delicacy. The loaves are sometimes sixty pounds in weight. The name is said to have originated in the saying of a French cavalry soldier, who rejected the bread, with disgust, saying it was only "Bon pour Nicholas"— that is, fit or good for Nicholas, his horse.

SOME CURIOUS BIBLE EDITIONS

The "Breeches" and "Bugges" and Other Editions of Scripture.

"Then the eyes of them both were opened, and they knew that they were naked and they sewed fig-tree leaves together and made themselves breeches."

The quotation constitutes a version of the Adam and Eve story of Genesis. It is taken from the rarest of the various editions of the Bible, known as the "breeches" Bible, printed in London in 1615 by Robert Barker, "printer to the King's Most Excellent Majestie."

As if the fact that Adam and Eve were naked, and had decided to wear breeches, were insufficient, a footnote on the subject is introduced. It specifies that the breeches "were things to gird about them."

Reference books said that it was the most popular Bible that ever appeared in England, and that for sixty years it held its own against all rivals, contesting the ground with authorised versions.

Two other old editions of the Bible possessed by Carnegie Library were published in 1531 and 1557 respectively. The first, sometimes called the Treacle Bible, is named from its rendering of Jeremiah 8, 22. "Is there no 'triacle' in Gilead?" it asks. The word triacle is used instead of "balm."

"But man is borne unto labour lyke as the sparkes flege up out of the hotte coles," says Job, fifth chapter, seventh verse.

In an even earlier edition, 1535, not possessed by the library, the same passage is given: "It is man that is born to misery like as a byrd for to flee."

Other curious sayings of the same edition are: "The dove bare an olive leaf in her nebbe;" "our heart had fayled us, neither is there good stomach in any manne;" "and brake his brain-panne." The frontispiece of the 1557 edition announces it to be "the Holy Byble conteynying the olde testament and the newe—set foorth by authoritie."

The 1551 edition, the Bug Bible, is so called because of the use of the word "bugges," Psalms 91, 5: "So thou shalt not nede to be afrayde for anye bugges by nyghte nor for the arrow that flyeth by day."

A reference explains that bug was originally identical with "bogie" and has virtually the same meaning as "terror," the word substituted in the authorised version in 1611. It is the rarest of the many English editions of the Bible. In Genesis 39, line 7 it states: "And the Lord was with Joseph and he was a lucky fellowe."

MUSIC HALL HONORS.

It is quite recently that the first Music Hall artists in this country received the honor of a knighthood at the hands of King George. This was, as we all know, Harry Lauder, the comedian. Indirectly the other perhaps most prominent star on the English Music Hall stage, Vesta Tilley, has now become Lady de Frece owing to the knighthood conferred upon her husband, Walter de Frece, for the services he has rendered in connection with the Pensions Ministry. Nobody who knows anything of the English vaudeville or variety stage will have been able to miss Vesta Tilley. She is one of the half dozen outstanding figures of the whole of the last 25 years, the others being Marie Lloyd, Albert Chevalier, Little Tich, George Robey, and of course Sir Harry Lauder. Hitherto honors of this kind have been confined to actors in the legitimate drama, but Sir Walter de Frece, like the also recently knighted Sir Oswald Stoll, are both predominantly "music-hall" magnates.

it. There was no bayonet charge in the true sense of the word and although the rifle butts were used to push the rioters away they were not used as clubs. In fact the soldiers showed the greatest restraint.

Attack on Beer Shop.

Intermittent looting has continued in various parts of the city throughout the day. Soldiers have been called out to protect property but in most cases the rioters offered no resistance and ran when the troops arrived. There has been a raid on a sugar factory, and there was an amazing scene in the Vaux Hall Road District, when a mob smashed their way into a beer bottling works in Tariff street, and looted it. Men, women and boys made their way into the building and emerged loaded up with bottles of beer and stout. These were opened and consumed in the roadway, the empty bottles being smashed on the granite streets. The streets were a mass of broken glass. Other of the rioters came out with cases of stout and beer which they carried away to their homes. Barrels of beer were rolled out into the streets and then broached in the open crowds gathering around with glasses and cups, jugs and any other articles which came to hand. They then drank and danced in the road.

Get Navy's Aid.

The Lord Mayor of Liverpool says: "The British government is strongly supporting our civic authorities in the maintenance of law and order. As there had been looting at the docks and one fire which was fortunately controlled, and in order that the property of the port should be protected the admiralty have arranged at my request to give us the aid of the navy. The authorities are leaving nothing to chance in their determination that looting and disorderly conduc shall be suppressed. The situation is well in hand."

Police Strike Soon Ends.

One thousand of the twenty-two hundred policemen in Liverpool are on strike. In London the policemen are slow to join their comrades. About eleven hundred out of the twenty thousand left their posts. Unles sympathy for the strikes developops indications point to an end of the strike.

LINDSAY'S PREDICAMENT—CLAIM TO HAVE SEVERAL GOOD PITCHERS IN RESERVE.

Secretary Norman Mark, of the Oddfellows team, winners of the Town League, attended the executive meeting of the Ontario Baseball Amateur Association, which was held in Toronto. He reports that the Association refused to grant Lindsay's request to play Pitcher Ed. Scott in the Ontario championships.

THE MOOSE TEAM OF TORONTO IS HERE FOR TO-NIGHT'S GAME

The Moose team, winners of the Western City League, arrived in town yesterday from Toronto, and are waiting confidently for to-night's battle with the Petes. They will be entertained this afternoon by a drive around the city.

The game, which will take place at 6.30 this evening should be well worth seeing, for both teams have a good reputation, and will bear watching.

The Toronto line-up is a strong one. Hardman, the pitcher, is a well-known southpaw, and Walker, the backstop, is clever, and a strong hitter as well. The Moose line-up follows:

Donohue 3rd, Stringer ss, Bellingham rf, Eaglson 2nd, Walker c, Spanton 1st, Burt lf, Kenny cf, Hardman p. There are nine extras as well.

A GUARD SAVES WHEAT.

CHICKASHA, Ok. — Eighty-five per cent. of the Grady County wheat crop, which was beaten to the ground recently by hail, has been harvested. The wheat was saved by use of "extension guards" on binders. This guard is an implement attached to the binder directly in front of the sickle; it raises the wheat stalk and thus places it in a position to be cut by the sickle.

S. A. Anderson, a blacksmith of Snyder, Ok., is the patentee of the extension guard. It is said that Mr. Anderson has been offered $20,000 for his patent, but declined the offer, stating that he intended to organize a company and manufacture them. The guards are being used in all sections of Southwestern Oklahoma where hail beat the wheat to the ground.

COALS TO NEWCASTLE

Gen. Charles T. Menoher, the brave commander of the brave Rainbow Division, said at a dinner in Washington:

"The civilian who tried to teach a soldier how to conduct a court martial reminds me of the young man who tried to teach the parrot to talk.

"This young man said he knew all about parrots and guaranteed to teach a bird—a bird he thought was young and untrained—to say 'hello.'

"So he sat down in front of the parrot and said 'Hello,' hello, hello'—like that— for 45 minutes. The parrot didn't pay him the slightest attention, but when he got through it opened its eyes—lazily, drawled, 'Line busy, ring off,' and then closed its eyes again."

BOWLING TOURNAMENT OPENED THIS MORNING ON THE LOCAL GREEN

EIGHT TOWNS ARE REPRESENTED IN THE VISITING RINKS—THE PRELIMINARY DRAW.

FIRST ROUND

Eight teams are represented in the visiting rinks at the big bowling turnament at present in progress at the local bowling green, namely, Belleville, Lindsay, Sunderland, Millbrook, Port Hope, Cobourg, Oshawa, and Port Perry.

The preliminary draw for the J. R. Stratton trophy, which is being contested for, resulted:

Machom of St. Simons, Toronto, vs. Whattam of Oshawa, 9—17.

Brown of Port Hope, vs. Hobbs of Oshawa, 16—10.

Bickell of Cobourg, vs. Steele of Millbrook, —14.

McMillan of Beaverton vs. Pratt of Peterboro.

Walton of Toronto vs. Waddell of Peterboro.

Aldridge of Port Hope vs. Curvin of Cobourg.

Hopper of Cobourg vs. Maynard of Peterboro.

The play for the Stratton Trophy will probably run well into midnight to-night and the first round of the consultation be commenced at four o'clock this afternoon.

CANINES MUST BE ON LEASH

Inquiries at the City Hall concerning the dog by-law as a result of many conflicting reports being circulated as to whether a dog may or may not run at large found that the by-law remains unaltered and that dogs must not be permitted to roam at large unless the authorities happen to be looking the other way.

FIRE AT LONGO'S FRUIT STORE

About midnight on Saturday, the Fire Department was called to A. Longo's fruit store, Hunter Street, where a fruit stool, cause: emulsi( where a fire had started beside the counter. Outside of the damage to th fruit by smoke, which as yet can not be estimated, there were no serious results.

The cause of the fire is unknown.

COUNTY ROAD SUPT. BEGAN IN BELMONT

ORGANIZED WORKING STAFF IN THAT TOWNSHIP.

Mr. Duncan McFarlane, the County Road Superintendent, visited Belmont Township last week and began the organisation of a road gang for work on the roads that have been designated in that township for improvement.

It was reported that a beginning has been made, and that the superintendent will soon have men at work in all the southern townships.

At the same time some of the municipalities will continue their own repair work on roads that lead to the main highways designated under the proivncial system.

DISCUSSED FILTRATION

DR. MPHERSON MET UTILITIES COMMISSION THIS MORNING.

Dr. A. W. McPherson, Medical Officer of Health, discussed with the Utilities Commission this morning methods of purifying water. The latest and most approved ideas employed in filtration were touched upon.

In this exchange of views the Commission was following up the steps they have already taken preparatory to a decision regarding the proposed filtration plant for Peterborough.

FARMERS' PICNIC

The Peterborough Branch of the U. F. O. will hold their first annual Picnic by steamer Stoney Lake, down the River, landing for Sports and Supper, on Thursday, 7th August. Special speakers will be in attendance. Adult tickets 50 cents; children's tickets, 25 cents. Everybody welcome. Come and bring your baskets.—President, H. B. Rogers. Committee chairman, R. T. [illegible], 128 Hunter street W.

WILL NOT TURN LION.

Monument of Field of Waterloo Not to Have Position Changed.

Brussels—A proposal made in the Chamber of Deputies by a Socialist deputy that the huge Belgian lion on the battlefield of Waterloo, marking the victory of the British and Prussians under the Duke of Wellington and Blucher over the French commanded by Napoleon in 1815 be turned about so that the head of the lion would face the north and away from France, has met with opposition by the Finance Minister.

The Minister of Finance said this monument recalled one of the greatest events in history, and that it held no hostile significance towards France, whose army, in which there were many Belgians, covered itself with glory in the fights in which Waterloo was the centre of the battle. He added that it formed as much a part of British history as of French and that other monuments in Belgium would be raised to commemorate the great war in which France Great Britain and Belgium as allies, fought their common enemy.

LLOYD GEORGE'S LOOKS.

They tell me from Paris that the Prime Minister is letting his hair grow very long again, and that he is now only second to M. Paderewski in length of locks. Long hair over the back of the collar is a mark of the bard, the emotional Nonconformist in Wales, and the Premier, who retained it up to the days when he saw the Welsh Church Bill through the House of Commons, trimmed his hair closer on going into Coalition with the Unionists. I wonder what we should infer from his reversion to the older habit. Certainly he is the most unconventional of the Big Four in dress, for he wears a light grey suit and a soft hat even to attend a full meeting of the Peace Conference. President Wilson occupies a position of "splendid isolation" at the Peace Conference in his diplomatic attire. At the last meetng of Allied plenipotentiaries at the Quai d' Orsay he alone conformed to the old convention that top hat and frock coat shall be worn at International congresses.

LONDON'S THEATRICAL SLUMP.

The slump over which the managers are lamenting will not be a bad thing for the London theatres. It means the end of many of the long runs, which have a deadening effect, and there is now a chance of seeing new things tried. At the moment thirteen theatres are advertising a change of programme. During the latter part of the war, at any rate, almost anything that was lively would fill the theatres every night. The long spell of fine weather is the chief cause of the empty state of theatres. Even the West End diner-out can find something else to do with these glorious nights than to sit in a stuffy atmosphere looking at stuffy plays. Then, too, there is no longer the great crowd of soldiers on leave, who were the mainstay of the theatres, and the "demobbed" are now getting used to being demobbed and have given up joy parties. Managers will have to produce unusually attractive things if they wish to fill their pockets as they have been doing for four years.

LOAF OF 6o POUNDS

Pumpernickle is the rye bread used by the Westphalian peasants, which in some other parts of Germany is regarded as a great delicacy. The loaves are sometimes sixty pounds in weight. The name is said to have originated in the saying of a French cavalry soldier, who rejected the bread, with disgust, saying it was only "Bon pour Nicholas"— that is, fit or good for Nicholas, his horse.

SOME CURIOUS BIBLE EDITIONS

The "Breeches" and "Bugges" and Other Editions of Scripture.

"Then the eyes of them both were opened, and they knew that they were naked and they sewed fig-tree leaves together and made themselves breeches."

The quotation constitutes a version of the Adam and Eve story of Genesis. It is taken from the rarest of the various editions of the Bible, known as the "breeches" Bible, printed in London in 1615 by Robert Barker, "printer to the King's Most Excellent Majestie."

As if the fact that Adam and Eve were naked, and had secured [illegible] breeches, were insufficient, a footnote on the subject is introduced. It specifies that the breeches "were things to gird about them."

Reference books said that it was the most popular Bible that ever appeared in England, and that for sixty years it held its own against all rivals, contesting the ground with authorised versions.

Two other old editions of the Bible possessed by Carnegie Library were published in 1531 and 1557 respectively. The first, sometimes called the Treacle Bible, is named from its rendering of Jeremiah 8, 22. "Is there no 'triacle' in Gilead?" it asks. The word triacle is used instead of "balm."

"But man is borne unto labour lyke as the sparkes fleee up out of the hotte coles," says Job, fifth chapter, seventh verse.

In an even earlier edition, 1535, not possessed by the library, the same passage is given: "It is man that is born to misery like as a byrd for to flee."

Other curious sayings of the same edition are: "The dove bare an olive leaf in her nebbe;" "our heart hath fayled us, neither is there good stomach in any manne;" "and brake his brain-panne." The frontispiece of the 1557 edition announces it to be "the Holy Byble conteynying the olde testament and the newe—set foorth by authoritie."

The 1551 edition, the Bug Bible, is so called because of the use of the word "bugges," Psalms 91, 5: "So thou shalt not nede to be afrayde for anye bugges by nyghte nor for the arrow that flyeth by day."

A reference explains that bug was originally identical with "bogie" and has virtually the same meaning as "terror," the word substituted in the authorised version in 1611. It is the rarest of the many English editions of the Bible. In Genesis 39, line 7 it states: "And the Lord was with Joseph and he was a lucky fellowe."

MUSIC HALL HONORS.

It is quite recently that the first Music Hall artists in this country received the honor of a knighthood at the hands of King George. This was, as we all know, Harry Lauder, the comedian. Indirectly the other perhaps most prominent star on the English Music Hall stage, Vesta Tilley, has now become Lady de Frece owing to the knighthood conferred upon her husband, Walter de Frece, for the services he has rendered in connection with the Pensions Ministry. Nobody who knows anything of the English vaudeville or variety stage will have been able to miss Vesta Tilley. She is one of the half dozen outstanding figures of the whole of the last 26 years, the others being Marie Lloyd, Albert Chevalier, Little Tich, George Robey, and of course Sir Harry Lauder. Hitherto honors of this kind have been confined to actors in the legitimate drama, but Sir Walter de Frece, like the also recently knighted Sir Oswald Stoll, are both predominantly "music-hall" magnates.

RIOTOUS CROWDS IN LIVERPOOL WERE DRIVEN FROM, ETC.

it. There was no bayonet charge in the true sense of the word and although the rifle butts were used to push the rioters away they were not used as clubs. In fact the soldiers showed the greatest restraint.

Attack on Beer Shop.

Intermittent looting has continued in various parts of the city throughout the day. Soldiers have been called out to protect property but in most cases the rioters offered no resistance and ran when the troops arrived. There has been a raid on a sugar factory, and there was an amazing scene in the Vaux Hall Road District, when a mob smashed their way into a beer bottling works in Tariff street, and looted it. Men, women and boys made their way into the building and emerged loaded up with bottles of beer and stout. These were opened and consumed in the roadway, the empty bottles being smashed on the granite streets. The streets were a mass of broken glass. Other of the rioters came out with cases of stout and beer which they carried away to their homes. Barrels of beer were rolled out into the streets and then broached in the open crowds gathering around with glasses and cups, jugs and any other articles which came to hand. They then drank and danced in the road.

Got Navy's Aid.

The Lord Mayor of Liverpool says: "The British government is strongly supporting our civic authorities in the maintenance of law and order. As there had been looting at the docks and one fire which was fortunately controlled, and in order that the property of the port should be protected the admiralty have arranged at my request to give us the aid of the navy. The authorities are leaving nothing to chance in their determination that looting and disorderly conduct shall be suppressed. The situation is well in hand."

Police Strike Soon Ends.

One thousand of the twenty-two hundred policemen in Liverpool are on strike. In London the policemen are slow to join their comrades. About eleven hundred out of the twenty thousand left their posts. Unless sympathy for the strikes developes indications point to an end of the strike.

PAULINE FREDERICK AT HER BEST IN EXQUISITE SETTINGS

NEW ART OF STUDIO CRAFT EXEMPLIFIED IN SERIES OF STRIKING STAGE PICTURES IN HER NEWEST GOLDWYN PRODUCTION.

Motion pictures, as a series of brush portraits flashed upon the canvas of the silversheet rather than a series of episodes thrown together before the camera in disregard of composition, is the theory of Pauline Frederick. And it has never been more carefully observed than in her latest Goldwyn vehicle, "The Fear Woman," which is to be shown at the Grand Theatre today, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Miss Frederick, always an exponent of the most advanced artistic theories, maintains that motion pictures, without a sense of pictorial, as well as dramatic value, are inconsistent. Composition, however, she says, cannot be considered as finite as in a still-life painting, and will differ with the requirements of the screen.

"In a still painting or portrait," said Miss Frederick, "the artist leaves a finite impression. A glance at the subject is sufficient; one does not instinctively feel that he wants to personally visit the lacle. In a cinema, however, the effect is different.. If a sumptuous picture is flashed on to the screen the spectator at once feels a longing to see the original.

"No matter how intense the dramatic qualities of a photoplay, if the optical effect produced is contradictory the production is bound to be a failure. No star wishes to work in a series of unbalanced episodes—unbalanced to the extent that all the action takes place in the right-hand lower corner of the screen-picture while the rest of the space is left untenanted. In "The Fear Woman" the balance of every scene is as perfect as expert screencrafters can make it. In Hugo Ballin's settings the optical effect is carried out to the nth degree. In no place have we in the cast been forced to work in overloaded, complicated sets. Mr. Ballin has carefully chosen his composition, which he does by an unique method. He picks his doors and windows meticulously, and judges his entire set by their position. Instinctively, the eye will at once look for the doors in a stage or screen setting. t will then follow the picture to see how the other properties are placed.

"The settings of 'The Fear Woman,' particularly elaborate, are representative of the new studio craft. In the scenes in the Fear Woman's boudoir, the simple, conservative yet modernistic, impression has been carried out by a pair of long, graceful velvet drapes hung on each side of the dressing table. Halfway upstage, slightly to the left is a small table; topped with a hanging lamp. On the extreme left is a small bookease, and on the extreme right a chaise longue. A velvet rug with no decorations covers the floor. Upstage to the left i sa French door leading to a balcony, while to the right is another leading into the bedchamber. Such, I believe, is perfect balance. There is neither too much nor too little. The players were given a chance to move freely and only by freedom of action can a play be successful. Such are the features which I believe will make, "The Fear Woman" the most successful of any of my Goldwyn productions."

INSTANCE OF THE WORKING OF OUT-OF-WORK PAY SYSTEM

A Birmingham correspondent furnishes an illuminating instance of the working of the out-of-work pay system. A general fitter was offered by him a job at £4 10s per week, which, with overtime, could be turned into £ 510s. For various "reasons" th emen put off taking up the job, and enquiry revealed the interesting fact that he was drawing 29s out-of-work pay, childrn's allowance, 9s; a military pension of 15s. a club out-of-work pay, 20s, while his wife was earning 50s per week and her board. In these circumstances, ask our correspondent, why should the man work?—Londn Morning Post.

GERMANY'S NEW TAXES.

It is reported that the German Government's new tax bill will include a surplus assessment on capital amounting to 80 per cent. and also a drastic imperial income tax ,the receipts from which will be apportioned among the federated states, according to their needs.

Mathias Erzberger, minister of finance, is understood to be planning to centralize the nation's tax assessments, obviating the necessity for an individual tax in financing part of the federated states. An increase in the general trading tax, especially on articles of luxury, is also planned. It includes ten per cent. levy on advertising.

REGINALD ELWELL, OVERHEATED WENT SWIMMING AT NIAGARA.

TORONTO, Aug. 4.—Overheated from racing in th eathletic competitions at the annual picnic of the Young Men's Bible Class of the Earlscourt Methodist Church at Niagara-on-the-Lake Saturday, Reginald Elwell of 85 McKay street, plunged into the lake, and after one or two convulsive struggles disappeared. only one companion was with him, and he, unable to swim, shouted for aid. Harold McMillan, another member of the Bible Class, dived three times in search of the body. The American coast guards were notified and after dragging for some minutes recovered the body. Doctors declared that death was due to heart failure.

WEDDING BELLS

BROWN—CURRY.

On Saturday, 26th July, All Saints' Church was the scene of a quiet wedding, when Dorothy Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Curry, was united in marriage to Mr. Ralph A. Brown, son of Mr, and Mrs. O. J. Brown, both of Toronto.

The bride was given away by her brother, Major Bruce H. Curry, of Winnipeg, just returned from overseas. The service was conducted by Rev. R. B. Grobb, rector of All Saints' Church, in the presence of the immediate relations.

After the ceremony a large dinner party was held at the Empress Hotel. Later the happy couple motored to Gore's Landing to spend their honeymoon. On their return they will reside in Toronto.

SAYS BUSINESS OF CANNING IS PRACTICALLY A MONOPOLY

OTTAWA, Aug. 4.— That the organized canners of the Dominion be, as soon as possible, put under the regulative power of the Board of Commerce, shortly to be named, is an important recommendation made in the report which was on Saturday placed in the hands of the Minister of Labour by the Cost of Living Commissioner. The report states that the business of canning is practically a natural monopoly, and that its price should be as carefully regulated as the charges made to the public by a railway or telephone company. This, because it is doubtful if there will ever be sufficient competition in this field to control prices.

TEN TONS OF DYNAMITE USED IN ONE BIG BLAST.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Aug. 4—On Saturday ten tons of dynamite were used in one great rock blast in the Forebay of the Hydro canal, costing between $4,000 and $5,000.

The canal constructors are now working in solid rock, and every inch of the canal must be blasted out. Drill holes were cut by diamond drills at intervals, and 500 pounds of dynamite put into each hole. Then the charge was set off by electricity and with tremendous roar the rock moved and then settled down again a great mass of broken stone. This is scooped up by great shovels and carried off in dump trains.

DISASTER THREATENED

ONLY GREATLY INCREASED COAL PRODUCTION WILL SAVE THE PRODUCTION.

STEADY DECLINE

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, Aug. 5.—Shipping and fuel agents of France, Belgium and Italy conferred with Herbert Hoover, head of the International relief organization here yesterday and decided to urge the Supreme Council of the peace conference to appoint a European Coal Commission to co-ordinate the distribution of European coal in an effort to avert what threatens to be a disaster.

Only greatly increased coal production and an improved organization for its distribution can save Europe from disaster next year, Mr. Hoover said.

According to figures gathered by experts, England's annual production of coal has fallen from two hundred and ninety-two million tons in 1918 to one hundred and eighty-three million tons. Germany's decline is slightly greater. Europe at the present rate will produce four hundred and forty-three million tons next year, while the amount needed is estimated at 616,000,000 tons.

SHIPS SAIL FOR AMERICAN PORTS

FRONTIERS CLOSED UP—NEWS FROM ITALY

(United Press.)

ROME, Aug. 5. — Three hundred thousand tons of shipping have been ordered to sail for American ports to load with [illegible] is announced here to-day.

If the German peace treaty safeguards Italian interests it will be ratified immediately by the Chamber of Deputies, the "Popolo Romano" said to-day. Otherwise, according to the paper, "no blackmail based on Italy's food and coal needs will help the ratification." Leading members of Parliament believe the treaty will be ratified before every Italian question is settled, the paper said.

Police Operations.

Closing up of the France-Italian and the Swiss-Italian frontiers has been ordered, according to the Alcock News Agency, as a prelude to important police operations in connection with revolutionary plots organized abroad.

Alcock News Agency declares that within a week several local daily newspapers will resume publication with independent personnels.

Postal and telegraphic communication between Italy and Germany has been resumed.

Former Deputy Viera Clo has replaced Senator F. R. A. Scara as President of the Italian Red Cross.

Under Secretary of Foreign Affairs Sforza has been appointed a senator by the King.

The King to-day granted an audience to Mercati, who organized the recent Rome to Constantinople air flight, congratulating him on his achievement. His Majesty expressed the hope that the proposed Rome to Tokio flight would be equally successful.

A decree prohibiting Catholics from participating in the world conference for unification of Christian churches was published to-day in the official organ of the Vatican.

In the same organ were decrees forbidding theosophical doctrines and prohibiting Catholics from belonging to theosphical societies or reading their publications.

AUSTRIA WILL REPLY TO-MORROW

(United Press.)

PARIS, Aug. 5.—Dr. Karl Renner, head of the Austrian peace delegation, notified the Peace Conference to-day that Austria's counter proposals to the treaty terms would be delivered to-morrow. Immediately afterwards he will leave for Vienna, returning to St. Germain about August 12.

RELATIONS BETWEEN ENGLAND AND ARGENTINE HAVE BEEN STRAINED

MINISTERS TO BOTH COUNTRIES HAVE BEEN RECALLED—ARGENTINE GOVERNMENT RESENTS INVESTMENT OF BRITISH CAPITAL IN THAT COUNTRY.

(Canadian Press.)

BUENOS AYRES, August 5.—Diplomatic relations between Great Britain and Argentina as a result of the purchase by Argentina of the German steamship Bahia Blanca are delicate, according to "La Nacion," which says:

"Regarding the rumours which from the beginning have been founded on more than supposition, we have received versions of the gravity of the situation which are self-evident, and according to which the return to London of Sir Reginald Tower, British Minister to Argentina, and the departure of Francisco Alvarez de Toledo, Argentina Minister to Britain, from London, are not disconnected. On the contrary, it appears that the retirement of both Ministers is traceable to the purchase by Argentina of the steamer Bahia Blanca from the Germans, which purchase the British Government refused to recognise."

Another paper, "Las Nosticias," says: "Sir Reginald Tower is being recalled and Senor Toledo is returning because King George has not received him. The occasion for the present situation," it adds, "is the refusal of the British Government to recognise the purchase of the Bahia Blanca; but the real cause underlying the crisis is the Argentine Government's hostile attitude towards British capital invested in Argentina."

THE LIBERAL CONVENTION

DELEGATES GATHER IN CAPITAL FOR THE BIG CONVENTION—PROSPECTS FOR THE LIBERAL LEADERSHIP—A PEN PICTURE OF THE PRELIMINARIES BY H. F. GADSBY.

(By H. F. GADSBY.)

OTTAWA, August 5.—Says Tony, the master barber at the Chateau Laurier, "I think of charging two prices for shaves—twenty-five cents for Grits and thirty-five cents for Tories, because their faces are so much longer." And indeed many things have happened within the last few weeks to lend a shining countenance to the Liberal Convention, beginning with Mr. Crerar, and ending with the supreme sacrifice by Mr. Carvell, who trades the portfolio of Public Works for the chairmanship of the Railway Commission, and nets two thousand five hundred dollars yearly profit by the transaction.

Also there was Mr. Rowell, who spiked himself on his own pen nib, and Sir Thomas White, who preferred the cold world outside to the hot water the Government is in at Ottawa. Presently there will be nobody in the Cabinet but straight Conservatives and dehorned Liberals who have taken the oath of allegiance to the national policy.

BOTH SIDES ARE IN THE TRENCHES AGAIN

No wonder, then, that the Liberal party goes to its work of readjustment and reconciliation with a light heart and a joyful mind. Human nature can be denied no longer. We are in the trenches again—both sides—and we know what we are fighting about. I have been watching this convention for the last few days from the Chateau lobby. It reminds me of the national convention in the United States—it is so different. There are plenty of warm discussions by groups—coddles of enthusiasm, but no speaking in public, as it were. If this historic event were being pulled off in Chicago or Baltimore or St. Louis, the lobby of the leading hotel would be so packed with people that a pin could not drop without crowding somebody. Speeches would pop every minute. The chandeliers would rock with the ringing cheers, and the booms of the various candidates would be roaring like a den of lions. The candidates, too—they would be pretending not to mingle with delegates, but at some other leading hotel they would be megaphoning to the daily press three times a day, and otherwise behaving with the shrinking modesty of a sunflower or a steam calliope. That is not our way. We are equally, in earnest, but don't say so much about it in open meetings. Some of the most important caucuses are held in bedrooms, and the candidates, circulating freely among their supporters, go gently about their work of letting their light shine where it will be most good. This makes it difficult to keep track of the booms which wax or wane and leave few surface indications. I can safely say that I know better who was going to be leader a few days ago than I do now, with the convention assembled and the delegates simmering with the Unexpected. Four days ago I got my local colour from the Advisory Committee, which was neatly broken up into committees on soldier, labour, tariff, and transportation problems.

SMOOTHING DOWN THE ROUGH SPOTS.

I know what good work they were doing in the way of combing the rough hairs out of the democracy so as to hand over a smooth policy to the Resolutions Committee. The Resolutions Committee is supposed to deal with the good ideas that have been left in and not to dip into the waste basket for the rash ideas that have been left out. The Resolutions Committee could put over just what is handed to them by the preliminary workers in the vineyard, there would be no danger of pouring new wine into old bottles and cracking the bottles. But the Resolutions Committee never has exactly its own way. There is always the chance that some delegate or delegates who don't give a hoot how light the game ought to be played, will bubble over and spill something.

LEADERSHIP A MATTER OF SPECULATION.

Four days ago I would have said that the logical candidate was a toss up between W. S. Fielding and George Graham. But Mr. Fielding is not a canvasser, and a Liberal Convention likes a good mixer, who will shake hands while he reaches for the plum pudding, and does not expect to have it served him on a silver platter with polite salvation. For that reason, among others, Mr. Fielding's boom has waned, and for the other reason, George Graham's has waxed, although I am not sure that the waxing will continue right through the piece to Wednesday, when the leader is chosen.

At the present writing, there are six booms—count 'em, six in active agitation. There were so many voices in this convention, and so many good arguments for everybody that I have lost sight of my theory that the Liberal leader in normal times ought to be a radical—and in abnormal times, such as we struggle with now, a Whig. I have lost sight of my theory, I repeat, and I don't know which is the illegal candidate and which isn't. I find myself convinced by every last man who gets my ear that his choice is the real captain of our fate. If this was a United States convention there would be demonstrations for the candidates on which I could hold a match and make up my mind how to bet; but they don't demonstrate in Canadian Liberal conventions—unless it is to boo Mr. Rowell—and so I have to fall back on my own conclusions.

Of the six favourite sons at work this morning, two hail from Nova Scotia, one from Quebec, two from Ontario, and one from the Prairies. The Quebec boom is for the Hon. Sydney Fisher. It looks like a complimentary gesture. A tribute of esteem to a stalwart supporter of Sir Wilfred Laurier, who has given much faithful service and good money to the party. I think it will subside at the first ballot, and then Quebec, recognizing that she has held the leadership for twenty-six years, and that it is somebody else's turn, will shift her vote to some candidate with a better chance.

A SAFE, SANE, AND OUTSTANDING FIGURE.

Mr. Fielding's "boom" is not as successful as might be expected in Nova Scotia, where the defeated Liberal candidates at the last election are still resentful of these soldier's-vote sequels, which snatched the cup of victory from their lips. It is true that Mr. Fielding joined the Unionist party to support Conscription and not to condone the supplementary offences of the War-Time Elections Act, but the Grits are granite-ribbed down there, and not inclined to entertain these nice shades of meaning. Moreover, Premier Gouin has not straightened out Quebec to the degree that was hoped. The older heads admit that Mr. Fielding is safe, sane, and outstanding, but the younger hotspurs, like Cubby Powers and Joseph Archambault, cannot forget that he went back on Sir Wilfred Laurier. As associate chairman of the convention, Premier Gouin may yet bring his naughty boys to time, but if he doesn't—well, so much the worse for Mr. Fielding.

[illegible] and it is on the cards that he may withdraw his name at the last [illegible]—it looks like a rough passage. If he stays to the finish he will [illegible]

PETERBORO REPRESENTED

GEORGE P. GRAHAM

(By the Examiner's Special Correspondent.)

OTTAWA, Aug. 5.—The full representation of East and West Peterborough delegates has arrived in Ottawa.

This afternoon all trains were crowded with the vast representation of Liberal men and women appointed to choose a leader.

The Fielding boom looms up large. With the Ontario crowd, Geo. P. Graham, bright, friendly and mighty human, is the favourite son. Mr. Graham has aged very much—his friends say it is the grief of losing his only son, who was killed in France a year ago.

The Prince Edward Island delegates are the white-haired boys who brought home the scalps. One of them told me that the Grits left three Tories in the Legislature—one for Opposition leader, one for chief whip and one for an ordinary member of the Opposition.

They say the record of the Borden government beat the Conservative party in the Island to a frazzle. Ninety per cent. of the soldier went against the government for the Borden government's record of inefficiency, stupidity and senile decay.

Hon. A. G. McKay is here from Edmonton. He says the Conservatives cannot get more than three seats west of the Great Lakes.

The Liberal Unionists are here in great numbers. I would judge that fully one-third of the Liberals in Ontario and west voted Union. But they say "one is enough," particularly with Rowell in it.

The western delegates report that about twenty-five Conservative nominations will go begging, and anyone can have a Conservative nomination in Alberta or Saskatchewan for the asking. This would be a great opportunity for a politically ambitious gentleman like Mr. A. H. Stratton to get a chance to break into politics.

Everything is speculation to-night. Groups of half a dozen are discussing to-morrow's plans, and in some of the groups the women delegates seem to be taking an important part, and stole second. Rosesingledfille Bq6 Will send mission

DENIES RUMOURS OF A RUPTURE

(Canadian Press.)

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 5.—Sir Reginald Tower, British Minister to Argentina, denies rumours relative to his return to London, which is said to indicate the imminence of a rupture of relations between Great Britain and this country.

He declares he is going to London merely for a rest.

FARMERS' PICNIC

The Peterborough Branch of the U. F. O. will hold their first annual Picnic by steamer Stoney Lake, down the River, landing for Sports and Supper, on Thursday, 7th August. Boat leaves George street wharf at 1 p.m. (new time.) A good programme of sports, including a tug-of-war for the Township Championship of Peterborough County. Orchestra and booth on board. Special speakers will be in attendance. Adult tickets 60 cents; children's tickets, 30 cents. Everybody welcome. Come and bring your baskets.—President, H. B. Rogers. Commmittee chairman, R. T. Lillico, 180 Hunter street W.

CHIEF GRANGE'S PROGRAMME FOR BETTER FIRE PROTECTION ADOPTED

NEW HYDRANTS AND LARGER MAINS AT EAST END OF SIMCOE STREET—LEWIS STREET MAIN TO SUPPLY NEW HYDRANT AT CHARLOTTE STREET CORNER.

REPORT TO ALD. MORRISON

Adequate fire protection for the business district at the east end of Simcoe street, and also for the Charlotte street block between Aylmer and George streets, was contemplated by Chief Grange in his report to Ald. Morrison, which the Council adopted last night.

The recommendations submitted by Chief Grange included a hydrant opposite the Peterboro Cereal Company's mill and another opposite Mr. R. Denne's warehouse; an eight inch main on Queen street from Hunter to Simcoe street; an eight inch main on Louis street from King to Charlotte street, and the placing of a hydrant at the corner of Louis and Charlotte street to improve the fire protection between George and Aylmer streets.

It was also decided to install a hydrant in the vicinity of Ross and Dufferin streets in Ashburnham. One purpose this would serve would be a saving in the use of 400 feet of hose for recurring fires in the old saw dust pile across the river.

Ald. Morison moved, seconded by Ald. Gainey, the adoption of Chief Grange's suggestions.

Other proposals for hydrants in the C. P. R. yards and at the rear of the Peterboro Cereal Mills, were left in abeyance for the present.

Claims Incinerator Job.

Ald. Hamilton told the council that W. W. Withers who had returned from overseas had applied to him for a job at the incinerator, which Withers said he had held prior to enlisting.

[illegible] of the members were under the impression that Withers had thrown up his work some time before entering the army and without any intention of returning. It was decided however, on a motion by Ald. Edgar, seconded by Ald. Garside that Withers be reinstated if it is found he resigned to go overseas.

Transferred to New Company.

The $6,000 balance of the city's loan to the Bonner-Worth Company, was transferred to the Canadian Woollens Limited. The company is required to pay yearly instalments of $1,000 and this liability is assumed by the amalgamated group.

MARSHAL HINDENBURG MAY LEAD A NEW PEOPLE'S PARTY IN GERMANY

STATE TRIBUNAL APPOINTED TO INVESTIGATE THE RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE WAR—GUILTY WILL BE TRIED

(Special to The Examiner.)

BERLIN, August 5.—Marshal Hindenburg plans to assume the leadership of a new National Peoples' Party to be extremely conservative in character, it was reported here to-day.

The State Tribunal appointed to investigate the responsibility for the war, and try those guilty, is expected to present its preliminary reports soon before the National Assembly at Weimar.

Socialisation of electrical power plants was being proposed to-day in labour circles.

HUNS HAVE A NEW NAME FOR TAXES

GERMANY HAS ADOPTED THE WORD "SACRIFICES"—GETTING TO WORK.

By Carl D. Groat.
(United Press.)

There are no more taxes in Germany. That is, they are not known by that name. The levies will continue but in an effort to make them more popular, Germany has adopted the word "sacrifices," in place of the less pleasing title. By this method Germany hopes the people will pay with a smile on their faces.

Prof. Jas. Trow, famous economist of the University of Berlin, explained to-day that the movement was intended to stimulate the nation, showing the people that now, just as much as in war time, the country needs their aid and their sacrifices. Jas. Trow, who is an exponent of the idea that Germany is now passing through a crisis of starvation, moral and morale outlined his viewpoint as he sat in his rose-covered bungalow on the outskirts of the city.

A pretty bungalow, but Jas. Trow declared he was ready to abandon it for a humbler cottage so as to meet the new taxes—no, the "sacrifices." "Germany must realize she must get back to work," Jas. Trow said. "We are passing through a crisis of low moral. There isn't the will to work which existed in the old days. We must stir up that will.

"The remedy does not rest only in food and raiment, but if we don't get these products the chap will be worse than ever." Jas. Trow looks to the younger educated men of the army to carry on the campaign for rehabilitation of the German spirit and the will to work.

ROUMANIANS SAID TO BE PLUNDERING

CIVILIANS KILLED IN BUDAPEST—OFFICIAL TITLE.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, Aug. 5.—Telegrams from American officials at Budapest state that the Roumanian troops, upon entering Budapest yesterday, started plundering in the suburbs.

Fifteen or twenty civilians were killed by the Roumanians during the day, it is added.

These reports said the Roumanians were demanding hostages, and threatened to kill five hostages for each Roumanian soldier injured in Budapest.

PARIS, Aug. 5.—Dr. Karl Renner, the Austrian Chancellor and head of Austria's Peace delegation, informed General Secretary Dutasta, of the Peace Conference, to-day that Austria's counter-proposals to the Peace terms would be handed over to-morrow within the prescribed time for their presentation.

BERLIN, Aug. 5.—The Hungarian People's Republic is the official title of the new Government at Budapest, it was announced at Vienna yesterday by members of the Hungarian Government after the conference with the Allied representatives here.

BIG SLUMP IN STOCK MARKET

BEARS HAD A FIELD DAY—SENSATIONAL DECLINES.

(Special to Examiner.)

NEW YORK, August 5. — Sensational declines in the stock market continued to-day at the opening. Sellers took the centre immediately at the start of trade and prices were hammered downward ruthlessly.

Several reasons were ascribed for the sudden drop. The railroad situation was pointed to as the most probable solution of the whole affair, but the Congressional investigation into various things which are holding the cost of living up, was also blamed.

Rails showed a tendency to slump hard. Union Pacific opened at 125, off 2 points; New Haven 33, off 3-4; Reading, 81 3-4, off 1-4; New York Central, 75, off 1-8; Southern Pacific, 95, off 5; Studebaker, 101, off 2 1-2; Mexican Petroleum, 177, off 11 1-4.

United States Steel was unable to recover from its weakness and opened at 103 1-4, off 1 1-4.

Trading in the first hour was unusually heavy. Many of the speculators dumped huge blocks of stock on the market at the opening selling at the highest available price in an effort to save something out of the wreck. Prices broke under the burden more than ordinarily would have been the case.

In the first half hour nearly 300,000 shares were turned over. Marginal dealings were hit very hard. One firm reported its marginal sales sent out last night were the largest in the firm's ten years' existence.

Bulls quickly gobbled up everything offered in a vain effort to halt the downward trend. Extra pains were taken with Crucible to keep that stock from descending under yesterday's low, but it was futile. It dropped below 128 1-2.

At 11 a.m., nearly 600,000 shares had changed hands and the pace was not slackening.

POWER FLUSHER FOR PAVEMENTS WOULD COST ABOUT $1,200

CITY ENGINEER PARSONS SHOWS HOW EXPENSIVE IS MAKE-SKIFT PLAN.

City Engineer Parsons, reporting to the Council on the cost of flushing the pavements, presents a comparison of costs indicating a preference for a special power flusher instead of the clumsy and expensive plan of using a fire hose attached to the nearest hydrant. His report follows:

Flushing of the pavements by means of hose would be a very expensive matter. In order to flush George Street from London to King Street, Charlotte Street from Water to Park street and Hunter street from Queen to Stewart street, there would be required at least three men to handle the hose and a horse and driver. I am not sure, without experimenting, as to whether as small a gang as this could cover this amount of work or not. This would represent an expenditure for flushing of at least $15.00 per night for the above sections. When the rest of the pavements were flushed there would be required at least two similar gangs. This would mean a cost of $45.00 a night. This would be an average of $30.00 per night for six nights a week.

Our present sprinkling costs about $3.00 a day on the average. The flushing of the streets at night in this way would not do away with the sweeping during the daytime, although we could probably get along with one or possibly two less men. I do not think that the idea of flushing from the hydrants with fire hose is economical or practical. In addition to the expense of the labour, there is the wear and tear on the hose to be taken into account and the cost of the water which would be used.

If the question of flushing the streets is to be taken up seriously, I think that the only way to do is by means of a power flusher, either horse or motor drawn, which will travel along the streets and deliver the water on to the pavement at any desired angle and pressure.

I have not had an opportunity to get quotations on a machine of this kind, but judging by previous quotations would say that we could probably get a horse-drawn flusher of a reliable make for something under $1,500.00, and in order to cover the pavements, it would be necessary to have two of these machines. These machines could probably be operated for $8.00 or $10.00 each per night, and I think would be far more satisfactory than trying to flush with the hose.

RUNAWAY HUSBANDS BECOMING MORE NUMEROUS SINCE THE WAR

SOME WHO LOVED AND RAN AWAY LIVED TO LOVE ANOTHER—LADY

"The army of runaway husbands is never a small one," said a Private Inquiry agent; "but I do not think it has ever been so numerous as to-day. In fact it is no exageration to say that at this moment there are, in England at least a hundred thousand deserted wives who are waiting for husbands who never return.

"I have had considerable experience in tracking these fugitives, and some of the romances I have revealed are indeed stranger than fiction. About seven years ago a younger son of one of our peers foolishly married a middle-aged spinster for her money-bags; but he had not been married a month before he found her too impossible to live with and disappeared.

"I have tracked that man pretty well all over the world, but have never succeeded in running him to earth. I have caught fugitive glimpses of him, but he always eluded me just when I thought I had caught him. What has become of him, I can't say; but I have a shrewd suspicion that he lies buried near the Somme, under an Anzac name, which was one of his many aliases.

He Became a Waiter.

"Not long ago I was interested in another curious case, in which a North of England manufacturer vanished mysteriously from his home. To all appearances the man was quite happy in his wedded life; and, certainly, he had no money anxieties. You can thus imagine his wife's astonishment when, a few days after his disappearance, she received a letter from Liverpool informing her that he had no intention whatever of returning and that she must look on him as dead.

A year later the wife, to her amazement, recognized him as a waiter in a London restaurnat. She addressed him by his name; he only smiled pityingly and politely at such an absurd suggestion, as if he thought the lady must have taken leave of her senses.

"She put the matter in my hands, and I was able to establish the fact that instead of crossing the Atlantic the missing husband had prosaically taken the train for London, had obtained a situation as waiter, and on the strength of his new occupation taken to himself a second wife. What motive had the man to leave his comfortable home and a good income for the life of a waiter?

"In another case a man of good position in London, after a few years of married misery, disappeared from his home, leaving this note addressed to his wife:

"'Annie, I have struggled hard to live peacefully with you, but I find it quite hopeless. As it is necessary for one of us to disappear from the scene I have determined that it must be I. Good-bye.'

Betrayed by a Habit.

"From that day not a trace of the vanished husband was found, although his 'widow' left no stone unturned to discover his fate; until eleven years after his disappearance, she met and recognized him within a stone's throw of her own door. It came out later that during all the years she had mourned him as lost he was actually living disguised in an adjacent street not four minutes walk from his own door. The disguise was so clever that she admitted even she would have passed him unrecognized, had he not in his nervousness, caused by the sight of her, betrayed himself by raising his hand and clutching his right ear—a habit which was peculiar to him.

"There is still living in the West of England to-day a venerable lady whose husband deserted her on the way home from church fifty-six years ago. No married life ever seemed to open more auspiciously. She was the only daughter of a wealthy business man, he was the son of a large landowner; both were young and handsome, and apparently devoted to each other.

"What happened during the fatal drive from the church no one knows, except the young couple. All that is known is that before the carriage had gone a couple of miles the bridegroom stopped it, got out hastily, and, ordering the coachman to drive on, disappeared in a wood which flanked the road.

"And from that moment nothing whatever has been seen or heard of him. Probably he has been dead for many a year; but the poor old lady still hugs the delusion that he will come back to her. 'I have waited a very long time for him,' she says; 'but we shall soon meet again,' probably they will—but not on earth."—Answers.

THE FEAR WOMAN.

In the Fear Woman, a thrilling story of a woman's sacrifice on account of her fear of heriditary, Miss Pauline Fredericks delighted a large and enthusiastic audience at the Grand Opear House last evening. The story opens on the eve of Miss Winthrop's (Pauline Frederick's) wedding, when she discovers a letter left her by her father who died some time ago a victim of drink, warning her that for four generations the Winthrops have been alcoholics and hoping that her children might escape the curse. Affection for her fiance, however, soon conquers her fear of heriditary and she proceeds with the preparations for her wedding until the day it was to have taken place, when a chance glance out of her window reveals a woman staggering home, led by a little child. And she immediately decides that she will not be married. A dramatic moment follows when Miss Winthrop informs the assembled wedding party that something has happened to prevent the wedding taking place. Her fiance seeks solace in the west and she in society. Later shebecomes involved in a scandal, of which she shoulders the blame to save her friend and through the scandal her fiance,, who is a lawyer and called in b yan irate mother of an only son who fears Miss Winthrop has designs on her only son 'Bubbles,' she has ample proof of her fiance's love and forgets her fears, and all ends happily. "A Woman's Fool," a stirring tale of the west, which is also included in the programme, provides an interesting story and contains many extremely ludicrous situations.

THE AIMS AND GROWTH OF FREEMASONRY IN ENGLAND

MEMBERSHIP OF BRITISH LODGES IS ADVANCING BY LEAPS AND BOUNDS —REMARKABLE STATISTICS.

LONDON, England. — At the grand festival of the United Grand Lodge of England, held under the presidency of Lord Ampthill, the pro-Grand Master, in the absence of the Duke of Connaught, there was a notable recognition of the provinces in the appointment of the Grand Lodge officers for the ensuing year. A very cheery adress was given by William B. Merlish, Past Grand Master of Ohio, who was visiting the Grand Lodge of England after an interval of eight years. He remembered, he said, that he closed his short speech on that occasion with the words that in his opinion the time was fast approaching when the English-speaking race would dominate the world. And, he added, to the accompaniment of laughter, "We are here."

The Brotherhood of Man.

"Freemasonry throughout the world," he continued, "pays respect to the Mother Grand Lodge of England and the 48 Grand Lodges of America pay respect to English Freemasonry. We are with you more than ever we were. Our hearts are united with English Freemasonry because we have been engaged in this great war for civilisation and for an unequalled era of the brotherhood of man in the widest and brightest sense, under the guidance of the Fatherhood of God. Freemasonry does not have to learn any new principles in regard to any new civilization and democracy, because they have always been our principles.

"Let me tell you, and it will doubtless be a surprise, that there are in the United States over 2,000,000 men who are Freemasons; one in every 16 voters in the United States is a Freemason. We do not talk politics, but sometimes we think politics. We do not talk religion, but upon every altar in every one of the lodges in the United States is the Holy Bible and we do the best we can to keep them straight on that question. The great upkeep in America of the Red Cross movements and the Y.M.C.A. movement has been in Masonic circles. We have raised over $500,000 for Masonic war work, and we are on the list of founders of your Freemasons War Hospital here in London."

In London, as in the provinces there have been many visits during the past two years from the members of the American Army and Y.M.C.A. movement, and the interchange of opinions has been beneficial to Englishmen, at any rate and it may be hoped beneficial to the visitors.

The craft of Freemasonry is particicpating in the general readjustment and purification of institutions as one of the results of the war, and this development is apparent, though of course, in a lesser degree, to those outside as well as to those within the brotherhood. In some respects Freemasonry in the United States is entirely dis-similar to Freemasonry in England. Study and research have been more prominent features of American Masonic life than in England, but in this respect a change, rapid but apparently deep-seated, is taking place in England. Social intercourse is a Masonic feature common to both countries, but in England hitherto it has been associated more with the festive board than with the academy of instruction . But manners with the times are changing, and here and there, in London and the provinces, study groups are being formed for the purpose of studying the history and fundamentals of the craft, many of such paving to an American—Dr. Fort Newton—the compliment of adopting his work, "The Builders," as their textbook, mainly perhaps, because it is the only modern book of instruction available.

What the Craft Stands For.

That such study will be beneficial cannot for one moment be doubted, because Freemasonry, holding aloof from both theological and political disputation, inculcates the highest morality, virtue and love to all God's creatures with love to God as its basis. The last of the trinity is the best known to the profane world, using the word "profane" in its strict literal meaning, as applicable to those outside the fane or temple, because its demonstration is public. The sums contributed during the war in England alone toward the support of the three Masonic institutions for the sons and daughters of brethern, and for the relief of distressed members of the craft and their widows, have increased with each year of the war's history, and in this, the year of peace, it seems probable that all records will be broken.

Members are increasing by leaps and bounds, notwithstanding the jealous care exercised in guarding the portals and making admission increasingly difficult. Lodges are becoming unwieldy in numbers, although they do not approach, except in a few instances, the general huge membership of lodges in the United States. Hitherto promotion in the lodges has been attained by seniority, members advancing to the Master's chair in regular order, regardless to length of membership. The opinion, however, is being circulated that while this method has certain advantages, it is not altogether calculated to be for the greatest good of the craft, and, that no one shall be appointed to any office except by merit.. Lodges are springing up not only in London, but in every province throughout England, and the same story is told by the Grand Lodges of Scotland and Ireland. In England only about 25 per cent. of the applications for charters for new lodges are granted, and some very substantial reason must be shown before a new lodge is warranted. Applications for admission into the order are not likely to diminish now that the heir-apparent to the throne has entered the craft.

How to Rid the Skin of Objectionable Hairs

(Aids to Beauty)

A simplified method is here given for the quick removal of hairy or fuzzy growths and rarely is more than one treatment required: Mix a stiff paste with some powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off wash the skin and every hair has vanished. This simple treatment cannot cause injury, but care should be exercised to get real delatone.

GIRL STOWAWAY ATTIRED AS A MAN

Dressed as a man, a young woman appeared before the Liverpool stipendiary. Accused, Elsie Williams, 21, was charged with having stowed away on an American transport. She was clad in a suit of workman's overalls, and had her hair closely cropped, and was discovered concealed in one of the holds of the vessel before it left Liverpool for America. She was then wearing men's attire. The stipendiary said that, according to a report which had reached him, the girl had already tried to stow away on a steamer in January last. Defendant's father, who belongs to Birkenhead, said the girl left home about two years ago. He occasionally heard from her by letter, and was now anxious to have her back. Her one object had been to get to America. The girl told the magistrate that she was willing to go home. The Stipendiary, to the girl; "Are you going to stop all this nonsense?" The girl; "Yes, sir." "Very well, then," remarked the Stipendiary, "I will give you a chance. You are placed on probation for 24 months."

ASTHMA CURED TO STAY CURED

THOUSANDS TESTIFY TO THE LASTING BENEFIT SECURED FROM CATARRHOZONE

CURES WITHOUT DRUGS

One of the finest discoveries in medicine was given to the public when "Catarrhozone was placed on the market about fifteen years ago. Since then thousands have been cured of asthma and catarrh. An interested of asthma and catarrh.An interest-in a letter from Creighton E. Thompson, who says:

"Nothing too strong can be said for Catarrhozone. I suffered four years from asthma in a way that would beggar description. I went through everything that man could suffer. I was told of Catarrhozone by a clerk in Findlay's drug store and purchased a dollar package. It was worth hundreds to me in a week, and I place a priceless value on the benefit I have since derived. I strongly urge every sufferer to use Catarrhozone for Asthma, Bronchitis and Catarrh."

The one-dollar package lasts two months; small size, 50; sample size 25c; all storekeepers and druggists, or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

PRICE CONTROL

The public has long accepted without serious examination the axiom of trade that prices are governed by conditions of supply and demand. Manufacturers commenting upon the consumer's clamour for the fixing of prices, assert that attempts to control the market are impracticable, that they will discourage production and eventually result in the defeat of the object which they set out to obtain. The increasing cost of living forces the public to the conviction that possible dangers of price control can scarcely be less serious than the harrassing troubles that arise out of the existing system. Recent investigations into the cost of foodstuffs awaken and tend to confirm old doubts that the law of supply and demand is not as spontaneous and automatic as the public has been led to believe.

Dr. W. T. Jackson's report of the canning industry in Canada shows that the Canadian Canners Limited have secured practically a complete control of this important industry. "The business of canning fruits and vegetables in this country," says the report, "is largely in the hands of two companies, the Dominion Canners Limited, and the Canadian Canners Limited, the first of which as an operating company, packs about three-fourths of the Canadian output, and the second of which is almost entirely a price-fixing organization for the Dominion Canners Limited, and others, which, together, put up and control eighty per cent. of the output of the country's factories."

Louis H. Capelle, Cincinnati prosecuter, who has been making a food investigation for months, says: "Our three months' investigation, which is being carried on now by our grand jury, shows that there is no question but that somebody is controlling prices. . . . Cold storage warehouses are a good thing, but they should be under federal control. Now they are being used for one purpose—to control prices."

Other evidence could be adduced to prove that prices are fixed. And since it is a fact that they are fixed, the public demands that control shall not be by manufacturers in their interest and in the interest of stock holders, particularly when the stock is heavily watered, as the Canadian Canners Limited is declared by Dr. Jackson. There is no desire on the public's part to interfere with honest, legitimate business, but downright profiteering can no longer be tolerated.

When the British Food Board fixes the price of cheese, Canadian farmers have cause to feel aggrieved, but the Canadian consumer's sympathies are inclined to applaud the British solicitude for the people, though Canadian cheese must sell for export at a limited price of 25c a pound.

Price control, therefore, is no experiment. Big business has developed it to a science. The French and British authorities are taking drastic steps to protect the consumer. There is a widespread agitation in the United States for relief from high prices, and in Canada there is a growing demand that price control shall in future be supervised by the Government. Big Business has shown the way.

AN ERA OF EXTRAVAGANCE

A Chicago newspaper says that merchants report that, despite high prices, the American people are spending money on a much larger scale and for much more expensive articles than before the war. In Great Britain also the luxury trades are said to be busier than ever before, even in the presence of much unemployment and unrest. It cannot be said that in Canada there are noticeable signs of economy or a return to simpler ways of living.

One explanation is that during the war the majority of the people handled more money than ordinarily, and that they acquired a habit of spending freely, which is not readily shaken off. The rise in prices compelled them to increase their sale of expenditure, but this lower value of money accustomed them also to think more lightly of a dollar, so that they now buy articles which they would not have purchased in other days because the price would have seemed prohibitive. So long as wages and incomes remain on a war level these spendthrift tendencies may not be checked, but the present state of things assumes that war-time conditions of unemployment will continue. If there should be industrial depression and a mass of unemployment, the high cost of living and the habit of free spending induced by steady work and high wages will recoil with very distressing results. The lesson is an old one, the necessity of thrift and providence and of wisely directing expenditures. Many have built up an artificial standard of living, which is not founded on the satisfaction of rational wants, but of wants which make life less useful and wholesome. This is the failing of people in all stations, and it may be admitted that those who have had most money to spend in the past have not, as a rule, set a prudent example to others who have had no opportunity until lately to be extravagant.—Toronto Globe.

A FAIRER PAY FOR EDUCATED HELP

A perusal of the classified advertising column of some of the leading daily papers in Canada on any day in the week will reveal a striking illustration of a rather disturbing situation in the sphere of education. Whole pages are devoted to advertisements for school teachers wanted. No other class of help wanted advertising anywhere near compares with this for space occupied in the paper. "Mechanics wanted," "help wanted," "for sale," "board and rooms," or any other kind of classified advertisements take a secondary place to "Teachers wanted." Why? The schools and colleges are turning our large numbers of well educated young men and women who are quite qualified to follow the teaching profession, but there is evidently a serious shortage of school teachers throughout the provinces.

A similar complaint is often heard in the annual gatherings of the different denominations with regard to the lack of candidates for the Christian ministry, but most of the leading religious bodies have frankly acknowledged the reason for this shortage of candidates. There are few inducements for men to enter the ministry in the way of remuneration for the time spent in training and education.

This is why so many teachers are wanted throughout the year. Brain workers are paid less than many labourers, a bricklayer, or mechanic, or even anordinary unskilled labourer is paid more than the average member of the teaching profession in Ontario. Just as long as the pay offered for men and women who have spent time and labour in training and education is inadequate and unequal to the outlay that has been made by these teachers, school boards will have to advertise for help.

A premium is placed on ignorance and lack of training when the boy who is too lazy to push his way through high school, but quits at the public school and goes to work, can get more money in the long run than the boy who by his industry and ability climbs up through normal school and training college to the teachers' position.

How long will the people of this country stand for the best pay being awarded to those who make no sacrifices, assume no responsibilities, and spend no time in early preparation for life's work? Why should the barber who cuts the hair on a boy's head be better paid than the teacher who trains the brains in it to meet life's battle and labour? The teaching profession by virtue of the quality of the work it accomplishes should be one of the highest paid professions in the land, but it is the most underpaid.

Unskilled and skilled labor has won its fairer wage scale by along fight as an organized body and it is now time that all brain workers got together and organized in their own interests and demand that the pay should not only represent the amount of labour done but the amount of preparation and training and education that makes the work possible.

The man who must assume responsibility is worth more pay than the man who has none. The man who has education, whether he is a teacher, clerk, store keeper, or whatever he is, is worth more pay than the man who has no education, or who is only partly educated. The brain as the executive organ should be paid more than the hand which is a mere tool. The teaching profession and all the long list of brain workers have a right to justice in the matter of wages.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Peterborough, August 4th 1919

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Saturday's Examiner contained a letter from Mr. W. H. Merrill, in which he stated that 95 % of the high cost of living could be attributed to indolence. I presume that the indolence referred to was on the part of the worker who objects to working from the rising of the sun to the going down thereof for whatever wage the employer wishes to hand out. In support of his statement he quotes two authorities—God and a Scot's mother in Victoria county. The commandment "Six days shalt thou labor and do all they work and on the seventh thou shalt rest" was not meant to apply to a portion of humanity, with another portion exempted. The command is no more to rest on the seventh than to labor the six days. What about the non-producing class, who are such because of wealth accumulated out of the overwork and under pay of the producing class. Are they exempted in Mr. Merril's opinion?

Indolence cannot be responsible for the increased cost of the product of the textile industry—where profits ranging from 72% to 300% were corralled by the profiteer. What remedy has Mr. Merril for the enforced idleness of many who are unable to secure employment at a wage that will maintain a family? When indolence is spoken of it usually refers to members of the army of producers, no mention being made of either the wealthy or the numerous faking class, who in some manner graft on the producer. It is true that the day was meant for service, but not for ignorant service. Long hours have hitherto meant nothing to the worker, but still larger profits and a still greater degree of luxury to the non-worker.

Truly the world is facing a crisis—but, I think that the intelligent worker does realize it. The present turmoil is the result of unjust conditions. "Go to now, ye rich men, weep and howl for your miseries that shall come upon you. Your riches are corrupted, and your garments are moth-eaten. Your gold and your silver is cankered; and the rust of them shall be a witness against you, and shall eat your flesh as it were fire. You have heaped treasure together for the last days. Behold the hire of the laborers who have reaped down your fields, which is of you kept back by fraud, crieth; and the cries of them which have reaped have entered into the ears of the Lord of Sabaoth."

The worker is to-day demanding that the foretold condition shall exist, when one shall not build and another inhabit, when every man shall sit under his own vine and his own fig tree and none shall make him afraid.

Thanking you in advance for the publication of this letter, I am, sincerely yours,

Joseph Richardson,
107 Aylmer St.

BARBARA ASKS NEIL FOR THE SAME CONFIDENCE HE GIVES BLANCHE

CHAPTER XXXIII

That night Neil came home in rare good humor. I noticed at once that he had been drinking—not much, but enough to make him a bit more talkative than he otherwise would have been. My heart sank, as it always did when he drank. I was so afraid it might grow upon him. It seemed to me he came home more and more often with the smell of it clinging to him.

"How did Blanche Orton happen to be with you and Mr. Scott this noon?" The question was as casual as I could make it.

Obviously, my question jarred.

"She wanted to talk to him," he said coldly.

I wanted Neil's confidence so badly that these half—no, not even half-confidences, hurt me cruelly.

"I am wondering what about. Surely she can have nothing in common with that man?"

"Like a woman — want to know everything."

I drew in a sharp little breath. His words, his tone, stabbed me. In spite of my burning curiosity, I said:

"I'm a wife, Neil as well as a woman,' I spoke with all the dignity I could command. Curious as I was, I would not let him think it was simply jealous, vulgar curiosity that had prompted my questions. And it was not. I felt that it was my right as his wife to know these things about which he was so secretive.

Now —altho I had firmly decided in my mind only a few hours before that all the innuendos, all the hints I had heard, all that Mr. Frederick had told me, were emanations of minds incapable of doing what Neil could do, and untrue—now my doubts returned in full force. Doubts of both kinds—of his business, and of his relation with Blanche Orton.

I stole an annoyed glance at Neil. Presently he lurched forward a bit in his chair, then straightened himself with an obvious effort to disguise from me what I already knew; that he had been drinking.

"Don't look at me like that, Bab—what's got into you to-night?"

"Nothing, Neil. But something has got into you. Please, dear, don't drink. I am afraid. Afraid for you and—for me."

"Nonsense! I only take a couple after I am through at the office. It braces me up. I shan't end in the gutter" like the story books say, so don't worry."

"Neill, won't you take me into your confidence?" I begged, "I don't like to feel that my sex and my power to amuse you, and my home making ability are the only links between us. It I an insult to my intelligence. Perhaps I might not understand things all at once; perhaps I could be of no help or asistance to you. But I should be so much happier, Neil, if I felt that you were making me your confidante, that you let me share all your life instead of only a part. Women are doing many things now-a-days, Neil. They are successful in business and in the profassions. It shows that it is not brain power that has been our lack or the reason that we have not competed with men long ago. I have read of women who have been the inspiration of the men they married—who have given them ideas which make for success. How do you know but that I might be such a woman? You see, Neil dear, you don't give me a chance."

Instead of answering immediately, he looked at me through half closed lids a moment. Then:

"You say you might give me ideas that would make for my success. Am I not successful enough to please your ladyship? What do you want that I do not provide? Don't you have as much or more than any of the young women who have been married scarcely four years, and whose husbands are but thirty years old? It seems to me that if you stop to think you will not find it necessary to make a plea to help me—a cover for what is just plain curiosity. Once more I ask, Bab, what do you want that I do not provide?"

"The same confidence you give to Blanche Orton."

To-morrow — Barbara and Neil Have a Quarrel.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Every Swedish girl not born to wealth is taught a trade of some kind.

Polish women are renowned for the beauty of their hands, they place gracefulness of the hands above all other charms.

Vermont's army of women workers in industrial establishments increased 33.3 per cent. during the last six months of 1918.

In some parts of China it is still considered a high act of virtue for a woman to commit suicide after the death of her husband.

A bride in Korea begins her married life in silence. During the first day she must not speak, even to her husband. It is considered a breach of etiquette. But the next morning she is permitted to give full rein to her tongue.

The women of Meico use fireflies as jewels. They tie them in gauze bags and put them in their hair or their clothing. Then until they require them again they keep them in little wire cages and feed them on scraps of sugar cane.

When a Siberian bride enters her husband's home for the first time she must be prepared to show her skill in cooking. She is expected to give a dinner prepared with her own hands as a test of her education in the culinary art.

New York restaurant and lunch rooms patronized wholly or in part by women are said to experience far more difficulty than other establishments of the kind in securing and retaining waiters or waitresses. Several explanations have been given but the two chief reasons seem to be that the women patrons are far more difficult to please than the men—and the women don't tip. Even with large placards on the wall saying "No Tips," a man will leave a dime behind him He simply can't help it. He has not the courage not to. But the majority of women do not hesitate to leave the table without placing a gratuity under the plate. Minus the customary tips ,the waiter who serves in an establishment patronized by women has only his small wages for his work. Consequently he accepts employment in such a place only when he cannot find a position in a man's restaurant

GIRLS! USE LEMONS FOR SUNBURN, TAN

Try it! Make this lemon lotion to whiten your tanned or freckled skin.

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle, sunburn and tan lotion, and complexion whitener, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of Orchard White for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands, and see how quickly the freckles, sunburn, windburn and tan disappear and how clear, soft and white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless.

BACTERIAL SOFT RO

Disease Is Causing Great Los of Vegetables.

Cauliflower, Carrots, Turnips, Celery and Tomatoes Particularly affected—How the Disease Spreads—Its Symptoms and Remedy—Great Care Necessary During Harvest and Storing.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

BACTERIAL soft rot is a disease liable to attack fleshy vegetables and flowers, particularly carrots, cauliflower, turnips, celery, tomatoes, iris and gala lily, and in a lesser degree onions, asparagus, salsify, sugar beet and mangel. Occasionally the disease results in heavy losses to the grower of these crops.

As the name signifies, the disease results in a soft, wet rot of the plant attacked. The rotted portion of the plant is darker in color than the rest of the plant. The color of the diseased part varies from a light, reddish or greenish brown to a very dark brown.

Cause of the Disease.

The disease is due to the action of a certain species of bacillus known generally as the vegetable soft rot bacillus. This is a very minute organism about 1-10,000 of an inch long and 1-20,000 of an inch thick, but when it gets into the vegetable tissue through a wound made by the hoe or cultivator or insect bite, it feeds on the plant juice and multiplies rapidly and as it develops it produces an enzyme, which digests or softens the firm tissue, breaking it down into a soft, pulpy, strong-smelling mass, which is easily detected. In this soft-rotted tissue the bacilli will be present in millions.

In cauliflower the disease is found more often in the flower than in the leaves or stem, the latter parts, however, are also subject to attack.

In young the [illegible] through caterpillar or slug attack, or through injuries received during hoeing or cultivation. It softens or rots the leaf petioles at their base, causing them to fall over, and spreads slowly in dry weather, rapidly in wet weather, through the tissue of the root, inducing a brown-colored soft rot, with strong odor.

In carrot the disease enters and develops in much the same way as described for the turnip. It is more apt to spread rapidly through a crop that is thickly sown and not well thinned out, the shade produced by the heavy tops making ideal conditions by keeping the ground moist for the development of the disease when once it gains entrance, and harboring slugs and caterpillars that spread the disease. Carrots which crack beneath the ground are liable to be attacked by the disease, the soft rot bacillus gaining entrance to the tissues through the cracked surface.

In celery the disease is not very common, but when present is most often found starting at or near the tops of the young growth.

In tomatoes the bacterial soft rot is very common during wet seasons. It is found most frequently in the fruits that are in contact with the soil after they have commenced to ripen. The bacillus will not readily penetrate through the unbroken skin of the tomato. But when a tomato is resting on the damb earth, that part of the skin in contact with the soil is frequently weakened, thus providing a means of access to the bacillus. This, however, is not the only means whereby the disease enters the fruit. Slugs are very partial to tomatoes just ripening. In their attack on the fruit they eat through the skin, leaving the interior flesh exposed. This exposed surface is an ideal medium for the bacillus of soft rot to develop in. The writer has found many tomatoes, particularly in wet seasons, when slugs are plentiful, that have contracted the disease in this way.

Eradication and Control of Disease.

Spraying with fungicides, which is so effective in controlling the fungous diseases of plants, is of no avail with bacterial diseases, as the bacteria which cause the disease eat in the interior tissue rather than on the surface; hence the spray will not reach them.

Spraying with insecticides is helpful indirectly, as it tends to keep in check the insects, slugs, caterpillars, etc., which are one of the most common means of spreading bacterial diseases from one plant to another.

As a rule, the best method to adopt in dealing with a plant infected with bacterial disease is to carefully remove and burn it. Insects, garden tools, etc., coming in contact with it will spread the disease to the plants with which they come in contact later.

Therefore, in order to prevent losses from bacterial soft rot of plants, remove and burn affected plants, or parts of plants, as soon as observed; be careful during cultivation not to wound plants, and keep caterpillars, slugs and biting insects in check. Affected plants should never be put on the compost heap or manure pile.

Harvesting and Storing.

When harvesting and storing turnips, cauliflower, cabbage, celery, tomatoes, or other vegetables from crops in which the disease has been present, great care should be taken not to include any specimen that shows the slightest appearance of the disease, or to smear the healthy specimen with the soft rotted parts of diseased specimens. If these precautions are neglected, the disease is liable to establish itself and spread more or less rapidly through the entire crop stored.—D. M. Jones, B.S.A.

COMMITTEE WILL MEET CONTRACTORS WHENEVER NEEDED

COUNCIL DEPUTES RESPONSIBILITY --SOME LABOUR MEN OBJECT

Aldermen Phelan, Taylor, McIntyre and Hamilton were appointed a special committee at last night's Council meeting to consult with the Russell-Townsend Company on any questions the company might desire to discuss with the city. The motion was proposed by Ald. Edgar and seconded by Ald. Garside.

Ald. Gainey insisted that the company had promised to submit to the Whole Council the details of any important matter which they felt should be taken up with the city. Mr. Townsend had made that very plain and Ald. Gainey thought there should be no departure from that plan now.

Ald. Morrison and Ald. Crowe also objected, but Ald. Edgar stated that the Council couldn't be called every time the contractors wished to meet the city's representatives.

Ald. McIntyre declared that the Council should have every confidence in the small working committee.

Ald. Hamilton offered to give way to Ald. Morrison, but the latter replied that he was not looking for a place on the committee.

Ald. Gainey— I'm not concerned about the small items but I do want to know what the contractors are doing about big purchases of cement, steel, etc. We were assured that this information would be given to the Whole Council.

After the original motion carried, Ald. Morrison moved, seconded by Ald. Crowe, that it be rescinded and that reports be made to the Whole Countil. Only Alderman Gainey supported the mover and seconder.

COULDN'T ENDURE THE COUNCIL'S LATE HOURS

JOSEPH RONCO UNLIKE THE ALDERMEN, NEEDS SLEEP—MR. HAMLIN'S NOTICE

Joseph Ronco, 544 Donegal street, has estimated at $65 the damage to his property caused by last Spring's floods. Mayor Duncan told him to bring his complaint to the Council, and when Mr. Ronco was informed last night that his case had been referred to the Legal Committee, his impression apparently was that he had been simply put off. It seems he had been at a previous meeting of the Council and the late hours upon which the Aldermen thrive leave Mr. Ronco unfitted for his labours on the morrow. Mayor Duncan tried to assure him that his petition would be considered and also that action was under way to clear the Downie street creek of obstructions.

His Horse Injured

Herb Hamlin wrote that his horse which he rented the Board of Works had met with an injury on July 23rd which had left a leg swollen and lame.

It was stated that Mr. Hamlin had given the use of his horse for its feed at the fire hall and that it had not been rented. The details will be investigated.

Danger Signs

Ald. Phelan was authorized to secure danger signs to be placed at the Hunter street bridge warning the public to be careful. He was also instructed to enquire into insurance against public liability for accidents to pedestrians and to report.

GRANITE SURFACE TO WITHSTAND GAS

A VARIATION OF MR. BARBER'S SUGGESTION FOR BRIDGE FINISH

After considernig Mr. Frank Barber's recommendation that the exterior surfaces of the bridge that are exposed to general view be finished in chipped granite to make its appearance a harmonious whole, Mr. C. J. Townsend suggested last night a slight variation of this plan.

Mr. Barber proposed to put the granite not only in the railings and other parts above the floor, but also in the vertical walls and in strips on the outside edges of the soffits of the arches, giving the appearance of an entire granite finish.

Mr. Townsend reminded the Council of the corroding effect of sulphurous gases from engines on limestone, and suggested that granite be used in all the outside work, but that it be chipped only where it would be seen.

Mr. Barber commended this idea, and instead of the plain concrete finish, even in the hidden ceilings of the arches granite will be used to secure a greater degree of durability, especially against the gases from the engines that will pass beneath the bridge on the Quaker Oats Company's sidings.

PETERBORO' HAS 3000 FEET OF BILLBOARDS

COUNCIL WILL CONSIDER DETAILS OF PROPOSED LICENSE

The total length of billboards in the city is 3,000 feet according to Mr. W. Stocker's information given to the Council last night. He stated that he had no intention of evading a license. Peterboro had not fixed one before, and the answers received by the Council from various towns in Ontario showed that the average fee was $15. Mr. Stocker suggested the fee be $25. He was wiling to pay any reasonable sum.

Ald. Crowe—If we knew your receipts we could decide what was reasonable.

There wasn't a business in the city that would expose its private business, Mr. Stocker replied.

Some members confused the delivery of bills with the billboard license Ald. Edgar pointed out that these were two separate suggestions.

"If we are going to give Mr. Stocker a monopoly", said Ald. Edgar, "then I don't think $25 is sufficient. If you would give me a monopoly to sell paper here I would pay double my taxes."

Ald. Phelan moved seconded by Ald. McIntyre that this question be referred to the Committee of the Whole.

BOYS STOLE SIBERIAN HARE AND CASHED IT

PARENTS MUST DAY FOR THEIR HOPEFUL'S BIG IDEA

The ingenuity of some small boys in obtaining easy money was rather comically illustrated in the Juvenile Court this morning, when two Ashburnham lads were accused of stealing a Siberian hare. After the big fat hare had been captured the boys sold it for a dollar, which in this weather doubtless quickly melted in the form of ice-cream.

Their parents were required to pay a fine of $13.85.

It is easier to make a new quarrel than it is to patch an old one.

ST. CATHARINES HAS CARS ON SUNDAYS

ALD. GAINEY APPREHENSIVE THAT LOCAL WORK WILL PILE UP.

"Street cars in St. Catharines operate on Sunday" was one of the bits of information received in the Council's communications last night.

The Trades and Labour Council's inquiry about the legality of one-man street cars was referred to the Railway Committee.

Ald. Gainey, referring to the prospect of the construction of a filtration plant by the Utilities Commission, remarked that if all the local work now planned is proceeded with there will be a scarcity of labor, outside help will have to be brought in, and the Peterborough men would not receive the full advantage of the work.

Mayor Duncan: I don't think they will go ahead with the filtration plant this year.

Ald. Turner: They won't proceed until conditions are favourable.

Ald. Gainey made a gesture to submit a motion, but on a second thought, dismissed it.

TIMELY SHOE SALE

"It's an ill wind that blows nobody good," is true of the August reduction sale of footwear at the Peterborough Shoe Store, 301 George street. It's anniversary time down at this busy store, and all summer footwear has got clearance orders. The stock is well selected and up-to-date, but, better still, the clearing prices will save ladies over a dollar on the present prices of each pair. The sale prices are as favourable to men as they are to ladies.

WILL DISCUSS THE COUNCIL'S ACTION

A special meeting will be held at Club Headquarters of the G. W. V. A. tomorrow night at 8 p.m. for the purpose of discussing the action of the City Council in reference to the position of accountant for the Hunter Street bridge. Every returned soldier in the city is requested to attend.

PAULINE FREDERICK'S ART BASED ON RESTRAINT

Pauline Frederick's eyes, her mouth and her heavy, smooth hair all have evoked praise from her admirers and have come in for critical tributes from writers. In "The Fear Woman," newest of the Goldwyn pictures, to be seen at the Grand Theatre to-day and Wednesday, all these elements play their part in sustaining a brilliant characterisation. And there is yet another, Pauline Frederick's arm.

It is doubtful if the expressive star has ever before had the opportunity to reveal the full significance of her arm in accentuating the dramatic value of a scene. But all the printed words ever written could not tell so much as her restraining, clinging arm in the episode at the dinner party when Helen Winthrop's (Pauline Frederick) engagement to Robert Craig (Milton Sills) is announced by her father. In this bit of wordless by-play the highest mission of the silent drama is achieved.

The heroine's father is a victim of a hereditary taste for alcohol. It is the fear that she, too, will manifest this weakness that makes Helen Winthrop "The Fear Woman." Every time she discovers her father giving way to his craving her terror increases. She dreads the engagement dinner more than anything else, and her father begins to partake too freely she thrusts out a restraining arm.

Nothing save the stark whiteness of it is seen on the screen. Her hand reaches for her father's glass, it rests on his sleeve, mutely beseeching him to go no further, it clings firmly—everything is expressed. And yet Pauline Frederick's mobile face is not glimpsed.

Altogether this is a telling moment in "The Fear Woman," but is only one of many adroit touches calculated to keep the spectator on the edge of his seat wondering what will happen next. The incident is typical of the best in photo-dramas.

ARE OPPOSED TO PAVING GEORGE ST.

RATEPAYERS NOTIFY COUNCIL OF THEIR OBJECTIONS—MEANS HIGHER TAXES

Objection to the paving of George street south of the C.P.R. was communicated to the Council last night in a petition signed by Ed. Desautel, E. J. Holston, A. B. Cunningham, Mrs. Grace Allin, the Canadian Chicle Company, N. T. Laplante, the Chamberlen estate, B. D. Hall, M. H. Halpin, A. Taylor, Ben Paquette and others.

Ald. Phelan stated that Mr. Halpin had told him the pavement would mean $200 a year extra taxes.

City Clerk Armstrong, replying to a query from a manager stated that even if all the residents on the street opposed the laying of this pavement the Council could not be held up. The ratepayers might succeed in obtaining a restraining injunction from the Railway Board.

Ald. Hamilton—"It is too bad. I'd like to see it paved all the way down."

The Council decided not to withdraw the notice that has already been given of the intention to pave the street, but it was believed that the work would not proceed this year anyway. By next summer the ratepayers might change their attitude toward this project.

The petition was forwarded to the Council by Messrs. Fyck, Kerr and [illegible]

CIVIC HOLIDAY'S PROGRAMME AT THE EXHIBITION GROUNDS

AN EXCELLENT PROGRAMME PROVIDED FOR THOSE WHO WILL STAY AT HOME ON THE HOLIDAY.

AFTERNOON AND EVENING

It is only a few years ago that every neighbouring town and city, including Belleville, Port Hope, Cobourg, Lindsay, Sterling, Norwood, Tweed and places even smaller, put on a demonstration once during the summer, and in many cases several of them, to which the citizens of Peterborough were specially attracted and the habit formed of going out of town for every holiday in great numbers, the reason given being that there was no attraction provided for them at home, and the matter was put squarely up to the Exhibition Board to provide the amusements that would keep Peterboorugh people at home, provide them with good, clean, wholesome amusements, as good as they could get away from home, and at a smaller cost.

This has been done for the past three years, but it has kept the Board busy as well, and many who might have otherwise taken a holiday out of the city have been pleased to give their time to getting up holiday programmes and running them off because their efforts have been appreciated by the great majority of citizens who would have been forced to go to other points for a change at a considerable cost. The result has been that a great deal of Peterborough's money has been kept in the city and in addition much outside money has been brought in and spent here.

For Civic Holiday, afternoon and evening, a remarkably good programme has been arranged for the Exhibition grounds. One thousand dollars is offered in purses for speeding in the ring and the entries already assured make it possible to guarantee a good afternoon's sport of racing. The 91st Highlanders Band, of Hamilton, one of Canada's premier musical organizations, a band in every sense of the word, will give full concert programmes both afternoon and evening.

The McCarthy Juvenile Pipe Band, a remarkable musical organization, will give their programme of pipe music, band instrument music, dancing, etc., both afternoon and evening.

Two big, clean vaudeville acts have been obtained through McMahon and Dee of Buffalo, and the young ladies of the Y.W.C.A. organization, under the direction of Miss Littlefield, have consented to put on an exhibition of drills that is exceptionally clever.

In addition to the bands and the grand stand attractions there will be a grand display of fireworks in the evening, bringing to a close one of the best holiday programmes ever put on in the city.

HOW TO STOP BEING NERVOUS

Nothing Like Plain Bitro-Phosphate to Strengthen Weak Nerves and Increase Strength and Vigor.

According to a noted French Scientist, the most effective remedy for nervousness, insomnia and ailments due to depleted nerve force, is a form of organic phosphate known among druggists in this country as Bitro- Phosphate.

It is described as a substance which is similar in composition to the phosphorus naturally found in brain and nerve cells and, being easily and quickly assimilated, the work of creating nerve force, strength and vigor begins immediately it is taken into the human system.

There are many reports of astonishing results from its use, some showing remarkable improvement even in stubborn cases of long standing nerve weakness. As there are many kinds of phosphates, says should be guaranteed to procure the genuine Bitro-Phosphate as sold by MacDonald & Jury in Peterborough and all good druggists.

no doubt command a scattering vote in Nova Scotia and Quebec, and a solid vote in New Brunswick, a fifty-fifty split in Ontario, and a pretty unanimous support from the West—provided Premier Martin, of Saskatchewan, does not nip in at the last minute and pluck the prize.

QUEBEC AND ONTARIO ARE ON THE SAME SIDE.

For once Quebec and Ontario are on the same side—a couple of times—which is to say that Quebec is disposed to be sweet on Ontario's brace of favourite sons, George Graham and MacKenzie King—the one Sir Wilfred's friend, faithful to the end, and the other, Sir Wilfred's white-haired boy and rising hope. Both have a record of sound statesmanship behind them. King has the advantage of a special knowledge of labour problems, while Graham bubbles over with human nature, which makes a new friend for him every time he smiles. These two will probably figure with Mr. Fielding in the final ballot. Current opinion is that House Leader MacKenzie will not last that long, because his reputation is local, and he has not had time enough to widen it.

Lack of opportunity is hardly at fault, and "D. D.," whose genuine qualities have begun to tell, may develop unexpected strength in the running. Remain only the dark horses whom nobody knows anything about. What about the platform? Premier Murray, of Nova Scotia, who has had a large experience of platforms, says they are not nearly as important as a good leader—like Mr. Fielding, for example. A platform, so I am told, may have eight good planks and one loose board, and some day somebody steps on the wrong end of that loose board and it rises up and gives him a black eye. Another trouble with platforms is that they can be built in a day, but last a great deal longer—sometimes for twenty-six years—by which time they are out of date and a great inconvenience. However, that has not deterred the platform builders from doing a good job, free from knots and rough edges and splinters and things like that. I understand that it is a solid, sensible platform that will cause no trouble in the future, and that great pains have been taken to head off the "thou shalt not" cranks who are strong on that "verboten" stuff. It is a constructive platform, and runs to "do" more than to "don't." The tariff plank is said to be particularly sound, being planned and grooved with the McMaster resolution as a model.

THE SCENE AT HOWICK HALL.

Well, here we are at last—in Howick Pavilion, otherwise Machinery Hall. Some of the delegates complain that the machinery has been at work overtime already and threaten to throw a crowbar into the belting; but mostly it looks like harmony. From where I sit I can see seven Premiers out of the eight who comprise Exhibit A of the Great Love Feast. They are getting along together like a basket of eggs. The Hon. Frank Oliver is conversing affably with the Hon. Charles Cross, and there are many other strange but amicable conjunctures. The birds are twittering, the sun is shining, the Virginia Creeper peeps in at the window, the pavilion, which was last used for a dairy exhibit, smells sweetly of the placid cow and dairy by-products.

THE LIGHT IN THE WINDOW HAS BEEN MOVED.

The scene is almost sylvan, but the Liberal party is not out of the woods yet. It will be on Wednesday afternoon, when the Leader is chosen, after which the further proceedings will be in the nature of an anti-climax.

It is worth while noting that the overflow of the convention sleeps in the manufacturing annex, which is circumstantial evidence that the tariff will not be far away from their dreams. The candidates are not allowed to sleep here, because a restless ambition means a fevered pillow, which may disturb the other slumberers.

The nights are hot and bed clothes uncomfortable, so the delegation draw their yellow, pink, and white credentials about them, also their convention badges, and lie down in that simple way to pleasant dreams. The light in the window—what about that? Some bright mind has moved not only the light but the window to the platform in the big convention hall. The light shines through a transparent of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The fair is benignant with mood gracious. The light shines night and day like an altar taper, calling the faithful home, beckoning the wanderers back.

CAR SMASHED THROUGH DOOR

Last night, shortly after midnight, a car driven by a young man from Millbrook, went over the sidewalk at the corner of Hunter and Aylmer streets and smashed through the doors of A. W. Peakin's grocery store. The driver claimed that while coming in the gravel road his radius rods had been broken and that consequently when he tried to turn the corner at Aylmer and Hunter street, he lost control of the car and smashed into the door of the grocery store.

LIFT OFF CORNS!

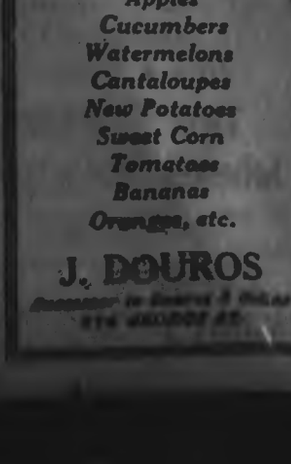
Drop Freezone on a touchy corn, then lift that corn off with fingers



Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a little Freezone on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then you lift it right out. Yes, magic! No humbug!

A tiny bottle of Freezone costs but a few cents at any drug store, but is sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

Freezone is the sensational discovery of a Cincinnati genius. It is wonderful.

ANOTHER BRITISH FLYING MARVEL

At Filton Aerodrome, Bristol, an aeroplane, after a short run of about 20 yards, rose at tremendous speed almost vertically into the sky. It was the first experimental flight of a machine fitted with the Cosmos "Jupiter," an entirely new type of radial aero-engine of 450 h.p. The machine was a Bristol "Badger" biplane, piloted by Lieut. C. F. Uwins. Capt. F. S. Barnwtll, designer of the machine, who accompanied Lieut. Uwins, said the 'plane is a "fighter with scout performance, originally intended for 1919 super-fighting or mail-carrying."

Mr. A. H. R. Fedden, technical director of the Cosmos Engineering Co., Ltd., said the "Jupiter" was the lightest aero-engine for its power yet made. The design, he said, was accepted by the Air Ministry last July, and gives promise of a speed for fighting or mail-carrying aeroplanes of 160 miles per hour, with a climbing capability hitherto unapproached.

Engints of similar design to the "Jupiter," but with 18 cylinders to develop over 1,000 h.p., are under construction.

EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY

CURED HER

Mothers should look well after their children during the hot summer months as this is the time of year when the young ones are liable to all kinds of bowel complaints.

If your children have any looseness of the bowels do not experiment with new and untried remedies. Get one having stood the test of time. Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has been on the market for the past 74 years. Don't accept a substitute and perhaps endanger your child's life.

Mrs. Willis Coupland, Sundridge, Ont., writes:—"About four years ago my little girl, then a baby two months old, took diarrhoea. I took her to the doctor but to no avail. After he had given her up, I read of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry and immediately got a bottle. Within two days she was improving fast. I cannot ever praise it enough I hope sorrowful sufferers will see this letter and find them to be friend indeed."

TINY WATCHES

Expensive watches are coming into fashion again among women, after being superseded during the war by the time-keeper of purely utilitarian design. The tendency is to make them as small as possible, and the most popular idea is that of tiny silver watches—square, octagonal, rectangular or round—worn on a wrist band of black watered ribbon. Another tiny watch is shaped as a globe about as big as a child's marble, which can be worn in a buttonhole. Watch chains are still to come into fashion again.

HAVE ROSY CHEEKS AND FEEL FRESH AS A DAISY—TRY THIS!

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast washes out poisons

To see the tinge of healthy bloom in your face, to see your skin get clearer, to wake up without a headache, backache, coated tongue, or a nasty breath, in fact to feel your best, day in and day out, just try inside-bathing every morning for one week.

Before breakfast each day, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it as a harmless means of washing from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the blood and internal organs. Those who are subject to constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, rheumatic twinges, also those whose skin is sallow and complexion pallid are assured that one week of inside-bathing will have them both looking and feeling better in every way.

Whole wheat bread and butter and a green salad form a most nutritious luncheon.

NEW OPERA STARS

The first month of Convent Garden Grand Opera was notable for the number of newcomers to the firmament of operatic stars. These have been chiefly masculine. During the long waits between the acts controversial conversation in the stalls, as well as among the music students in the gallery is all on which of the three new tenors is the coming Caruso. Many champion the young Irish-Lanchashire man, Thomas Burke. The Italian patrons of the opera hail him as their own, since he was trained in Italy, and made his name at Milan. There are others prepared to fight and die if necessary for the cause of the young Frenchman, Fernand Ansseau, and in the stalls one evening I heard three Society dames espousing the cause of the young Greek, Ulisse Lappas, to their menfolk. "He looks a hero and sings like one," was the unanimous opinion of the ladies.

MR. ALEX. ELLIOTT WAS APPOINTED BRIDGE ACCOUNTANT FOR THE CITY

SALARY WILL BE $125 A MONTH AND DUTIES TO RECORD AND REPORT ON COSTS AND QUANTITIES OF MATERIALS, LABOUR, WAGES AND OTHER DETAILS—MR. HAROLD GRAHAM IS CONCRETE INSPECTOR FOR STREET PAVING

Mr. Alex. Elliott was appointed accountant of the Hunter street bridge work for the city at a salary of $125 a month at the regular meeting of the Council last night, and Mr. Harold A. Graham, 563 Bethune street was made inspector of concrete for the paving of Water and King streets in the block from Charlotte to George street, for which Mr. Richard Sheehy has the contract.

Applications for the accountancy of the bridge construction were received from the following:— F. H. Claude Bartlett, $120 a month; W. G. Perks, $150 a month; Victor Hamilton, $35 a week; J. M. Davis, $1500 a year; V. P. Lewis, $125 a month; W. H. McDonald, 52 Olive avenue, $30 a week; S. T. Harris, $30 a week; Ernest Lee, Salary unstated; H. F. Ward, $2,000 a year, or any reasonable salary; Alexander Elliott, salary unstated; J. W. Stevenson, Aylmer street, $135 a month and J. C. Smith who asked for remuneration for the amount of ½ of one per cent. of the actual cost of the bridge, minus land damages, engineering fees and similar charges.

Five Names Voted On.

Ald. Edgar moved, seconded by Ald. Morrison, that Mr. Perks be appointed. Ald. Crowe and Ald Gainey recommended Mr. Davis; Ald. Garside and Ald. McIntyre submitted an amendment in favor of Mr. Elliott. Ald. Hamilton and Mayor Duncan proposed Mr. Stevenson and Ald. Taylor and Ald. Turner recommended Mr. Bartlett.

On the first ballot Mr. Perks received four votes, Mr. Elliott four, Mr. Bartlett three, and Mr. Stevenson and Mr. Davis two votes each.

On the second ballott Mr. Perks again drew four votes, and Mr. Elliott a majority. Ald. Edgar remarked that his selection might as well be made unanimous, and at least eight hands were counted. The applications were opened at a meeting of the Board of Works preceding the Council's session, and the recommendations were afterwards ratified by the Council.

Ald. Hamilton moved, seconded by Ald. Crowe, that Mr. Elliott's salary be $125 a month. It was also suggested that the city's accountant should work under the instructions of City Clerk Armstrong, but no definite action was taken in that regard for the present. Mr. Elliott, it was understood, would be instructed by Ald. Phelan, and Mr. Barber, the city's bridge engineer promised to give every assistance to Mr. Elliott.

Many Were Soldiers.

Eight of the applicants were men who had been overseas. Ald. Edgar referred to the high qualifications of Mr. Perks. Ald. Garside, Ald. Phelan and Ald. McIntyre spoke of the experience and proficiency of Mr. Elliott.

Mr. Harris is the son of Capt. Harris of the steamer "Geneva" and was employed by the Utilities Commission before going overseas. Mr. Ward is the local inspector of the Dominion, Police.

The Concrete Inspectorship.

The men who applied for the position of inspector of concrete in connection with the street paving were as follows:—John Creighton, 184 Lake street; A. R. Robson and Sam Belcher, salaries unstated; A. H. Webb, $30 a week; Frank Reynolds, 709 George street, $6.50 a day; H. A. Graham, $5.50 a day; J. Bruce Kennedy, 427 Smith street, $5; Stanley E. Wade, 87 London street, $125 a month; Albert E. Goodfellow, $4.50 a day; T. M. McFadden, $5 a day.

Ald. Hamilton moved, seconded by Ald. Turner, that Mr. Wade get the position and Ald. McIntyre moved an amendment seconded by Ald. Garside, that Mr. Graham be appointed.

The amendment carried with the following members supporting it:—Mayor Duncan; Ald. Crowe; Taylor; Garside; Morrison and McIntyre.

Mr. Graham is a young married man, a contractor and also a carpenter of wide experience. He is the son of ex-Alderman James Graham, and he is also a returned soldier.

Mr. Wade is the son of the late J. E. Wade of this city. He was four years overseas and before enlisting was employed by the Robert W. Hunt Company of Montreal, who specialize entirely in concrete inspection and have many offices throughout the country.

KEEPS CHILDREN WELL MAKES THEM ROBUST

HERE IS GOOD ADVICE FOR THE HEAD OF EVERY FAMILY.

Rapid growth, work at home and in the school room are sure to tax the strength of every child and often prove the beginning of a chain of weakness that lasts through life.

Give your sons and daughters a fighting chance. Give them good home surroundings, fortify them with education—but above all else do everything possible to insure for them perfect health in years to come.

In no way can you destroy weakness and build up health so surely as with Ferrozone. It's the concentrated nourishment in Ferrozone that enables it to do so much good. It contains the very elements that are needed in building up bone and sinew, in vitalizing and strengthening the blood. The appetite that Ferrozone brings will gladden any parent's heart, and when color, spirits, vim and energy increase day by day then you know what grand work Ferrozone is doing. Because it makes and keeps you healthy, because it is pleasant, harmless and sure to do enormous good—you and your children should use Ferrozone every day. Sold by all dealers in 50c boxes, six for $2.50, or direct by mail from the Catarrhozone Co. Kingston, Ont.

STOCKINGS OR NONE?

The Central Empires have left off stockings because they had none to wear. In France fashionable women from choice have discarded stockings in favor of the highest and most beribboned shoes. Sometimes they wear a sort of net made in the shape of a stocking, which has wide meshes and is really only the ghost of a stocking. Even in London, the thinnest of women's stockings could hardly go much further, and a suggestion has been made that black-leaded legs should suffice. The process, says the humorists, would have all the effect of silk stockings, would be very much cheaper, and would never need mending. At this rate it looks as if there will soon be profiteering in woad.

So many of us are anxious to do away with vices—in our neighbours.

Wise farmers never attempt to raise their crops in the political field.

LOCAL CENTRAL LEAGUE TEAM GAVE THE WESTERN CITY CHAMPIONS A GOOD BATTLE.

SCORE WAS 7-5

Before one of the largest crowds of the season the local Central Ontario League team was defeated by 7-5 at Riverside Park last night by the crack Moose team, champions of the Western League of Toronto. It was a snappy, well-played contest and was thoroughly enjoyed by the large gathering of fans. The visitors presented a clever, well-drilled outfit, and which will take a lot of beating in the O.A.B.A. play-off. Lefty Hardman, the start southpaw of the visitors, pitched a steady game, showing lots of stuff and coolness. He only allowed the Petes four hits in the seven innings he was on the mound, Harrison, who finished the game, allowing none. Kirn, who pitched for the locals, was in fine form and after the second innings, when Moose scored all their runs on a combination of bunts and a three-base hit by Bellegham, only two hits were made off his delivery. In this fateful second innings the trouble all started when Spanton was declared safe on his pop fly to Cherrett when the latter dropped the ball in tossing it to Rose after making the catch. Then followed a series of well-placed bunts and Bellingham's triple with the bases full and the damage was done. The locals fought hard all the way to cut down this lead, but did not quite succeed. Manager Solomon's team was weakened greatly by the absence of Max Swanston, their clever, hard-hitting catcher, who was unable to play owing to the serious illness of his mother. Long was also an absentee. Head caught splendidly, while Jackson covered first in clever style, accepting 17 chances without a slip. Rose and Cherrett did some snappy fielding, while Clancy was in the limelight with two pretty catches in the ninth. Eagleson's catch of Heenan's fly over second was the fielding feature of the visitors, the visiting second baseman going far into centre field and cutting off what looked like a sure hit. Following is the box score:

BELLEVILLE AND PORT HOPE WINNERS

THE MAIN EVENT WENT TO BELLEVILLE--TWENTY-FIVE RINKS TOOK PART--DOUBLES BEING PLAYED TO-DAY.

The premier event in Peterboro's annual bowling tourney was accounted for last evening when Belleville grabbed the Stratton silverware from the St. Matthew's rink of Toronto. The score hardly does justice to the quality of the game which was replete with enough good playing features to keep the back benches full of spectators until the last end was played. The doubles are being played today.

BELLEVILLE NOW TIED WITH PETERBORO' CLUB

BELLEVILLE, Aug. 5.—A Central Ontario baseball league match was played here yesterday afternoon between the G.T.R. team of this city and Port Hope, resulting in a win for the home team by a score of 9 to 0. Only two players of the Port Hope team reached third base. The result of the match leaves Belleville and Peterboro' a tie for the championship of the league. Home and home games may be arranged decide the winner of the league. A large crowd of spectators witnessed to-day's game. Mr. Thomas, of this city, was umpire on balls and strikes and Mr. J. Lewis of Port Hope, on bases. The line-up of the teams were as follows:

Belleville — Weir, shortstop; Meagher, third base; Ross, centre field; Mills, catcher; Gerow, first base; Kelleher, right field; Smith, second base; Symons and Morden, left field; Goyer, pitcher.

Port Hope—Rowden, second base, Hill, first base; Chalk, shortstop; Lowe, left field; Botter, centre field; Chalk, third base; Friar, right field; Sleeman, catcher; W. Hill, pitcher.

BELLEVILLE PLAYS HERE ON SATURDAY

The Belleville Central Ontario League team, who are tied with the Petes in the race for the League championship, will play here in the first game of the championship series on Saturday.

Belleville defeated Port Hope yesterday by a score of 9-0, and from all indications Saturday's game will be a battle royal.

The return game will be played in Belleville on the following Wednesday. If the series should result in a tie, the play-off will be on neutral ground.

Manager Solomon and his warriors have a work-out on Wednesday evening at 6.30, and are waiting confidently for the chance to test Belleville's mettle on Saturday.

BODIES HAVE NOT BEEN REMOVED

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—A thorough search by divers of the submarine, G2, which sank at New London, Conn., several days ago, has failed to disclose the bodies of the two sailors who went down with it. Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt said to-day.

HICKEY'S UNDERWEAR SALE

To-morrow will be the last day of Hickey's slaughter sale of "Tru Knit" and other favourite makes of underwear. On every garment you buy to-morrow you save from 75c. to $1.00 on present prices. Isn't that worth coming for? In fact you save more than that, if you take into consideration what the future advance prices will be.

CONVENTION OPENED TO-DAY

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Aug. 5.— At ten-thirty this morning Hon. Charles Murphy, as chairman of the local committee, formally opened the Liberal National convention at Howick Hall, and D. D. McKenzie, Parliamentary leader of Parliament, moved that Sir Lomer Gouin, Premier of Quebec and Hon. G. H. Murray, Premier of Nova Scotia, should act as joint chairmen of the convention. The building was well filled, delegates having begun to arrive as early as nine o'clock. During the wait, telegrams were read, the first from Miss Carmichael of Pictou, N.S., a delegate, regretting inability to attend. There were many women delegates, particularly from western provinces, Governor-General's Foot Guards band played the "Marseillaise" and all stood, the French delegates singing lustily. The tune changed to Yankee Doodle and all sat down amid general laughter. Shortly before opening a light was flashed on a large picture of Sir Wilfrid Laurier over the platfrom and there was more cheering. In his opening motion, McKenzie said the convention had assembled on the last will and testament of the great chieftain. It had been unanimously agreed that his wishes in regard to the convention should be carried out to the letter as far as possible.

When delegates assembled they were given printed rules governing election of the party leader, which set forth that a vote is to be taken on official ballots to be distributed on the morning of election day, that all nominations shall be in writing, that nominees desiring to withdraw shall do so by simple announcement without speaking in favour of another candidate. Balloting is to continue until one cabinet receives majority of vote cast, and after four ballots with no result the lowest candidate on each successive ballot shall be dropped. Scrutineers are to be nominated from each province, six each from Ontario and Quebec, two from each of the Maritime Provinces, three from each of the western provinces and one from Yukon. During the convention the mover of a resolution is allowed 15 minutes to speak and other speakers 10 minutes, but the chairman may limit speeches to five minutes if discussion is prolonged.

Sir Lomer Gouin and Premier Murray were unanimously elected joint chairmen and were heavily acclaimed by a crowded meeting. Mr. Murray delivered an address which probably struck the note to which the convention will be attuned. He was frequently applauded. He asserted that Union government's days of usefulness were over. He urged that no difference of opinion should now divide Liberals who believed in principles of conscription from those who thought otherwise when it was an issue. Mr. Murray thought there should be no great difficulty about leadership. The party throughout the country would loyally accept the choice of the convention. Sir Lomer Gouin then spoke briefly, and then, amid great enthusiasm on motion of Mr. Mackenzie, Liberal Provincial Premiers and Ontario Opposition leader took seats on the platform. As vice-chairman, Mr. Dewart, beginning, was singled out for special applause. Sir Allen Aylesworth moved and Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux seconded a long resolution on the death of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, which will be engrossed and sent to Lady Laurier. Sir Allen stated that Sir Wilfrid's great wish was that the work to which he had devoted his life should be carried on to the end and that dissension due to race and creed, should disappear from Canada.

D. C. Rosa and Mr. Pacaud were appointed joint secretaries of the convention, which adjourned at one o'clock to resume at four.

DAMAGE CLAIM FOR INJURY AT BEACH

NOTICE TO THE COUNCIL IN BEHALF OF AMOS FEELEY—OTHER BRIEFS

Tax Collector Green's request that the city pay his bill of $24 for a special assistant, in addition to the $450 allowed for office help, was refused last night.

"I'd ask him to hand in his resignation," said Ald. Crowe.

To Incorporate School Site.

Ald. Hamilton moved seconded by Ald. Turner, the formal resolution embodying the wish of the Board of Education that the site of the Peace Memorial School be incorporated within the city.

Rents at $5.00 a Year.

The city will rent for $5 a year a piece of ground north of the C.P.R. and west of George street, upon yhich a turn table will be built for C. P. R. engines.

A Claim for Damages.

Notice of a claim for unstated damages was received from Messrs. Gordon and O'Brien in behalf of John Feeley whose son Amos Feeley, was injured at the Lake street bathing place on July 15th. The boy's knee was severely gashed on a piece of jagged metal while he was playing in the water. It was intimated that the injured leg may become permanently stiff. —Referred to the Legal Committee.

Insure Bath House.

Ald. McIntyre was authorized to have the dressing quarters at Lake street bathing place insured.

G.W.V.A. Request.

Mr. R. R. Layfield of the G. W. V. A. Building Committee, requested the Council to apply to the Legislature for the confirmation of the Association's agreement with the city under which the local club rooms are exempt from taxation, also to secure for the association exemption from provincial and federal taxes.

A communication from the Trades and Labor Council asking whether the operation of the one-man street cars was legal, was referred to the Railway Committee.

Will Grade and Oil.

Edwin Kendry, P. A. Weatherston, and other interested residents, asked for oil o Water street north of the G.T.R. crossing.

Ald. Phelan explained that the road required to be graded otherwise the oil would be wasted. The roller would be sent up there in a week and Ald. Phelan remarked that in the residents wait patiently for a few days the street will be graded and oiled.

FIRST DAY OF CONVENTION DEVOTED TO CEREMONY

GREATEST GATHERING OF ITS KIND --A TRIBUTE TO SIR WILFRID LAURIER.

EIGHT PREMIERS

(By H. F. GADSBY.)
(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, Aug. 6.—The correspondents tell you all the news. So let me write a little colour story about the first day of the Convention, which was devoted largely to ceremony.

It is a great gathering, this first national Liberal Convention. The best in twenty-six years. As one delegate said, "It is such a large gathering that if it got any larger it might have to be lanced." And indeed, there may be a little lancing to-morrow. To-day it is kind words and mutual compliments, but I see a steely gleam in the Hon. Frank Oliver's eye, which may betoken knives out at a later hour. Just now all is harmony, which the band helps by playing "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," and other dulcifying tunes. Two singers add to the general concord, the one leading off "O Canada" in French and the other "God Save the King" in English. The preliminary announcer is the Hon. Charles Murphy, who is of Irish extraction. From is hands Judge D. D. MacKenzie, who is Scots, takes over the Convention, and he in turn hands it to the Permanent Chairman, Premier Murray, of Nova Scotia, and Premier Gouin, of Quebec. It will be seen that the committee has done its work well.

In these manoeuvres, convention etiquette have all the elements of a successful family re-union. I think of these groups en familee at the Chateau—the enemies of a year ago chatting over their cigars—and I can almost forget that there has been a jar.

Of course, the spirit of Sir Wilfrid Laurier haunts the scene. His face beams down on this great audience from the platform. His memory prevails. The first pious duty of the convention is to render to Caesar praise and affection. D. D. MacKenzie speaks of the greatest Liberal Convention in Canadian history as a carrying out of Sir Wilfrid's last will and testament, and being a Highlander he cannot forbear taking a fling at those who would question our right to be here. Premier Murray dilates upon the virtues of the dead leader, as does Premier Gouin—each offering palms and hosannas in his own language. Sir Allan Aylesworth then moves a resolution of regret at Sir Wilfrid Laurier's death, and Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux seconds it. Sir Allan's is the heartfelt tribute of a friend who loved the dead man as he might a brother. Sir Allan makes a good beginning on what promises to be a chaste and beautiful panegyric, falters, breaks down, starts again, but cannot continue.

UNSPOKEN TRIBUTE.

Tears fill his eyes; a sob trembles on his lips. He leaves the great speech unspoken, and plunges into the typewritten resolution to hide his manly sorrow. That unspoken speech of Sir Allan's will go down to history as the finest tribute Laurier ever had.

Rodolphe Lemieux, having his emotions under better control, delivers a gem of classic eloquency—a gem, by the way, with sharp edges for those who despitefully used the old Chieftain.

These solemn rites performed, the Convention gets down to earth and immediate business.

Mayor Fisher, of Ottawa, delivers an address of welcome, which leads me to suspect that he is a Liberal trying to peserve a good average as an official welcomer. On a hint he throws out that platforms come first and leaders afterward, and this hint, I understand is the policy of the Convention. The leaders all have to fit the platform rather than the platform fit the leader. This may make a great difference in the final ballot, especially if the platform has Radical trimmings. In that case, I would say that in the filling, the Graham-Mackenzie chances were that much worse and the Martin-King chances that much better.

FULL OF "PEP."

The band plays "O Canada" again—this time with an ironical squint at our national debt of two billion dollars, with more to follow. Again it draws melodious mention to the fact that the gang is all here—which it certainly is. It is here from the North Pole to the forty-ninth parallel—from the Atlantic to the Pacific and back again—old Liberals eighty years young like D. C. Bowlby, of Brantford, and young Liberals forty-five years old like Mackenzie King; and all full of pep and high purpose. I see a couple of Senators who, I thought, would be picking out their shroud by this time, but they tell me they would quit the grave to attend.

An interesting fact about this Convention is that the delegates are nearly all big men physically, which goes to prove that Liberal principles demand Liberal accommodations. Another fact is that all these delegates—except the Members of Parliament and Senators, who travel on passes—

BOOSTING THE PRICE OF WHEAT

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, D.C., Aug. 6.—The price of wheat to the people of the country is being kept at 20 to 30 cents above the $2.26 government guaranteed price to make profits for the United States' Grain Corporation, a government agency, Representative McCullough charged in a statemnt.

ROAD SIGNS HAVE BEEN PLACED

MANY FOREIGN CARS ARE COMING TO PETERBORO.

The Peterborough Automobile Association are to be congratulated on the neat road signs recently erected at every ertance to the city. These signs are 16x24, painted with "City of Peterborough, speed 20 miles per hour" neatly painted in black. These will be appreciated by tourists who are anxious to know the name of the city they are about to enter as well as the location of its limits. Quite a few foreign cars are noticed in our midst these days, and undoubtedly there will be a great many more as soon as the rads are improved. There is no reason why Petrborough should not bcome the gateway to the Kawartha Lake system, which for scenic beauty, fishing and general holidaying has no equal anywhere in the world.

VETERANS CROWDED OUT OF ENUMERATOR JOBS AT BRANTFORD

TORY MACHINE WORKERS GET WORK AS WELL—VETERANS STARRED.

Brantford, Aug. 6.—The list of enumerators as announced here for the provincial refenendum gives evidence of the fine hand of Toryism. For each ward at least one of the former ward workers of the Tory machine is named.

The only redeeming feature in the list is the presence of some eighteen names of returned soldiers. However, there are some 30 or more subdivisions and it is felt in many quarters that a much larger proportion of returned men should have been given the positions.

As a matter of fact, both the Labor and Liberal parties had tacitly refrained from sending in any names as it was agreed that nothing but returned men or their next of kin were to be employed.

A curious thing in connection with the publication of the names was the designation of each soldier's name with a "star." The question is being asked: "If the Government was responsible for this idea, what mark would they use should they manage to appoint one of the veterans to a real, sure-enough permanent position of some real worth?"

"Surely they cannot consider a fifty-fifty arrangement whereby eighteen soldiers and eighteen "ward healers" share the few enumerator appointments a 'star' performance," declared one veteran to-day.

RIOTERS WILL BE TRIED IN OCTOBER

FIFTY PERSONS ACCUSED OF SERIOUS CHARGE IN CHICAGO.

(Canadian Press.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.— Fifty alleged race rioters will be placed on trial in October for the murder and assault with intent to kill, conspiracy to riot and carrying concealed weapons, it wa sannounced to-day by the State Attorney. Speedier trial would be urged it was stated, but for the Supreme Court decision which declares that a person charged with crime must be given a reasonable time in which to prepare a defence.

SIR ADAM BECK ADDRESSED STORMY SESSION IN GUELPH ON STREET RAILWAY MATTERS

POWER KING ADDRESSED THE TRADES AND LABOUR COUNCIL --MAYOR FIGHTS BACK.

MEETING FRIDAY

(Special to The Examiner.)

GUELPH, Aug. 6.—It was nearly 11.30 last night when Sir Adam Beck concluded his speech to a crowded audience in the Griffin Opera House here in which he severely denounced the mayor and city council of Guelph for submitting a by-law to the people in favour of the C. P. R. taking over the Guelph Street Railway.

After the chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario had resumed his seat, after speaking for over two hours, Mayor Carler rose and said: "Sir Adam says I made statements that are absolutely false." (Cheers and boos and cries of "Put him out!") "I am here to prove it to you. I want the same hearing as Sir Adam Beck. I want you to remember for the time being that I am your Mayor. I have no interest but to do the best I can for you, and I intend doing that, nothwithstanding that Sir Adam Beck points the finger of scorn at me and my colleagues. I can safely say to you, ladies and gentlemen, that Sir Adam Beck is the most comic end man in any minstrel show ever known. He gives you no facts. He showed you 2,000 miles of roads on a map, and he heaped abuse on a corporation who are offering you an agreement, and he heaped abuse on the Council. He made a statement that the Council refused to sign a resolution. That is false. He put the agreement on the Mayor's desk, and said, 'Sign there.' That called for $73,000 more of your money than you had instructed your Council to vote on. It was referred to the People's Committee, and the only supporter was Alderman Hannigan. Sir Adam Beck makes a statement that every other municipality signed, and I challenge him to prove it."

"AN AMUSING NIGHT."

Sir Adam Beck: "Everyone we presented it to, did."

The Mayor: "All right, Sir Adam Beck. "I don't interfere with you." (Applause.) "I have confidence that the Guelph people will hear what I have to say."

Proceeding, the Mayor said that Sir Adam Beck had given him a very amusing night. "At no stage of the proceedings did he do more than point the finger of scorn at your Council. The carrying of power from where you have plenty to where you have none is a simple scheme compared to the operation of a railroad. I am pleased to meet the gentleman from Hamilton to-night, but they don't know locations." (Hear him.) "We don't appear at Hamilton and tell him what to do. We don't know anything about their locations. He claimed that when the facts were given to the Guelph people, they were intelligent enough to vote on the by-law next Monday without any advice from a Hamilton lawyer as controller." (Cheers.)

"It is now about 11.30 p.m." (cheers and cries of "Go on!"). "I can give it to you, but it will require an hour and a half. I want everybody who heard Sir Adam Beck to-night to give me a chance to reply. Give me one hour on Friday night, and I will lay my case before the jury, which you are; and that is all I wish."

The meeting coincided with the Mayor's wishes, and he will address a meeting on Friday night, and put his statement of the case before the electors.

FARMERS' PICNIC

The Peterborough Branch of the U. F. O. will hold their first annual Picnic by steamer Stoney Lake, down the River, landing for Sports and Supper, on Thursday, 7th August. ## WESTERN DELEGATES MAKE A GOOD IMPRESSION AT THE OTTAWA LIBERAL CONVENTION

CONSPIRACY WAS ORGANIZED ABROAD

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Aug. 6.—This afternoon's London newspapers make a feature of the statement printed in the "Times" this morning to the effect that it was understood the British authorities were convinced that the present strikes were part of a conspiracy organized abroad to subvert Great Britain's system of government. The statement added that the Government believed that if the police strike had succeeded it would have been the signal for direct action on a vast scale.

CONVENTION DELEGATES

RESOLUTION AT THIS MORNING'S SESSION IN HOWICK HALL.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Aug. 6. — About two hundred delegates arrived this morning to attend the Liberal convention and more are expected in time to participate in a vote for the leader. This morning there appeared to be a swing in favour of Hon. Fielding, due largely to a report that Premier Martin will definitely decline to allow his name to go before the convention. Premier Murray is being mentioned as a probable candidate, but he is supporting Fielding's claims. D. D. McKenzie, Mackenzie King and G. P. Graham are all still in the race, each with many supporters. Present indications are that no candidate will secure a majority on the first ballot.

At the opening of this morning's session a resolution was submitted that no change in the Canadian constitution in regard to the relations of Canada to the Empire ought to come into effect until after having been passed by Parliament and ratified by a vote of the Canadian people, on a referendum. This resolution was moved by Senator Dandurand, who said discussion was now progeeding in London in regard to remodelling the British constitution. Devolution, with local parliaments for England, Wales, Scotland and Ireland, was now before the British public. Any action taken by the British Parliament would have its natural effect on the Dominions. Apportionment of power between the Legislatures of different Dominions and the Imperial Parliament was threatening Canadian jurisdiction over certain matters and was one of the most important of questions now looming up.

Imperial Control.

An amendment by W. D. Gregory, of Toronto, makes the resolution stronger. It objects to any attempt to centralize Imperial control. Amended resolution was adopted with a general shout of approval.

Mr. John Boyd, Montreal, supporting the amendment, asserted an insidious campaign was being waged in London which would strike at the foundation of the Confederation Pact, and Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux said there is an insidious movement on foot to destroy Canadian autonomy.

Hon. Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture for Alberta, who was called on for a speech, declared he would be glad to burn every custom house between Canada and the States. Mr. Hartley Dewart, who followed him, declared the Union Government, which had been appointed to govern on one issue, was abusing its powers. He told the convention that Ontario was getting rid of its middle men, and declared it was the duty of Liberals to fight for the right of the people.

A second resolution condemned the government because it has not properly enforced the income tax law. This was carried unanimously, and at half past twelve the convention took recess until two-thirty.

HARTLEY DEWART GETS A BIG HAND --HANDING OUT LIFE JOBS TO LIBERAL UNIONISTS.

"A WHITE HOPE"

(By the Examiner's Special Correspondent.)

HOWICK HALL, Ottawa, Aug. 6.—The band from a balcony at the rear of the Convention Hall opened this morning with "Britons Shall Never be Slaves," and the immense crowd of men and women stood and cheered time and again. God Save the King and O, Canada followed, with the vast throng singing with wonderful spirit.

All the delegates are seated in labelled sections, Ontario and Quebec with the largest representations.

The western delegates are a strong, vigorous, active lot, nearly all the men being, I would judge, under forty-five. The other provinces' representations contain many younger and older men—loyal old party men who believe in Liberalism and rule by the people as a part of their very lives.

Hon. A. G. McKay is here. So is Frank Oliver and a number of the Alberta, British Columbia and Saskatchewan cabinets.

Saskatchewan has its own crowd—they and the Albertans travel arm and arm and talk wheat——all wheat. They say they have no politics in the west—it is all Liberal or United Grain Growers, which is somewhat the same.

Manitoba is right at the front with a large representation, some of whom think Premier Norris was too much Union, and are inclined to find fault with him. The rest of the provinces have huge representations, except Prince Edward Island, and they rely on their recent good record.

Promptly at 10.30, Hon. Chas. Murphy declared the convention open, and as the Hon. Sydney Fisher; Sir Allen Aylesworth, Geo. P. Graham, Mackenzie King, D. D. Mackenzie and Provincial Premiers and the other leaders ascended the platform, the crowd to their feet and cheering time and time again.

D. D. Mackenzie, in nominating Hon. G. H. Murray, Premier of Nova Scotia, and Sir Lomer Gouin, Premier of Quebec, as joint chairmen, made a short, snappy address which pleased the crowd.

Eight Provincial Premiers either were present or sent their ambassadors, and for fighting, aggressive Liberalism, this convention is the greatest ever held.

HARTLEY DEWART.

Hartley Dewart walked to the platform while Premier Murray was making an address, and the whole convention arose and cheered Mr. Dewart time and again. The Ontario delegates, who occupy the west side of the Hall, showed in no uncertain way that Hartley Dewart was elected by the vote of the Liberals.

Fielding's chances seem to be impaired by too much support from Tory newspapers. Tory support is a handicap for any person who advocates rule by the people. It is not his former connection so much with the Union government as that he has a great deal of Tory eulogy, which is a bad thing in a Liberal convention.

Sir Allen Aylesworth moved a resolution of condolence and paid a stirring tribute to Sir Wilfrid Laurier's memory. The former Minister of Justice seems to have his old time vigour, but his deafness prevents him from engaging in ordinary conversation. He speaks with a clear, carrying voice, and his English is beautiful—so well selected and such fitting phrases ingeniously used.

HANDING OUT LIFE JOBS.

Carvell has tasted the flesh pots. A Liberal Unionist member told me this morning that Borden promised all Liberal Unionists joining his Cabinet a life job if the Liberals would not renounce them after the war. Carvell had a chance to go back to the Liberals, but he called for a soft job and got a $12,000 a year place as chairman of the Railway Board. He got his wreath of olive leaves, but his reward does not cause him to be loved by the old time Conservative. His conversion was too sudden.

Rowell is slated for the Chief Justiceship of Ontario, so a Conservative member told me, but Chief Justice Meredith does not feel inclined to give up his place for anything that has been offered him. It is suggested that Chief Justice Meredith may be chair-

NEW YORK STRIKE IS SPREADING

(United Press.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 6. — The strike of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company conductors, motormen and guards, called at five o'clock this morning, appeared to be growing towards noon. Service on some branches of the subway and elevated lines was badly delayed, although the surface car traffic continued near normal.

LOWER PRICES FOR FOOTWEAR

GOVERNMENT RESTRICTIONS ON LEATHER EXPORTS DESIGNED TO BRING CHEAPER FOOTWEAR.

OTTAWA, Aug. 6.— A substantial reduction in the price of shoes throughout Canada is hoped for in consequence of restrictions placed on the export of raw hides, skins and leather by the Minister of Trade and Commerce. The objects of the restrictions, announcement is made, are to protect the Canadian consumer against continued high prices for shoes.

The restrictions now being put in force prohibit the export of any hides or leather without a permit from the Canadian Trade Commission, which, it is understood, will be granted only in unusual cases. Further action taken by the Government toward the reduction of shoe prices consists in the callingof a conference of those interested in the trade, at which the existing situation will be thoroughly considered.

Shoe manufacturers view the action of the Government in different lights. Reports from Montreal indicate that manufacturers there view the proposed restrictions dubiously, if not with hostility, declaring them totally impracticable. It was pointed out that factories which had been running at full blast all summer would likely have to close if exports were restricted.

KILLED WHEN HORSE BOLTED

(Canadian Press.)

COLLINGWOOD, Aug. 6.— Mrs. Charles Brooks was killed and her sister, Miss Katie McDermid, severely hurt, in a runaway accident yesterday. While on their way to a picnic they stopped to water the horse who, when the bridle was removed, bolted, upsetting the buggy and throwing the ladies out on the road.

CORN TAKES A BIG JUMP

Canadian Press.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—The instantaneous upward jump of four and a half cents to 9 1-8 cents a bushel was the response of the corn market to-day to the announcement that the government would maintain a guaranteed $2.26 price of wheat.

COUNTY PROVINCIAL ROAD DESIGNATED BY COMMITTEE

WITH DEPARTMENT'S APPROVAL IT WILL BE THE GRAVEL ROAD TO PETERBORO, THE NORWOOD ROAD THROUGH OTONABEE AND THROUGH BELMONT TO HASTINGS BOUNDARY.

TO CONFER WITH CITY

The city's participation in the County's good roads scheme was one of the topics discussed at the meeting of the County's special committee yesterday afternoon. Deputy-Reeve Eason of Otonabee was commissioned to confer with the City Council in regard to the improvement of the suburban roads.

Under the Highways Act the County is not required to obtain the consent of the city in launching the good roads scheme, but there is one saving restriction that limits the expenditure of urban municipalities under the system to one-half mill on the taxes. The four townships that have combined in accepting the government's assistance have not yet officially notified the city of their plans and road work will be well under way before the county's representative notifies the city council that they are expected to start something on the main roads that reach out into the southern townships.

Reeve Brown of Asphodel was appointed chairman of the County Roads committee yesterday. The other members present were Warden McIntosh and Messrs. Eason, Bell and Griffith. Mr. Muir, an engineer from the Ontario Department of Highways assisted the committee in their deliberations.

A County Provincial Road.

Warden McIntosh moved, seconded by Mr. Griffith, that the county road known as the Port Hope Road from the boundary between Northumberland and Durham at Fraserville to Peterboro city, thence easterly from the city to Norwood, through Otonabee and Asphodel to the boundary between Peterboro and Hastings Counties be, if approved by the Department of Highways, adopted as a County Procial Road.

Mr. Griffith moved, seconded by Mr Bell that Mr. Eason be appointed to confer with the city in regard to the city's participation in a suburban area.

Moved Mr. Eason, seconded by Mr. McIntosh that the matter of engaging foremen and necessary help, be left in the hands of the Superintendent and the representatives of the respective townships and they be empowered to pay such wages as are necessary.

THE WEATHER

Rain is needed and needed greatly. Not in recent years has the country side had the baked, burned and browned appearance that it presents at the present time. The last good soaking rain that fell in this district was on June 26th, and while several showers have since fallen they have been of a minor character. The rainfall for July was only about 50 per cent. of average, and none has fallen in August up to the present. "All signs fail in dry weather," is an old but nevertheless trite proverb.—W.B.

ROUMANIANS ISSUE AN ULTIMATUM

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, Aug. 6.—Roumanians have served an ultimatum on the Hungarian Government, according to messages reaching the Peace Conference. Ultimatum makes demands far in excess of the armistice terms and gives the Hungarians until eight this evening to-day to comply with them.

It is greatly feared in Conference circles that the Roumanian action will result in the overthrow of the new Hungarian Government.

French circles state that the Roumanian army is not under command of Marshal Foch. Roumanian generals refusing to accept orders from the French. The Roumanians have not been actively participating in the Peace Conference since Premier Bratiano some time ago took exception to the decision of the Conference upon the principle guaranteeing rights of the minorities within national borders.

In their ultimatum the Roumanians demand the reduction of the Hungarian army to 15,000 men and surrender of fifty per cent. of harvest animals and farm machinery and fifty per cent. of railway supplies.

LAID NINE EGGS IN 42 MINUTES

MADISON, Wis.—Prof. J. G. Halpin, of the poultry department of the University of Wisconsin, has spent several days in La Crosse, Wis., as a guest of Gustave Rhodes, owner of the hen Biddy, which has puzzled poultry experts by her record of laying an average of 28 eggs a week for the past two months. Prof. Halpin is convinced that except for her egg laying propensity, Biddy is a normal hen in every way. He has examined her carefully and has observed her actions. One day he saw her lay nine eggs in 45 minutes, and the next day seven in half an hour. Prof. Halpin is arranging to exhibit Biddy at country fairs this fall and will ask for a university appropriation to purchase the hen for $2,500. He declares that it would be possible to cross breed poultry so that hens would ordinarily lay two or three eggs a day, just as the milk yield of cows has been increased through regulated cross breeding.

BE PRETTY! TURN GRAY HAIR DARK

Try Grandmother's old Favourite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural colour and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of his famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, for about 50 cents.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

HUNTING WHALES.

With his airplane equipped with a machine gun, an army lieutenant recently went out on a whale hunting expedition. Flying at an altitude of about a thousand feet above the Pacific Ocean, the airman saw his quarry about four miles out at sea, and swooped down before the great animal could submerge. A short round from the machine gun was sufficient, and a motor boat was soon on its way to pick up the carcass, which yielded the hunter a considerable profit.—Popular Mechanics.

CHEESE SOLD ABOVE THE EXPORT PRICE

1538 BOXES BOUGHT BY MR. WEIR AT 25 3-8c THIS MORNING.

Orders for home demand sent the price of cheese to 25 3-8c at this morning's session of the Cheese Board. This was a comfortable advance beyond the British Government's limit of 25c for Canadian cheese and prompted Mr. Thompson Bredin to remark that the home market might prove itself independent to export influences.

Seven buyers were present, almost as large a delegation as that of the salesmen. W. S. Cook opened the bidding at 24 11-16c, but beyond the 25c level the competition was between Mr. Weir and Mr. Free.

| | |
|---|---|
| Keene | 75 |
| Warminster | 96 |
| Selwyn | 96 |
| Villiers | 105 |
| Warsaw | 116 |
| Westwood | 85 |
| Oakdale | 130 |
| Ormonde | 225 |
| Young's Point | 105 |
| Lang | 80 |
| North Dummer | 65 |
| East Emily | 100 |
| Norwood | 170 |
| Killarney | 96 |
| | 1538 |

Mr. Bredin recounted to the board the incidents of his trip with Mr. Robert Duff to Ottawa, at which 700 representatives of the dairy industry protested against the fixed price for export and drafted resolutions which which were to be submitted to the Premier at noon to-day.

With the seven hundred farmers were the army corps of Liberals who had flocked to Ottawa and preempted all the flotel accommodation.

SEVEN NEWSPAPER MEN KILLED IN ITALIAN AIRPLANE BURNING.

MILAN, Aug. 6.—Seven journalists were among the fifteen persons who were burned to death near Verona on Saturday last when a large Caproni airplane in flight from Venice to Milan caught fire at an altitude of 5,000 feet.

Among the journalists was Signor Zanghieri, correspondent of the Chicago Daily News. The pilot of the machine was Lieutenant Resnati, a brother of the late Captain Antonio Silvio Resnati, who was killed while flying a Caproni at Mineola, L.I., last year.

CHEESEMAKERS MAKE PROTEST

Delegation in Ottawa on British Government's Price For Product.

OTTAWA, Aug. 6.—Eastern Ontario cheese makers had a large delegation in Ottawa to protest against the lowness of the price at which the British Government was securing Canadian cheese. This price is 25c. a pound. On behalf of the British Government, it was stated to them that the British fixed price for selling cheese is 25c. and that as the British overhead charges amounts to about 11c., not including freight charges, the British Government is already selling cheese in Great Britain at less than cost. The British Government is unwilling to lose more money on the transaction than it is doing already.

Canadian cheese manufacturers will ask the Government to give them financial assistance in their sale to the British Government of the output for the present season. This was decided at a meting this afternoon, attended by between four and five hundred members of district cheese boards and dairy institutions, covering territory from Peterborough, Ont., to St. Hyacinthe, Q. Last night a committee of ten was appointed to present the case to the Premier to-morrow.

The delegation was the largest rural delegation that has come to Ottawa since the farmers came two thousand strong last summer to protest against conscription.

COMMON CAUSE OF PYORRHEA

Pyorrhea is a local disease. It is an inflammation of the tissue surrounding the teeth. In most cases the inflamation is caused by tartar deposits forming on the teeth at the gum margin. The constant irritation of the gums, due to the accumulated tartar, sets up an inflamation of the gum tissues and the bony structure of the root sockets are destroyed; thus pockets are formed about the roots of the teeth, creating a base for the collection and retention of filth, and a breeding ground for pus producing and other disease-producing bacteria. The teeth become loose and eventually fall out.

In the advanced stage of Pyorrhea as a result of deposits on the teeth, considerable gum tissue has been destroyed, exposing the roots of the affected teeth. The gums are much swollen and have a purplish colour. There has been a breaking down of the walls of the tooth sockets causing the teeth to become loose. The teeth are tender on mastication. Considerable pus oozes from around the affected teeth and are responsible for many diseases.

We know that nearly all disease is due to the lack of, or breaking down in, the normal resistance of the body. To maintain unclean chemical changes proceeding continually in living cells at its proper balance the functions of the digestive organism must be uninterrupted. Otherwise the red blood cells diminish in number and decrease in activity. In Pyorrhea, we have a twofold source of danger in this respect: 1st, in providing a place of incubation for disease breeding germs that find their w: to the digestibe tract: 2nd, throu deficient mastication, the stomach r ceives food difficult, or impossible digestion: hence there is a lack proper material for renewing and en ergizing the red blood corpuscles at a time when every possible restance is needed to meet a threatened or actual attack of disease.

It can be stated as a rule that while Pyorrhea is often responsible for systematic disturbance, few cases admit the premise that the pyorrhea is due to constitutional derangement. Of course, at times, a lower vitality affecting also the tissues of the mouth, increase the susceptibility to Pyorrhea, and again where both Pyorrhea and systematic disturbance exist, it will be found that each unfavorably influences the other but strictly speaking true Pyorrhea it of local origin.

A study of the situation has convinced the best medical practitioners that Pyorrhea alveolaris is one of the most frequent causes of a large number of diseases whose origin has hitherto been more or less of a mystery.

AVOID CLUTCH SPINNING.

Clutch spinning is often due to excessive friction in the spring thrust bearings, though sometimes faulty alignment of the flywheel and clutch cone preventing the engaging surfaces from entirely clearing each other. A bent clutch shaft might also cause this trouble.

GEORGE B. SHAW 3 PATIENTS OUT OF MISERY

Famous Englishman Says Court Should be Established Advisibility of Killing Them

The question as put is a notable piece of evidence as to the extent to which the world has gone stark raving mad on the worship of doctors.

Should a policeman be allowed to put an incurable to death? Should the prime minister? Should the King? Should the Pope Should the editor of the "times" or the Archbishop of Canterbury?

No sane man would dream of asking these questions; but apparently the granting of powers to live and death to the great Dr. Crippen has come to seem quite natural. There is no arguing with such crazy infatuation.

There are two questions involved. One is the question of whether suicide should be treated as a crime. That covers the case of the incurable who can kill himself, in which case the matter is one for him to decide and not the doctor.

The other is the case of the incurable who is disabled from suicide by paralysis, imbecility or any other cause.

We have asylums in which human creatures lie in hopeless idiocy, kept alive by injected food, unable to perform the smallest office for themselves, nuisances to everyone else and not conceivably satisfied with their own existance. It is clearly out of the question (or ought to be) that the doctor should be allowed to murder them.

But hey should be tried by a properly constituted tribunal on the capital charge of being unfit to live.

The practice should be extended to many cases which are not in asylums and hospitals for the incurable. Idle people incorrigibly violent people are generally people who either consume more than they can produce or cannot behave themselves without wasting other people's time should all come up for judgment.

Unfitness to live should be the only capital charge. You would not then have men remorselessly hanged for very unpardonable homicides, whilst others are allowed to prey on the community all their lives without in gus.ding or restraining them. remonstrance.

It is curious by the way that those who can see nobody in the question but the incurable and his doctor never propose that the incurable should be allowed to kill the doctor. After all the patient is the aggrieved party.

Oxford is the greatest University in the world. It has twenty-five colleges and five halls.

AIR LINES TO CROSS OCEAN; FARE $250

London-New York Service Is Predicted by Expert.

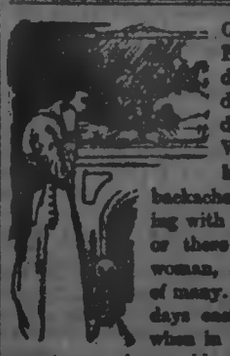
LONDON, Aug. 6—Regular airship passenger service between London and New York within a few months, the trip being made in two and one-half days, was the prediction made to-day by Edgar Middleton, aviation expert, in the Daily Express. The aircraft will fly the British flag and the fare one way will be $250.

Influenced by the success of the R-34, a combine, backed with several millions of pounds sterling, is planning, to establish air lines to the far corners of the world. The trip from London to San Francisco it is estimated, would take four and one-half days; to Capetown, five and one-half days. Traffic will also be extended to Rio De Janeiro and Sierra Leone.

The dirigibles will be of massive type, capable of a normal speed of 60 miles an hour. They will carry freight and mails in addition to passengers and will have a cruising radius of 4,500 miles.

WEST HASTINGS LIBERALS CHOOSE COLONEL O'FLYNN

Belleville, Aug. 6.—At the last meeting of the West Hastings Liberal Association, a committee consisting of Messrs F. Marsh, of Trenton, Joseph McPherson of Sidney, and Mr. Wright, of Belleville, vice-presidents of the three municipalities in the riding were named to make a recommendation of a candidate for the Legislature. They have selected Colonel O'Flynn, of this city, who has accepted, subject to the approval of a convention to be held here on the 14th instant.



Oh! Such Pain! dizzy—dragged-down? With dull headache, backache — reeling with pain here or there — poor woman, she's one of many. On those days each month, when in other circumstances she would go to bed, she must still be at the desk or counter, or struggle through the day as best she may with her housework or her family cares. Usually she who feels those dragging-down or dizzy symptoms, and other pains caused by womanly disease, can be cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It cures the cause of these pains. Faded, jaded, tired, overworked, weak, nervous, delicate women are helped to strength and health by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. In liquid or tablets.

Chatham, Ont.—"Before a month I have had occasion to use 'Favorite Prescription' quite a bit. I recommend it to my patients and it has been a wonderful help to many of them. I never know of a case where it failed. I have a sister who is using it now and is doing fine. I have taken it myself and got the very best results. I consider it the best medicine there is for women who are run down." Mrs. [illegible]

THE GEORGE STREET PAVEMENT.

Opposition to the pavement of George street by ratepayers whose property will have to bear half the cost of construction is a perfectly comprehensible attitude. But the whole community has a prior interest in this street. It is Peterboro's Fifth Avenue. It leads from the heart of the city southerly to populous districts and a wide and wealthy rural district. Everywhere municipalities are building permanent roadways on such streets, and if the Council accedes to the wishes of the George street residents then the question arises where will street paving be continued. If the city's main artery of traffic is to be passed up and left in a condition that is scarcely worthy of a decent village, what is to become of that progressive policy in permanent roadways so auspiciously inaugurated a few years ago?

The public recognize the reasonableness of the objections of the George street residents, although they must admit that the pavement would enhance the value of their properties. Why, they contend, should they be called upon to pay half the cost of paving the main business street, not at their request nor for their advantage, but for the benefit of the whole community? The Council has shown their sympathies toward these citizens, but in justice to the city as a whole, George street should be paved before Aylmer, Hunter street east or any of the streets that radiate from the business centre.

CANADA'S DOLLARS AT A DISCOUNT.

With New York funds at a premium of about 5 per cent., that is with the American dollar worth $1.05 in Canada—a curious and decidedly troublesome situation arises. In a general way the exchange rate is due to Canada importing more from the United States than she sells to that country, and the obvious remedy is to buy less and sell more, so far as our relations with our neighbors are concerned. At first thought this might seem to be a wholesome incentive to buy Canadian made goods, but on the other hand the tendency of the high exchange market is to eliminate the element of foreign competition which might otherwise be a deterrent upon high prices. In other words, the Canadian manufacturer is getting an additional protection of five per cent., although he is already protected to a more-than-sufficient extent by the tariff.

While American money is at an advantage of five per cent., British sterling is at a disadvantage of about thirteen per cent. in Canada. The result is that British goods would appear to have an advantage of eighteen per cent. over American goods on the Canadian market, in addition to the preference in tariff which goods from the Mother Country enjoy.

The high exchange rate for United States funds has a peculiar effect upon bond transactions, which is not limited to the sending of Canadian bonds to New York for payment when they are payable either in Canada or in the United States. There is for instance, a Province of Ontario bond issue scheduled for this month amounting to $3,000,000, with interest at 5 1-2 per cent., and United States bond houses will be at a manifest advantage in bidding on it owing to the enhanced purchasing power of the American dollar in Canada. This will mean that the issue will likely be sold to United States buyers, and that the coupons, as they become due, will be cashed in New York, where, if the present rate of exchange continues over a long period of time, the Province will have to pay a premium to meet them.
—Toronto Star.

PUBLIC OWNERSHIP.

Public ownership has not strengthened its case by the half billion dollar deficit in the operations of the United States' railways by the Government during the last eighteen months. It may be that difficulties were created to injure the cause of public ownership in this important test, and that the system was hampered rather than helped by those who could have smoothed its path had they wished to do so. But the figures must be disconcerting to the advocates of public ownership as they are exclusive to those who believe in private control and operation. The recent demand of the railway employees for wage increases that would add another billion dollars expenditure is not a strong commendation for the Railroad Brotherhoods' proposal that the United States Government obtain permanent possession of the roads, to be managed by the Government, the public and the railway employees.

Although Government control of the railways shows an immense loss, the Brotherhoods intimate that under the co-operative system they outlined the profits would be divided among the employees.

"Obviously," comments the Montreal Star, "they have no intention of working on a co-operative basis where they will assume their quota of the loss by decreased wages if the balance is on the wrong side of the ledger, and the only meaning that their words can have is that they shall share in the difference between the gross operating revenue and gross operating expenditure, leaving the interest on the investment to be borne by the travelling public and the taxpayers."

The New York Times says that every American who works either with brain or hand should resolve to eschew the daberous nostrums of socialism, and in the following points to the dangerous probability of the Brotherhood securing complete control under the confiscatory plan they advocate:

"The plan of the Brotherhoods commits the railroads into the joint control of politics and labor. The Government-appointed members of the board would inevitably and at all times be most solicitous to placate the labour members, and the two elements together would control railway policies. The chiefs of the Brotherhoods may deceive themselves by the attempt at reasoning which they address to this point. They will not convince or deceive the public. Upon the great public of taxpayers would devolve the duty to make good the enormous deficit sure to accrue from the control of the lines in the interests of politics and labour, just as it falls upon them now. Instead of a billion or so a year, the cost assessed upon the taxpayers would rise to two or it may be to three billions a year, and for a service far inferior to that under private operation.

COURAGE.

Some one has said:—"If the whole world would but thrust out fear and receive the spirit of courage I do not know of any evils that could endure a century."

Man has already banished many of his fears. Not long ago he quaked before the gloom of the forest, the solitude of the hills, the fog of the vast sea and created all sorts of gods and devils in his imagination. He has gotten rid of these things. But when we observe the fear of tornadoes, the fear of lightning, the fear of disease, the fear of accident, the fear of ridicule, the fear of public opinion, the fear of others and the fear of self, we realize that the sunlight is no tperfectly clear.

in war but in peace is essential to the exercise of our normal God-given powers. We can never rise to our fullest estate until we banish fear and look with calm and courage upon life's problems and perplexities. As the world grows more complicated, as civilization advances, as inventions increase the perils of life, humanity requires more courage. Nor is physical courage the greatest. Moral courage is even more sublime. The most positive proofs of courage are seldom seen or advertised. Dewey stands out as an example of courage—a great naval hero—but nothing is said of the men at the guns, the engineers and stokers in the bowels of the war machine.

The world is full of the courage of common, ordinary people—a courage that faces adversity, discouragement and disaster. Courage makes human existence endurable. Courage is an essential part of religion. The writer of Chronicles says: "Deal courageously and the Lord shall be with the good." Paul after his shipwreck on the Island of Melita and his thrilling experiences in Syracuse, was met by his brethren from Rome, whom, when he saw "he thanked God and took courage."

To live a life without courage is to live a life not worth living.—New York Herald.

THE EXCHANGES

Everybody liked Mr. Burleson's administration of the telephone and telegraph business except the companies, the employes and the public. —Minneapolis Tribune.

As the United States government hands back the telegraph systems to their private own ersan immediate reduction in rates is announced. Government operation comes high, but, as the proverb says, "Fools will learn in no other."—Toronto Mail and Empire.

Further investigation of the fitness of Victor Berger for a seat in Congress might very properly be postponed until after he finishes his term in the penitentiary, to which a constituency of twelve good men and true unanimously elected him.—Nashville Banner.

All the agencies of the federal government, excepting possibly the supreme Court, are now squarely on the offensive against high food prices. Supporting them are the forces of several State and municipal governments. Can government make food cheaper? The test is nw on.—Montgomery Advertiser.

Perhaps if the memory of the public were a little longer the splendid fighting record made by the coloured troops in France would win fairer treatment for their people at home and prevent the disgraceful race wars and riots of the last few days. Only a few weeks ago the whites were cheering them to the echo in New York. That should not be forgotten.—Baltimore American.

Not even the critics of so-called State socialism will deplore the government's plan to turn grocer for the distribution of over a hundred million dollars' worth of army food products. Postmasters and carriers will be salesmen; one carrier will deliver your letters, another will bring the breakfast bacon. If the Post Office Department does not give faster service on food than it does on mail it is to be hoped that eggs are not included in the government menu now prepared for those who need first aid for the high cost of living.—Asheville Citizen.

LAKEFIELD MAN ON THE "RENOWN"

Sub-Lieut. Kenneth MacKenzie, son of the Rev. A. W. MacKenzie, of the "Grove," Lakefield, sailed yesterday on the "Renown," the ship which carries His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales to Canada. No word has been received yet as to whether he will visit his parents in Lakefield on the arrival of the Renown in St. John, Newfoundland. Lieut. MacKenzie left last fall for England after taking his course in Halifax and was immediately attached to the Renown. At the time of the Halifax explosion he was severely hurt.

THE COTTAGERS AT STONEY LAKE HELD MEETING

ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS REWARD OFFERED FOR INFORMATION.

A meeting of the Stoney Lake cottagers was held at the pavilion at Juniper Island on Monday afternoon. A good representation of cottagers from all parts of the lake was present.

It was decided to make arrangements with persons residing in the several parts of the lake to visit regularly all cottages in their district and to report any interference therewith. A standing reward of $100.00 will be paid to any person who furnishes information that will lead to the conviction of any person guilty of breaking into cottages.

This is an important step toward safeguarding the rights of the cottagers. For of late cases of breaking into cottages have been altogether too frequent, and those guilty of the depredations have generally escaped detection.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

CITY AND COUNTRY HOURS OF LABOUR.

Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—In last night's Examiner there was a reply to my letter of Saturday night over the signature of Joseph Richardson. It has been hinted that Mr. Richardson was not the author of the article, but that his signature was only attached. If Mr. Richardson composed the article, he must be congratulated. He laughs best who laughs last, for he surely has put up a good defence. The profits of the textile industry only balance up the profits of the man who is protected by a minimum wage and loiters three-fourths of his time; and there is lots of that done. There can nothing be said against a living wage, but there can a whole lot be said against waste of time. The great men of the world and the men who have lived the longest have been men of great activity and unlimited energy — Gladstone, General Booth (who always lived for others), the late Dr. Carman, who for years had the responsibility of the Episcopal Methodist Church on his shoulders in his earlier years, afterwards the responsibility of the great Canadian Methodist Church, was found in the dawn and in the twilight with his hoe in his hand on that old 4 acre lot east of Albert College, Belleville. He at one time said that if he could have no other recreation than loafing, he would get acord of wood and cut it into matchwood.

The thought I have been trying to inculcate in the minds of the people is their responsibility in the reconstruction of this old world. Every time that the hours are shortened in city employment, there is an opportunity and inducement for the young producer to leave the soil and seek city life; and the employer will employ them first, for they are, on the average, more dependable. The feeling of the farmer at the present time is not to overburden himself until efficient labour offers itself at a reasonable wage and reasonable hours, and so one can blame them. It has been my lot to serve the farmer nearly all my life in some of the hardest capacities, averaging more like fourteen and sixteen hours than eight, and I don't feel any the worse of it, either; and I doubt if there are many of those young pigmies who are clamouring for eight hours' work, eight hours' play and eight hours' sleep can spring from the ground and strike their feet together three times before lighting. I call them pigmies, because at this period I consider their ideals small. Thanking you.—I remain, yours truly, W. H. Merrill.

BRAIN PENETRATED BY SAW, WOODSTOCK LAD LIKELY TO DIE

WOODSTOCK, Aug. 6. — Albert Bryant, the 14-year-old son of James Bryant of this city, was the victim of a terrible accident here, which may cost him his life. The young man was working behind a saw in a local factory, and stooped down underneath the saw table to remove the sawdust, when his head came in contact with the saw revolving at full speed.

A gash was cut in his head from the base of the skull over the crowd to the forehead, the wound being seven and a half inches long. On examination it was found that the skull cap had been completely severed for the full length of the cut, and the brain penetrated to an average depth of half an inch. He is in the hospital, with slight chance of recovery.

BARBARA AND NEIL HAVE A QUARREL

CHAPTER VXXXIV

The daring sentence had not left my lips before I would have recalled it, had I been able.

"The same confidence you give to Blanche Orton."

How had I come to say such a thing? It had not been in my mind, in fact Mrs. Orton herself had not entered into my thoughts while I talked to Neil. He was terribly angry at me. We had seldom quarreled, but Neil was a very high-tempered, and I always tried not to arouse him. But I had said unconsciously the very thing that was at the bottom of my wish to know of his business. I was only a woman after all and in that intense moment while I waited for him to speak, I realized that I was jealous of Blanche Orton. Jealous of her influence over Neil, of the anger he showed because I had mentioned her.

"Why do you bring Blanche into the conversation?"

As he asked the question, each word of which was cleanly-cut as if with a knife, he leaned forward and looked me straight in the eyes.

"Because I know there is something between you—Oh, I am not accusing you of any vulgar intrigue—but I know, Neil, that you tell her things—things you refuse to tell me; you and those men talk your business with her, while I, your wife, know nothing about it."

"Is that all?"

"Isn't it enough, Neil?"

Then for the first time I fully realized how very angry Neil could become. He fairly raved at times, and at others was coldly sarcastic.

I besought him; I tried to reason with him; I almost prayed to him, but without effect. He called me meddlesome and swore he would not have me interfering with his business affairs. He sneered at my puritanical up-bringing, every little while fortifying himself by taking a drink from the bottle he had taken from the cellerette when he first commence to rave at me.

As usual, I had done harm when I wanted only to do good. By, and by when he had worn himself out by when he had sworn out Jerk, with the violence of his emotions, I coaxed and petted him back to a semblance of good nature.

"It takes two to quarrel, Neil. You will have to do it without me. I have said nothing to cause this tirade; and I shall not talk to you any more to-night. Come dear, kiss and make up. I know you do not mean half you have said. If you had—if I thought you did I—would have to go home. I—couldn't stay."

To this day, I do not know whether I meant what I said or not. But it seemed to sober Neil immediately. He mumbled something about being tired and worn out when he came home, and then about my pitching into him when he was in that condition. But after a bit he said shamefacedly:

"Forget it, Bab, please. I guess I have been more or less a brute tonight." Then: "Forgive me and kiss me dear. And Bab, you didn't mean that; did you—that you would leave me?" fear was in his voice. "Tell me, Babsie, that you will never say that again."

The old pet name was like a kiss. He seldom had used it since our marriage. Never save when in a tender, loving mood.

Suddenly it came over me that Neil was unhappy. That he had perhaps begun to drink more than was good for him because he was anxious and worried. But what awful things he had said! Yet I found myself saying inwardly:

"Poor, darling fellow!" with a pity that entirely swept away all sense of personal wrong. The thought was so poignant that my eyes filled with tears and I replied:

"Of course I'll forget and forgive both. And I couldn't have meant what I said, dear, because I couldn't live without you. I couldn't!"

With a curious impression of effort he brought out:

"Then—never—say it again, Bab, never."

Someway, in thinking of it long after he slept, his fear that I might leave him comforted me. And it was the only thing about our talk that did—that and his calling me "Babsie."

To-morrow—Barbara Lunches at the Club with Neil—and Blanche.

HAWK RIVALLED PLANE.

Bird's Jealousy Shown When Aviator Went Through Air Stunts.

CATASAUQUA, Pa.—Are birds of the air jealous of airplanes, a question mooted among naturalists, has been answered in the affirmative to hundreds of Catasauquans who witnessed the antics of a monster hawk that attempted to outdo the stunts of an aviator here.

The human flier had circled over the town nearly fifteen minutes, when suddenly a pair of hawks appeared at a great height close to the aviator and apparently, according to their position, intently watching the latter's evolutions. Then one of the birds made a dive toward the earth and in the sight of a great crowd of people who were viewing the flier's manoeuvres, executed a series that soon turned the attention of the spectators from the aviator to the hawk, which did the spiral glide, the loop the loop, the dip of death, and many other feats.

The hawk kept up its performance as the long as the aviator was in sight and when the latter flew away the bird rejoined its mate and disappeared amid the applause of the crowd.

GARDNER SAYS EFFORTS FAILED

MINNEAPOLIS MAN WAS UNABLE TO GET RELIEF FROM TROUBLE UNTIL HE TOOK TANLAC.

"My efforts to find a medicine or treatment that would overcome my troubles failed completely until I commenced taking Tanlac," said Earl O. Freeby, a well known gardener, who lives at 705 Kenwood Parkway, Minneapolis, while talking to a Tanlac representative the other day.

"I had a bad attack of pneumonia about eighteen months ago," continued Mr. Freeby, "and up to the time I commenced taking Tanlac I had been having a pretty tough time of it ever since. For about three months after getting up from this spell I was not able to do any work at all. I finally improved to the extent that I was able to do a little work and then the "Flu" hit me and this just about put the finishing touch to me. Well I managed to pull through this trouble and after being in bed for several weeks I was able to be up again, but my entire system was left in a terrible weak, run down condition. I did not have any appetite to speak of and what little I did eat did not seem to give me any strength or energy to get about very much and the different medicines that I took did not seem to do me any good at all.

'I had been reading so much about Tanlac and what it had done for so many other people so I decided to give it a trial myself. I did not think it was possible for anyone to improve so fast as I did after I began taking Tanlac. Why, my troubles have been completely overcome and I am so well and strong now that I not only put in full time at my work every day but I work in my garden at home every night until dark. I have such a big appetite that three hearty meals a day does not satisfy me and I have to eat a little between meals. In fact I feel fine all the time and never enjoyed better general health in my life. I have induced a good many people to take Tanlac and everyone of them have been greatly benefitted by it and I certainly take pleasure in recommending it to anybody who is in a rundown condition from any cause.

Tanlac is sold in Peterboro by the W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd., in Havelock, by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield, by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert, by A. J. Scott; in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

THE MARVELS OF SALVAGE

Describing New Ideas in Wrestling Millions from Davy Jones

From as far back as October, 1916, the Salvage Department of the Admiralty has been busily raising and refloating sunken ships. The outcome of its efforts has been that well over five hundred ships have been restored from sunken wrecks to good, thorough-going vessels.

The methods of salvage pursued by the Admiralty have been numerous. We have, for instance that method where lifting vessels and wire ropes are employed and we have another method where huge iron cylinders are used. But perhaps the newest and at the same time the most novel method of them all, is that were inflated gas-bags are utilized.

The apparatus employed is of the simplest nature imaginable, consisting chiefly of a gas-bag, and an air-pump. It can be used at any depth of water where divers can work.

Balloons Below Water.

For the sake of convenience, the gas-bag is fitted up with three air connections and it is made free from all danger arising out of overcharge or over-pressure due to rising from great depths. The largest gas-bag at present constructed is said to possess sufficient power to displace over a hundred tons.

Although not bulky, the apparatus possesses all advantages peculiar to the ponderous steel apparatus mentioned above, and in addition has a portability and cheapness entirely its own.

The gas-bag or flexible camel, as it is called, can be packed into a space of approximately one ton shipping space. Its portability enables it to be passed through small spaces, such as ports and hatches, into the hold of the sunken vessel.

It is then inflated and fits itself into every corner. The water is displaced by means of the air in the gas-bag and thus the desired buoyancy is produced. The ship is thereby enabled to float to the surface and is towed to the nearest dockyard for immediate repair.

It has been said that the introduction of this new system will revolutionize the whole science of salvage. Certainly the cheapness of the apparatus, if nothing else, should prove a valuable asset in its favour while the fact that it will raise ninety-nine out of a hundred wrecks ought to make its introduction an unqualified success.

Mrs. Minnie M. Talbott, whose husband was slain by motor bandits, has been elected to fill out his unexpired term as sheriff of Lexington County, Missouri.

FIUME AND ST. VITUS.

Fiume, which has been responsible for a nerve tension at the Peace Conference, is oddly enough associated with the cure of nerve troubles. It was once called Vitopolis, because especially renowned for the cult of St. Vitus, the boy martyr invoked for the healing of nervous disorders, particularly the chorea named after him "St. Vitus' dance." The present name of this coveted port is abbreviated from the long Italian title, which means "the river that flows past the fane of St. Vitus."

CARVELL COULD NOT FACE HIS OLD FRIENDS

HAS LEFT OTTAWA UNTIL AFTER THE BIG LIBERAL CONVENTION—HEART MISGAVE HIM.

Will Return to His $12,000 Job After the Rally is Over.

Ottawa, Aug. 6.—"Fighting Frank Carvell," who two years ago left the ranks of Liberalism and joined the Union Government, "from serious conscientious objection," but who has accepted the position of chairman of the railway commission at a salary of $12,000 a year for the space of ten years, left for his home in New Brunswick Saturday afternoon, "because he didn't have the heart to face the boys."

By "the boys" Mr. Carvell meant the delegates to the Liberal convention, many of whom were his former colleagues and friends in the days before the "conscientious convictions" of the ex-minister of public works induced him to renounce Liberalism for a seat in the cabinet of Sir Robert Borden. "Fighting Frank" didn't care to face them any more. He will come back and start to earn the $12,000 reward of his sacrifice of political principles just soon as the convention is over.

Promised to Return.

Many of these men recall that in the days when portfolios were being dangled before the eyes of members of the Opposition by the Government, Mr. Carvell was wont to declare with vehemence that he would rather die than join any cabinet of which Sir Robert Borden was the head. Many recall how, later, when he had joined it, he was wont to declare that only the sternest call of duty was responsible; that the war had to be fought and that at the end of it he would leave the government and again come back to fight the fight of Liberalism and to battle again those evils which his soul hated.

To many during the past session he had given these promises. He never professed loyalty to his recent colleagues; duty alone kept him with them. In fact apart entirely from what was thought the impossible contingency of his accepting any position in the gift of the Government, nobody who was made acquainted with Mr. Carvell's personal relations with his recent colleagues would ever have thought that they would have offered him even the most unimportant of government positions.

No Wonder.

He was quoted recently in an Ottawa paper as having declared that he could not accept any position in the gift of the Government. In the face of the facts it is probably no wonder that his heart misgave at the thought of "facing the boys."

Most of the "boys" as a matter of fact, have long ago become cynical regarding the motives of many of those who left Sir Wilfrid Laurier "on conscientious convictions," to join the Union Government. Nearly all of the latter declared at the time that it was but for the period of the war.

One of them, Hon. T. A. Crerar, left as he had entered, on "conscientious conviction," and since his leaving, those who stayed have been endeavoring to cast discredit upon his action. The war is over, but the others remain, all but "Fighting Frank Carvell," who has sought sanctuary on the railway commission, where the winds of political chance shall never again ruffle him and where the reward of his "sacrifice" shall be found. It is not stated whether or not he left on the private car which Sir Henry Drayton abandoned for the Finance department.

In any case the board to which Mr. Carvell has gone may now be truly known as a "railway" commission. Mr. Carvell is an avowed friend of the railways, but not of those publicly owned. He is for instance, not a friend of the Hydro as he has demonstrated with frequency during his many years in the House.

More men are ruined by prosperity than by adversity.

The average age of bachelors who marry spinsters is twenty-six; of widowers who marry widows, just over fifty.

Their balance is perfect.

And they are lighter than metal pulleys—so there is less weight friction.

By actual test Dodge Wood-Split Pulleys average 30% greater efficiency in operation than metal pulleys. At the present price of coal, that saving alone is sufficient to warrant using them.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a tablespoonful of Salts if Back hurts or Bladder bothers —Meat forms uric acid.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have tingling pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

Women wear fine dresses to attract the men and worry other women.

5 Fresh Eggs
3-4 Lb. Steak
1 Quart Pasteurized Milk

You would not think of feeding a child 5 eggs or ¾ lb. steak, or 1¼ lbs. chicken every day. Certainly that would soon ruin the child's health.

But you can give your child the same amount of nourishment every day, in a Quart of Milk, and the child will be better for it in every way.

That is the secret of Milk as a food value. It is a light, pure food, rich in body-building nourishment. It is a "balanced" concentrated food that supplies more and better nourishment than any other food in the world. And it is also the cheapest food value in the world.

Milk is rich in protein. And protein is that substance that builds bone and muscle and repairs worn tissues.

Every Child Should Have at Least a Quart of Milk a Day

And be sure they get PASTEURISED MILK—Pure, safe Milk from the Most Up-to-date, Scientifically Equipped Dairy on the Continent.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier Said

"After all, what a man does with his money is to invest, and there is no better way to invest it than in Life Insurance."

As an ESTATE BUILDER there is nothing to equal Life Insurance.

TAKE THE FOLLOWING ACTUAL RESULT

A young man, sixteen years of age, took out a 15-year Endowment (No. 310186) in the Sun Life of Canada, which matured on the 31st of April. This young man paid annually $66.30 for fifteen years, and he has now, through that investment, an immediate estate of $1,425.00 in case of death.

DO YOU KNOW THAT THIS AMOUNTS TO ALMOST 15% COMPOUND INTEREST ON EVERY DOLLAR HE PAID?

No wonder Sir Wilfrid said (and he might have added, No better place than the Sun Life of Canada), "There is no better way to invest it than in LIFE INSURANCE."

AND THE SUN LIFE OF CANADA GIVES THIS RESULT.

7,000 OVERSEAS SOLDIERS MISSING

MOSTLY CANADIANS AND ANZACS—RECORDS OFFICE PROSECUTING SEARCH.

LONDON, Aug. 6.— (Reuter despatch.)—Record offices in London of the various overseas forces are making their last grand tally and trying to trace every man who has appeared on their books. Up to the present time some 7,000 or about one per cent. of the total cannot be accounted for. Not all these men are considered to be definitely lost. Some have gone on furlough and accepted work without the formality of communicating with the authorities; others have married and settled down in preference to returning to camp and telling the colonel; others are restless men, many of whom will trickle back.

The South Africans have but 26 absentees, every other man of the 6,000 who came overseas, being accountde for. The New Zealanders are 800 short.

Most of the missing are Australians and Canadians and it will take a long time for the military police to round them up and shepherd them into concentration camps. Some of the Dominion governments are publishing advertisements warning these men to return by a certain time unless they wish to forego their gratunity and free passage home.

LYTELL'S SCREEN FAME EQUALS THAT OF STAGE

Young Metro Star of "Blackie's Redemption" Has Country-wide Popularity.

Bert Lytell, the clever and versatile young Metro star of "Blackie's Redemption," to be shown at the Grand Theatre on Thursday and Friday, enjoys a stage and screen popularity attained by few.

He is one of the youngest of dramatic stars and comes from a long line of theatrical celebrities, among whom was J. K. Mortimer, his grandfather, for years one of Augustin Daly's biggest players.

Mr. Lytell is well known as a leading man in Broadway productions, his last before leaving the stage for the screen being "Mary's Ankle," in which he was co-starred with Irene Fenwick.

The young actor has determined to confine himself exclusively to the screen and all his successes in this line have been with Metro where he has starred in "The Trail to Yesterday," "No Man's Land," "Boston Blackie's Little Pal," "Hitting the High Spots," "Unexpected Places," "The Spender," "Faith," and "The Blind Man's Eyes."

Born in New York, Mr. Lytell was educated at Upper Canada College, where, among other things, he excelled in athletics.

MORE FACILITIES AT INVERLEA PARK

At Inverlea Park a diving board for the little children who go in bathing inside the wall has been recently installed through the instrumentality of Mr. Roberts, who has taken a keen and helpful interest in the swimmers at the park this summer. During the past few evenings when the weather has not been as warm as some time ago the bathers have fallen off in number but about one hundred still take in the bathing facilities each evening. The caretaker, Mr. James Gates, said to-day that it is surprising how the little tots are learning to swim and the size of the children who go in keep him on edge fearing they will not be able to swim to shore. But they all come in safely, he said.

The caretaker has been troubled of late by boys who, he said, use shocking language in the dressing room, and is on the watchout for such boys who, if caught, will be brought before the Magistrate.

ENLARGING THE BANK OF MONTREAL

PERMIT ISSUED CALLS FOR EXPENDITURE OF $3,000.

For the convenience of the customers of the Bank of Montreal, the store, 130 Simcoe Street, bought by the bank some years ago with the idea of enlarging the present building is being reconstructed into the Savings Department of the bank. Two arches will be cut in the wall separating the store from the bank, one for the convenience of the staff and the other through which the front desk will be joined to the new department.

The Bank of Montreal secured a permit for $3,000 from the City Hall for the new building.

Other Permits.

Five other permits were issued by the City Hall, all for smaller amounts:

Bradburn, Limited, $1,000 warehouse west of George and north of Charlotte Streets.

Mrs. E. Davidson, $1,000 shed, 520 Dickson Street.

Frank Schneider, $50 verandah, 170 London Street.

Ernest Oke, $150 stone verandah, Charles Street.

Fred Holmes, $1,200 bungalow, Hilliard Street.

PARIS, Aug. 6. — The Supreme Council, after a long session yesterday, decided that the Roumanian Army must withdraw from the Hungarian capital.

BILIOUSNESS

How to Prevent and Cure

Among the earliest symptoms are furred tongue and dull headache.

Then come dizzy spells, bad taste, quick pulse, fever and cold sweats.

Finally sleeplessness and vomiting make the condition of the sufferer almost intolerable.

The root of biliousness is with the liver which is clogged and can't keep bile from getting into the blood.

Nothing works with the certainty of Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they act directly on the liver, restore the bile to its proper course and prevent it from contaminating the vital fluid.

Of course, the bowels are ordered and relaxed by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, the kidneys receive new tonic, the blood is renovated, and the result is a renewal of good health.

No need for delay, the sooner you use Dr. Hamilton's Pills, the sooner you'll feel the brisk, keen satisfaction of a healthy, well-regulated system. Sold in yellow boxes, 25c.

A PRESENTATION.

On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Harry Miller of Viamede celebrated their 26th wedding anniversary. They received several gifts and many good wishes. The day was celebrated by the members of Viamede staff who presented them with a pretty gift accompanied by the following address:

"Viamede," August 3, 1919.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Miller:—

Because of your many kindnesses to us, we, your friends and fellow workers have assembled this morning to celebrate with you the twenty-sixth anniversary of your wedding day, and we extend to you both our very best wishes for a long and happy life together. We have always found you cheerful and kind and ready to help all who needed you and in appreciation of these qualities we ask you to accept this little gift as a slight token of our love and esteem for you and to prove that your good fellowship has not been lost on us.

Signed on behalf of your friends at "Viamede,"

Maryorie Hamilton,
Olive E. Rose,
Ida K. Rose,
Millie Lemay,
Frank Lucano,
Doris I. Spence.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller were completely taken by surprise by the gift and the address, but replied in suitable terms. A feature of their day was a launch trip on the lake.

WESTERN DELEGATES MAKE GOOD IMPRESSION

man of a Board to ascertain and fix the tariff that manufacturers of certain commodities may have the benefit of according to exigencies which may arise from time to time.

Geo. P. Graham's boom is progressing. I had a few words with him today at noon. He is not asking for votes, but the Ontario and Quebec crowd seems very friendly to his cause.

They say Billy Martin is the "White Hope," but I have not heard any Ontario delegates promise to support him unless on a second or later ballot. He is quiet, unassuming and safe. I cannot see where all his support is, but it may be there. At all events Ontario and Quebec would accept him if he gets the solid west and makes a good impression at the convention, as apparently it is anybody's race.

Following is a copy of a resolution moved by Sir Allen Aylesworth and seconded by Hon. Rudolphe Lemieux:

Sadly and mournfully the members of this National Convention of the Liberal Party of Canada record their sense of the irreparable loss the country has suffered in the death of the Right Honourable Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

During more than forty-five years he was continuously prominent as a member of the Canadian Parliament. For nearly thirty-two years he was the honoured Chief and Leader of the Liberal Party in this country. He has long been recognized as Canada's most distinguished statesman and as an outstanding figure among Councillors of His Majesty everywhere in the British Empire. His lifetime was spent in the service of his country and his King. History will justly accord to him a high position among the great men of the world.

Through all his life his chief aim and object was to bring into better accord and greater harmony with each other the two principal races of this country that all might become more truly Canadians, whether of French or of British descent. The great wish and hope with which to the end his soul was filled was that we—his followers and his friends—might carry on his life work in that regard, bringing it even in our time to still greater fruition till in Canada dissensions of either race or creed no longer should be known.

Pure of heart, unsullied in character, devoted always to the highest ideals—he led, as he governed, wisely and well. Great in success he was perhaps even greater in adversity. Himself sprung from the common people it was throughout his life his pride and glory to stand at all times their advocate and champion.

In their grateful memories he has builded for himself a monument which will live while Canada endures, for he found this country a colony—he made it a nation.

In the hearts of his sorrowing friends—in the hearts indeed of all his countrymen—his life inspired not merely high regard and unfeigned esteem, but as well a real affection, which makes our grief at his loss so heartfelt and so keen that no words we may use could equal it.

He was indeed our country's best and greatest. In all things a chevalier sans peur et sans reproche.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET SEVERELY SHAKEN BY DOUBLE EARTHQUAKE

On BOARD U. S. S. NEW MEXICO, August 6.—(By wireless to the Associated Press.)—Six Dreadnoughts of the Pacific fleet were shaken severely by a double earthquake shock twenty miles off the coast of the state of Colima, Mexico. None of the warships reported any damage.

The New Mexico trembled from bow to stern as if she had struck an uncharted reef, and the navigating officer sounded "collision quarters" on the flagship's siren. Sailors in the foretop said the basket masts of the warships swayed like poplar trees in a gale.

One of the officers reported that he believed the earthquake came from th old crater in the mountains which fringe the coastline near here, dropping off into the sea.

UNWARRANTED PRICES ARE CHARGED FOR SHOES DUE INFLATED CONDITIONS

INTERESTING REPORT ON THE SHOE INDUSTRY SUBMITTED TO CONGRESS AND MADE PUBLIC TO-DAY.

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6. — The high price of shoes was declared to be due to excessive profits taken by every factor in the shoe production industry in a report by the Federal Trade Commission to Congress, made public to-day.

Packers were charged with having begun pyramiding of shoe prices by an unwarranted increase in the price of hides, the supply of which they were said to control. On top of this increase, it was charged, tanners have taken exceptional profits, while the shoe manufacturers have demanded an unusual margin, and retailers have charged prices that are not justifiable.

The Commission's report, covering the four-year period from 1914 to 1918, is the result of an exhaustive inquiry into the price of hides, leather and shoes, begun more than a year ago, it was said. It has been in the President's hands for some time, and it is understood he urged its speedy printing and transmittal to Congress in connection with the efforts of the Government to combat the high cost of living. To show that packers during the last four years have made unwarranted increases in the price of packer hides, the report pointed out that the price dicerential between their hides and country hides. Hides of lower grade have increased far beyond the usual proportions. Charges of excessive profits against the tanner and the shoe manufacturer were said to be supported by high rates of return on the investment in both industries following price increases.

"The public," said the report, "had to pay prices for shoes that not only could not be justified because retail shoe dealers took too much profits, but because the dealer had to pass on to the consumer the excessive profits received by the butchers for the hides, and also the excess profits of the tanners and shoe manufacturers.

LATE DESPATCHES

BOLSHEVIKI WERE GIVEN A SHORT HEARING IN TRIEST --STRIKE SITUATION IN LIVERPOOL.

(Canadian Press.)

TRIESTE, Aug. 6.—A group of Bolsheviki made its appearance here to-day on the streets and attempted to start rioting. The disturbers, however, were dispersed by the police with the assistance of the population.

As a result of the demonstration, seven hundred arrests were made.

SERVICE SUSPENDED.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 6.—The tramway service was suspended completely to-day, and there was virtually no bread to be had as a result of the strike movement, which began with the police and now includes tramwaymen and bakers.

The municipal employees last night voted to give twenty-four-hour strike notices unless the demands of the tramwaymen were met.

The physicians at a meeting today, adopted a resolution in favour of organising themselves on a trade union basis.

TRIAL IN LONDON.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Aug. 6. — The Allies have not altered their decision to hold the trial of the former German Emperor in London, Andrew Bonar Law announced in the House of Commons to-day.

He said no action in the matter could be taken until the German Treaty is ratified.

AUSTRIAN PEACE TERMS.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, Aug. 6. — The Austrian counter-proposals to the Peace terms were handed to the Allied Mission at 12.15 to-day. The counter-proposals were brought at once to Paris and delivered to the Supreme Council of the Peace Conference.

MISS PETRIE WON OVER F. F. PARDEE

(Special to the Examiner)

OTTAWA, Aug. 6. — Although there are 28 Ontario members of the resolutions committee at the Liberal Convention there was not room among them for F. F. Pardee, M.P. Mr. Pardee was a Unionist member who crossed the floor back to the Liberals at the last session, but his "wanderings" seem to have affected his vote.

The contest for the twenty eighth place was between Mr. Pardee and Miss Petrie of Hamilon, but Miss Petrie won out.

It was agreed that the "gravel" road would require comparatively light repairs this season.

ASHBURNHAM FAMILY ALL SMALLPOX CASES

NEW OUTBREAK DISCOVERED YESTERDAY---HOUSE QUARANTINED.

Four cases of small pox were discovered in one Ashburnham family yesterday. Dr. McPherson reported that it was a mild type of the disease He quarantined the house since the whole family were patients and after carefully considering all the circumstances decided not to send them to the Isolation Hospial. A strict quarantine will be imposed.

ENTRIES WILL CLOSE FRIDAY NIGHT

HORSEMEN ASKED TO MAKE ENTRIES ON OR BEFORE FRIDAY NIGHT.

The horse races at the celebration at the Exhibition grounds are going to bring together the best bunch of horses seen in Peterborough in some time. While the races on July 1st were not contested as it was thought would be the case with the big prize list offered, it was due to the fact that almost every town in the district put on a similar attraction and everybody suffered in the matter of entries.

Monday, of course, is Peterborough's Civic Holiday, and there are no other races in the district and the entry list will be large. The horsemen are asked to note the fact that entries close on Friday night and must be in by that time.

FIRST DAY OF CONVENTION

have come here from the far corners of Canada at their own expense. Greater love than this hath no man—that he goes down into his pocket for five hundred dollars and three weeks' lost time to put in an appearance at the great pow-wow. The gang's all here; there can be no doubt on that point—and nine-tenths of them have paid their own freight.

EIGHT PREMIERS.

Chairman Murray, having invited all Privy Councillors, Senators, Members of Parliament to meet the Provincial Liberal Leader of Ontario, I have my first chance of giving the official lights and leading delegates of this Convention the once-over, en masse and in deed. I particularly interested the eight Provincial Premiers—eight actual and one potential, which makes nine—the prime exhibit of the convention and supposed to be the writing on the wall for these Belshazzars on Parliament Hill.

Here they are, all in a row, or nearly so. Up to now I have only seen them surrounded by their Cabinet Ministers as Orion by his bands or Saturn by his rings. Now I single them out one by one. The stars come in late, as stars usually do if they would make effective entrances, and as they walk up the aisle I judge by the volume of sounds just how popular they are. Measuring that way, I find Hartley Dewart, the one Premier so far potential, heading the list. He gets twice three cheers and two ferociously friendly tigers—sort of fifty-fifty ovation, half of it strong. Liking for Hartley and the other half something equally strong, but quite different for Newton Wesley Rowell, which draws shrill yells from Quebec lungs. The latest tip is that there is a boom for Dewart. Launching booms is one of the favourite indoor and outdoor sports of this Convention. Nearly every visiting statesman has a boomlet all his own, but most of them are polite conversations. The twenty-four hours of the day are now pretty well divided into booms of one kind or another, the freshest of which in the morning are those that are floated after midnight. The Dewart boom is said to be the real thing, if he will let it have its own way.

A LARGER FIELD.

There is no more reason against calling Mr. Dewart to a larger field than there was against Mr. Rowell. Ontario cannot expect to keep a good man down or refuse to spare him if the party wants him. At all events there is a Dewart boom, which shows that Mr. Dewart has made a hit; and if the three hundred and ninety Ontario delegates want Hartley Dewart and the three hundred Quebec delegates who love a winner—and the tariff be d——d—say so, too, it looks pretty soft for Dewart, provided Dewart is willing. But he cannot be a dark horse. He cannot come in, say, on the umpty-umth ballot. The voting rules are against dark horses—they must declare themselves at the start and be in it from the post to the finish.

Next in the matter of choice is Premier Murray, who might do anything with that Convention if it didn't make him the third candidate from Nova Scotia. It is a proverb that two is company, three's none, and even two may be one too many when the choice is between two tried and true statesmen like Fielding and Mackenzie. Both their booms suffer a little from this embarrassment of riches, and Premier Murray refuses to complicate the situation by adding a third. Premier Murray is robust, ruddy, jovial, but dignified. Tall, rugged, careless in his dress, he is a complete contrast with his associate chairman, Premier Gouin of Quebec. Meticulously tailored, smug of figure,—a tight-faced little man, who is abidingly serious.

Premier Norris, of Manitoba, inclines to be round and rosy, while Premier Martin, of Saskatchewan, is tall, thin, and intense. He looks more eastern than any other of the western Premiers. Premier Martin also enjoys a boom, which will not down, in spite of protests that he is not a candidate. His friends say, "Just you wait, Billy, until you see the platform, then we'll attend to your case." The west has one vote in five, and, of course, the platform has to fit if the Martin boom is to get over. If Martin looks like a winner—Quebec will help—that goes without saying.

Premier Stewart, of Alberta, must be over six feet two in his socks, and is an outstanding example of the natural reassurance of that province, which were handed by Premier Borden, when there wasn't any of that left.

Premier Oliver, of British Columbia, last but not least of the glorious eight, is the only Premier who wears whiskers. He indulges in a full set of white ones. Other Premiers may need to go barefaced as a guarantee of good faith, but Honest John, who is as open as his smile, can afford to take cover. The candidates form a pretty picture gallery just now, but there will be only two faces is the fade-away—G. P. Graham's and Mackenzie King's.

How to Lose Your Tan, Freckles or Redness

A day's motoring, an afternoon on the tennis ground or golf links, a sunbath on the beach or exposure on a lake trip, often brings on a deep tan or vivid crimson or, more perplexing still, a vigorous crop of freckles. A very necessary thing then is mercolized wax, which removes tan, redness or freckles quite easily. It literally peels off the affected skin—just a little at a time, so there's no hurt or injury. As the skin comes off in almost invisible flaky particles, no trace of the treatment is shown. Procure an ounce of mercolized wax at your druggist's and use this nightly as you would cold cream, washing it off mornings. In a week or so you will have an entirely new skin, beautifully clear, transparent and of a most delicate whiteness.

A draw between Eva Rogers and A. H. Bell.

A meeting will be held at Young's Point next Saturday night, at which it is expected that a number of prominent men on the lakes will be present to present to Mr. P. P. Young a life saving medal donated by the Royal Humane Society for saving the life last summer of Mr. Bland in the Power House at Young's Point.

BIG GAME HERE ON SATURDAY

There is much speculation, both here and in Belleville, as to the outcome of Saturday's game. The odds seem about even, but nevertheless, the wise ones are already prophesying. Should the Petes lose on Saturday, it will take some fast playing to beat the Bellevillites on their home grounds in the return game.

A victory here will make things easier in Belleville.

BOWLING CLUB ELECT OFFICERS

RESULTS OF THE DOUBLES PLAYED LAST EVENING.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Central Ontario Bowling Association was held on the local bowling green, with J. W. Bickle, president for the closing year, presiding. It was decided to hold next year's tournament on the Peterborough bowling green the first Monday of August, 1920.

The following officers for the year were elected:

President— P. McMillan, Beaverton.

Vice-President—J. J. Turner, Lindsay.

Secretary-Treasurer— E. Walton, Peterborough.

Executive—W. J. Wray, Belleville; T. Brightman, Peterborough; R. Deyell, Millbrook; W. Delaney, Cobourg; Dr. Aldrich, Port Hope; Dr. Devine, Beaverton.

Last night the final doubles were played off with the following results:

Geo. Cairns, Sedgwick 16, J. C. Read, E. Walton 10.

MR. KAY WAS UNACCEPTABLE

(Belleville Ontario.)

The baseball loving public of Belleville were disappointed by the fact that the game scheduled for Monday night at 6.30 was played in the afternoon.

The Grand Trunk club regrets that the public lost the pleasure of witnessing the Port Hope-Belleville match as advertised, but state that they had no say in the matter.

On Monday the management of the Grand Trunk club received notice from the executive of the league that Belleville should play Pt. Hope here Monday afternoon at three o'clock, with Mr. Kay as umpire, or forfeit the game. The local club had nothing to do but play as a forfeit would ruin their championship chances and a protest might bring no relief. Belleville players declare they had had the promise that Kay was not to be umpire.

The rules state that the visiting team must play at the hour advertised by the home team. The Belleville club had forwarded a copy of a poster for the game and complied with all the rules. However the executive of the league claims that something was said of an afternoon game on civic holiday, August 4th in Belleville, and it is said this had been put in the minutes. However this was not civic holiday, but that appears to make no difference.

The decision to have Monday's game played at 3 p.m. meant a big financial loss to the G.T.R. club.

Tickets that were sold for the evening game were honoured in the afternoon or will be honoured at the next game or the money will be refunded.

Some of the Belleville players declare they are not impressed with the sportsmanlike qualities of one or two of the rival clubs.

VICTORIOUS LACROSSE PLAYERS WELCOMED

CORNWALL, Ont., Aug. 4.—Twenty years ago Saturday the Cornwall Lacrosse team defeated the Capitals in Ottawa by 5 goals to 3 and, were tendered a great reception on their return home. History repeated itself on Saturday, the only difference being in the name of the vanquished team and the score, the beaten team now being Ottawa ,and the score 9 to 5. The boys were not tendered the welcome home because it is twenty years since Ottawa was beaten at home, and Cornwall has performed that feat a good many times in the last decade, but few matches have been of such an important bearing from a local standpoint and the dates happen to agree to the letter.

Despite the lateness of the arrival home of the boys, who had returned via Coteau, they were met at the depot by hundreds of citizens with a liberal supply of torches and fireworks and were escorted down street in autos and street cars amid a terrible din from all kinds of noise-making horns, etc. The Citizens' Band joined in the welcome accorded, which was one of the most spontaneous given here for many seasons. Everybody knew the spirit in which the players left for the Capital in the morning and rewarded them on their return for carrying their spirit into effect. A more determined set of lacrosse players never left Cornwall and seldom has a lacrosse public been so morally sure of a clean-cut victory as the people of the town were on Saturday. It was by long odds the most popular victory secured by the Cornwalls for many seasons. The people wanted the scalps of the Ottawa's on Ottawa soil and now they have them.

COST OF LIVING MAN CONTRADICTS CLOTHIERS

OTTAWA, Aug. 6.—The cost of living commissioner makes the following report regarding woollen and worsted clothes for suitings and overcoatings:

Following my report of June 7, the retail trade made vigorous attack on the assertions contained there and sought to have the cost of living committee of the house disprove the facts af the same. In evidence brought out before the committee my assertion was fully substantiated that the Canadian manufactured cloth for suits o be sold during this fall was sold by our manufacturers this spring at prices 8 to 10 per cent. below their previous lists. Moreover, our domestic manufacturers submitted samples of material showing that the Canadian ade goods were of very high quality and equal to many of the lines imported from England previous to the war. It was brought out in testimony before the committee that the three and one-half yards of the finest domestic material necessary to make a suit of clothes only amounted o $17.50 at the cloth manufacturers' prices. The goods purchased in the United States covering the same periods showed an even greater decline in price than the Canadian over the previous sales.

The sole grounds for high prices offered by the retailers was the price of goods imported from England and the increased labor charges. It happens that since the war English prices have changed from the lowest to almost the highest levels. Since exports of woollen and worsteds from England have been so largely curtailed of late, it is unfair to make these prices the standard by which to charge suittings in Canada. I have been informed, even, hat it is not uncommon for Canadian-made goods to be sold as material imported from Britain. Since my report in June on this subject there has been no warrant for increasing prices. The Canadian prices of fine wool have risen somewhat; the coarser wools have only risen slightly. The grading of our woof has improved, and, as a consequence, the upper level of prices has risen these last few months, while the lower level has remained at nearly the old figure. In no case has wool in Canada advanced anything like the prices of last year. Moreover, the manufacturers' sales for this coming season's consumption were all made some time ago at the reduced prices quoted above. As far as the supply of raw aterial is concerned, no attempt was ever made to disprove the fact that Canada is better supplied with wool than ever.

CECIL RHODES, EMPIRE BUILDER

On Tuesday, July 5, 1853, Cecil John Rhodes was born at Bishops Stortford, in Hertfordshire, the fifth son of its Vicar (besides daughters), and he was educated at its grammar school, intending to be a clergyman also. But in 1870, his health breaking down, he joined a brother who had settled as a farmer in Natal, in South Africa; and diamonds being that year discovered in Kimberley fields, they soon became most successful diggers. As time went on he rose in public estimation, and was so celebrated there that Rhodusia was named after him. It is a British inland possession, covering about 450,000 square miles, or larger than France, Germany or Holland combined. The dry air there restored his health, but, desiring to obtain an Oxford University degree, he returned to England and was admitted as an undergraduate at Oriel Col . ., and took his M. A. degree in 1881. His health compelled him to return to Africa with "not six months to live," an eminent physician wrote in his own diary, though he did not die (at Muizenberg near Cape Town) till 1902. By his will, with most of six million pounds, he provided, at Oxford University, 175 scholarships amongst its classics, worth £300 for each scholar from British Colonies and the United States of America, and £250 for each from Germany, as being nearer to England. To his own college he bequeathed £100,000, so that it has been greatly lengthened to reach High Street, where, on its front, above its earlier celebrities in their robes, Rhodes's statue represents him in his ordinary costume, that was more familiar to himself and his friends. His African home he left as a residence for the Prime Minister, with £1,000 to maintain it; besides large annual incomes for other beneficient purposes. During the present European war elections to his Oxford scholarships have been postponed.

HARD ON PROFITEERS

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Aug. 6. — Sir Auckland Gedes, the Minister of Reconstruction, announced to-day in the House of Commons sitting as a committee isquiring into the high cost of living that it is proposed to establish a central authority to deal with profiteering.

He was asked whether an attempt would be made to make profiteers disgorge, and his reply was that the question of special action was now under consideration. The tribunal to be set up would have the power to inflict penalties of six months imprisonment and on ethousand dollars fine.

The Commons would not adjourn he said until there was some power in the hands of the government to deal with profiteering.

INTERVIEW WITH GENERAL SEELEY

LONDON,—Major-General Seeley, Under-Secretary of the Air Ministry, in an interview with a correspondent, stated that the functions of the Air Ministry were confined to pioneer work and proving the possibility of air travel. It was not concerned in running services except over strategic areas. The future of commercial aviation over big routes like Africa lies with big syndicates.

General Seeley stated that an advisory committee was considering the question of Imperial air routes and the meteorological services would be centred in the Air Ministry for general and government information. Climatic reports on each proposed aerial route were being prepared, including upper air conditions. The organisation for the Cairo-Kachesi route was proposed and that for the Australian was in hand. The London to Paris, and Folkestone to Cologne systems were gradually being perfected.

The United Kingdom aerial routes were similarly being organised, including the preparation of air charts, identification marks for aerodromes, day and night route directions, telegraphic and telephone communication including the use of pigeons. Flying regulations were also being made. It was not anticipated there would be very big commercial developments in the United Kingdom, General Seeley said, owing to the limited area, the highly developed railroads and the variable weather. Sites for aerodromes on the Cape to Cairo route had already been cleared and sites on the India to Australian route selected. It was hoped a machine would fly from the Cape to Cairo before the end of the year, and from India to Australia early in 1920. Ideal weather conditions prevailed there for at least half the year and the vast distances there favoured the most useful kind of commercial aviation. They have men there to do it, he declared. The danger of fuel freezing and of snow and cold disabling airmen had been overcome.

NOAH'S SWEET TOOTH.

Who invented sweetmeats and confectionery?

Diving deep into the story of the ancients, the writer has come to the conclusion that some, if not all the credit, must go to old friend Noah.

He it was who first hit upon the idea of boiling down the starch of the wheat and the juice of the grape. The result was a paste, said to be the original of our present-day Turkish "delight."

The ancient Egyptians knew all about making "toothsome morsels," although sugar was unknown.

Whole fruits, particularly figs and dates, were used for flavouring purposes, the latter especially for preserves and cakes. In old tombs date sweetmeats have been found; also records of honey jellies.

The making of confectionery, in fact, goes back 3,400 years, proof of which is to be found on the walls of Egyptian tombs.

WATCHWORD OF LIBERAL PARTY

STIRRING ADDRESS BY MR. HARTLEY DEWART AT CONVENTION.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Aug. 6.—In his speech supporting the autonomy resolution, Mr. Hartley Dewart protested against any usurpation of powers of the Dominion Government.

Those who had been appointed to govern simply on one issue were abusing their powers and enacting legislation. They had no mandate to enact. But Ontario was getting rid one by one of its political middlemen. There was one, he said, who, after having plundered the party, was endeavouring to hamboozle the other, and then said, "Let us have no party strife, but fixity of tenure." The divine right of kings had passed, but there must not be substituted for it the divine right of government. We must come to the doctrine that the people should govern, and the watchword of the Liberal party should be, "Fight on"—on the same aggressive and progressive lines that Sir Wilfrid Laurier would have supported; fight on for the good and for the rights of the people; fight on that honesty might reign and the resources of the country be developed.

A POLICE WARNING TO DELINQUENT LICENSEES

SUMMONS AWAITING EACH PERSON WHO FAILS TO RENEW LICENSES.

"The Police Department issues a warning to the holder of various City Licenses which were overdue on the 1st of August 1919, namely: Eating Houses, Milk Express, Theatres, Scavengers, Bakers, Cab, Auto Livery, and unless these Licenses are renewed immediately a summons will await the holder.

"The holder of the above mentioned Licenses have been notified once already regarding their Licenses being overdue and being notified once ought to be sufficient.

"Every person who holds a City License of any kind should look it over and see if his license is one of the Licenses overdue as the Police Department does not want to mention the names in the Press of the persons whose Licenses are overdue.

"If the holder of any of the above mentioned is out of business or has sold his business, he should notify the Police Department at once."

TWINS RECEIVE LICENSE TO WED

Resemblance of Two Girls Causes Confusion at Bureau.

BUFFALO.—An amusing incident happened at the marriage license bureau recently when two pretty twin girls, Carrie and Josephine Camello, who were dressed and looked alike, applied for licenses to wed. Miss Anna B. Hickey, license clerk, issued the first permit to Carrie Camello and Salvatore Masaro, No. 868 Front avenue, and then turned to put the license fee away. When she looked up again, the other twin sister, Josephine, had taken the chair just vacated by her sister and asked for a license.

"You have a license," Miss Hickey said, thinking that it was still Carrie.

"That was my sister. I want to get married, too," said Josephine as Joseph Masaro, No. 884 Trenton avenue, stepped to her side and seconded her request.

According to the marriage license the girls are seventeen years old, were born in Italy and reside at No. 198 Efner street. They were accompanied by their father, who gave his consent to their marriage as they are under age.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Millen Pearson who departed this life Aug. 6, 1918.
If we could see him now in glory
With the Lamb that once was slain
Though we loved him ten times dearer,
Would we wish him back again.
If we saw the palm he's waving,
And the golden crown he wears,
It would hush up all our sorrow,
And wipe away our tears.
Oh- we miss him and how sadly
Bleeding hearts alone can tell.
Earth has lost him—Heaven has found him—
Jesus has done all things well.
Dear is the spot where he is laid,
And sweet to breathe his name;
In life we loved him dearly;
In death we do the same.
Inserted by his Father and Mother.

IN MEMORIAM.

PEARSON.—In loving memory of Millen O. Pearson, who was killed 6th August, 1918.

Just a year ago you left us.
How we miss your loving face.
But you left us to remember
None on earth can fill your place.
He little thought his time so short
In this world to remain.
Or that when from his home he went
He would ne'er return again.
May the heavenly wind blow softly
O'er that sweet and hallowed spot.
'Mid the changing scenes of life, dear Millen,
You will never be forgot.

FORMED NEW GOVERNMENT

ROUMANIAN ACTION AGAINST THE HUNGARIANS CAME TO A CLIMAX YESTERDAY.

MEMBERS ARRESTED

(United Press.)

LONDON, Aug. 7.—King Ferdinand f Roumania will arrive to-day at Budapest, where he is expected to issue a proclamation outlining the future government of Hungary, according to an Exchange Telegrahp despatch from Vienna.

Roumanian action against Hungary came to a climax with the announcement yesterday that an ultimatum had been presented in Budapest, demanding the Hungarians to surrender large quantities of war and other material.

The British and American representatives in Budapest have protested against the ultimatum. The Allies also have ordered the Roumanian troops to evacuate the Hungarian capital.

Allied military detachments are reported to be on their way to relieve the situation.

(United Press.)

PARIS, Aug. 7.—The British and American Peace delegates were highly disturbed to-day over the Roumanian disregard of the Allied instructions, the occupation of Budapest, and the presentation of an ultimatum tp the Hungarians.

It was thought further action might be necessary to dissuade the Roumanians from their present policy.

(United Press.)

PARIS, Aug. 7.—It was held by the Peace Conference to-day that the Roumanian ultimatum to the Hungarians, demanding the surrender of material, upsets the reparation terms of the Austrian Treaty.

French divisions in the Orient, it was learned to-day, may be ordered to Budapest in case the Roumanian forces do not leave, as ordered by the Allies.

Julius Peidl, Premier of the new Hungarian Government, has been overthrown, the Peace Conference was advised to-day. The report stated that Archduke Joseph had established a government.

The coup by which Peidl was thrown was carried out by the Hungarian police, it was said. There was no disorder. The police arrested the members of the cabinet while they were holding an official session.

A small force of American troops, together with minor detachments of French troops, captured Noyes.

The British and Czechs are now occupying Budapest jointly with the Roumanians, advices to the Peace Conference said to-day.

MINISTRY ESTABLISHED.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, Aug. 7.—The Peace Conference was advised to-day that the Hungarian Cabinet, headed by Julies Peidl, had been overthrown and that Archduke Joseph had established a ministry in Budapest.

Advices to the Conference stated that the Roumanian forces had crossed the Danube into the business section of Budapest, and were seizing supplies and preparing to ship them to Roumania.

The Entente Mission in Budapest delegated the Governmental authority to Archduke Joseph to-night when the Peidl Government resigned.

Archduke Joseph was commander of the Austro-Hungarian forces on the southern section of the Eastern battle front during the first two years of the great war. He was born in 1872.

Messages to the Conference regarding the Cabinet, stated that at six p.m. yesterday the members of the Social Democratic Government, while they were in session at the National Palace, were arrested by the Hungarian police.

The arrests were carried out without disorder.

A GOOD RECEPTION

OTTAWA, Aug. 7.

A resolution affirming the faith of the Liberals in the reciprocity pact, and expressing the hope that it will n ot berepealed by the Washington government, gave the Hon. Fielding his first opportunity of being heard by the delegates to the convention. He got as good a reception as was accorded to other candidates for the leadership, who also spoke last night.

Mr. Fielding asserted that in 1911 Conservatives as well as Liberals knew improved relations with United States would be a good thing for Canada but the reciprocity pact was defeated for political reasons. He had too much respect fr Sir Robert Borden to think that the Prime Minister did not know that reciprocity would be a god thing for the country, but the then leader of the Opposition had been tempted and interests opposed to reciprocity had defeated it with the aid of campaign funds, so large that not all of it could be absorbed in the contest.

CONVENTION WILL ADOPT A LARGE PORTION OF THE TRADES AND LABOUR POLICY TO EQUALIZE DISTRIBUTION

G. P. GRAHAM LOOKS LIKE A WINNER—FIELDING AND FISHER STOCK IS DOWN A FEW POINTS—ONE WAY TO START A RIOT AT THE CONVENTION.

(By The Examiner's Special Correspondent.)

HOWICK HALL, Ottawa, Aug. 7.—To-day decides who will be the Canadian Premier in 1920. Fielding and Fisher stock is down. Graham is high man if Premier Martin keeps out as he said this morning he would do. Mackenzie King has a good following and if he gets as much Quebec and Maritime Provinces support as his supporters count on, he will run close up on the tally.

Clifford Sifton is avoided as if he had smallpox—he has posed as a king maker too often. He told some of the delegates to-day that Borden was ditched, so he is apparently trying to keep up his record of playing on the winning side.

Trades and Labour.

I canvassed the committee who will submit the Liberal platform and it looks as if a large part of the Trades and Labour platform would be adopted as a measure to equalize the distribution of wealth, to readjust the burden of taxation so it will fall more lightly on the shoulders of the toiler and will prevent the accumulation of profits by those who deal in the necessities of life.

The common people are represented at this convention—you can see that by studying the serious, earnest demeanor of the delegates who are facing the troublesome problems of how it may be made possible to help the great bulk of the working people who are the foundation of our nationhood.

TWO OF A KIND.

Sir Joseph Flavelle and N. W. Rowell, intimate and close friends of each other, receive fiery denunciation for their heartless sacrifice of those who have been unable to protect themselves and have suffered long the hardships of outrageous prices and unequally distributed taxation.

Carvell, the worst enemy of public ownership in the house, is in the chairman's position of the Railway Board. This does not look well for tax-weary ratepayers.

W. F. Nickle, of Kingston, the most radical Tory in the House, and who championed the poor man's rights, resigned his seat—some say—because the Borden government was hopeless, capitalistic and becoming worse each day.

A GOOD FELLOW.

Hartley Dewart is receiving ovations from the Ontario delegates wherever he appears and he is as modest and unassuming as you could find any man. Everyone votes him a good fellow. At all events he has made a hit at this convention. He gave a speech to-day that brought the crowd to its feet several times. I count it the best speech made yet, and he slugged the Borden and Hearst governments right and left with the fiercest, heaviest and most crushing attacks delivered yet at this convention. Dewart is never alone—Ontario delegates crowd around him by the score, shaking him by the hand and assuring him of their active support.

This would be a good time for Newton Wesley Rowell to walk into the convention. He would get about the same reception the Kaiser would get at a meeting of the Great War Veterans.

A SMALL RIOT.

Premier Norris, of Manitoba, provoked a small riot in the Manitoba committee room. Some of the delegates wanted to know what he meant by saying to the press he reserved the right to withdraw the Manitoba delegation if they could not accept any part of the party platform. One Manitoban said he was playing to the Tory support at home, but when they got home he would get a dressing down and in all probability would require to fight to hold his place in a Provincial convention.

Ontario has about one-third of the delegation, but the most vigorous and outspoken canvassers are from the west. They are not Martin men or Fielding supporters, except British Columbia, which is said to be for Mackenzie King.

STILL COMING.

No one can tell where the first ballot will bring any candidate. Two hundred more delegates came in today and two hundred more will be here to-night. All agree, however, to be bound by the choice of the convention.

Nearly all the last two hundred arrivals were farmers—that is, low tariff men, and the representation from rural Canada is tremendous.

Many delegates wear the overseas service badge, and the war veterans are well represented on committees.

LABOUR MEN.

A. W. Roebuck is leading the Labour cohorts and is putting up his demands for public ownership, compulsory arbitration for all employers, whether private corporations or government or municipal, and national insurance of working people against sickness, want in old age; also pensions for widowed mothers to support the latter's years of infancy. Every reform that fertile minds can suggest is being considered this afternoon.

The Ontario delegates, for the first time in many years, have a leader they believe in and can follow. Rowell was a Rowell man only. He counted his whole platform prohibition, and that was not wide enough. Men and women alike are delighted that Borden drew him. He may keep him. No one else wants him, and if he does not put Conservative party on the toboggan it will not be Rowell. However, Col. J. A. Currie and the ginger group have sworn to rid the Tory party of him, and Col. Currie generally gets what he goes after.

HON. SYDNEY FISHER.
One of the Candidates For Election to the Liberal Leadership.

VOTING THIS AFTERNOON

CONVENTION IS SWEEPING OVER WITH EXCITEMENT—SIDNEY FISHER'S RESOLUTION.

Canadian Press.

OTTAWA, Aug. 7. — Unless there are some complimentary nominations the contest for the Liberal leadership will lie between Fielding, Graham, Mackenzie King and D. D. McKenzie.

The convention is seething with excitement over the leadership race and while four candidates are all expected to poll a heavy vote there is absolute lac kof certainty as to who is most likely to be the winner.

The rumor of last night that Fielding might retire owing to opposition to his candidature from a considerable section of Quebec delegation, has not materialized and it is authoritatively stated this morning that Fielding would get a large vote from that province.

It is expected that there will be between eleven and twelve hundred delegates present with the right to vote. After the fourth ballot, without result, the lowest candidate will be dropped.

At the opening of the convention this morning a resolution was moved by Hon. Sydney Fisher, favoring the encouragement of [illegible]

A Resolution.

Mr. Fisher's resolution proposes the use of national credit to provide capital for Agriculture at the lowest possible rates; the extension of government elevators and cold storage plants, and cold storage transportation facilities; and the distribution of fertilizers by the government, at the lowest possible cost; the adaptation of Canada's banking system to the issuance of loans on lands and live stock.

Even if as many as five ballots are required to elect the new Liberal leader the convention managers are hopeful that the result will be known by 7 or 8 o'clock this evening.

The arrangements for taking and counting the vote are very complete.

The different provincial delegations met at 2 o'clock this afternoon in their commitee rooms where the ballot boxes were distributed.

Balloting began at three thirty. It is possible that one candidate may receive a majority of the votes cast on the second or third ballot. In which case the result will be known at a comparatively early hour. There is a possibility that more ballots may be necessary.

It is expected that the lower candidate will drop out early in the contest and the final vote be reached on the third or fourth ballot.

"CLEAN-UP" CAMPAIGN OF FOOD PROFITEERS AND PRICE GOUGERS

(By Ralph F. Coush, United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—An army of more than 1,000 agents and employees of the Department of Justice to-day plunged into a nation-wide hunt for evidence to secure the wholesale conviction of food profiteers and price gougers. Spread over every section of the United States, this force of investigators began work under the orders of two hundred Federal attorneys. United States marshalls and deputies will help. Assistance is available from a corps of trained agents of the Federal Trade Commission.

And keeping in personal touch with the entire situation, Attorney - General Patter was in his office here to-day directing the work.

"I ordered everything else side-tracked," he said.

First arrests are expected within a few days, it was said at Patter's office.

Convicted profiteers may face jail terms under the War-time Food Control, which gave Patter the order to "clean up," in telegrams he sent to all Federal district attorneys late yesterday.

With the opening of this campaign to-day, Patter took the first step planned by the Government in an extensive economic offensive to reduce the living costs and curb hoarding and manipulation of food stocks.

"CAPTAIN CALDER APPEARS IN KILTS

(By H. F. GADSBY.)

OTTAWA, Aug. 7.—As the poet says, "The boldest held his breath for a time." The Convention occupied most of its second day doing that very thing, holding its breath until there was something worth talking about, the tariff resolution, for example.

The Hon. Charles Murphy, who is bugleman for this Liberal love feast, has a list of forty speakers who are to move and second the various resolutions which will make up the platform. The hope is that the forty speakers will behave well, and that outside contributors to the debate will hold their breath if it blows too strong. The trade winds of the east and the west—in other words, the tariff opinions—are apt to conflict; and what this Convention wants above all else is harmony.

THE KEYNOTES.

Holding its breath does not mean keeping silent. No, indeed. There are speeches — good speeches, and plenty of them. Much keynoting is being done. The keynotes, I should say, are Laurier, Moderation, the High Cost of Living, and an Unabated Democracy. Moderation, as I see it, does not include revenge on the Liberal-Unionists, including certain Provincial Premiers, who have come home, and I do wish that that hard look would not come into Frank Oliver's eyes when he glances at Premier Norris, of Manitoba. The story runs that the Hon. Frank yearns to sink his hatchet in the Norris skull, the first chance he gets. So far, no chance has offered, or else Mr. Oliver has displayed great forbearance.

Still, it will not be a Liberal Convention if everything passed like bouquets and wedding bells. Surely some bricks will be hurled, if only to show that the Liberals have the true fighting spirit. I look forward with pleasure to a little excitement.

THE COST OF LIVING.

The Cost of Living is a fruitful subject for keynotes, and not contentious. Everybody agrees that the blamed thing has got to be remedied and at once.

Capt. Calder, of Montreal, who is a barrister by profession, and a soldier by recent occupation, an M.C. and D.S.O. and a couple of other ribbons that I do not identify, introduced the paramount to pie yesterday, in a few burning words, with which the audience unanimously agreed. Capt. Calder has the fluency of Cicero, and the wit of the devil. He ought to be in Parliament. As the product of a Scottish Presbyterian father and a French-Canadian mother, and consequently unable to support any racial or religious prejudices, Captain Calder pleaded for moderation, a square deal to the returned soldiers, and the thirty cent bacon of pre-war days.

Captain Calder dressed his message, so to speak. That is to say, he appeared in kilts, as indicating just how short he would cut the cost of living off.

A BIG SHOT.

The Hon. Duncan Marshall took up the heartfelt story in that rollicking rhetoric of his, and told how he would reduce it by teaching the boy to love the farm, work the fifty million idle acres of the great North-

"ONE BIG UNION" ELECT OFFICERS

WILLIAM IVENS MAY EDIT THE WESTERN "LABOUR NEWS.

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 6.— The One Big Union is away to a flying start. Officers have been elected and other steps taken toward the formation of a central body for locals which have been expelled from the American Federation of Labour. Delegates were present from railroad trades, painters, caretakers and elevator men and retail clerks. Organizers say that other unions will now fall in line. Here are the officers elected:

Chairman—W. H. C. Logan.
Vice-Chairman—R. E. Bray.
Secretary-Treas.—R. B. Russell.
Statistician—C. P. Cooper.

Discussion of "goods and effects turned over at the Trades and Labour Council" is a worry. It was announced that banks had been notified not to cash any cheques signed by H. [illegible] Veach or William Ivens and [illegible] countersigned by Jas. Winning or Ernest Robinson. It was announced that there are strings on the western "Labour News." A committee was named to confer with soldiers' and sailors' party in regard to Labour Day parade or some other demonstration. R. B. Russell said certain national officers had been endeavouring to have him turned out of the Labor Temple Russell refused to accept the challenge of R. A. Rigg to debate the One Big Union, he explained, as certain conditions laid down by Rigg were not satisfactory and would narrow the debate to such an extent as to make it useless.

W. A. Robinson, secretary of Trades, states to-day that the western "Labour News" would be issued as usual this week and that William Ivens would be editor.

ENUMERATORS ARE NOT SOLDIERS

KITCHENER, Aug. 7. — At the weekly meeting of the executive of the Kitchener and Waterloo branch of the G. W. V. A., a resolution was passed expressing dissatisfaction with the appointment of the enumerators under the Ontario Election Act, and the manner in which the appointments were made.

In most of the ridings, the majority of enumerators are returned men, while in North Waterloo, it is claimed that only four saw active service.

IMPROVEMENT IN FREIGHT SERVICE IN PETERBORO

CONFERENCE WITH RAILWAY OFFICIALS AND THE BOARD OF TRADE.

A NEW MEMBER

Mr. H. J. Humphries, Superintendent of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and his assistant, Mr. R. de la B. Girouard, were in the city yesterday afternoon for a conference with the officials and Transportation Committee of the Board of Trade, on the improvement of package-car freight and express service between Montreal, Toronto and Peterborough.

The Board of Trade was represented by its President, J. J. Turner, Thos. Barrie, VicePresident, and Chairman of the Merchants' Association; H. B. Meyers, and Chairman W. S. Campbell of the Transportation Committee, who presided.

Chairman Campbell presented the case to Mr. Humphries, asking on behalf of the mercantile and manufacturing interests of Peterborough, for better despatch in the transit of less-than-car-load freight and express cars to and out of Peterborough.

The specific causes of delays were pointed out and remedies suggested by a frank and mutually considerate discussion.

Transfer Points.

The transfer points and train connections touching the movement of package and express cars were freely discussed. Mr. Humphries assured the committee of the earnest desire of the C.P.R. to meet the wishes of the Board of Trade, and promised a satisfactory solution which would be reported to the Transportation Committee at an early date.

Mr. W. S. Dodd, local agent, was present, and furnished statistics and information called for by his superintendent.

The meeting was entirely satisfactory and as a result merchants of the city will soon see a marked improvement in the delivery of local freight.

Mr. Humphries intimated that the officials of the C.P.R. were quite interested in the organization and development of the Board of Trade and it was their desire to cooperate actively with it and to do whatever they could to help develop Peterborough as an important centre.

After the meeting, Mr. Humphries asked President Turner to present his application for active membership in the Board.

LIVES LOST IN COLLISION

TWENTY-FIVE PERSONS MISSING AS RESULT OF DISASTER NEAR HALIFAX

HEAVY FOGS

(Canadian Press.)

HALIFAX, N.S., Aug. 7.—Twenty-five people may have lost their lives in a collision which occurred during the night between the steamer Warwitch, bound for North Sydney from Wabana, Newfoundland, and the schooner Gallia, from Concape, France, with St. Pierre as her destination.

It is believed the accident, which was here close to St. Pierre, was due to heavy fogs which have been hanging off the coast for several days.

Nothing definite is known of the loss of life besides the names of the seven survivors, which indicates that the schooner, with probably thirty persons aboard, sank, and seven survivors were rescued by the Warwitch.

REGIMENTAL DINNERS AND REGULARIZED DRESS.

One of the striking signs of the immediately expected return of peace conditions is the number of regimental dinners now continually being arranged here. Every day brings further announcements, and it is a special fruit of what has been occurring that the range of such entertainments extends in these times to contingents from beyond the seas. A sartorial question has arisen from all this which has had to be submitted to the highest military authorities. Doubt having been expressed as to the correct dress to be worn by serving officers at regimental dinners and similar gatherings, the War Office announces now that until further orders serving officers should wear uniform (service dress) on these occasions, while retired and demobilized officers also may wear service dress uniform should they so desire. This last point is of importance, because it solves a problem for the demobilized officer which without official direction might have proved a trouble.

THE DO-NOTHING POLICY.

The hurried conclusion of the labours of the Cost of Living Committee, on the prorogation of Parliament, the innocuous report which that committee has presented, and the total ignoring by the Government in its valedictory of the committee or its findings, are evidence enough that there has been no real intention to do anything which might ameliorate the conditions which, more than anything else, have been responsible for the labour troubles throughout Canada during the past few months.—Winnipeg Telegram.

RICHES WITHOUT MONEY.

Many a man is rich without money. Thousands of men with nothing in their pockets, and thousands without even a pocket, are rich. A man born with a good, sound constitution, a good stomach, a good heart and limbs, a pretty good head piece, is rich. Tough muscles are better than gold, and nerves that flash fire and carry energy to every function better than much silver. It is better than a landed estate to have the right kind of a father and mother. The man is rich who has a good disposition, who is naturally kind, patient, cheerful, forgiving, hopeful, and who has a flavour of fun in his composition. The hardest thing to get along with in this life is man's own self. A cross, selfish fellow, a despondent and complaining fellow, a time and care burdened man, these are all deformed on the inside. They do not limp, but their thoughts sometimes do.—Kingston Whig.

BELLEVILLE WILL TRY IT

The Belleville Council has constituted itself a special committee to investigate the high cost of living and to try to secure for its citizens a better chance for existence. If these aldermen depend upon the provincial legislation for the ostensible purpose of encouraging and simplifying such enquiries they are due for the disappointment experienced by a small committee of the Peterboro Council that essayed to probe local prices. The local committee hadn't proceeded far until they discovered that their authority was so limited that they dropped the proceedings in disgust. They undertook the task under the impression that they had plenary powers to call and examine witnesses, but it was soon brought home to them that the legislation contemplated a judicial investigation with possibilities of costs that deterred them from committing the city to an expenditure the amount of which they could not estimate. Accordingly they concluded that the money could be perhaps more advantageously spent on tangible things, and that if the Provincial Government had been seriously concerned about the cost of living, they would have conducted a broader and deeper investigation themselves.

THE CITY AND SUBURBAN ROADS.

The County's good roads organisation requires an auxiliary commission to determine a suburban area, to designate the roads that shall be improved within that area, and also to co-operate with the County's superintendent in arranging the details of the work that shall be undertaken. The county and city each appoint a commission, and these two select a third. During the past five years, citizens have freely criticised the county's delay in accepting the Provincial Good Roads scheme, and last ... ry a joint meeting of the Board ... orks and Board of Trade urged ... loption of the system. Whether ... importunings have influenced the ... reeves or not is aside from the question. The fact is that Deputy-Reeve Eason has been nominated as the County's commissioner, and it now devolves upon the city to give willing and speedy assistance in the execution of the plans that have been outlined for this season. The city has the next move, and it might as well be done graciously and promptly, for the Act admits no alternative.

On county provincial roads, such as it is expected the "Gravel" and Norwood Roads will be defined by the Department, the city and county each pay twenty per cent. of the cost of improvements and maintenance. ... the province pays the remaining ... per cent. On ordinary county ... such as that leading to Crawford's Grove and the extension of Sherbrooke Street into North Monaghan, the county and city each bear 30 per cent. and the province pays 40 per cent. And the city's total expenditure in any year shall not exceed half a mill on the tax rate.

The County Committee are wasting no time in putting their plans into effect, and the city should avoid any action that will delay the advancement of work in the suburban area. Though there have been many statements tending to discourage the good roads system in this County, there is a general approval of its adoption, for the simple and sufficient reason that there is no choice. To the average ratepayer of Peterborough, the benefits from good roads radiating to the west, south, and east may be obscure. Prices of farm produce may not decline as a result, but one effect should be noticeable within a year or two.

Peterborough should become the business centre of an ever-broadening rural district. Automobiles are rapidly relegating the buckboards to the oblivion of obsolete vehicles, and distances of thirty and forty miles present no difficulty to this generation of farmers. Their trade is decidedly desirable, and every facility should be provided to attract it. The city's share of the expenditure of the County's road system does not appear to be excessive. The Council should at once appoint its commissioner and co-operate heartily in the advancement of the good roads scheme.

THE EXCHANGES

It does little good to tell the man who pays two cents more for a loaf of bread that the country will have the largest wheat crop in its history, and that there is to-day more wheat in storage than ever before. He finds it difficult to understand how with so much wheat the price of wheat products increases steadily.—New Haven Register.

The Mexican Ambassador to the United States, now spoken of as a candidate for the Mexican Presidency, will if he believes in safety first, remain Ambassador to the United States.—Wheeling Register.

Von Bethman-Hollweg puts it very plainly when he says: "If the League of Nations has any value the alliance with France and England is superfluous; if America considers the alliance necessary the League of Nations is a mere delusion." Who can contradict that proposition?—Hartford Courant.

Recent outbreaks in Northern communities emphasize the fact that, contrary to traditional belief, racial antagonisms are no exclusive possession of the South. Such outbreaks as those at Washington and Chicago are a national concern. Unless they are recognized as such and the cause underlying them given adequate attention many communities in the United States are likely to face unhappy moments in the future. It is not a condition to be solved by ignoring it.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

There are intimations from Washington that Japan will explain her attitude toward Shantung or else the President will come out in a statement. It is necessary that the public should have all the facts in the case. Either the radicals in the Senate are justified in their charges or they are not. So there must be clarification. If it is the intention of Japan to return Kiaochou to China within a reasonable time, let her say so in plain language. It will help very much to a better understanding all around.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

How is America to continue in a position of "splendid isolation" with "subs" nosing their way hither and yon beneath the waves, plains scudding through the air from continent to continent and gigantic "blimps" cutting through the upper strata with the speed of an express train?—Atlanta Constitution.

The most humiliating thing about the Austrian situation is the tolerant, almost benevolent way in which the Allies are now treating Austria. It is proof positive of Austria's utter helplessness. If there was anything left of that much-offending country, in the way of population wealth, ambition or military strength the Allies would be squeezing the life out of it. It's like being kind to a wicked, broken old man with the death-rattle in his throat.—Greenville News.

There was a much larger attendance at the last meeting of converts and it is hoped that each one will avail themselves of this opportunity to attend these special gatherings. At 9 o'clock a meeting of the executive committee to wind up the campaign will be held.

SIR DAVID BEATTY AND HIS FUTURE

They say in Whitehall that we must not be uneasy about the renewed stories of Sir David Beatty's anxiety to replace Sir Rosslyn Wemyss as First Sea Lord, nor about the suggestion that Lloyd George on returning to town will at once see that he does so. Sir David, it is said, is actually unemployed, because he wishes and has earned a holiday, which he is now taking in the Mediterranean. A naval officer, however, gives me another version as the current gossip. Sir David, he says, had a definite verbal offer from Sir Eric Geddes, then First Lord, who invited him to join the Board of Admiralty as First Sea Lord on hauling down his flag at Rosyth. Sir Rosslyn Wemyss was to make way for Sir David Beatty by going to the Mediterranean as Governor of Malta. When the Grand Fleet was broken up, however, Sir Eric Geddes had left the Admiralty to take charge of the Transport Bill, and Mr. Long reigned in his stead. Walter Long saw no need to hurry the inevitable change, nor did Sir Rosslyn Wemyss, who still has plans of his own for the service. Moreover, Mr. Churchill, another masterful Minister, claimed Malta for General Sir Herbert Plumer. Thereupon Sir David Beatty decided to take a holiday (so at least the story runs).

LABOUR COUNCIL WANTED PROOF OF THE VETERANS' ALLEGATION

REFUSED TO CONDEMN CITY COUNCIL OVER APPOINTMENT OF HUNTER STREET BRIDGE ACCOUNTANT UNTIL FACTS WERE CLEARLY ESTABLISHED.

WHAT G.W.V.A. ASSERT

The allegations of the Great War Veterans' Association that six members of the City Council had pledged themselves to vote for Mr. Alex. Elliott in the appointing of a cost accountant for the Hunter street bridge was regarded by the Trades and Labour Council last night as insufficient evidence to justify their endorsation of the resolution the Veterans have levelled at the City Fathers.

"We don't want to make ourselves a laughing stock," remarked one of the members. "We don't know whether one was pledged or six. This is only an assertion as far as we know, and in a serious matter of this kind we should have the fullest evidence before we pronounce our condemnation."

"A Framed Job."

The G.W.V.A. resolution was submitted by a deputation composed of Messrs. Staunton, Whatley, Muir and Miller. It charged that the City Council did not seriously consider the qualifications of all the applicants for the position. The Veterans expressed their belief that it had been a "framed job." The Council had promised to give returned men the preference if all other things were equal. One of the applicants was Mr. Perks, a returned soldier whom the Veterans declared possessed all the qualifications necessary for the work. They called upon the Council to publish the ayes and nays of the vote for the accountant, and pledged themselves to oppose with all their energy the aldermen who had ignored the qualifications of returned men.

A Broad Principle.

Mr. Whatley told the Labour Council that the Veterans were not actuated by a selfish motive. Reviewing the City Council's procedure he stated that Mr. Elliott had been suggested for the position at a committee meeting, but it was then decided to advertise for applications.

vertise for applications.

ed, "was there a fair shake for every applicant. There is reason to doubt this, especially since one alderman stated that six members of the Council had pledged their support to Mr. Elliott. It is not the practice of the Veterans to ask for pledges. We say that all applications for positions shall be given fair consideration. We ask that preference be given to a returned man only if his qualifications are higher than the other applicants. Was the spirit of democracy shown the other night if six aldermen were already pledged to support one of the men. We believe that this matter should be brought before the citizens in the interests of everybody."

Mr. Robert Muir said that the Veterans were not prejudiced against Mr. Elliott. He was a respectable citizen, but the Veterans wanted the assurance that even-handed justice had been given to all the applicants.

"If a civilian had better qualifications than a returned soldier I would be the first to vote for him, but if these things are equal we believe the preference should be given to returned men.

The Council's Views.

Members of the Labour Council said that Mr. Elliott was a thoroughly qualified accountant. Mr. J. J. Hartley, Wm.. Rudkins and others gave these opinions. Ald. McIntyre said he had supported Mr. Elliott because he considered him the best man the Council could get.

Ald. McIntyre's Statement.

"Before the question of the appointment came up in committee, and before it was decided to call for applications, an alderman asked me what I thought of Mr. Elliott," said Ald. McIntyre. "I have known him for thirty years and I had no hesitation in saying that I thought he would make a good man for the position. I said I would support him, but I did not consider that I had pledged myself. But I said I would support him and when I give my word it goes through. I wouldn't go back on it if I had to lose my place in the council. Possibly I made a mistake in promising to support Mr. Elliott before it was decided to advertise for tenders, but we all make mistakes sometimes, and when I gave my word then I wouldn't go back on it afterwards."

Motion and Amendment.

Some members of the Trades Council were inclined to believe that there had been a canvass in Mr. Elliott's behalf. They strongly condemned pledges of any kind if the aldermen knew that applications were to be advertised.

To the motion that no action be taken until further evidence was forthcoming in proof of the G. W. V. A. statement, there was an amendment that the Trades Council strongly condemn the tactics of the City Council in appointing an accountant for the bridge. The motion carried.

HISTORIC EVENT CELEBRATED IN NORWOOD AT ST. PAUL'S CHURCH

CELEBRATION INCLUDED THE PRESENTATION OF A BELL BY MR. THOMAS SHEA IN MEMORY OF HIS PARENTS—FEW PRESENT YESTERDAY TOOK PART IN BUILDING OF CHURCH FIFTY YEARS AGO.

At Norwood yesterday an historic event was celebrated in the Golden Jubilee of St. Paul's Church and combined with this celebration history was made when a bell presented by Mr. Thomas Shea in memory of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Shea was blessed by His Lordship Bishop M. J. O'Brien.

The dual celebration was commenced by Pontifical mass sung by His Lordship at 10 o'clock in the church and an inspiring jubilee sermon was preached by Rev. C. C. Kehoe O.C.C., St. Augustine's Seminary, Toronto, who recalled the building of the Church in 1859 and spoke of the position it holds in the lives of the people and the community. Bishop O'Brien supplemented Father Kehoe's sermon with a few words of encouragement to the people and the rector, Rev. J. J. McCarthy.

The Picnic

After mass the entire congregation numbering several hundred crossed the road where on the church property a huge picnic had been prepared and attractions suitable to every age and taste furnished. In a huge marquee the ladies of the parish had prepared a splendid fowl dinner and the four tables presented a most tempting appearance laden as they were with everything good to eat and decorated prettily with gayly colored flowers. The table at which the clergy present sat was especially attractive and had as its centre piece a Jubilee Cake made especially for the table it was placed upon. The clergy at this table included His Lordship the Bishop, Dean McCoil, Father John O'Brien, Father McAuley, Father Ferguson, Father Maguire, Father McCarthy, Father Maloney and Father Treacy an old Norwood boy at present stationed in Iowa.

Afternoon Service

At 2.30 the climax both of the celebration and of the many new additions to the church was reached when the bell presented by Mr. Shea was blessed by the Bishop. Before the actual ceremony of blessing the bell His Lordship spoke briefly of the meaning of bells and their close connection with Christianity. He commented upon the futility of retaining pride even after death in the spending of huge amounts of money upon caskets which in a few short months disintegrate due to the elements and upon the spending of vast sums upon monuments. Far better he said to place in a church such a lasting tribute to the memory of one who has gone to his reward as the bell which will be an everlasting reminder of the person for whom it was erected. He then performed the impressive ceremony of blessing the bell which bore the inscription: Presented to St. Paul's Church, Norwood, by Thomas Shea in memory of his beloved parents Michael Shea and Annie Miles; Rev. J. J. McCarthy, pastor; blessed by Right Rev. M. J. O'Brien, D.D., Bishop of Peterboro, August 6th 1919. At the conclusion of the blessing members of the congregation were asked to come forward and ring the bell as it stood before the altar in readiness to be erected. The bell weighs 1,500 pounds. Mr. Thomas Shea rang the bell first.

Church History

In 1859 at the time of the laying of the corner stone by Bishop Horan of Kingston, Rev. John Quirk, who was in charge of the four parishes of Hastings, Campbellford, Warkworth and Norwood was first priest. He was succeeded by Rev. Father Conway who in 1858 became the first resident priest in the parish and retained his parish until 1910 when on account of his advanced years he resigned. Father Kelly at present overseas as Chaplain with the Canadian forces came in 1910 and was succeeded by Father Galvin in 1914. In 1916 Father Casey took charge of the parish for three months and was succeeded by the well beloved present pastor Rev. J. J. McCarthy.

Present 50 Years Ago.

Although half a century has elapsed since the laying of the corner stone several members of the church who were present at the historic occasion attended yesterday's celebration. These included Mr. John FitzPatrick who is 85 years of age still remembers perfectly drawing the first load of stone for the building of the Church, Mr. Michael O'Keefe, who won a race at the celebration in 1859, Messrs. Daniel FitzPatrick, Tom Shea, Wm. Shea, T. Heffernan, John Kelly, John Shea, Richard Welch, John Christie, Michael Ryan, Wm. Garvey, Richard Welch, Harry McLaughlin, Miss Kate O'Keefe, Mrs. FitzPatrick, Mrs. D. Hurley, Mrs. John Christie, Dr. Coughlin and Mrs. Dave Kelly. While most of those present were children at the time they all retain clear memories of the event. Mr. John FitzPatrick recalled the fact that at the time of building the church the money was advanced by Mr. Thos. Blezard, M. P., for Peterboro, "at good interest and security", Mr. FitzPatrick concluded.

The Committees

The committees in charge of the picnic who gave themselves over completely to making the event one of good old time sort were: Chairman of the whole, Mr. Patrick McNulty, lumber and table committee, John FitzPatrick, Joe O'Keefe and Joe Fallon; tent committee, Dan Gooley, A. McKenty, Frank O'Keefe, and Richard Heffernan; sports, John Kelly, Dave Garvey and Leo O'Keefe decorations, Charles Riley, and James McNichols, cook's assistants, Gus Shea, Joe Hurley, Joe FitzPatrick, Joe Finn, Ed. Waters; cigar booth, Ambrose English and Wm. Cavanaugh. At the tables Mesdames M. English, Chas. O'Reilley, John Boland, M. E. English, Denis O'Shea, and Herr, Miss McNulty, Mrs. J. English, Miss FitzPatrick were in charge.

Tea was poured by Messrs. Joe FitzPatrick, Harold Williams, and T. Kelly. At the fish pond Misses M. McNulty, Condon and V. Coughlin were in charge and at the ice cream booth Misses Laura Kelly, English, Herr and M. McDonald, and Mr. A. English took charge.

At the gate Chas. McNulty, Andrew Quinlan, John McLaughlin and Oliver Kelly took charge.

The Sports

The winners in the sports were:

Boys under 15 years of age—Lexas English, Jean Carroll, Leo Herr.
Girls under 15 years—Lucy Lonergon, L. Regan, M. Heffernan.
100 yards dash — Leo O'Keefe, George Heffernan.
Standing broad jump (boys over 18)—Joe English, Wm. Rogers, Gerald Heffernan.
Long jump—George Heffernan, Leo O'Keefe.
Putting Shot—T. Coughlin, George Heffernan.
Running Hop, Step and Jump—Leo O'Keefe, George Heffernan.
Running high jump—Leo O'Keefe, George Heffernan.
Pole Vault— George Heffernan, James Crowley.
Fat Man's race—Frank O'Keefe, John McLaughlin.

From Peterboro

Visitors from Peterboro at the picnic included Mr. Vincent Eastwood, Mr. Campbell, Mr. A. H. Stratton, Miss L. Hurley, Mrs. Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon, Mr. Fontaine, Miss L. Hurley, the Misses Hurley and Mr. MacGregor.

It was recalled by the old residents that the contractor of the church was he late Wm. Code and the committee who carried through the work of the church building were Messrs. Phil FitzPatrick, Wm. McCarthy, Richard Welsh and Denis Hurley all of whom have since died.

In Charge of Tent.

Mrs. J. H. Brown, who was in charge generally of the dining room arrangements at the picnic, received the warmest congratulations from all upon her splendid handling of the dinner and tea at both of which meals over five hundred people were served.

NASTY THROAT DROPPINGS QUICKLY GAIN STRENGTH UNDER FOLLOWING PLAN

Nervousness, just like weakness, is a family predisposition. We inherit tendencies to disease just as we inherit physical resemblances. The strain of study, social duties, work at home — these all tend to make nervous troubles among children. No wonder that St. Vitus' Dance, Epilepsy, and constant headaches have become alarmingly common. Pale nervous, listless young people are met everywhere.

It is nothing short of criminal for parents to neglect signs of weakness in their children. By ignoring the slightest symptom of nervous or mental strain, you may condemn your child to life-long invalidism. If any member of your family complains of headaches, fear of going into dark places, give them that wonderful tonic, "Ferrozone." Strength of body and mind, hard nerves, ability to study with comfort, all the attributes of health quickly follow the use of Ferrozone. It establishes strength, colour, endurance, vim—does this by filling the whole system with nourishment and tissue-forming materials.

It's because we know the enormous good that Ferrozone will do, because we are sure every child and even grown folks will be permanently benefited, that we urge you to give it a trial. All dealers sell Ferrozone in 50c. boxes, six for $2.50, or direct by mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

DOWNEYVILLE GARDEN PARTY WAS ATTENDED BY ABOUT 1,800 PEOPLE

GROUNDS WERE TASTEFULLY DECORATED FOR THE OCCASION—LIST OF SPORTS.

The annual garden party of St. Luke's Church, Downeyville, held yesterday afternoon on the church grounds, was a complete success in every way, and the Rev. Father P. J. Galvin and his parishioners, the hosts of the occasion, are to be congratulated. About 1,800 people from the surrounding countryside, Lindsay, Peterboro, Fenelon Falls and Lakefield attended. The crowd began to arrive about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and from then until the evening the roads leading to Downeyville were thronged with automobiles, buggies and carriages, heading for the social.

The grounds were tastefully decorated, and the booths selling fancy goods and refreshments did a land-office business, as did also the game booth and fish pond. About four o'clock a short programme of sports was run off and the results showed that athletic skill does not flourish in the cities alone.

Following this supper was served in the basement of the new hall, the menu, an appetising one, being roast chicken, salads, home-made biscuits pie, cake and tea. The tables were then cleared away and a dance held, a Lindsay band supplying the music.

The committee in charge of the social was composed of Messrs John C. Lucas, Michael D. Harrington, John McGuire and William Herlihy.

Those in charge of the booths were —Fancy goods booth: Messrs. Mary Harrington and Mary Carnell.

Refreshment booth: Misses Fitzpatrick and Chaney; Messrs. Pedue, Guiry, Clancy, Herlihy.

Game booth: Walter Carroll.

Fish pond: Mrs. D. M. O'Leary.

The ladies in charge of the supper were: Mrs. Herlihy, Mrs. McGuire, Mrs. Malloy and Mrs. Hannington.

The sports were run off under the direction of Messrs. John Marcy, Vincent O'Connell, Reary Carroll and the results were as follows:

Boys' race (under 10 years)—Joe Neill 1st; John Crowley 2nd.

Girls' race (under 10 years)—Leone Scully, 1st; Helen McGuire, 2nd.

Long Jump.—A. Crowley, 1st; J. McCauliffe, 2nd.

Hop-step-and-jump. — Perdue 1st.; O'Brien, 2nd.

High Jump.—Turner, 1st; Morrisey 2nd.

No Trouble to Keep Skin Free From Hairs

(The Modern Beauty.)

There is no need for any woman to countenance superfluous hairs, because with a paste made by mixing some powdered delatone with water it is easy to get rid of them. The paste is applied for 2 to 3 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed. This treatment will rid the skin of hair without leaving a blemish, but care should be taken to see that you get real delatone.

ALMEIDA WAS ELECTED PRESIDENT

(Canadian Press.)

LISBON, Aug. 7.—Antonio Almeida, former Premier and Minister of Colonies, was elected President of Portugal yesterday by Parliament. Antonio Almeida is 56 years old, and during the latter days of Monarchial regime in Portugal, was considered one of the most violent Republicans, being imprisoned on several occasions in connection with alleged plots for the overthrow of the Monarchy.

THE WEATHER

The last couple of days have been very warm. While the thermometer has not gone very high, the air has been moist and sticky, and close. The thermometer yesterday was up to 87 degrees, and to-day's figures are the same. Considerably cooler is likely. —W. P.

ABBEY BELLS TO RING IN PEACE.

Westminster Abbey is now in possession of a full peal of eight bells ready to ring in the peace. The last time the bells of the Abbey were heard was at the coronation of King George. Then the bells were only six in number and did not constitute a full peal. To complete the octave, two bells have been added, the old bells retuned and the whole eight have been re-rung for the peace.

MARTIN-SENOUR PAINTS - 100% Pure

House Paint, Floor Paint, Porch, Wagon and Carriage Paint In every shade that Paint is made.

This is our new department in our new building on the third floor. When furnishing or re-furnishing you will find it quite a convenience to match your paper, rugs, draperies, wall papers and paint. Before you leave the store you will know definitely the result of your color scheme.

A Paint to be 100% Efficient Must be 100% Pure

That is why Martin-Senour 100 per cent. Pure Paint is the most economical and satisfactory paint to use.

It is an absolutely Pure Paint. By a PURE Paint is meant one that contains no ingredient that cheapens it, such as barytes, whiting, silica, marble dust, china clay, alkali, benzine, water, adulterated linseed oil, etc. These substitutes only add weight or bulk. MAKE PURITY YOUR STANDARD, and see that the Paint is guaranteed, just as the Martin-Senour 100 per cent. Pure Paint is.

MARTIN-SENOUR 100 PER CENT. PURE PAINT, by its absolute purity and correct proportions of all ingredients, its uniformity of composition, and thorough incorporation of materials by modern machinery, produces a Paint that works easiest, spreads farthest, hides best, giving an even film of finest texture and highest gloss, that retains its newness longer, and outlasts in wear any other Prepared Paint or hand-mixed Lead and Oil Paint.
That is why it pays to use Martin-Senour 100 per cent. Pure Paint—the Paint for wear and weather.

NEW DICTIONARY OFFER TO READERS OF THIS PAPER

MARVELOUS GUIDE TO CORRECT USE OF TO-DAY'S ENGLISH AT COST OF HANDLING.

A new dictionary, exclusively for our readers, is to be distributed by this paper. The book is The New Universities Dictionary.

This dictionary, new in vocabulary, new in type, new in aids to the study of English, bound in flexible seal grain, is the handsomest, most convenient, and most thorough work of this kind ever published.

Unique in many respects, The New Universities Dictionary surpasses all works of ready reference in the substantial qualities of its contents. The book was compiled by expert American lexcographers, including Prof. Percy W. Long, Ph.D., Department of English, Harvard University; Prof. Forrest S. Lunt, M.A., Instructor in English, Columbia University; Prof. Clark Northrup, Ph.D., Department of English, Cornell University; Prof. Morris W. Croll, Ph.D., Department of English, Princeton University, Prof. John C. Rolfe, Ph.D., Department of Latin, University of Pennsylvania. The editor-in-chief is George J. Hagar.

Accurate and authoritative, The New Universities Dictionary, nevertheless, is made simple, direct and plain. It shows for everyday home folks the history, growth, and today's uses of English. It is a book designed for daily and constant use with great convenience in office and home. Business men will find it a fine help if every stenographer is provided with one, and stenographers who wish to keep abreast of the new words being added by their employers to business correspondence will find it a valuable guide.

Every protection is furnished so that readers will get the books if they cut the coupons as directed in the advertising. There will be no other outlet for the volumes. They can only be secured with the coupons. Only three coupons will be required in this campaign, and they will be readily found in the paper daily

EVIDENCE AT THE WINNIPEG TRIAL

POLICE STOOD BY AND WATCHED DESTRUCTION OF PROPERTY.

(Canadian Press.)

WINNIPEG, Aug. 7.—Direct evidence that on the first day of the general strike the city police stood by and watched the strikers deliberately maltreating citizens on their way to work, committing trespasses, and destroying property, was given at the trial of the strike leaders yesterday by A. A. Riley, manager of the Canada Bread Company.

Other witnesses told of threats made by strikers.

Mr. Riley said that on the first evening of the strike, an organised gang forcibly entered his building, shut off the machinery, and prevented the men from working.

A policeman was sent in response to a telephone call, and as he entered the building, the leader of the gang met him, saying: "We have cleared the last scab out." "That's fine," said the policeman.

Riley then protested to the policeman. "This is pretty tough luck. They have done damage."

"I know," said the officer, "but the people are not going to stand for your business to be carried on like this."

GEORGE P. GRAHAM AND W. S. FIELDING

West, and breed enough sports of bulls to toss the national debt of two billion dollars into the next concession.

Ernest Lapointe, M.P., who can sweep the crowd off its feet, in two languages, made a tremendous shot when he called the food tax a class tax, and appealed for moderation all round, including prices. Other speakers took up the burden of the tale, and the final blow is delivered in the tariff resolution which gives the High Cost of Living all the hell that's coming to it.

The only thing there is no keynoting on is the leadership.

Delegates retire to the lobbies and have little family jars about it, a hopeful sign. The canvassers are busy at their gumshoe work—another hopeful sign. But the matter is never mentioned in public, so to speak. It is not considered good form to declare oneself before Thursday, and then by ballot only: Party leadership is always a case of suspended interest. It operates like a detective story, which never spills its secret till the last paragraph. At a United States convention speeches are made an hour long, which do not disclose the favourite son until the final syllable is uttered, a custom which lends itself to dramatic climaxes. Here we do even better; we hold back the denouement to the last minute, the last day, which is good billiards, because it keeps the Convention on its tip-toes from start to finish.

INVITED TO WITHDRAW.

As this story is written, at least sixteen hours before the final spasm, I cannot tell who the leader is except that he will be a fair man, or failing that, a dark one. I am informed that certain of the candidates are to be advised to withdraw for fear of getting their feelings hurt by a small vote, but I am not at liberty to give their names, because they don't know yet that they are about to be interviewed.

I am pretty sure that George P. Graham and William Stevens Fielding will be in at the finish, because there are stories out against both of them, that one cannot stand the strain and that the other cannot take the job unless his doctor says so. This is the best evidence that they are the formidable contenders. Mackenzie King is also the object of vague alarms, which shows that his opponents would like to hold him off. Some tender-hearted people are also deploring the fact that the eastern climate might hurt Premier Martin's health. If I had only the public men to plumb, I could take a straw vote and tell who the leader is right now. Public men disclose their various leanings with comparative readiness because they have been taught by the newspaper men to stand and deliver. They will cough up their insides to make a good interview. It's the average delegate that baffles me. He says nothing, but he is sawing wood all the time. He may come with an open mind, but he has a closed mouth, and that evens things up. The average delegates being present to the number of twelve hundred or more, the great secret is extensively kept.

A STATE SECRET.

The verdict is, of course, in the hands of the seven hundred Ontario and Quebec delegates who constitute an over-all majority of this Convention. If Quebec votes en bloc—and such a possibility is on the cards for any one candidate—it's all over but the shouting. A whisper runs about that the candidature of the Hon. Sydney Fisher is a tactical measure to keep the Quebec vote together; in other words, that Mr. Fisher is runner-up for somebody else.

If Jacques Bureau and Ernest Lapointe, that under-the-rose pair of King-makers, would confide in me, I could furnish the Leader's name for the morning edition. The only thing that Jacques will admit is that Premier Borden will not be the leader, and that he can make as many pilgrimages as he likes to Quebec, and bring nothing back for Union Government.

When Premier Borden was in Three Rivers, Mr. Bureau took him through the aluminum factory for the benefit of his health. The fiery furnace of Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego has nothing on an aluminum factory; and that was all Premier Borden got out of Quebec—a Turkish bath. At that, it played hob with the Bureau ticket for alderman, which was defeated by an overwhelming majority, because Hon. Jacques was seen in such bad company.

The platform will not be more than a dozen resolutions long, if that many. It is to be cased in one resolution at a time, so that before you know it, the job is finished. Which is much better than the American practice of springing the whole conglomeration at once. To be hit with a whole platform is a cruel blow, but to be educated up to it, a plank at a time, is to get used to it. Harmony being the keynote of this Convention, I could say that American National Party platforms go in for effect; but we deal in crescendoes, which are more pleasing to the ear.

THREE PLANKS.

So far, I have listened to three planks—hands off our Home Rule!—spoken to by Messrs. Dandurand, Lemieux, Gregory, and Wilton. Hurrah for, and thanks to, our gallant soldiers, and quit bluffing on the income tax. There will be other resolutions dealing with labour and transportation and other vital topics. Then comes the tariff resolution, which goes to the root of all matters. Here it is, under my hand. Twin brother to the MacMaster amendment (no offence to east or west). Fit any leader, Radical or Moderate. Goes far enough, but not too far. A good general purpose tariff resolution, which considers the manufacturer the working man, the farmer the ultimate consumer, and the fundamental Liberal principles. It is a reasonable compromise with free trade trimmings for the farmer and a definite promise of relief, if the Liberal party wins, for people who have to buy clothes, shoes, food and other necessaries of life.

I understand that the clause increasing the British preference by 50 per cent. came in for some criticism by Mr. Fielding, who objected that it might bring the tariff receipts below the revenue. The tariff resolution is the product of much sweat and some forty speeches. The committee listened to one, a hot and sticky August night. The manufacturer was heard, labour was heard, the farmer was heard, and the ladies were heard.

Last night it seemed as if there was no escaping the vice circle of debate. So the committee slept on it, and with the morning came wisdom. The committee made up its mind all of a sudden, and by noon the most important plank in the platform was ready for discussion.

WRECKING CREW WERE FIRED UPON

MOTOR TRUCKS PRESSED INTO SERVICE IN NEW YORK.

(Canadian Press.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—Rioting and the firing of shots at a wrecking crew early to-day marked the beginning of the second day of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit strike.

No one was injured.

Thousands of motor trucks, automobiles, and waggons were employed during the rush hours to bring the vast army of workers to Manhattan Island.

Despite this, the congestion at the subway stations and L platforms was as pronounced as yesterday.

INFLAMED GUMS— THE CAUSE OF TOOTH-BASE DECAY

Just as the strength of a building is dependent upon its foundations, so are healthy teeth dependent upon healthy gums.

Permit the gums to become inflamed or tender and you weaken the foundation of the teeth. This condition is called Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease). Loosening of teeth is a direct result. And spongy, receding gums invite painful tooth base decay. They act, too, as so many doorways for disease germs to enter the system—infecting the joints or tonsils—or causing other ailments.

Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease) attacks four out of five people who are over forty. And many under that age, also. Its first symptom is tender gums. So you should look to your gums! Use Forhan's, which positively prevents Pyorrhea if used in time and used consistently. It also scientifically cleans the teeth—keeps them white and clean. Brush your teeth with it.

If gum-shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

KLIM

is Genuine Powdered Separated Milk

THERE can be no question about the purity of Klim. It is made by separating the butterfat from liquid milk and drying the food solids, which include protein, into a fine powder by the "spray process." No chemicals nor adulterants are used. Klim is in powder form within a short time after the liquid milk is received at the milk powder plant. Of course, the separated milk for Klim is pasteurized. This is the best guarantee of safety and does not affect the natural flavor.

THE OPEN-AIR HABIT

While private enterprise has been going very slowly, a good deal has been done officially to meet the growing demand for open-air cafes in London. It is only in the public parks and places where there are Government refreshment houses that the demobilized Army can follow the habits it learned on the Continent. So successful is the undertaking carried on by the National Kitchen Department of the Ministry of Food that extensions are gradually being made, and shortly an open-air cafe will be opened on Primrose Hill. Notwithstanding the evidently growing demand, private firms continue to invite their customers to eat in crowded rooms and stifling atmospheres, and refuse to contemplate the Continental plan. The cheif objection raised is that English weather is not kindly disposed to those innovations and that the dust and smoke of London pervade everywhere, and would make it impossible for people to enjoy their food. People who have become accustomed to the outdoor habit point to innumerable places in London where a start might be made and the common excuses are scouted as but specious inventions when they obviously do not apply to the officially managed eating places in the parks. There is abundant evidence of the popularity that would attend open-air cafes, for at the Government establishments, in spite of atrocious services there is always an enormous demand for tables and places.

BARBARA LUNCHES AT THE CLUB WITH NEIL—AND BLANCHE

CHAPTER XXXV.

Everything I did seemed so futile at this time — every move I made, without result. I was apparently happy and contented — really was, most of the time. But underneath, was ever a current of anxiety, a fear of something, I knew not what.

Weeks passed and I never again questioned Neil. We had been very quiet save on the fourth anniversary of our marriage when we had given a large dinner and reception. But it had gone off wonderfully well, and there had been nothing in Neil's manner to cause me worry. He had even been extremely temperate in his drinking with the guests, and had shown Blanche Orton — who was, of course, invited — no more attention than he had the others.

Neil was, however, with me less than he had ever been since we had been married. When I spoke of it, of how he was getting later and later for dinner when he came home, and of how often he remained out, he invariably pleaded business, and told me to go to the theatre or something —not to sit alone.

One morning at breakfast—he had been out very late the night before—he said:

"Come down town to the club to luncheon with me to-day if you like, Bab."

I was delighted. It was a real treat for me to lunch at one of the business men's clubs, and though Neil often lunched there he seldom asked me.

I dressed very carefully. I wanted Neil to be proud of me. But in spite of my delight at his invitation, I was a little peeved, and more than a little disappointed when he came to greet me, to see that Blanche Orton was there also.

"I thought you two could shop or go to a matinee afterward," he said nonchalantly, although he flushed a little.

I had not wanted her. I could not help wondering just why Neil had asked me to come down when she was to be there, but I had learned to accept the unexpected where Neil was concerned.

Blanche looked lovely, as usual, quite putting me in the shade. Ordinary women, those of no particular individuality of colouring and features, cannot hope to cope with the unusual few who, like Blanche Orton, attracted because they are so different.

Both Neil and Blanche drank cocktails, each of them two, although I frowned at Neil. This was one other thing I held against Blanche—Neil always drank when with her.

Neil was plainly preoccupied through lunch, and both Mrs. Orton and I teased him about it.

"You shouldn't invite ladies if you are not going to be entertaining," she pouted.

The waiter had seemed to know Blanche. Was she accustomed to lunch here—with Neil? Had he been seeing her very much more than I dreamed? The thought was a painful one and I tried to dismiss it. If he had, what did it all portend? I could not try even to think it out there—with her sitting opposite me.

But it was with inexpressible relief that I saw Mr. Frederick make his way toward us. I had not known he was in town. Neil had not mentioned seeing him. He was very cordial, and accepted with alacrity when Neil asked him if he wouldn't lunch with us.

Neil, however, was still so quiet that Blanche rallied him upon it, declaring he must be bored with her society, and finally she turned her attention to Mr. Frederick, saying that he at least might appreciate her.

I imagined she acted as she did to pique Neil. But it did not worry me as did his own actions. It was not usual for him to be so quiet and abstracted—especially when Blanche Orton was around.

To-morrow—Barbara Refuses to go to a Matinee with Blanche.

FARMERS CLUB HELD A LARGELY ATTENDED MEETING IN WARSAW

"LAW MAKERS ARE MAKING LAWS TO SUIT THEMSELVES," SAID ONE SPEAKER—WARSAW NEWS OF INTEREST.

WARSAW, Aug. 6.—On Saturday evening last there was an open meeting of the Farmers' Club. Many ladies as well as gentlemen were present. Mr. Wallace Anderson was in the chair, and after a few remarks introduced the speaker of the evening, Mr. MacMillan, of Huron. Mr. MacMillan gave a very interesting address. In it he brought to notice several things that add to expense of farmers and others. He showed that the fawmakers were making laws to suit themselves. He touched on the unnecessary increases in railway fares and telephone rates (the latter a timely topic here, with higher rates and the lines so often out of order, that business cannot depend on them). He (the speaker) did not approve of the members of Parliament being practically all lawyers, doctors, manufacturers, and newspapermen. (Truth to tell, this riding has been long represented in both Houses by farmers.)

Mr. MacDonald, the farmers' representative, was then introduced. He spoke but a few minutes, and said if 75 per cent. of the executive wished him to withdraw he gladly would; but he thought he could serve the riding well if elected. He said that he wanted a clean election, and that Prohibition was one platform of the United Farmers' Convention.

Mr. MacMillan took subscriptions for the "Farmers' Sun." He wanted to get 19 subscriptions to make 100 for this trip. He got them.

Meeting closed with "God Save the King."

Executive Met.

At a meeting of the Township Executive of workers for Prohibition on Wednesday evening last, all the members but one were present. Among other business, the following workers for each polling sub-division were appointed:

No. 1—Messrs. Geo. Elliott, Chas. Calder, Henry Patterson, and Mrs. George Barr.

No. 2—Messrs. Elijah Hubble, Jas. Long, Wm. Andrews, and W. D. Dobson.

No. 3 (Warsaw)—Messrs. Arthur Edwards, Donald Miller, Jas. Hawthorne, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Moore.

No. 4—Messrs. Wm. Payne and Henry Little, and Mrs. M. E. Crowe.

No. 5—Mrs. Ivey, Messrs. Henry Puffer and Joseph Grant.

No. 6—Messrs. Wm. Barrie, Joseph Burgess, and Matthew Elliott.

Literature for each of the workers is sent for, and will be given to the convener of workers of each division as soon as received.

On Thursday afternoon, 14th August, Rev. J. D. P. Knox will address the Women's Institute on "Our Responsibility in Prohibition." As it is a matter of vital importance, and the meetings are open, it is hoped there will be a large attendance.

Capt. Bygott, chief enumerator for East Peterborough, was in the village last Thursday, and appointed Lieut. S. M. C. Miller and Nursing-Sister Mrs. David Miller enumerators for Warsaw polling division.

Family Gathering.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Choate were very happy on Sunday as they had a complete family gathering at their cottage on the Lake. So often at family re-unions some one is unable to appear, that we rejoice when not a single one is missing. There were present: Mr. and Mrs. Choate and Mrs. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. E. Choate and two children, Warsaw; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Choate and three children, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Bell and three children, Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Graham and two children, Rosetown, Sask.; and Miss Marjorie Choate.

Football Match.

On Thursday evening last a large crowd attended the Lakefield-Warsaw football match. Warsaw won by 2 goals to 0. Teams:

| Lakefield. | | Warsaw. |
|---|---|---|
| | Goal | |
| Milburn | | Aitken |
| | Backs | |
| Adams | | Crigland |
| Roseboro | | Payne |

| Elliott | | Darling |
| | Forwards | |
| Waldon | | Douglas |
| Dever | | Payne |
| Garvey | | E. Bell |
| Roseboro | | W. Bell |
| Fairburn | | Darling |

Referee—N. E. Crowe.

Personals.

Mr. Percy Cullen, Smith Township, spent Friday with his uncle, Mr. D. Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. Jory, Toronto, are visiting with Mrs. Jory's brother, Rev. Hugh Brown, at the Manse.

Rev. Hugh Brown, accompanied by Messrs. David and Robert Miller, motored to Toronto on Tuesday.

Successful Students.

Congratulations are due the teacher and pupils of Warsaw School, as all five who wrote the Entrance Examinations passed. They were: Misses Helen Bowen, Margaret Clare, Elsie Tucker, Fred Gunn, and Hector Munro.

Mr. Thomas Miller of Toronto, is spending the holiday with his parents.

Miss McIroy is visiting with Mrs. Foster.

THE PRESS AND WHITEHALL

Some of the journalists who have been working in Government Departments as publicity managers are being invited to become permanent officials. Their work has been so useful during the war that the Government proposes to keep them going in peace. The publicity man in Whitehall was entirely a war product. It was Lloyd George, when he was starting his great munitions campaign, who first saw the importance of placing propaganda in the hands of skilled journalists. In the old days the idea of employing men from Fleet Street in Whitehall would have caused the collapse of the hideous type of civil servant. The newspaper munitions campaign was a brilliant success, and before many months every war department had its publicity branch, and wherever a new office was started the journalist always had his room. From the very beginning of the Food Ministry had a particularly large and active press department and most journalists going to it for information would agree that it was of the greatest value. In any case the pre-war attitude of Whitehall to the journalist, a compound of superciliousness and negation worthy of a Front Bench answer to tiresome questioners, is gone. The war has shown even Whitehall the extreme importance of keeping in touch with the public and if possible of forestalling criticism, through the press. Nothing so disheartened American and other foreign journalists here as the cold-shouldering they experienced in government offices.

LEMON JUICE FOR FRECKLES

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes disappear and how clear, soft and rosy-white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless and never irritates.

EIGHT CENTS ON THE DOLLAR DISCOUNT ON CANADIAN COINS.

BUFFALO, N.Y., Aug. 6.— Canadian silver coins were worth eight cents less than a dollar as a circulating medium in Buffalo to-day. Notices were posted in banks and business houses fixing a discount of one cent on a dime, two cents on a quarter, and four cents on a half dollar. Canadian coins have passed at par here for years, but bankers stated, because of the widening discount due to post-war conditions, other border cities were making Buffalo a dumping ground for Canadian money of all denominations.

LEAD FOIL ON TERMINALS.

The cable terminals of old storage batteries frequently slip into the battery connector so far that the cap screw does not draw the connection to a tight fit. This results in high resistance and eventually prevents enough current getting across from the battery to start the engine. If lead foil is wrapped around the cable terminal where it fits the battery connector, a really tight fit will be the result.

ADJUST BEARINGS PROPERLY.

Every time a wheel is removed the bearing cup is removed with it, and consequently the bearing must be adjusted properly when the wheel is replaced. The best method of doing this is to turn the bearing up tight and then revolve the wheel a few times by hand, which overcomes any tendency to blacklash.

CARE OF AUTO TOP.

It is peculiarly timely at this season of the year to remind the car owner that the top should never be folded when it is wet or damp, as this will cause the formation of mildew and ruin the fabric. Gasoline should never be used to remove grease or dirt from the top, as it ruins the rubber composition and causes blisters. A leather top should be washed with castile soap and water, the latter a little warm and a top dressing should be applied.

JUGGLING THE BASEBALL GAMES

ISAY AND BELLEVILLE HAVE A BUSY TIME MAKING EXPLANATIONS TO THE FANS.

(Lindsay Warder.)

Two "bones" (to use the vernacular) were pulled in baseball circles on the holiday—one in the Belleville baseball club and one in the Lindsay baseball club—and explanation is due to the public, especially the baseball fans, in Lindsay.

Saturday local fans conceived the idea of bringing on an exhibition game against the Moose team of Toronto, leaders of the western league, believing that a holiday game would help reduce the deficit of the club, especially as expensese would be light because of the fact that the Moose were billed to play in Peterborough at 6.30 o'clock. Accordingly a game was arranged with Manager Frank Smith of the Moose. An effort was made to have the Moose stop off at Lindsay on their way through to Peterborough, but Manager Smith stated that some of his players were going through to Peterborough Saturday night to spend Sunday there. This being the case he stated that the team would motor across from Peterborough to Lindsay for a game at 2 o'clock. In fact Mr. Jake Solomon, who was in Toronto Saturday following a baseball meeting on Friday night, advised them to do so, Lindsay to bear the expense of motoring the team over.

Consequently the game was advertised by bulletin, and about three hundred people were on hand to see the two teams meet. A long wait occurred bo mnute aO io J t ?Tt SS curred, but no team arrived, and finally the affair was cancelled and the fans advised that they could get their money back at the gate.

Previously (about 9 a.m.) an effort was made to get Manager Smith, or Mr. Solomon on the 'phone, but although central tried and tried to get an answer at the Empress Hotel and elsewhere no person would answer. Late in the afternoon a Moose player finally was secured on the 'phone and the excuse made was that Lindsay had not sent down motor cars to make the four trips across country.

The Lindsay management regret the mishap, but under the circumstances feel that they are in no wise to blame.

A Mysterious 'Phone Message.

The final scheduled game in the Central Ontario League was billed by Belleville to take place on Monday evening at 6.15 o'clock, Port Hope to be the opposing team. Arrangements had been made with Umpire Butler to handle the game, at Belleville's request. All went merrily as advertised until early on Monday morning, and the Belleville club had sold in advance over 200 tickets for the game.

Judge the surprise and dismay of the Belleville Club when they received a telephone message in the morning from "some person" in Port Hope that they must play the game at 3.15 o'clock or forfeit the game and that Mr. Kay, of Peterborough, would handle the game.

However, rather than run a chance of forfeiting the game and thus put them out of the running for the championship of the League, Belleville got busy with hand bills and played the game as ordered by the mysterious 'phone message.

In the meantime Mr. Butler had telephoned Mr. Lockington at Port Hope (at 9.30 a.m.) and was assured that the game was at 6.15. Judge the official umpire's surprise, when he landed in Belleville to find seven innings of the game played, and the game still under way.

Explanations were confusing. Manager O'Neil of Port Hope Club, claimed that his team would not play an evening game and that they had received instructions to play at 3.15, and Belleville club stated that they could do nothing but follow out the instructions of the "phoney" 'phone message or forfeit the game and the league.

Belleville is anxious to get at the bottom of the 'phone message and find out who was the author of the same—and so is Umpire Butler. Belleville claim they lost a $200 gate by the change of hours.

In the meantime Belleville won out by 9 to 0, getting four runs in the first innings. They now play Peterborough home and home games for the championship.

WAR VETERANS WILL INVESTIGATE APPOINTMENT MADE BY COUNCIL

SPECIAL MEETING WAS HELD LAST EVENING—COMMITTEE APPOINTED.

At the special meeting of the G. W. V. A. last evening, called to discuss the action of the City Council in appointing an accountant for the Hunter street bridge the appointment was denounced as a "framed up job."

The meeting was largely attended and after being opened by President Staunton, considerable discussion took place, resulting in the following resolution, moved by William Stanley, seconded by Frederick A. Dainton:

"Resolved,—That we the members of the Peterboro branch of the G. W. V. A., and returned soldiers of the City of Peterboro, in special session assembled, do hereby place ourselves on record as being bitterly opposed to the unfair, undemocratic action of the City Council in the appointing of a cost accountant for the Hunter street bridge.

"And, whereas, we understand that six aldermen of the City Council pledged themselves to support Mr. Alex. Elliott for the position, without first taking into consideration the qualifications of all other applicants;

"Therefore, we consider they were not acting in the best interests of the ratepayers and citizens in general, and in our opinion we consider that the whole matter was a framed-up job.

"And, whereas, we understand that a Mr. Perks, a returned soldier whose occupation is that of civil engineer, was an applicant for said position, and whose qualifications were equal to, if not better than, those of Mr. Alex. Elliott; and, therefore, we consider that the returned soldier should have been given the preference in the application.

"Therefore, we ask the support of the ratepayers and citizens in general, in demanding that a thorough investigation be made into the qualifications of all applicants for the position, and that where the returned soldier has better or equal qualifications he should be given the preference. We also call upon the City Clerk to have published in the local press the names of the aldermen who voted (yeas and nays) on the applications for cost accountant for the bridge.

"Resolved,—That in the event of the City Council refusing to have the whole matter re-opened, and just consideration given to the qualifications of all the applicants, we pledge ourselves to use all our energy and determination and all means at our disposal to oppose any aldermen who should seek re-election in the coming year of 1920."

A Committee.

It was then moved and seconded that a committee of three be appointed to interview the Trades and Labor Council with a view of laying this resolution before that body, and having it endorsed.

The motion was carried and the following appointed to the committee: Thomas Muir, Whatley, Miller.

It was then moved and seconded that in the event of no action being taken by the council in this matter a deputation consisting of all the members of the local branch be appointed to meet the city council at its next meeting.—Carried.

Secretary Whatley stated this morning that he wished it to be understood that this was a matter of principle, not a personal matter, that the G.W.V.A. desired only fair play for each applicant, returned soldier or civilian.

BELLEVILLE WILL HAVE SPECIAL TRAIN

RECORD CROWD OUT AT CHAMPIONSHIP GAME.

The largest crowd ever at an amateur baseball game in Peterborough is expected at Riverside Park on Saturday to witness the first game of the championship series between Peterborough and Belleville.

The Belleville Club is arranging for a special train to bring along their rooters. Amateur baseball in Peterborough this year has created much interest and drawn large crowds, but Saturday's attendance should be a record breaker.

After the game a meeting of the Central Ontario League will be held at the Empress Hotel. All out-of-town officers will have a fine chance to witness the game.

Press Comment.

The Toronto Star has the following to say of the Moose game in Peterborough:

Moose Won at Peterborough.

Moose, champions of the Willowvale circuit, beat Peterborough 7-4 in a twilight game at Peterborough on Monday. Moose did the trick in one innings, scoring their seven runs in the third. "Lefty" Hardman, Moose's southpaw, twirled for seven innings and Charlie "Hap" Harrison, pitched the last two frames. Eagleson's catch of a ball back of second was the feature play.

Manager Francis Smith, of Moose and his hired help are loud in their praise of the manner in which Messrs. Patterson, vice-president of the O.B.A.A., and Manager Soloman of the Peterborough team and the fans in general treated them.

"We were never treated better in our lives," stated Manager Smith. "Mr. Patterson and Mr. Soloman looked after us in fine style and gave us the time of our lives."

Peterborough likes the Moose boys and wants them to come back next Monday, Peterborough's civic holiday, for another game.

BALL PLAYERS WILL MEET TO-NIGHT

All players of the Peterborough Central Ontario Baseball Club are requested to be at the Water street bowling alleys this evening at 7.30 without fail. Important business.

QUOITERS ATTENTION

On Civic Holiday, Aug. 11th a Handicap Tournament will be played off on Collegiate Institute grounds. Draw at 9 a.m. All quoiters and others interested in the game are invited. 3d 31-4387

LITTLE DROPS OF WATER.

It has been stated that people are as ignorant of the size of the sea as they are of matters dealing with astronomy.

Few are aware, for instance, that the Pacific Ocean covers 68,000,000 miles; the Atlantic 30,000,000 miles; and the Indian Ocean, Arctic, and Antarctic 40,000,000 miles.

To stow away the contents of the Pacific it would be necessary to fill a tank one mile long, one mile wide, and one mile deep, every day for 440 years. Put in figures, the Pacific holds in weight 324,000,000,000,000,000,000 tons.

The Atlantic averages a depth of not quite three miles. Its waters weigh 825,000,000,000,000,000 tons, and a tank to contain it would have each of its sides 480 miles long.

Tissue paper, crumbled, is excellent for polishing mirrors.

The Yorkshire County Cricket Club was founder in 1863. Gloustershire's Cricket Club did not come into existence until 1870.

ALD. GARSIDE GAVE HIS EXPLANATION TO TRADES COUNCIL

OVERLOOKED SEVERAL LABOUR PLANKS BUT DID IT UNWITTINGLY

Ald. Garside told the Labour Council last night that he had voted against the construction of the Hunter street bridge by day labour through a desire to avoid the solicitations of unemployed men for his influence to get them jobs. Public work by day labour is one of the planks in the platform of organized Labour, and the Trades Council pointed out to Ald. Garside that having accepted the platform he should adhere to it without the exception of a single plank, though he might be put to some annoyance or inconvenience as a result.

"I thought that if some contractor secured the work they would have the entire responsibility of employing and sacking the men", Ald. Garside explained. "I have lost a lot of time trying to get men jobs, and I knew they would be after me for the bridge if we did it by day labour. If you were in my place you might feel that way yourselves. I have spoken for some men and I have lost a lot of hours over them."

Ald. Garside had also voted for a nine hour day on the bridge thereby overstepping the eight-hour day plank in the above mentioned platform.

Explaining this action he stated that some union men who had been out of work all winter and spring had requested him to try to get a nine hour day for the extra 45c they could earn. He had followed their wishes in the good faith, but members of the Trades Council reminded him that the Union men who had approached him were of a poor sample or they would have stood for the eight hour day.

CO-OPERATION CUTS RATES

PARIS, Aug. 6.—Advocates of the co-operative system demand that a large part of the American Army stocks be earmarked for this purpose They claim that the success of a recent experiment with a hundred Ford automobiles put at the disposal of the disposal of the Ford Cabmen's and Chauffeurs' Union fully justifies an attempt on a large scale.

Some weeks ago the union formed a taxicab co-operative with a working capital of 40,000 francs. There are 2,000 members, all ex-soldiers, many of the mutilated. The hundred machines are run at the ordinary tariff, the drivers receiving 33 per cent. of the daily receipts if under 50 francs and 50 per cent. if over that sum. They hand in the balance, which the management claims has not only paid for oil, gasoline, repairs, insurance, and the garage but has left a surplus of 100,000 francs on the first month's business.

The management purposes to issue stock to a total of 500,000 francs among the members to pay the Government for the machines already received and expects not only to redeem the debt by the end of the year, but to pay 100 per cent. profit into the bargain. At the same time the average daily wage is from six to ten francs higher than that paid by the big companies, justifying the men's accusation at the time of the taxicab strike that the companies were making extremely large profits.

The co-operatives say that if business is equally successful on a big scale—which ought to be the case as the demand for taxicabs in Paris air exceeds the supply—they will lower the fares to the public What has already been done has roused intense interest, and there is a growing tendency to regard an extension of the co-operative movement, as the most satisfactory remedy for the high cost of living.

WEAK, NERVOUS CHILDREN QUICKLY GAIN STRENGTH UNDER FOLLOWING PLAN

Doctors recommend Catarrhozone, it is nature's own cure. It drives out the germs, heals sore spots, cleans away every vestige of Catarrhal taint.

You send the soothing vapours of the pine woods, the richest balsams and healing essentials, right to the cause of your cold by inhaling Catarrhozone. Little drops of wonderful curative power are distributed through the whole breathing apparatus by the air you breathe. Like a miracle, that's how Catarrhozone cures bronchitis, catarrh, colds, and irritable throat. You simply breathe its healing fumes, and every trace of disease flees as before fire.

So safe, infants can use it, so sure to relieve, doctors prescribe it, so beneficial in preventing winter ills that no person can afford to do without Catarrhozone. Used in thousands of cases without failure. Complete outfit $1.00, lasts three months, and is guaranteed to cure; smaller size 50c., all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

The Sutlej, in India is the fastest flowing river in th world, its descent in one section being 12,000 ft., in 180 miles.

DR. FRANK WILL NOT RETURN TO THE CITY FOR A YEAR

Dr. R. W. Frank of this city, who has been overseas for nearly four years with the Army Dental Corps, has no intention of resuming business in this city until his term of good will expires, which will not be for another year. In the meantime he will return to Queen's University and complete his Arts course. When Dr. Franks disposed of his business here prior to entering the Army Dental Corps, he did so with the understanding that he would not resume his practice in Peterborough until the expiration of five years, which is the customary period allowed in business exchanges. Dr. Frank has had a wide experience while in the service and has served on many fronts.

PETERBORO MAN KILLED IN TORONTO

TWO MORE VICTIMS OF A LEVEL CROSSING ACCIDENT.

TORONTO, Ont., August 7th. — The Toronto report of the accident is as follows:

While attempting to pass over the C.P.R. level crossing at Winchester street Tuesday night an aged couple were hit and killed by a shunting freight train. The victims were identified by their registration cards, which bore the names John Cassidy Bell, aged 78 years, 108 Harvey street, Peterborough, Ont., and Maria Elizabeth Bell, aged 70 years, of 10 Osborne avenue, Toronto. For some time past Mr. Bell and his wife had made their home with their son-in-law, Mr. Hugh Bradford, and were returning to his residence at 70 Osborne avenue when the fatality occurred.

The body of the man was terribly mutilated, three cars having passed over him before the train could be brought to a stop. The woman was thrown about 15 yards, and when picked up she was unconscious. She died 15 minutes later.

From the information in the hands of the police, it appears that the coule had crossed over the Don bridge and approached the tracks, which are not guarded by gates, but by a flagman. Two standing freight cars were near the crossing, and they passed behind these and made toward the second track. At that moment the shunting train was backing in their direction. They failed to hear the ringing of the engine bell or the warning shouts of the flagman. The old man, however, apparently became aware of the danger just as the engine was withing a few feet of him, for he hesitated a second and then took a step forward. Had he stepped back he would have been safe. The woman, who was on his left and farthest from the train, had no warning apparently.

Failed to Heed Whistle.

The man was struck by the rear of the tender of the engine and carried fifty yards underneath the wheels of the car. The woman was hurled fifteen yards to one side.

Engineer Thomas Darby, of 88 Frisken street, who was driving the locomotive, says that when he saw the couple, he blew his whistle, had the bell rung, and when they paid no attention to either he at once applied the emergency brakes. The train was stopped after it had travelled about 60 yards after hitting the man.

Amos Samis, 90 Cambridge avenue, the flagman, told the police that he was at the crossing with his flag warning the people of the approach of the shunting train. When he saw the couple step from behind the standing freight cars he shouted at them but they apparently did not hear him, as they continued to cross the tracks.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT NEAR LITTLE BRITAIN

LITTLE BRITAIN, Aug. 8.—Mr. C. North, son of Mr. Jabez North, met with a very bad accident at his home. He is a boy of about ten years and was showing how to start the gasoline engine, and in so doing got his leg caught in the belt, bending the leg forward at the knee right to his body, dislocating the knee joint and tearing the flesh from his leg.

It is feared the leg will have to be amputated.

THE FINAL VOTE THIS EVENING

OTTAWA, Aug. 7. — At three o'clock this afternoon our Ottawa correspondent reported that it would likely be around seven o'clock this evening before the result of the final vote for the Liberal Leadership would be available.

The Examiner will bulletin the result.

SCARCITY OF MACHINE TOOLS IS INDICATED

The announcement that the machinists' strike has been conducted in Toronto and district is naturally good news to the machine tool trade, says the Canadian Machinery and Manufacturing News in its current issue. It may take some days to get things under way in some plants, but work will be facilitated in many ways in a short tim. Tool room output is needed in cases where new lines are contemplated. It has been necessary in some cases to send across the line for this, causing delay at a very inopportune time. Not only so, but several firms have changed the decision of some few weeks ago to shut down for the remainder of the season, and will, as soon as mechanically possible, go ahead with the turning out of new lines that should have been placed on the market this season. It will require some little confidence, but the decision has been made to go ahead and manufacture now, trusting to a vigorous selling campaign later on to see them safely through.

"The best week this year," was the manner in which one leading machine tool dealer referred to the business closed by his house during the past few days. The fact is that those who were waiting for lower prices before coming into the machine tool market are being left with very indefinite delivery dates and at prices higher than they could have secured shortly after the signing of the armistice. Increases have been made in several lines. In one case in particular quotations that were made to a large Canadian concern on chain blocks have been withdrawn. The figures were given in the middle of June, while now an $87 article has gone to $112 and others in proportion. Reductions have been made on high speed cutters, both Canadian and U. S. makes.

Buying of supplies is improving. The national railroads are in the market this week for 1,500 carbon drills and about 50 of the high speed variety.

Shantung is where the silk comes from, but it is for other reasons that it is likely to be heard of more in the future than it has been in the past.

MINERAL OIL
For Chronic Constipation

By buying this product from us you can get the Highest in Quality that can be procured at an ESPECIALLY LOW PRICE.
There are many thin oils on the market that are not suitable for internal use; other oils have irritating qualities which render them also unsuitable. The one we are selling is guaranteed thick and entirely pure.
It is recognized that a good grade of Mineral Oil is one of the best remedies for CHRONIC CONSTIPATION that is being used. It acts mechanically and does not irritate the intestinal tract, nor does the dose have to be continually increased as is the case with ordinary purgatives.
It is much better and cheaper than Castor Oil as a laxative for Children, since Castor Oil has two effects, the first of which is purgative and the second or after effect, which is Constipating.

TROUSERS DISAPPEARED

ARCHDUKE JOSEPH HAD TO BORROW ANOTHER PAIR--VISITED THE ALLIES.

"A DEMOCRAT"

(Canadian Press.)

VIENNA, Aug. 8.—There is no intention of making Archduke Joseph the King of Hungary, according to advices received here from Budapest, his office being merely that of President.

Although he is surrounded by old monarchistic influences, he had declared in an interview that he would attempt to work along the same lines as Count Michael Karolyi, saying: "I am a true democrat. I tried to show this by surrendering most of my estates last fall. It is my intention to carry on the government until the elections are held, and then Parliament will decide upon matters."

After various consultations with the Allied representatives, including General Gordon, of the British Army, attached to the Relief Administration in Budapest, Archduke Joseph and his generals called upon the Allies in a group.

Reports reaching here say that this visit had to be delayed because the Archduke's trousers had disappeared, having been stolen. His attaches had to do some quick skirmishing to borrow another pair, it is said, inasmuch as the Communists had taken none of the Archduke's clothing a month ago.

When he visited the Allies, he presented his plan for a new government, which was tacitly accepted.

Representatives of the new government visited Premier Jules Peidl and other members of the Hungarian Cabinet at seven o'clock in the evening, and announced to them that they must resign, it being declared that they had been unable to keep order and were not representative of the nation. Ministers handed in their resignations within a short time, making no special protest after relinquishing office.

HOW WORDS COME TO PICTURE IDEAS

PHILOLOGISTS CAN READ HISTORY FROM WORDS & COUNTRY USES.

Sometimes words are borrowed bodily from another language. Sometimes a root-word is borrowed, oftenest from the Latin or Greek, and an English ending given it. Again, we take two old words, join them together and make a new one. At first we separate them by the hyphen, but after a while that is left out, and the two mingled as a single word. Then, we take a prefix, or a suffix, from some other tongue, and add it, after or before, and we have another new word. Or when a word is too long, we shorten it--because we English-speaking people are great for saving time.

Thousands of new words are defined in The New Universities Dictionary, which we are now offering almost free to our readers. It ought to be in every home, office, workshop and study. It can be made the means of self-culture to a very large extent. The coupon elsewhere in this paper explains the terms upon which you may get it.

Books Ready To-morrow

The second coupon appears to-day, the third will appear to-morrow and the doors open to the great educational flood. Don't wait for a later chance: eager readers may exhaust the limited supply.

VICTORY LODGE WAS ORGANIZED

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Aug. 8. — Adam C. Hay, International officer, last night organized a "Victory" Lodge of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees who, to the number of about 70, assembled at the Labour Temple. H. Cotterill, who was Vice-President of the Trades Council, having thrown in his lot with the "One Big Union" the election of a successor was held by that body last night.

CLOSING STORY OF CONVENTION

(By The Examiner's Special Correspondent.)

HOWICK HALL, Ottawa, Aug. 8. —The greatest convention in Canadian history closed last night. Nearly five thousand persons packed the hall and galleries yesterday afternoon to be present when the vote was taken for the Liberal leadership. Some of the delegates had left for home, but most of them stayed until the very last vote, and in addition vast throngs crowded into the galleries and outside the sections marked off for the delegates, to view the proceedings. Delegates were present from the Yukon, and as far east as Cape Breton, and one delegate came from Le Pas, near James Bay.

Wednesday evening was the great speech-making night for the candidates for the leadership.

MacKenzie King started his speech dealing with the position of labour and the relation of the people generally to the producers of the nation's wealth. Incidentally the cost of living formed an important part of his speech, and it was this speech that won Mackenzie King the leadership. He started early in the evening, was in fine form and met with a regular William Jennings Bryan ovation at the conclusion of his address. It was the best speech made by any speaker at the convention, and the vast crowd was roused to a pitch of enthusiasm which was wonderful to see.

MASTERLY ADDRESS.

Mackenzie King dealt with his subject in masterly style, and many of the old delegates said that the speech was equal to Sir Wilfrid Laurier's best efforts. At all events King concluded with a whirlwind finish, and made hundreds of votes by his magnificent appeal for the protection of the ordinary, common people, already burdened beyond endurance with a load of taxation which should be shifted upon the broad shoulders of the men of wealth and means.

King particularly appealed to and received the vast majority of the lady delegates votes. In addition to that he got the solid Manitoba vote, for what reason it is impossible to tell, York County, Toronto, and that district, supported King because he was a Toronto boy. He got slightly over half the Quebec vote, largely through his oratorical ability, and to some extent because his grandfather, William Lyon Mackenzie joined hands with Louis Joseph Papineau and fought the Family Compact in Ontario and Quebec for responsible government, and many of the younger Quebec delegates voted for Mackenzie-King, influenced no doubt by sentiment.

Following Mackenzie King Wednesday night, George P. Graham introduced the transportation resolutions. The night was late, the crowd tired, and Graham's speech was over the heads of a great many, and the speaker was not in good form as he usually is. He did not make the hit that Mackenzie King did with the audience, but he dealt in his speech with exceptional vigor and rose to heights of oratory that brought forth bursts of cheering and applause.

THE KING BOOM.

D. D. Mackenzie, the Floor Leader of the Liberals in the House, followed Mr. Graham, and made a very good address, but Mackenzie King had won his place in the hearts of the vast delegation, and that night around the hotel corridors and on the streets there was a real Mackenzie King boom moving in great order and every person seemed to be infected with the desire to support Mackenzie King.

Thursday morning Mr. Fielding gave his speech, and the ballot was to be taken in the afternoon. Mr. Fielding is a man over seventy, a handsome, picturesque figure, kindly, courteous, and with a magnificent voice. He met with a most hearty reception, and when he finished his speech, although it was upon tariff matters, trade and the cost of living, there was no question that Mr. Fielding made a good impression, and would take a heavy vote.

In the first vote, Mackenzie King was the high man, with Fielding following and Graham and Mackenzie a tie, and in the second vote Mackenzie lost heavily with the vote split up between King, Fielding and Graham. King still retaining the lead.

Two or three of us were with Mr. Graham when he then decided to withdraw and leave the contest between King and Fielding.

The audience sat tense with excitement because delegations were now split voting for King and others voting for Fielding. The lady delegates persistently voted King.

I had an opportunity of seeing the vote by provinces, and Mackenzie King obtained slightly over half the Quebec vote, nearly all the Manitoba vote, the majority of the Northwest Provinces and British Columbia. He practically broke even in the Maritime Provinces and Ontario, the Maritime Provinces giving Fielding the best of it.

Graham was hurt by roarbacks circulating in the Ottawa papers that Clifford Sifton had come back to town and was supporting Graham in the Mackenzie & Mann interests.

DAMAGE DONE.

Graham vigorously denied this, but could not catch this story until it was about twelve hours old, and the damage had been done. This unquestionably hurt Graham. In addition to that, Graham was overshadowed by Fielding, by reason of Graham being out of the House of Commons for the last few years.

Fielding would have been elected leader if the vote had been taken the first day of the convention, but his appearance on the platform indicated that he was, in spite of his vigor, an old man, while Mackenzie King showed himself to be an active, hard-hitting young man of brilliant attainments, who seemed to have the proper conception of the needs of the people at the present time, and then his speech on Wednesday night unquestionably brought him many votes from the followers of Graham and Fielding.

Fielding was handicapped by the Globe booming him. It was reported in Ottawa on Thursday morning, and the vote was taken in the afternoon, that the Globe was backing Fielding, but the Globe had wabbled so much and nobody knew where it would be next election, that this Globe boom of Fielding was met with a good many shouts of derision, and instead of helping Fielding probably injured him.

Provincial Premiers and Provincial Cabinet Ministers were so thick around the convention that you almost stumbled over them. Billie Martin, of Saskatchewan, made a first class impression, and probably did the wise thing in not allowing his name to go before the convention for leader, because he will probably make good in the next few years, and if he does it then will be his opportunity.

"WEEK-KNEED LIBERAL."

Coming home last night about a dozen of the Manitoba delegates were hot in their denunciation of their Premier, Mr. Norris, and threatened to call a Provincial convention to depose him. They say he has been flirting with Clifford Sifton, has been giving half-hearted support to the Liberal cause, and has been generally showing himself a kind of "weak-kneed Liberal," and this is the kind of thing they do not intend to stand, particularly from one supposed to be high up in the Councils of the Party.

The Prohibition Platform was discussed by the representatives of the Provinces, and as practically the whole Dominion is dry, and Ontario is having a vote within the next few weeks, nothing was done as the consensus of opinion of the Ontario delegates seemed to be that Prohibition would stick for good in Ontario, and it was a Provincial matter which should be dealt with by Ontario peo-

Special to the Examiner.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 8. — William Ivens has agreed to submit to the ultimatum of the Trades and Labor Council and will continue in office as editor of the "Western Labor News."

In order to continue as editor, Ivens was required to undertake the conducting of the paper along the lines laid down by the Trades and Labor Council and in accordance with the constitution of the Dominion Trades Council. Propaganda work for the one big union will under the circumstances be eliminated from the columns of the Labor News.

THE BATTLE OF AMIENS

MOST IMPORTANT EPOCH IN HISTORY OF CANADIAN CORPS.

FORMED THE SPEARHEAD

To-day is the first anniversary of the great battle of Amiens, which commenced the campaign of the Last Hundred Days, the name given to the series of battles which raged on the Western front from August, 1918, to November 11, and resulted in the unconditional surrender of the German high command to the terms of the Allies.

The battle of Amiens is one of the most important epochs in the history of the Canadian corps. In company with a few picked divisions the corps had been in rest during the months of June and July, preparing for this master-stroke of Marshal Foch. On July 19 the first move to the area commenced, and on the morning of August 8 at 5 o'clock the battle opened. The Canadian corps, whose left flank touched the French army, and right flank linked up with the Australians, formed the spearhead of the attack, which was made at the junction of the armies commanded by the German Crown Prince and Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria.

So successful was the organization and so determined the morale of the troops, that before nightfall on the day of August 8th, the Canadian corps operating on a front of several thousands of yards, had penetrated along the Amiens-Roye Road to a depth of seven and one-half miles, the greatest advance ever made by any army on the Western front up to that time. The sudden and unexpected onslaught, combined with the confusion of German commands, completely demoralized the enemy with the result that at the end of the third day the success had been exploited to a depth of fifteen miles, and the city of Amiens completely freed from further danger of capture or spoilation by the Germans.

Some idea of the rapidity of the Canadian advance may be learned from the fact that by four o'clock on the afternoon of the first day, they were so far in advance of all other Allied troops that a French aviator mistook them for Germans and gave them a hot half hour by bombing and machine gunning them.

SENATOR BENARD REFUTES CHARGES

CLAIMS HE WAS NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR HUTTERITE INVASION.

Special to the Examiner.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 8. — That he had nothing to do with bringing the Hutterites into Manitoba was the statement made yesterday by Senator Aime Benard in refutation of the charges by officials of the Manitoba command of the Great War Veterans' Association.

Senator Benard said that he had never heard of the Hutterites until 1916 when A. Solberg, a St. Paul real estate man, came to Manitoba, and purchased the Benard farm at Benard siding for United States Senator Hackney. This farm has since been sold to the Hutterites, but Senator Hackney. This farm has since been sold to the Hutterites, but Senator Benard had nothing to do with it, he says, as the property had passed out of his possession.

FIRST OF CHAMPIONSHIP SERIES TO BE PLAYED HERE TO-MORROW

GOOD GAME IS LOOKED FOR--SWANSTON WILL LIKELY CATCH.

Tomorrow's championship game with Belleville is creating considerable interest not only here, but in all the towns in the Central Ontario League. The officials and fans from out-of-town points are making preparations to attend in large numbers. Belleville having arranged for a special train to carry its fans. Manager Solomon says he has brought with him a pitcher that will be a credit to the team, and that although he is not in the best of condition, he will be found to be a hard man to beat. This will be the last Central Ontario League game in Peterborough this year, and the fact that it is the first game of the championship series, should attach added interest to it. Both teams have fought hard all season, and neither is likely to give in without first putting up a fight. Reports from Belleville indicate that the G. T. R. team and its supporters are confident of a victory, but to-morrow's game will put their hopes to the test.

The game will start sharp on time, 4 p.m. Positive, at Belleville, behind the bats Swanston for the Peterboroughs and [illegible] for the pitcher has been selected for the game.

HON. W. L. MACKENZIE KING, NEW LIBERAL LEADER HAD CONFERENCE WITH BORDEN

BOTH GOVERNMENT AND OPPOSITION PREPARE FOR BYE-ELECTIONS--DELEGATES RETURN TO THEIR HOMES.

PRESS COMMENT

Special to the Examiner:

OTTAWA, Aug. 8.—The tumult and the shouting has died. Howick Hall, wherein for the past three days Liberals of the Dominion have been gathered in convention, is to-day silent and deserted, and the sparrows have come back to the girders. The delegates have returned to their homes for the most part, determined to work for the new leader and the new platform and to bring the party back to power just as soon as may be.

Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King won a victory yesterday of which any man might be proud. But he has still another victory to win before he can effectively take over the reins of leadership. He must seek election somewhere in order that, when the House reassembles in September, he may be able to take the seat vacated by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and which has been left empty ever since his death.

CONFERENCE WITH BORDEN.

Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, the new leader of the Liberal party, had a conference this morning with Sir Robert Borden in the latter's office in the East Block.

It is understood that not only did Sir Robert desire to congratulate Mr. King on his appointment to his important position, but also to discuss with him the whole problem of by-elections and the work of Parliament. Both the Government and Opposition are now personally interested in by-elections. The Government needs seats for new Ministers and the Opposition needs an early seat for its new leader.

Canadian Press:

OTTAWA, Aug. 8.—No antagonism to Liberal-Unionists but an attention to the future, forgetting any differences in the past, are expected to be the lines to be followed by Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King in his leadership. Although he would not speak for publication, it is generally understood there, in fact it is confidentially affirmed by those who know his views that under him there will be no policy of [illegible] to the party as it stands reconstituted to-day and to the policies adopted by the convention are likely to be the only tests suggested or imposed, and even then a wider freedom of opinion as usual will be allowed.

Hon. William Lyon Mackenzie King, M.A., LL.B., Ph.D., C.M.G., is one of the best educated men in Canada, and one of the most experienced in practical politics, in sociological matters and in the problems of modern life and economics. ## TEMPORARY FIRE STATION FOR EAST CITY WILL BE COMMENCED

WORK ON BRIDGE APPROACH HAS ALMOST BLOCKED HUNTER STREET--FIRE DEPARTMENT FACES SERIOUS IMPEDIMENT.

Rapid progress in the construction of the eastern approach to the Hunter street bridge has been made by the Russell-Townsend company this week, but the work has blocked the roadway and only a narrow passage has been left for vehicular traffic. Ald. Morrison and Fire Chief Grange have concluded that it is out of the question to send the fire fighting apparatus over the bridge, and because of the long route by way of Smith street it is felt that the safest and most satisfactory way of dealing with the situation is to provide a temporary fire station in Ashburnham.

The Fire, Water and Light committee will meet to-night to discuss this question, and from several opinions that were heard to-day it is likely that the committee will recommend to the council a temporary branch centrally located in the east ward.

Previous expressions from the Council agreed that the Smith street circuit was too long and would be a hardship upon the horses, besides hampering the department with very serious possibilities.

WHEAT CROP IS BADLY DAMAGED

LOSS IN MANITOBA WILL BE FROM FIVE TO FORTY PER CENT.

Special to the Examiner.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 8. — Inspectors of the Manitoba government report to-night that the crop damage by the black rust will amount to from five to forty per cent. of the total crop in Southern Manitoba and about five per cent. of the crops in Northern Manitoba.

A thorough inspection of the crops in all parts of the province has been made.

J. H. Kitley, one of the inspectors, reports that the rust only appeared on the crops during the past ten days and its work was most rapid and disastrous, he says.

Inspectors also report that the "Greater Wheat Stem Maggot" is working havoc among the crops of northern Manitoba. This insect cuts the wheat at the lowest joint which causes it to fall and rot before the binder reaches it.

The total Manitoba wheat crop is forty-seven million bushels, according to the Department of Agriculture.

ENTRIES CLOSE TO-NIGHT FOR MONDAY'S RACES

MAKE ENTRIES AT DENNE'S FLOUR AND FEED STORE FOR SPEEDING IN THE RING FOR MONDAY'S PROGRAMME.

Horsemen in the vicinity, who usually wait until the last minute to make their entries for the races, are reminded that entries close to-night for all races.

Out-of-town horsemen have all been notified of this fact, and the returns have been coming in quite freely.

If any local horseman has an entry to make to-night, he should hand it in at President Denne's Flour and Feed Store.

STOCKS SHOW MORE STRENGTH

STEEL AND RUBBER ISSUES MADE FAIRLY GOOD RECOVERY.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—With one big steel house reporting buying better than the selling, the United States steel during the first-half-hour retained its recovery shown at the opening.

United States Rubber sold up over six per cent. on the news of dividend resumption. Other leading issues retained opening recoveries.

Another drive against prices shortly before noon sent United States Rubber off 7 per cent. from the day's high. Othe leaders, compared with the morning's high, declined an average of 2 per cent.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Following yesterday's sensational decline in prices, the Stock Market opened strong to-day, with practically all the leading issues up from 1 to 5 points. Steel shows some improvement with U. S. Steel opening at 102⅛, up [illegible] at 111 up 3/4.

U. S. Rubber was a feature opening at 12[illegible] New Haven opened at 31 off [illegible]. The strike on this road was held responsible for this reaction.

ULTIMATUM TO THE ROUMANIANS

BOLSHEVIKS HAD A REAL LOVE FEAST IN HUNGARY.

Special to the Examiner.

LONDON, Aug. 8. — The American officials have sent an ultimatum to the Rumanians asking that they modify the demands upon Hungary, and threatening to withhold food supplies if the request is not complied with, according to Vienna advices reported in an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Copenhagen.

King Ferdinand of Rumania postponed his arrival in Budapest, it was learned to-day, upon the discovery of a plot against his life.

While the allied troops are maintaining order in Budapest the Bolsheviki are reported to have seized control in southwestern Hungary and are said to be slaughtering the bourgeosie population.

Secret murders of hundreds of victims during the Bolsheviki regime, who were just knocked down, are reported. The victims included General Vecsey, who was lynched, and thrown into the Danube, and Colonel Borby, who was shot and then thrown into the river.

The terrorist, Abraham Kohn, who was arrested to-day, boasted in an interview that he had committed eighty murders under the orders of Tibor Czannuely, one of the Bolshevik leaders.

The murderers of Count Tisza, who was killed under orders from Jos. Pogan, a Soviet commissionary, also are known to-day.

INCREASES DUE TO MANIPULATION

LEATHER MARKET MAY BE CONTROLLED BY GOVERNMENT.

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, Aug. 8.—Joint supervision by the Canadian and the United States Governments of the leather market is predicted here as a result of a conference held between members of the Governments and tanners and leather men.

Disquieting rumours of further heavy increases in shoe prices during the coming autumn have been circulated.

The increases are attributed to the manipulation of the leather market by the men higher up in the business.

A SUMMARY OF FARM CONDITIONS

FALL WHEAT IS YIELDING WELL--HAY IS CHEAPER.

The following is a summary of reports made by Agricultural Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture:

The season for small fruits has been shortened by the drouth, but on the whole those raising these crops have done well.

Fall wheat threshing continues to show fairly good yields, although not equalling early expectations.

Spring grains ar now being harvested and vary from poor to fair in both yield and quality, even in the same townships.

Buckwheat and millet, which were sown as substitute crops for some of the more standard spring grains are not doing well owing to the hot dry weather that has prevailed since sowing.

Potatoes are likely to be a light crop, generally speaking, although late fields have been helped along by recent rains.

All classes of roots have suffered from drouth and in Middlesex some turnip land will be resown to fall oats.

The second growths of clover and alfalfa are reported to be very light but the latter is described as being of very good quality.

Hay sold in Brant during the week at from $14 to $18 a ton in the field. Wentworth reports hay selling on the Hamilton market at from $22 to $23 a ton.

Norfolk states that more fields than usual are in summer fallow, and claims that the season has proven to be an especially good one for the elimination of noxious weeds.

Cattle generally speaking, are not in good flesh, owing to poor pastures. Elgin, however, reports the sale of some heavy steers at $13.50 a cwt.

Milk production has been fall off rapidly owing to the poor and the prevalence of flies.

cows range in value from $100 $175.

Hogs are in firm demand at from $22 to $24 a cwt. Brant reports little pigs bringing from $10 to $12 on the market on Saturday.

Horses for lumbering still bring good prices in Renfrew. One team weighing 2700 lbs., was sold for $650 last week.

With the rush of harvesting over the demand for farm labor is lessening.

AT AGE SEVENTY GAINS 25 POUNDS

MRS. ROLLINS FEELS BETTER THAN IN TWENTY YEARS "TANLAC IS WORTH WEIGHT IN GOLD."

"I am seventy years old, and have been in poor health for a good many years, but since taking Tanlac I feel better in every way than I have for twenty years, and have actually gained twenty-five pounds in weight," said Mrs. M. B. Rollins, who lives at 110 West 80th street, Seattle, the other day.

"When I moved to Seattle about twelve years ago," she continued, "I was in hopes that the climate here would help to improve the condition of my health, but I have been gradually growing worse all the time. I suffered constantly from stomach trouble, and what I ate caused me so much misery that I had actually reached the point where I dreaded to see meal time come. I suffered terribly from rheumatism, too, and sometimes my feet and legs were so badly swollen that I couldn't walk, and my arms would get so stiff and sore that I couldn't use them at all. More than half the time I wasn't able to wear my shoes. In fact, I had gotten to where I was in misery nearly all the time. My nerves were in such awful condition that the least noise would upset me, and I never got a good night's sleep. I finally got so weak and run down that I just had to give up and go to bed, and for five weeks my folks didn't have any hopes that I would ever get up again.

"Then I heard about Tanlac and the good it was doing so many people, and I told my son that I would make a more effort to get well, and asked him to get me a bottle. Well, to make a long story short, I am perfectly well again, and Tanlac is responsible for it. Why, I honestly feel twenty years younger, and am so well and strong now that I can get around and do all my housework without the least trouble. I have a fine appetite, and eat just anything I want and never suffer the least bit afterwards. The rheumatism has left me entirely, and so has all that swelling in my feet and legs. My nerves seem to be in perfect condition and I sleep soundly for eight or nine hours every night. The way Tanlac has overcome my troubles and built me up is more like a miracle than anything else, and any medicine that will do that much for a person my age, is certainly worth its weight in gold."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Fowlers Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

MECHANICAL COW CUTS COST OF LACTEAL FLUID

And the price of milk keeps going up! The cow is not to blame—she hasn't raised her prices; the farmer's share of the blame is small. Most of it may be heaped on the shoulders of transportation. But transportation has its woeful tale to tell, and so the problem is yet unsolved.

Milk is nearly ninety per cent. water; and this fact has caught the attention of the milk bureau of the Department of Markets in New York. Why not take out the water before the milk is shipped, and put it back again after it arrives. Then milk will need only one-tenth of the freight space now necessary.

Chemists working on the problem have found the following method most practicable. First, they remove the insoluble fats contained in milk; then the remainder is evaporated in vacuo; this leaves casein, albumen, milk-sugar, and other organic and mineral contents in the form of a fine powder.

This powder is shipped in cans from farm to city, and then sent to laboratories, where it is reconstructed. The proper quantity of fat is added in liquid form and thoroughly mixed so as to form a smooth emulsion. This emulsion is pasteurized to destroy the germs and is cooled in a refrigerator. Then the water is added.

Seven pounds and three ounces of powdered milk, dissolved in ten gallons of water and thoroughly emulsified with six pounds and three ounces of sweet butter, will make one hundred quarts of 3.3 per cent. milk.

BATTLE WITH LIONS ON STEAMER'S DECK

PASSENGERS TWICE FACE DEATH ON EVENTFUL VOYAGE—SHIP SUNK BY A STORM.

Picked up After Two Days by Liner With Mangerie Loose on Board.

New York, Aug 6.—How an ocean trip, which had been taken for rest, ended in a series of thrilling experiences, was told here by Mrs. Maude A. Hayes, wife of Scott Hayes, a son of the New York Air Brake Company, who returned home on the Grace Liner Santa Luisa. Both said they would be satisfied to remain in the quiet of their home at Croton-on the Hudson for some time to come.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayes, with their children, left New York May 20, bound for South America. On June 7, off Santa Rosa, on the coast of Peru, the ship went aground, Mrs. Hayes said, and later a heavy storm came up, wrecking the vessel. The crew became panic-stricken and the officers had to hold them off with pistols until the passengers entered the lifeboats.

"A heavy sea was running, some of the waves being at least thirty feet high," Mrs. Hayes said. "The steamship sank while we were still in sight. We rowed about for two days before we were rescued by the Montaro."

Mrs. Hayes said that once aboard, her husband, children and herself believed their troubles were over. This feeling was shortlived. On the Montaro was a circus with a menagerie. The doors of the animals' cages were broken open during a continuation of the storm which had wrecked the other vessel. Among the animals released were several lions and tigers, who prowled at will on the deck while the crew and passengers from hiding places tried to kill them or drive them overboard. The battle lasted an entire day, according to Mrs. Hayes, before the carnivora were slain or recaptured.

Mrs. Hayes brought back with her several hundred live Peruvian and Brazilian birds to take to her home.

Other passengers on the Santa Luisa told of a heavy storm which struck Valpraiso, Chile, July 18, killing more than three hundred persons and injuring as many more. Captain W. T. Crossley said the day after the storm started it raged so furiously that he had to steam to sea to prevent his ship being driven ashore. When he returned four days later, he found that ten ships, including several interned German vessels, had been wrecked.

Frederick A. Claude, a coal operator of Chili, who arrived with his family on a visit, said that during the storm several trees from 15 to 18 feet in diameter on his estate were uprooted and tossed about like reeds.

Other passengers on the Santa Luisa included William H. Hollaway, a grandson of W. R. Grace, and Spruil Braden, a copper mine owner of Chili.

WHAT IT COST THE INSURANCE COMPANIES LAST YEAR.

The following item of news appeared in Canadian and American papers in their issue of Friday, July 25th. One of the best preventatives of the 'flu' is the use of Pyroine, which is on sale exclusively at the drug store of Jas. Lynch in this town.

(United Press.)

NEW YORK, July 26.— A recurrence of the epidemic of influenza, which cost nearly half a million lives in the United States last fall, was predicted to-day by insurance experts.

Edward Kepf, of the Statistical Bureau, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, stated that the epidemic had cost the life insurance companies in the United States from $80,000,000 to $100,000,000, while the Bureau of War risk insurance in Washington paid out about $180,000,000 to beneficiaries of influenza victims.

FLORIDA WATER BECOMES POPULAR

SEVERAL DRUGGISTS SAID TO BE DOING GOOD BUSINESS.

Reports have reached the Ontario License Board that a number of druggists are doing a profitable business in selling Florida Water to thirsty souls, and it is possible that some of them may receive a sharp reminder that the business is not an approved one. Although, in some cases, the only means of getting at the druggist who sells Florida Water and other preparations for beverage purposes is to catch him with the goods, the Board is able to keep a check upon those who sell goods of their own preparation, since they must buy their supplies of alcohol from the Government vendors. The Board is now receiving reports from the vendors showing the amount of liquor sold to every druggist in the Province, and by checking up records over a period is able to determine whether any individual is buying more than the normal amount needed for medicinal use.

THE LIBERAL LEADER.

One of the highest recommendations that could be given to Mackenzie King as the new leader of the Liberal party is the fact that his closest contestants were the Hon. W. S. Fielding and the Hon. G. P. Graham. Indeed, the Liberal convention found it no easy task in making their choice, as the final ballots attest. Each of these three candidates possessed individual qualities that would assure the solution of some of the difficulties through which Canada is passing to-day. It is unnecessary now to speak of the native gifts Mr. Fielding and Mr. Graham would have brought to the leadership.

The selection of Mr. King should meet with the fullest approval throughout this country. A comparatively young man, he has already fulfilled the predictions of his early career that his abilities would carry him to the leadership. The next upward step promises no obstacles in the present perspective. His Liberalism is an inheritance of which he may be justly proud, and which he has preserved even as pure as he received it. But the statesmanship of his grandsire, the reflected talents of the candidates over whom he was given preference, the confidence Sir Wilfrid Laurier imposed in him, these recommendations show MacKenzie King as an exponent of democracy, of social justice, as the advocate of that industrial order Canada clamors for in these days of dangerous unrest.

As an experienced and far-seeing legislator he will make a powerful appeal to those Canadians who believe that government by the people for the people is no empty shibboleth, no impossible ideal to mock a suffering people, but a veritable reality under a Liberal Government.

Mr. King's study of industrialism has fitted him for the role his adherents have selected for him. The plans he has evolved, after exhaustive investigations, to place industry on a sound basis and to distribute its fruits more evenly between employer and employed have been widely approved. The special knowledge of Labour conditions which they denote the sympathies they reflect and their manifest sanity, convey a promise of a happier Canada when Mr. King is given the opportunity to put them into effect.

AN EXAMPLE FOR OTTAWA.

The United States Government has started out to slash prices and put the boot to the profiteer after a fashion that promises success. The high cost of living has been placed above every other problem at Washington, and a nation-wide drive to bring relief and allay unrest is under way. If when Uncle Sam gets through his investigation prices are not brought to a lower level throughout the United States it will be because such an achievement is impossible by Government action. Experts are being called in to tackle the job of discovering where rests the blame for the soaring figures that, according to labour leaders, are driving the people to explosions that will be near-revolutionary, to put it mildly.

The American Government, however, is not waiting for this report before acting. Surplus army foodstuffs, principally canned goods, to the value of $120,000,000 have been put on the market for purchase by municipalities. Any amount can be purchased on a thirty-day payment basis. Even the individual may order a single can of vegetables, for instance. No prices have yet been announced, but they will be placed so far below the average retail figure that plus the postage or cost of transportation, they will still be considerably below market prices.

The necessity and clamour for relief is as great, if not greater, in Canada as it is across the border, but Canada is helpless under a Government that from timidity or indifference, or both, will not take any direct action on this supremely vital matter. Instead of a vigorous attempt to ameliorate the conditions which are responsible for our labour troubles and general discord and discontent, the public is told that it is the guilty party, and the profiteer is congratulated for the efficient manner in which his business is conducted.

The Union Government has been parroting Washington off and on for five years, but in this matter of war on high prices it is too much to expect it to run true to form. Nothing but a dynamite charge of public expression will jar Ottawa into an actual courageous campaign to bring prices down.—London Advertiser.

WHERE CREDIT IS DUE.

Hon. Mr. Henry is reported as saying that there were 360,000 acres more in crop in Ontario during the war than in the four years previous.

Assuming the statement to be true, no credit is due either the Dominion or Provincial Government in the matter. The latter aggravated rather than aided farmers by exportations to produce, produce, PRODUCE. The former certainly did not aid production by fixing an arbitrary price above which wheat was not permitted to go. It actually and very seriously discouraged production by cancelling the exemptions of young farmers after farmers as a whole in the last year of the war, had based their operations on the promise of exemption. All the credit in the matter is due to old men, women, girls and young lads who worked as such classes never before worked on farms; no not even in pioneer days.—Farmers' Sun.

ROUMANIA'S WAR.

A Hungary determined to keep her old frontiers was a continuing danger to Roumania—more dangerous while governed by the Allies of Lenin, but dangerous under any government. The Roumanians seem not unreasonably to have lost confidence in the Allied Council, which hesitated over Hungary for four months; and now that they have put an end to the danger they want to see that it does not revive. Naturally, their troops are under a grave obligation to treat the inhabitants of Budapest with rather more than justice, for the chief consideration at present is the alleviation of racial bitterness and the preparation of the way toward peace. The Roumanians and Czecho-Slovaks, however, are wholly justified in their demand that Hungary be thoroughly disarmed first of all. When that is done the frontiers should be drawn, and as nearly as possible—which is not very near—they should coincide with the ethnographic boundaries. We must free the subject races whom we promise to liberate; the Magyars deserve even less consideration than before, since they waved the Bolshevist torch at the houses of their neighbours. But when that is done—when a disarmed Hungary is reduced to her proper frontiers — the Conference ought to arrange with Jugoslavia or Italy for free access of Hungarian commerce to the Adriatic, and should do what it can to promote economic arrangements between agricultural Hungary and her industrial neighbours that will make permanent peace attractive and profitable to them all.—New York Times.

Voice Of The People

A few days ago we noticed in this column a complaint regarding the unnecessary noises on our streets. If people are disturbed by the slight noise of the fire brigade, surely we have good reasons for voicing our grievance. The residents of Gilmour street are anxious to know if the Peterborough Creamery milkman's business is to distribute milk and cream, or to arouse the slumbering citizens at four or five o'clock in the morning. One can almost imagine that a gypsy band or a travelling minstrel show is just arriving in our fair city.

DISTURBED.

Cobourg, Aug. 6th, 1919.

To Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—At the bowling tournament in your city on the 4th, Cobourg was well represented. Peterborough has often been styled as the Electric City, but we were surprised at the inadequate lighting of the bowling grounds, and if the club does not provide better light some of the Cobourg rinks will be missing next year.

BOWLER.

Peterborough, August 7th, 1919.

Very much dissatisfaction has arisen lately concerning pensions, and the actions of the Government have not tended to lessen the same. When the Government decided to ask the officers and men to revert to a lower rank to proceed overseas, the promise was given to them that in case of death or disability the reversion to a lower rank would make no difference in their pension, but notwithstanding such promise the pension is based on the rank the men held when they were discharged. In many cases this action of the government brings hardship on the men who took the government at their word and trusted them to carry out their promise Many officers and men who reverted were wounded before they had a chance of regaining their promotion, and thus are penalized because they relied on the promise of the government officials. I believe that there is an order-in-council coming into effect on the 1st day of September to remedy this defect from that date, however the same should be made retroactive if the government wants to carry out their promises and pledges to the men who fought overseas.

C. R. WIDDIFIELD.

DAYS OF SLAVERY GONE FOREVER

Being interested in Mr. Merrill's ...nce regarding working hours I ... I would like to state my op... take it Mr. Merrill is interest... arming and naturally is in sym... with the farmers. Let me tell Mr. Merrill the farmer was never more prosperous than he is to-day. Nearly every farmer in Ontario owns an automobile, which was a thing unknown before the war. Most of the farmers come to town, bring their produce, sell it and take the money home. They don't have to buy ALL their living because they produce it. If they get bad crops up goes the price, and what is not sold is kept for seeding. So you see most of them leave about fifty cents in the city and town fifty dollars out. So much for the farmer. But to get back to the hour question. Mr. Merrill states the profits of the textile industry only balance up the profits of the man protected by a minimum wage. That is absolutely ridiculous because there is no comparison. I am a textile worker and am proud to say work eight hours a day, but listen to this. I produce an article to get four dollars and fifty cents and the same thing is on sale in the windows on George street for eighty-two dollars. Who gets the profit on that. He mentions Gladstone and others. Those people could quit work just whenever they felt like it And besides people have to move with the times. Nowadays we have modern machinery and there is no need to work any more than eight hours a day. As regards 95 p.c. of profiteering is caused through our own indolence, that is also ridiculous. I could take Mr. Merrill to a place not 1,000 miles from George street where there are tons of butter piled up and thousands of eggs in storage. How would any man like to work 10 or 12 hours a day for a man who does a thing like that? That is profiteering which causes the high cost of living Mr. Merrill should have been with the boys in France. Then he would have had 8 hours' fighting, 8 hours' marching, 8 hours trench digging and the rest of the day to himself. (If he was there I apologize.) He also thinks young men out of work should go on a farm. Well, maybe they should, but I don't blame any returned soldier for refusing. Let some of these "mama's" and "papa's" boys who never went "over there" get out on the farm and give the returned soldiers a chance, because if Fritz had got to Canada it would have been 24 hours' hard labour every day instead of 8 hours, which is reasonable. By the way, Mr. Merrill, you don't see many ministers with a hoe in thier hands from dawn to twilight nowadays, That stuff don't count. The working man is getting wiser every day and is coming into his own. I would rather work for Henry Ford 6 hours a day than use a hoe for 16 for some farmer. It is hardly polite to call the people pigmies who are bettering conditions of life. Most of these pigmies as you call them are returned soldiers. You know there is such a thing as being henpecked and 16 hours a day is compulsory under those circumstances.

Yours,

93RD.

P.S.—If I had to work more than eight hours a day I would never have had time to write this letter.

Vinegar will remove stains on zinc.

ROADS IN SMITH TOWNSHIP

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—I am sure it is gratifying to every citizen who owns a vehicle of any description, or who has friends who own a vehicle, to see in a recent issue of your paper that the Townships of North Monaghan, Otonabee, Asphodel, Belmont, and Methuen have at last decided to break away from the rest of the county and take advantage of the Good Roads legislation of the Ontario Government. It is a pity that the Township of Smith refuses to show a more progressive spirit and take advantage of the same legislation. Our County of Peterborough has stood alone in the whole Province of Ontario in refusing to accept the generous offer of assistance from the Government to improve the roads of the county. One thing is certain, either that all the other townships in the province are wrong and the County of Peterborough alone right, or vice versa. However, the Government again comes to the assistance of such people and provides a place of residence for such people who think the whole world wrong and they themselves right.

It is pitiable to see a township that in years gone by prided itself on being the "Banner" township of the county, missing the advantages that are offered by the Government, through the mistaken idea that they are right and everybody else wrong. The simple fact remains that for every $100.00 spent by the Township of Smith on main roadways they lose $40.00 that they might just as well have from the Government. Some of the leading roads of Smith are a disgrace to any municipality, and no wonder, when one sees the system of "repairs" (save the word) done on the roads. Take, for instance, the main highway leading to the north country—the Lakefield Road and on to Burleigh. In passing along this road one finds here and there a couple of teams and a couple of men piling up gravel on the centre of the road eighteen to twenty inches high, and just wide enough to let the wheels of all vehicles go outside this pile. This gravel heap is left to be ground down by the rubber tyres of buggies and the tyres of automobiles. Perhaps those responsible do not know (or perhaps care less) that to compact and grind down a road in such a way costs thousands of dollars to owners of vehicles of all descriptions, and specially to owners of cars. I heard that one of our councillors made the remark "Let the automobiles keep off the roads." If so, it is certainly a reflection on the intelligence of our Council to have such a representation in this progressive age. Self-propelled vehicles are fast becoming a common means of transportation, and as such, those in charge of our roads have to recognise this fact; and if accidents occur owing to the way the so-called repairs are made, the township will be held responsible for any damage. Such cases are becoming common, and I would advise our Council to look into this matter before they are forced to do so by a large claim for damages.

Such methods of repairing roads as was endured when our great-grandfathers were clearing up the country will not be tolerated to-day by a progressive class of farmers. Such, for example as heaping up loose gravel in the centre of the road, is a most dangerous pitfall for automobiles. Only on Saturday last two loaded cars were passing on one of these narrow roads on which gravel was heaped as above described. Both cars skidded and went into the ditches on either side. It is only a miracle that a serious accident did not occur. If such a case were to go before a judge I am positive the Court would hold the township responsible for placing such an obstruction on the road. One would think that any municipality would take some pride in having a decent road between two such important points as the City of Peterborough and the village of Lakefield, where such a large traffic passes, including many distinguished visitors from across the line. I will venture to say that it would be impossible to find such an important road in the Province of Ontario in such a condition as this road is in. If I were a member of a Council, with leading roads in such conditions as the road between Peterborough and Burleigh, and such methods were used to improve (?) them, I would be ashamed to acknowledge the fact.

For example, just above Young's Point some individual evidently conceived the idea that "he could kill two birds with one stone," so he picked off the stones in his field and dumped them on the road in heaps in several places, thinking the pathmaster would give him credit for his statute labour. Round stones, varying in size from the size of one's fist to the size of your head—left to be knocked about by horses' feet and the wheels of vehicles! Progressing further up the road we find men placing other obstructions on the road in the way of heaping up clods of sods dug out of trenches a foot or so from the edge of the road. Further on we come to old corduroy roads, with the butt ends of the cedar logs sticking up, and which have not had any covering put on them since they were used as cadge roads by the early lumbermen who operated in this district.

Then we come to what I once heard a township roadmaster say was "modern road making." It was placing broken stone just as it came from the crusher all over the surface of the road, with no covering whatever of gravel or even dirt placed over it, leaving the knife edges of the stones to be ground down by horses' hoofs and the rubber and steel tyres of carriages and the pneumatic tyres of cars. Such methods of road making should be made criminal. Anyone leaving a road surface in such a condition for the feet of horses to pass over should be horsewhipped. There is no representative on the Council from the eastern part of the township and none of the Council, I venture to say, have ever taken the trouble to inspect this important road—at least, it is charitable to think so—or they would surely not allow such work to be done on a road or allow a road to remain in such a condition.

The Council should recognise the fact that the farmers of the Township of Smith are fast coming to realise the economy of good roads. The farmers are progressive and cognisant of the fact that the high cost of labour is compelling them to use cars to save time, and they require good roads to permit them to draw larger loads in order to save so many trips. There are far more cars owned by farmers than by the city folks—a fact that the Council should note.

Let us hope, when the Townships of Monaghan, Otonabee, Asphodel, Belmont, and Methuen get their good roads built next year, that the members of the Council will venture that far from home and go and see these roads. Imagine the little Township of Methuen giving the "Banner" Township of Smith pointers on how to do things right? Knowing, as I do, your advocacy of better things for farmers is the only excuse I can give for taking up so much of your valuable space. Thanking you.—Yours truly, Farmer.

THE BRITISH COURT AFTER THE WAR

Since the return of the Court to Buckingham Palace, London, the King has been considering what entertaining shall take place here during the remainder of the London season. It has been arranged that there shall be one evening Court at Buckingham Palace towards the end of June for the reception of the official and diplomatic circles, but this is likely to be the only function of this kind before the early spring of next year. There is also a possibility that a garden party will be held at Buckingham Palace, to which a large number of guests will be invited, and this is likely to be all the entertaining that will take place at Buckingham Palace this year. The evening court will be especially interesting from the fact that three of their Majesties' children—the Prince of Wales, Princess Mary, and Prince Albert—will be making their first appearance at a ceremony of this nature.

BARBARA REFUSES TO GO TO A MATINEE WITH BLANCHE

CHAPTER XXXVI.

Our luncheon finished, I went directly home, altho Mrs. Orton had asked me if I would go to the matinee. I distrusted her and disliked her. I must be civil when Neil was around or it would anger him and he would also think me jealous—which I had no intention he should do, tho I was.

Mr. Frederick had evaded, when I asked him if he were not coming to see me while in New York. Neil had heard and seconded the invitation, and then Mr. Frederick had said:

"I am leaving so soon I fear I shall not have time. If I do I will certainly let you know." And with that we had to be content.

I can't explain the feeling which made me desire to see Mr. Frederick again. I surely had no intention of questioning him about Neil, or his business. Yet he might have said something, let drop a remark that would have made me feel less unsettled, happier over Neil and his affairs, which he was so determined to keep to himself—as far as I was concerned.

Neil seemed to have recovered his vivacity when he came home to dinner. I said nothing about the quiet way he had acted at luncheon, but talked of Mr. Frederick and other things.

"Did you and Blanche go to a matinee" he asked.

"No, I was a little tired and so I came right home."

"Didn't she want to go, didn't she ask you?"

"Yes,—tho I don't think she cared particularly about going. She didn't act at all disappointed."

"I wish, after this, when she asks ou to go anywhere with her you would accept. It was precisely with that object in mind that I arranged that lunch to-day."

"I'm sorry—but, you see, Neil, I didn't know. I don't understand why you wanted me to go with her; but if here was any real reason, you should have explained it to me."

He spoke so sternly, that I could not avoid thinking that there was something behind it all; he had not denied that he had planned for me to go out with Blanche Orton, while at the same time he had made no explanation of why he wanted me to do so.

Suddenly it flashed over me that for some reason he wanted me to be seen in public with Blanche. He had arranged that luncheon not because he wanted me to have a good time, not because he wanted me with him; but because he wanted people to see Blanche ad nme together. Then he had wanted me to go to a matinee with her—doubtless for the same reason. Oh, it was shameful—the thought that intruded on the heels of this one. No, no! I would not believe that of Neil. If I did it would be to believe him guilty of some sort of immoral liason with Mrs. Orton, and also to insult him by believing he would use me, his own wife, to cover it up by being seen with her.

Should I say any more about it to Neil, o should I let it pass as I had so many other things? I decided to do the latter, Neil had been very irritable lately, altho we had not again come to an open quarrel. But the least contradiction angered him and I felt I could not endure to go thru another siege of the kind we had had so short a time before. My own nerves were strung to the highest pitch. I felt that hysterics were not very far away. So instead of saying more about Mrs. Orton, I changed the subject.

Just as I came to this decision the telephone rang. Neil picked up the receiver.

"Hello—what's that —My God—when did it happen?—Dead! You are sure?—I'll be right down, go to the office and wait for me."

Neil sank heavily into a chair.

"What is it, dear? Do tell me!" I said, running to him.

"He's dead—Orton—and now that deal will be off—" he staggered to the cellarette and poured himself a drink. Then, without looking at me, or answering my questions, he left the house.

THIN, FRAIL FOLKS NEED PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bitro-Phosphate To Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh And to Increase Strength Vigor and Nerve Force

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are often due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitrophosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by McDermid & Jury in Peterboro and most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate should produce a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

Increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, should soon disappear, dull eyes ought to brighten and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

Caution—Although Bitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its tendency to increase weight, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

Put a few marbles into the kettle when cooking catsup. They prevent burning.

That every opportunity needs to be looked at through the glass of principle. It may mean, apart from conscience, a chance of making money, or gaining social position, or grasping power; but if it does not pass muster morally it also means loss.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON FOR WEEK

(Aug. 10, 1919.)

Winning Others to Christ: Acts 16: 9-15; James 5:19, 20.

Golden Text: Ye shall be my witnesses both in Jerusalem and in all Judea and Samaria and unto the uttermost part of the earth. Act 1:8.

1. Verse 9. What reason if any is there to believe that some Christians to-day have visions?

2. What call, resembling Paul's vision is constantly ringing in the ears of all true Christians to-day?

3. Verse 10. Would you say or not and why that Paul acted upon the vision without any tangible outward evidence to corroborate the vision?

4. Verse 10. What amount of certainty should we give to what we think to be a vision or the voice of God in our souls?

5. Verses 11, 12. What is the geographical situation of Troas, Samothracia, Neapolis and Philippi?

6. Verse 13. What would you think of the plan of arranging for Bible study or other religious meetings in the woods or by the river side, on Sunday, when the weather is favorable?

7. Verses 13. Why is it that the great majority of those who attend prayer meeting and other similar religious services are women?

8. Verse 14. What class of persons are those in non-Christian countries who first embrace Christianity when they hear it preached?

9. Why would you or not say that Lydia was a reconciled child of God before she heard Paul preach the Gospel?

10. Verse 14. When Christians are in company is it or not their duty to endeavor to create a favorable atmosphere so as to present Christ to them?

11. If a Christian is a long time in the company of a stranger, as on a railway journey and does not say anything about Christ or his gospel how does God regard it?

12. Which class of the community as a rule are the most religious, those who sell things, those who manufacture, those who work with their hands, or those who work with their heads?

13. Verse 15. Why should all persons who are converted to Christianity be baptized?

13. Verse 15. Why should all persons who are converted to Christianity be baptized?

14. What right had Lydia to have "her household" baptized when she accepted Christianity?

15. How is it that so far as the cities are concerned at least that there is not the same open-hearted hospitality on the part of professed Christians as manifested by Lydia to Paul and his fellow Christian workers?

16. James 5:19, 20. What are some of the benefits of being the means of restoring a backslider or the conversion of a sinner?

17. Why is it the duty of every professed Christian to personally invite and persuade others to accept Christ? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by the members of the club.)

18. If a professed Christian has not tried to lead any person to Christ during the past month say, having had plenty of opportunities for doing so, why is he or not an awful hypocrite?

19. What is the meaning of "save a soul from death, and shall hide a multitude of sins"?

Lesson for Sunday, Aug 17, 1919.—Christian Missions. Acts 1:8: 13:1; 14:26.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Colour and Lustre to Hair.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost over night if you'll get a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of his old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound to-night and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

This preparation is a toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

PUNISHES HER STEPSON WITH A RED HOT POKER

Detroit, Aug. 6—Recently in a fit of temper because her little eight-year-old stepson came home with his clothing wet, after playing near a pond, Mrs. Mary Elwood, aged 24, "punished" the child by laying a red-hot poker four times across his back.

Neighbors heard the boy's screams, investigated, and then notified the authorities, and the inhuman stepmother was arrested. To-day Judge Wilkins heard evidence in the case and sentenced her to from three years to five years in State Prison.

Mrs. Elwood in her own defence told the court that she had been punished in a similar manner when a child, and thought the same treatment might effect a "cure" for her young stepson.

WAR SOUVENIRS

A month ago a Canadian soldier in France cabled his father and mother in Toronto that he was returning home immediately with a Belgian girl. His father and mother very prominent in the social life of Toroto, were somewhat embarrassed by the cablegram, for they thought their son of twenty-three, who had been three years at the front, had without notifying them, married outside their social circle.

This particular Canadian soldier arrived home the other day, and with him was a Belgian girl four years old. His father and mother were much relieved when he told them how he was walking through the streets of Brussels one day and the little girl ran and caught hold of his hand and said to him: "I want you to take me home." He could not resist the child's request, and Canada is the richer by one little Belgian girl four years old, and she is richer by a foster father and mother to take the place of those she lost during the war.

A returned members of the Canadian Aviation Corps has a little French boy, whom he adopted under the laws of France, because the little chap was an orphan and had only his grandmother, dying of an incurable disease, to take care of him. The little nine-year-old French boy will grow up to be a worthy citizen of Canada.

FRANKNESS.

Be frank to the world. Frankness is the child of honesty and courage. Say just what you mean to do on every occasion and take it for granted that you mean to do just what is right. If a friend asks you a favor, you should grant it, if it is reasonable; if it is not tell him plainly why you can not. You will wrong him and wrong yourself by equivocation of any kind. Never do wrong to make a friend or keep one; the man who requires you to do so is dearly purchased, and at a sacrifice. Deal kindly an firmly with all men and you will find it the policy which wears the best. Above all do not appear to others what you are not. If you have any fault to find with anyone, tell him, not others, of what you complain. There is no more dangerous experiment than that of undertaking to do one thing to a man's face and another to his back. We should live, act and speak out of doors, as the phrase is, and say and do what we are willing should be known and read of all men.

If anyone needs your sympathy and support it is the public school teacher, no difference whether it is a city school or out in a country district, the trials of a school teacher are manifold and severe. The teacher has to deal with mismanagement of every home in the district, and too many cases has the bad disposition of the parents as well as the scholars to contend with.

It is a difficult profession—this profession of motherhood. In the animal kingdom, as the offspring grows older, the parents withdraw their ministrations, but in the human family the older children grow the more diplomacy and enthusiasm is needed by the rulling spirit. When the boys begin to get unruly and the girls begin to get silly—the husband gets less willing to make an effort and more ready to sit quietly by the fire in the evening—then it is that many a family drifts apart. But the mother can have no holiday. She must always be on tap. The only difference is than as the children grow older, she must pretend that it is they and not she who are managing affairs.

Some of us, as we grow old, become so oppressed by the care and sorrows of mature life that we quite forget the days of our youth. The pains and pleasures of childhood seem so trivial that we fail to realize that a child's sorrows are as keen and probably keener, than anything we know in adult life. We forget the exquisite joy that a new toy gave us, and the palpitating pleasures of a visit to town, the ecstatic delight of a day in the woods. And we forget, too, the depth of anguish that came with each disappointment.

If some good entertainment comes along, ask the girls and boys if they wish to go. Don't make them beg for a holiday.

What is the good of dwelling upon slights or hostilities? Many of them are fancied. If we have enemies let us avoid them and refuse to think of them. To consider the wrongs that we think another has put upon us fills us with anger and all uncharitableness. Let us rather think of our friends who are a source of peace and pleasure and encouragement, of Christ who said, "Father forgive them, for they know not what they do," and of His apostle, who wrote to the Corinthians, "Charity suffereth long and is kind, seeketh not her own, is not easily provoked and thinketh no evil."

Mothers be patient. Do not wound a child; remember it has a tender heart, and who can bear to see the quiver of the baby lips, or hear the sleep has shut down the tear-washed lids?

"If we knew the baby fingers,
Pressed against the window pane,
Would be cold and stiff to-morrow,
Never trouble us again,
Would the bright eyes of our darling
Catch the frown upon our brow,
Would the print of rosy fingers
Vex us then as they do now?

"Melancholy cannot hold its own with perennial good nature. Sunshine is contageous. Smiles are epidemic. One joyous nature will fill an auditorium with good cheer. Despondency is a poor debater. It can bring no argument that sunbeams will not penetrate."

The thief who steals your peace of mind is meaner than the one who steals your property.

Memories of what we learn through bitterness and sorrow may not always be held in regret.

Usually if we postpone a worry for a day or two it will fail to keep it's appointment.

The circle of human duties is only complete by the union of those of man and woman.

Those who are much together grow singularly alike as time goes on.

RULES AND REGULATIONS

1—All members who have paid the annual fee of $1.00 for the current year shall be members, and as such shall be entitled to the advantages and privileges conferred on the members onder the Roles and Regulations of the Exhibition.

2—Any member can compete for any or all of the prizes offered at the exhibition. Twenty entries may be made free, except Live Stock and Poultry, provided the head of the family to which the Exhibitor belongs is a member of the Society, otherwise the usual fee for non-membership must be paid. Additional entries, 10 cents each.

3—Animals or articles entered for competition must be the bona fide property of the person entering them, and, with the exception of animals, must have been grown, produced, manufactured or made during the present year, by the person or persons exhibiting them; and if any doubt arises on the subject, proof will be required. The President, First Vice-President, and any of the Board of Directors shall be obliged to cause any Exhibitor, with reference to whom such doubt exists, or with reference to whom any such notice has been given to make a statutory declaration of a compliance with the terms of said rules. No animal shall be shown in more than one class, except in the case of herd prizes or special prizes. If any person shall enter any article for exhibition, as produced or manufactured by himself or herself, when it has not really been so, he or she shall forfeit all prizes which may be awarded to them, and shall be precluded from exhibiting in the future.

4—No person can make more than one entry of Grain, Seeds, Roots, Fruits, Flowers, Vegetables, Dairy Produce, Implements, Manufactures, Ladies' Work or Fine Arts, in the same section or class.

5—"Recommended Premiums" may be awarded for such articles as may be considered worthy by the Judges, although not enumerated on the List, and the Directors will determine the amount of the Premium; but no Premium will be awarded to any article, however deserving it may be, if entered as an extra, when there is a class to which it properly belongs.

6—Should there be only one Exhibitor in a class or section, the Judges can use their own discretion as to awarding the Premium; and in all cases where they do not think the animal or article worthy, they can withhold the premium. The Judges shall in no case award a prize unless they consider the exhibit actually worthy of such a prize. No person shall be a judge of any article or in any class in which they are

ONLY TABLETS MARKED "BAYER" ARE ASPIRIN

The Safety "Bayer Cross" on Tablets Means Genuine Aspirin—Others Are Not Aspirin at All

"Bayer" Now Made in Canada—No German Interest—All Rights Purchased from U. S. Government

Your druggist gladly will give you the genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" because genuine Aspirin now is made by Canadians and owned by a Canadian Corporation.

There is not a cent's worth of German interest in Aspirin.

Don't accept Aspirin in a pill box! Buy a "Bayer Package"!

During the war, acid imitations were sold as Aspirin in pill boxes and various other containers. But there is no substitute for genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" which have been proved safe by millions for Pain, Headache, Toothache, Earache, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Colds, Grippe, Joint Pains, Neuritis.

Proper and safe directions are in every "Bayer" package.

Boxes of 12 tablets—Bottles of 24—Bottles of 100—Also Capsules.

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assist the public against imitations, the Tablets of Bayer Company will be stamped with their general trade mark, the "Bayer Cross."

EXAMINER PATTERN SERVICE

2517

A Comfortable House Dress.

2517—Here is a model easy to develop and easy to adjust. Skirt and waist portions are in one piece. The sleeve may be made in wrist or elbow length. Gingham, khaki, galatea, percale, seersucker, and chambray are good for this design.

The pattern is cut in 7 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. Size 38 requires 5¼ yards of 36-inch material. The dress measures about 2¾ yards at the foot.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15 cents in silver or stamps.

Address: Examiner Pattern Service, Examiner Office, Peterborough.

Canned spinach, beans, cabbage, or any canned vegetables to be served as salad should be opened, turned into a dish and chilled for an hour or so before serving. Any cleansing necessary, as removing the veins from shrimp, and any washing, if dry pack products, should be done when the can is first opened.

Wash The Kidneys!

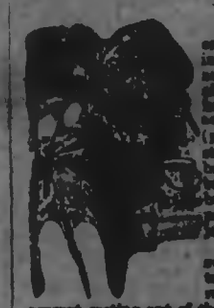
After Bad Colds or Influenza Look to Kidneys and Bladder!



Owing to bad colds, over-eating or intemperance (poisons) are carried up in the blood and filtered out by the kidneys, which then become overworked and sluggish—and these poisons are left to poison the whole system—(the burning pain and kidneys)—should be assisted to their local delivery over alcohol-burn horror—fortunately—and thus prevent one's self from many grave diseases, by taking one dose of a pleasant laxative such as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, which are made of May-apple, aloes and jalap. Take them every other day. This will assist efficient bowel action. If you suffer from backache, irritation of the bladder and the kidneys shown by the frequent calls to get up at bed at night, considerable sediment in the water, brick-dust deposit, painful headache in the morning, you should obtain at the drug store "Anuric" (anuric said), first put up by Dr. Pierce.

To build up the strength and improve the blood, take an iron tonic such as "Tronic," manufactured by Dr. Pierce, to be had in tablets at drug stores, or some good herbal tonic such as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, made from wild roots and herbs without alcohol, and put up in tablets or liquid.

A squadron of sixteen aeroplanes secured for Canada by the Overseas Club may be expected shortly from England according to Mr. Francis R. Jones, F. R. G. S., who recently arranged with the Imperial Air Ministry to present to the Canadian Military Authorities in the name of the Overseas Club and Patriotic League a complete squadron of sixteen aeroplanes. They consisted of the following, viz: seven originally subscribed for in Canada and nine others, including one from the City of Liverpool.

No. 7 Ontario, Canada. £1,500 presented by the residents in the Province of Ontario, through Mr. Fane Sewall, H. C. S., College and Spadina, Toronto.

No. 13, Montreal No. 1 £2,250 presented by Mr. Robert Hampson, of Montreal, through Mr. George Lighthall, H. C. S.

No. 14, Montreal No. 2. £2,250 presented by the British Empire Grain Co., of Montreal, through Mr. George Lighthall, H. C. S.

No. 16, St. Catharines, Ontario, £1,500 presented by Major R. W. Leonard of the Corps of Guides.

No. 17, Nova Scotia. £2,250 presented by the people of Nova Scotia. Collected by the Halifax Branch of the Overseas Club.

No. 27, Montreal No. 3. £2,250 presented by the Board of Trade, Montreal, through Mr. Lighthall, H. C. S.

The following machines were subscribed for by the members of the Overseas Club in various parts of the world:—

No. 66 to No. 69 Six machines presented by members of the Overseas Club on Empire Day, 1916.

No. 98. Seven Seas. £1,500 presented by the members of the Overseas Club.

No. 100. Britons Overseas. £1,500, presented by the members of the Overseas Club and Patriotic League

The sixteenth machine added at the last moment, was given by Captain A. M. Simpson, of Heswall, Cheshire, in the names of the City of Liverpool.

The actual presentation took place at Hendon Aerodrome, near London. Mr. Evelyn Wrench, C. M. G., Chairman and founder of the Over Seas Club, formally asked the Air Ministry to hand over the machines.

Lord Londonderry who made the presentation, referred to the great work of the Over Seas Club during the war, mentioned that 173 aeroplanes and seaplanes had been subscribed for by members in all parts of the world at a cost of over $1,500,000, and stated that the Club had been instrumental in collecting nearly five million dollars for patriotic and war purposes during the past four and a half years.

Sir Edward Kemp, the Canadian Overseas Minister of Militia and Defense, acknowledged the gift, which he said would form the nucleus of the equipment of the Canadian Air Force for military and commercial purposes.

The Rt. Hon. Sir Robert Borden, who is one of the vice presidents of the Club, has just written to Mr. Jones:

"The Canadian Government welcomes your splendid gift of a complete squadron of aeroplanes (16 machines) subscribed for by your members and now placed at the disposal of the Government through the Imperial Air Ministry. I am confident that the squadron will be of the greatest value to the Canadian Air Force of the future".

For two years Mr. Jones who visited Canada in 1915-16, on behalf of the Club, was acting secretary at Headquarters in England and is now touring the Dominion from East to West with the object of visiting local branches and secretaries, and further increasing the already large membership. Just previous to crossing the Atlantic he visited France, Belgium and Germany as the guest of the Canadian Military Authorities and saw some interesting things to [illegible] this and his war time experiences in the Old Country.

In several cities the Boards of Trade or Chambers of Commerce [illegible] special meetings of their members Mr. Jones spoke. The Canadian Clubs and the Chapters of the I. O. D. E. here also with their accustomed spirit arranged many special meetings in order that he may address their members. Just now, Mr. Jones is in the Maritime Provinces. In August he will go west to the Pacific Coast visiting all important points and has already a long list of engagements. In the latter part of September and in October he will address meetings in Ontario and Quebec.

LIBERAL TARRIFF PLATFORM AIMS TO REDUCE HIGH COST OF LIVING

OTTAWA, August 8.—The tariff resolution which was carried in the Liberal Convention is as follows:

That the best interests of Canada demand that substantial reductions of the burdens of Customs taxation be made with a view to the accomplishing of two purposes of the highest importance:

FIRST—Diminishing the very high cost of living which presses so severely on the masses of the people.

SECOND—Reducing the cost of the instruments of production in the industries based on the national resources of the Dominion, the vigorous development of which is essential to the progress and prosperity of our country.

That, to these ends, wheat, wheat flour, and all products of wheat; the principal articles of food; farm implements and machinery, farm tractors, mining, flour, and sawmill machinery and repair parts thereof; rough and dressed lumber; gasoline, illuminating, lubricating, and fuel oils; nets, net-twines and fishermen's equipments; cements and fertilisers should be free from Customs duties, as well as the raw material entering into the same.

That a revision downwards of the tariff should be made whereby substantial reductions should be effected in the duties on wearing apparel and footwear, and on other articles of general consumption (other than luxuries), as well as on the raw materials entering into the manufacture of the same.

That the British preference be increased to 50 per cent. of the general tariff.

And the Liberal party hereby pledges itself to implement by legislatiof the provisions of this resolution when returned to power.

PETERBORO COUNTY FARMERS HAD AN ENJOYABLE OUTING DOWN THE RIVER

MR. BURNABY, PRESIDENT OF UNITED FARMERS' CO-OPERATIVE COMPANY, ADDRESSED THE GATHERING—THE LIST OF SPORTS.

Any doubt that the farmers of Peterborough could make and enjoy a thoroughly splendid picnic was speedily dispelled from the mind of the doubter who attended the First Annual Picnic given yesterday by the Peterborough branch of the Ontario Farmers' Union. The entire affair was a complete success from the moment of starting from the George street wharf at 1 o'clock until the last reluctant picnicer left the boat at 10 o'clock on returning to the city. The farmers urged a large attendance at the picnic and they got it even to a greater degree than the steamer "Stoney Lake," which they had chartered, could hold, and with the 800 passenger limit, and the 200 who came by motor and otherwise, fully 500 finally gathered at Wallace's Point, where the sports were held.

Trip to Wedlock's.

Before landing at Wallace's Point, the Stoney Lake took her passengers for a trip down to Wedlock's, and during this stage of the picnic the long-looked for rain came down in torrents, but far from minding the soaking they got, everyone was delighted to think of how the dollars were growing at home in the rain while they were having a rest and a thoroughly good time. Nobody cared about getting damp as the sun, which immediately followed the storm, dried the dampest of clothes and the field for the sports.

At about five o'clock the boat returned to Wallace's Point, where Mr. and Mrs. Cardwell, the owners of the house situated at that point, placed their home entirely at the disposal of the picnicers and threw everything open to the O.F.U. Supper, which was a revelation as to the way the farmers can prepare for a picnic, was served on the verandah and on the now dry lawns, and everyone agreed the meal was a huge success. The committee in charge of the arrangements, Messrs. R. T. Lillico, J. T. O'Connell, W. Sargeant, J. Gillespie and H. G. Webber, proved an active organization and spared neither time or ingenuity in making every one have a splendid time.

The Speeches.

After supper Mr. Burnaby, president of the United Farmers' Co-operative Company, gave an interesting address outlining the farmers' national platform. In commencing, after congratulating the farmers on the splendid success of their picnic, he spoke of the causes of the present industrial unrest which he said was not all due, as is commonly supposed, to the farmers, but to different causes, among them the tariff on woollens, and the control of the national resources by a few. The farmers, he said, stand for equal rights for all and special privileges to none, which is the motto of the U.F.O. with a memebrship of nearly 40,000. The farmers' national platform stands for no class and includes all but the big interests. It is not, as is commonly called a Grit or Tory dodge. They stand for a reduced tariff, not a tariff for revenue, but a tariff for protection. More revenue will naturally follow if the tariff is reduced, as it is a known fact that the cheaper a commodity is the more it is used, therefore if the tariff is reduced more demand will follow. Public ownership of all utilities is a second plank in the platform and lastly prohibition, for which the farmers stand strongly. In concluding, Mr. Burnaby explained the United Farmers' Co-operative Company, which expects to open a store in the city presently.

Mr. Burnaby was followed by Mrs. Webster, of the United Farmers' Women's Organization, who, in an interesting speech, outlined the women's part in the struggle for democracy and spoke of the Young People's Movement in the country, through which the members are trained for leadership.

Mrs. W. R. Morris spoke briefly, emphasizing the value of education, and explaining the point of vantage the country women have over the city women in the educational system, which enables them, without being taxpayers, to run for the Board of Education.

Mr. Smith, Editor of the "Farmers' Sun," Toronto, spoke on the Farmers' Platform, and emphasized the fact that in his idea the embargo on the export of hides is the beginning of a movement to limit sales of many farm products to the home market, compelling the producers to sell at home.

The chairman of the afternoon, Mr. R. B. Rogers, limited his speech to an introduction of the speakers.

The Sports.

At the conclusion of the speeches some good, live sports were held on the grounds, resulting as follows:

Girls race, under 10 years—Jean Gillespie, Edie Hodson, Minnie Hodson.

Boys' race, under 10 years—Clarence Hancock, Perty Hancock, Ross Lillicoe.

Girls' race, under 10 years—Olive Rightmeyer, Hazel Blodgett, Ethel Blodgett.

Boys' race under 10 years—Wilfrid Heffernan, Percy Gerrie, Arthur Hancock.

Ladies' race (30 yards)—Edna Foster, Pearl Petrie.

Young men's race (100 yards)—Jim Jackson, Jack Shaughnessy.

Married women's race—Mrs. Hodson, Mrs. Hewson.

Married men's race—John Hodson, Charles Webster.

Wheelbarrow race—G. Lockington and Walter Garbutt, Hodson and Heffernan.

Girls' and boys' race under 8 years—Phyllis Moore, Fern Henderson, Edie Hodson, Minnie Hodson, Kathleen Lillicoe and Arnold Frost.

The Tug of War.

The tug-of-war was not carried out as expected, as entries from some of the townships were not large enough. However, in a good tug, Smith township beat Otonabee thoroughly. "They had the downward grade" Otonabee contended. "Pure merit," Smith answered, and the tug was not repeated.

STRIKERS ORDERED BACK TO WORK

REQUESTS FOR MORE PAY WILL NOT BE CONSIDERED UNTIL THEY DO.

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Whether the wage demand of railroad employees will be peacefully arbitrated or whether the workers will defy the government and attempt to cripple the roads by strikes, apparently depended to-day on the response of striking shipmen to President Wilson's order that they return to work before their requests for more pay will be considered.

The President, in a letter to Rail Director Hines, told him to take up the question without further authority from Congress, but also told him there would be no dealings with the employees until the railroad shopmen who walked out without the sanction of their leaders, went back to their jobs.

BIG PROGRAMME FOR THE HOLIDAY; ENJOY YOURSELF AT HOME

ARRANGEMENTS COMPLETED FOR A BIG DAY OF ENTERTAINMENT AFTERNOON AND EVENING AT THE EXHIBITION GROUNDS MONDAY.

The biggest programme in years for a Civic holiday crowd will be presented at the Exhibition Grounds on Monday, both afternoon and evening. Civic holiday is Peterborough's own day of amusement, when everybody looks for entertainment if he can get it at home, or if not at home, wherever it may be found.

The usual big crowd that appreciates water sports will take in the Stoney Lage Regatta, and outside of this event the only other form of amusement in the city will be the big programme at the Exhibition Grounds which the Board guarantees will give you much more than your money's worth.

From present prospects the races will be filled to overflowing, as there are no other races in the district as was the case on July first, when every town and city round about put on a celebration, and the horses will come to Peterborough on Monday in numbers for every race.

One thousand dollars is offered in purses for speeding in the ring and the entries already assured make it possible to guarantee a good afternoon's sport of racing. The 91st Highlanders Band, of Hamilton, one of Canada's premier musical organizations, a band in every sense of the word, will give full concert programmes both afternoon and evening.

The McCarthy Juvenile Pipe Band, a remarkable musical organization, will give their programme of pipe music, band instrument music, dancing, etc., both afternoon and evening.

Two big, clean vaudeville acts have been obtained through McMahon and Dee of Buffalo, and the young ladies of the Y.W.C.A. organization, under the direction of Miss Littlefield, have consented to put on an exhibition of drills that is exceptionally clever.

In addition to the bands and the grand stand attractions there will be a grand display of fireworks in the evening, bringing to a close one of the best holiday programmes ever put on in the city.

MILLBROOK SUNDAY SCHOOL EXCURSION

PICNIC WAS HELD AT WALLACE'S POINT—THE PRIZEWINNERS.

Yesterday afternoon the annual Sunday School excursion of St. Thomas Church, Millbrook, was held at Wallace's Point, at which the pupils arrived by car and by a huge motor truck loaned for the occasion, after a picnic lunch served on the grounds, some sports wer held the winners of which were:

Infant's race (girls) — Margaret Spencer, Elsie Lamb.

Infants race (boys)— Selby Spencer, V. Saunders.

Girls race (8 to 1 2years)—Elise Spencer, Margaret Lang.

Boys race (8 to 12 years) —Linden Russell, Percy Pitt.

Boys race (12 to 15 years)—Wm. Neadler, Allen Pitt.

Girls race (12 to 15 years)—G. Grey, Irene Lamb.

Girls race —Geraldine Morden, Thelma Spencer.

Sack race —Frank Curtis, Wm. Needler.

Potato race— Robert Shall, Allen Pitt.

Girls potato rac—Elise Spencer, Thelma Spencer.

Boot race—George Needled, Frank Curtis.

Wheelbarrow race—Wm. Needler and Allen Pitt, Dawson Leach and George Needler.

In the tug of war between the boys and girls of the Sunday School the girls outdistanced the boys after a long hard pull.

Rev. Mr. Spencer took charge of the picnic and was responsible in a great degree for the success of the affair.

DOWNEYVILLE CORRESPONDENCE

DOWNEYVILLE, Aug. 8.—Master Lawrence McCauliff, of East Emily, is visiting his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. James Guiry.

Mr. Patrick Winn was in town on Monday.

The Farmers' Club here held their monthly meeting here on Monday night. There was a very small attendance.

Mrs Dan. Winn and son, Fergus, of Toronto, are visiting the former's mother, Mrs. Wilson.

LOWERING THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

P. Black has just received a beautiful lot of Voile and Lawn Waists, Silk Waists in colours White, Pink, Maize Blue, Black, Rose and striped, in different shades that we will sell at manufacturers' prices. Also a lot of beautiful Silk Poplin Dresses, and Taffetas in many colours. Very prettily made, that will be sold at less than they could be bought for now. A lot of Poplin Skirts and Serge Skirts at greatly reduced prices. Many real bargains in odds and ends left over from the season's selling, that will be cleared at a very low price, such as: Middies, Ladies' and Children's White or Striped Wash Skirts, Large Aprons, different styles, Night Gowns, Drawers, Underskirts, Children's Dresses, Ladies' Black Silk Stockings, Boys' Blouses, Jerseys, or Wash Shirts, Ladies' Hats and Boys' Wash Hats—will be sold at your own price. Come and see them. Narrow Embroidery, Hat Veiling in Black, reduced in price. Boys' and Men's Straw Hats reduced to a fraction of value. Men's Suits, a few of each kind left, will be sold at remarkably low prices. Ladies' House Dresses and Corsets in many styles, at low prices. Hundreds of other things are reduced that space does not permit to mention. See for yourselves.

CONTROL TROOPS IN ASIA MINOR

(Canadian Press.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 8.—Lieut.-General Sir George Francis Milne, Commander of the British Forces at Salonica, has been given authority by the Peace Conference, pending its ultimate decisions, to control all the Allied troops in Western Asia Minor, and to restore order in Smyrna district.

General Milne has been made responsible for the delimitation of the zone of Greek military occupation.

HUN COMMANDER TO BE PROSECUTED

PERMITTED TYPHUS TO INVADE PRISON CAMP OF FRENCH SOLDIERS

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The surrender of General Kruska, commander of the German prison camp at Kaiser, has been demanded by the Allies as the first of the enemy officials to be tried for violations of international law during the war, according to a Copenhagen despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company, quoting Berlin advices.

General Kruska is accused of having been responsible for the epidemic of typhus fever at Kaiser Camp, which caused the deaths of three thousand French prisoners.

CARDINAL MERCIER TO VISIT CANADA

(Canadian Press.)

BRUSSELS, Aug. 8. — Cardinal Mercier will start for America on 4th or 5th September, and will probably be gone until the end of October.

He intends to visit Montreal and Quebec.

He has been invited to go to British Columbia, but will hardly find time to make this extended trip.

THE WEATHER

The rainfall yesterday (at least in the city) was not heavy, totalling .36 of an inch. To the south and southwest, however, it was much heavier, accompanied with hailstones of a large variety driven by a wind of a cyclonic nature. Trees were uprooted and tents demolished in numerous cases, and considerable damage done. Continued cooler weather is probable.—W.P.
